Introductory remarks

Even the beginners or the people who have no idea about radiesthesia will follow me with what I say. The last half-hour of every session we are going to leave for questions and answers. If there is anybody who wants something that is really specialized or something that we cannot tackle with the group, then I can always arrange to discuss that with him anytime between sessions.

Is there any profession that I have missed and that is of interest? "Yes, artists". Yes, I meant artists, designers. There is one important thing that we missed; how many of you are musicians or interested in music? See the hands come up; this is because we are going to do some work with sound. How many of you have an idea of ancient Egypt, Egyptology and things like that? Okay.

Holistic science

In order to begin we have to understand a bit what is the concept of holistic science, because from the people you see bio-geometry seems to be dealing with so many things that are seen contradictory. We use bio-geometry for modern technology devices like cellular telephones and computers. We use bio-geometry somehow to balance our energy relationship between them, to reduce their harmful side-effects on us, so this is a pure technological thing. At the same time we use bio-geometry for healing in a professional medical way and for healing in a very alternative way. We use it to study religious ritual all around the world, and what does that say, what has a computer to do with religious study⁹ It is a concept of religious science. This concept is not the same way we think of it today.

Today everybody speaks of his science as being holistic; the moment you take man as a factor in your science, then you speak of holistic. But holistic means it has a place in any science and to prove my point: in the last half hour of my first session, when we received your questions, I am going to dare anyone of you who can find a science or an application, however absurd, in which we cannot apply what we have seen, because if we cannot apply it somewhere that means it is not holistic.

A View from the Future

To give you the idea of what a holistic science is, I first want to put you in a mental framework of the ancient Egyptians; not the ancient Egyptians as you read in Egyptology, but the ancient Egyptian scientist priest of the temple, how it really was.

Maybe it is easier to tell a little story to explain what I mean, than to go into too many details. "Imagine that we are in the year 10,000 AD, (8,000 years from now). It is a very advanced civilization and they have all sorts of new energy forms, but somehow they do not know about electricity. Maybe they thought it is not good for man, but they have much more advanced methods of natural energy and things like that. Now that we are happily travelling into the future 8,000 years from today, our guide is taking us into a museum of ancient artist sculpture. He takes us to one of the rooms and in this room is a sculpture of the 20th century. So he goes back - this is where we are today, 20th century - and says to the people: look at the sculpture of the 20th century. That is the time when people start thinking of abstract art and tilings like that. Now they have the natural error, when they drew things naturally, look at the change in their presentations of the human being.

The museum has an array with many television sets, since the television was produced to the latest television, and they show the first television and they say: look, this is the first abstract presentation of human being, so look, they made him a bit boxy you know, because their taste in the beginning of abstract art was very crude, so he looks very boxy and they always made the face look as if it was something different, shiny and they used a material called glass at that time.

Then, as their taste developed, they changed the shape to some other materials, more fluid lines and all that, they even made their abstract artistic view of the inside of the human being, look inside and they showed that as they go along. Then they say we managed to decipher the language of the 20th century. Those people of course did not know anything of monotheism or one God. this came 5,000 years later, this civilization did not have an idea, from what we can decipher they do not have that.

Now their statutes which they did like that, were dedicated to their Gods. Every person kept one in his home, sometimes in every room of his home, because they were very religious in their beliefs. They believed in a multiple array of Gods.

This is the most popular God, we have deciphered his name, the highest of the Gods is called "Sony". His consort was the Goddess "Toshiba". She was very popular, you find her in every house. You also find other Gods Saba, Grundig and all the Gods we find there".

We and the Ancient Egyptians

Because we are here telling the story it looks funny, but to the people 8,000 years from today this is real. This would be the way they would be teaching history because they missed a form of energy that we are using. This is exactly what we are doing to the ancient Egyptians. If an ancient Egyptian was sitting here, he would laugh at us the same way exactly like we are laughing at those people, because if we imagine that there is a form of energy that we do not know or we are not using today. Maybe some of us have started to look at it but in a more emotional way. For example we speak of spiritual energy, we speak of feelings, we speak of love, we speak of all those things but we have lost the notion that these are energies. We think of those things as if we put a line "this is the quantitative world"; everything we can measure with quantity, quantitatively, is science.

Anything that we measure qualitatively is not science; this is a big problem. Maybe some time in the Greek period we started worshipping the mind, philosophy, the intellect and all that. Everything that did not fit in the frame of the mind and fit discussion was somehow put aside as myths, or even religion was put aside then. This started the split.

Everything is Energy

Now each one of us lives with a split personality somehow; in one hand we have our feelings, our beliefs and everything, and in one hand we have modern technology. This is a very strange thing, this society, were people have two sides to themselves and just cannot bring them to fit together. If we look at our physics, we know that everything within time and space is energy, you cannot have anything within time and space that is not energy. The constitution of time and space itself (we will come to that later) is energy.

So whether it is our perceived reality what we see or whether it is the absolute that we do not see, it is all what the scientists call energy soup. If it is all energy then our feelings are energy. When you hit somebody on the head there you feel a lot of energy coming out of. If somebody is in love, just look at him, there is a lot of energy there. So we can say that feelings have to do with energy.

They might be expressed in physiological terms in one way and emotional terms in another way, but it still is energy. Thoughts are energy; we know for example when you go to the hospital to make a brain scan while the brain is dealing with something, it is using some sort of electricity. That means that mind works through the brain; if there is something generated that means that that mind is also energy. We go even higher: spirituality, is spirituality energy or not energy? If it is not energy, if it is just spirituality, too sacred to be called energy, then it is just a belief and it does not exist, and that is the problem. We say "this is spiritual", but to call spirituality an energy would not be right, so spirituality is a belief. The word belief means "I believe in something", but is that a reality or just a belief?

From the First Humans to Today

Some people come and tell us that the first humans on earth were there, primitive cavemen, who looked at all the powers of nature. The powers were so strong to them that they had an inside need to develop an image of something much stronger than all nature, so they developed this need for God. This whole spirituality came out of that.

Now this is modern psychology, modern philosophy. I do not think that they had a Siegmund Freud at that time, they did not have time for that. You must know that humanity in the beginning was very practical. They wanted the most practical way to continue life. We have to look at how those people saw reality. In the development of consciousness there is a very big difference between how we see the world today and how a person has seen it maybe 50,000 years ago.

As technology advances, our way of looking at things changes, reality as we see it changes, because reality is made by the meaning level in our brain. There is a databank inside the brain and this databank continuously changes, is continuously fed with things. So the reality of a person today - what you see, how you see it, the meaning it has - is different let us say than the reality of our small children as they grow up; and already different than our great grandfathers.

So if you go back to the first humans, the reality was something of - you could place it like that they had a consciousness somewhere in between what we would call today a dream consciousness and a pure analytical consciousness of everyday-life today.

They were let us say a bit aware of some things that we would put in the realm of dreams. To them for example there was nothing called "learn to see an Aura", of a human being, or the energy fields, because - like any very sensitive person who has not been spoiled by all the intellectual concentration that he has to go through - they could see and sense these energies. We see that in their art. Instead of analyzing the art of the cavemen, I tell you a very short story to show you how I - if I was a caveman - would come to the ideas behind their art.

The story of the caveman.

Imagine I am a caveman and I am looking at an animal. I see a certain kind of light around the animal, I see light around the trees, around objects. So an object for me is not just physical, but physical with some layers of light around it.

Then I notice for example that when a branch of a tree has a certain shape, its light could be very similar to an animal, or to something that has the same shape. If I just make a line on the floor, I make it that way, the light changes, so I start understanding that there is a relationship between the shape of those animals and the light they emanate. Then I notice - when the hunters are pointing or indicating at an animal - that their light changes, becomes similar to the light of the animal.

Also something very strange happens: I see the light of the animal changing. When they speak of the animal the light of the animal is changing, it is a sort of imagined like musical resonance. When you hit a chord, another vibrates with it and they change, so there is an exchange of information there. (We get back to radiesthesia through this way, so this is a sort of introduction).

Now somebody came to the idea, when they killed an animal: if I would wear the skin of that animal, maybe I could get the stronger light of that animal with all the properties of that animal. So they try to wear the skin, and all of a sudden they have the energy properties of that animal because the skin is one of the most important factors in forming our databank.

Our databank is formed by each of the five senses in our world. One of the most direct senses of forming the databank is the skin of a person. We get back to this later when we discuss all forms of healing that are related to the skin, like the acupuncture lines. That is why the skin is a very important sort of storage of information. So when they wear the skin, they have all the information pattern of the animal. Now they find that the shape is also related to the energy of the animal. Then why not also imitate the movements of the animal? If we understand that imitating a certain movement makes me enter into resonance with something, then why not imitate the movement of the rain, imitate the movement of the animal, imitate all those movements?

Now once they found that, as they went inside the cave, an artist becomes the object, he is the animal. When he expressed this in art, this expression is going to be very, very true. That is why we wonder how those people 50,000 years ago could draw art that is so realistic in motion. It has a motion that is at the same time natural and expressive all in one. Energy-wise it expresses in the best way the energy of the animal on that wall. It is not logic for somebody who is trying to live - he has no leisure in his life like we have - to decorate his home. I do not think that the artist in the tribe there, or the medicine man or whatever they called him, was busy decorating the caves of the people, because most of those drawings are deep inside the cave, somewhere where the light does not reach. In many cases you go 20 or 30 meters inside to find drawings. This means they could only light fires for a very short period of time. So why didn't they put their art somewhere on the outside of the cave where they could see it?

Once you have that and you want to go and hunt an animal, I want to hunt this big bull, and all I have is this small spear I have made. When I throw it, it does not do much, it will just tickle him a bit and the bull will just shake it off and run away. What if I can start my hunting in the cave, what if I can just go to the drawing and start my hunting there.

Maybe the first time I did this, I held my spear and was telling my friend: I am going to hit him in this spot. So I point with my spear to the spot and all of a sudden something is happening to the bulls out there. That is very nice: I can start my hunting inside the cave. If to them this is real, practical, there is no illusion, no what we call magic, it was not magic, it was not science, it was just a practical way of living.

People did not put labels on things. If it is that way, I weaken the energy of the animal and then I go out, throw a lance at the animal and then hide again, and when the animal walks away slowly with weakened energy, then there is a big chance that he will fall down soon and I can go out and get my prey.

People who had this kind of knowledge are people who had a very practical way of life. Today we call that maybe magic, maybe superstition. Now we go a step further. I have hit the animal, I am very happy now, he has a weak energy, I am going behind the animal, hiding behind the rocks so that he does not attack me; the animal goes away, I am waiting till he falls down. Then the animal goes near a place that has a water well, he goes to drink. When he enters that place, all of a sudden the animal shines with a very strong energy, he throws the lance off. He is in a very good health, the wound has healed and he starts running away.

So I think: what is this place, what is this light? I go back to tell the people in the tribe about the light, so when I go back and the moment I point I shine with the light. This is the first religious ritual, a practical, very practical thing. Now you know man used to learn from animals, imitate them. One step further: why don't we take our sick or our wounded to this spot and put them there?

We saw that when the animal drinks from the water, the light shines more. So why do not give water to our sick? We identify this energy with the earth, this is something that the earth is giving us, it is giving us water with this energy. So we start having an interaction with this energy and something very strange happens as we interact with this energy: like the interaction with an animal, the moment I interact with the energy an exchange of information happens. That means like in physics when you have a sign way of going like that and another like that, in resonance we put them together and draw them, make one component that comes out and another one that has both in it. So in resonance there is an exchange of information, where both are a copy of each other, each one having the total information of both.

The moment you interact with such a spot, the energy of the place will start having the whole information of the person coded into the place. With time, as the tribe goes there, they start finding that there is an interaction inside them, as if the place is speaking to them, giving them information. They can speak to the place and the place speaks back, because their subconscious has been united to the place. Actually, instead of speaking to your subconscious inside you, it is in front of you but a collective one because all the tribe goes there. So a collective one is very strong and then it interacts with your personal one.

So you are speaking exactly as if you are speaking to your own subconscious, but in a very strong manner. This speaking with the subconscious is what starts the idea of personification and all those things that start later to this energy. But, as we see, it is a practical way of finding an energy that exists.

The Energy; Power Spots.

Now what are the properties of this energy? First property: exchange of information, this is what happened between the cavemen. Second property: it seems to cancel the harmful side effects of visible physical things. Whether it is a sickness, whether it is a wound, there is something strange with this energy; it seems to correct things, balance things. This is another property of this energy that the caveman has noticed.

Then, as they interact more with that energy they see something a bit different. In the beginning, of course, comes the whole concept of earth, the mother Goddess. I will not go into that, you find it in all literature. But there is a second way of looking at it.

I went to Saudi Arabia; they have some ancient mythology about Adam and Eve. Jeddah means grandmother. They called this area Jeddah because there is a small mount like a hill, which is the tomb of Eve since ancient history. That is why it is called Jeddah (the grandmother of humanity). While I was there I found some ancient books about mythology, speaking about how Adam found the first power spot. That is where Mecca is now. Until modern Islam came, all religions in the area were going to this place as a power spot. In ancient times power spots belonged to everybody. It is when the politics of religion came later, that each spot was designated property of somebody, but at that time it belonged to everybody.

There was a very interesting thing in that book that I read. It says that when Adam walked towards the spot he saw the spiritual light, but it was a spiral of light, and he saw beings of light turning in this spiral. The beings of light we know, beings of light would mean starting from fairies on the lower level, (I am sure you all know the fairies because the Northern countries have so many archangels, all different types of light beings from the most individualized to the most collective types of beings. They are all going around that light and up and up and up. They tell Adam we have been here doing this for the past 2,000 year in their time and this was the first notion of circular movement and this ascending movement. So we could imagine that, besides this feeling that we are getting this strange energy from the earth, sooner or later they found the link of this energy to the sky. Something was going up, so there was a connection somewhere, so the next god, or the next kind of sacred relationship, would be with some sky god. If we look at that religious ritual it is not a ritual, it is a scientific way of dealing with the energies.

Shape

Now I want to study the relationship of shape, the relationship of the human body as a shape, and the secrets of that shape. We will come to that later when we come to healing, but just to show you what I did, I brought statues, you know the wooden statues we use in architecture where we move the limb etc.

I let the statue do certain movements and I measured the energies around the statues. I wanted to find the relationship between the statue and the energies, between the shape of the body and the energies, because what we are going to discuss mainly through our two-day seminar will be the path of form, the path of shape. The most obvious thing that we all see is shape, everywhere, and the thing we understand least is the meaning of shapes.

If we really understand this, we can fit together shape, color, sound and get a holistic view of this approach. When we moved the statue in different spots we found for example that there were energy centers in the body produced by the movements of the statue. I think that this is a very important point for all healers here, because you all speak about energy centers of the body, you all speak about chakra's; the seven main centers and then the secondary centers where the joints are, and the third level centers were the acupuncture points are.

There seem to be energy centers in the body but it is very strange that, when you make this motion with a statue you find spiritual energy coming out of an energy center of a wooden statue. This means that shape is a very important thing.

The Trinity

We have a very important trinity that we are going to use throughout our seminar, a trinity similar to what we architects say. We architects always have form (or shape), function and construction. This is the way we architects always think; we have to make a unity out of those three. But what is construction? Construction can be actually translated into energy, because when an architect deals with construction, you can substitute construction with energy, you get the more versatile trinity of energy, function and shape. These are one.

If you have a trinity, you can enter from anywhere and affect the trinity through one of its functions. First, there is the function school. Function schools take normal medical school. If you have any disturbance in your body, it is either an excess or a lack of a certain function. If you have an excess you give it something to lower it, if it is less you raise it. This is directly affecting the function. If you have a temperature and you take an aspirin, this has a direct effect on the function.

Now there is another way and that would be maybe the way of the alternative medical school, or some also of the technological schools if they work with energy. But energy related to the human being is mostly the alternative medical school where we say: look at the energy side of function. Each one of those has a different mentality but it is all the same, it is one. Let's say the homeopath says: I am going to find something that produces the same energy pattern in the body like my own immune system would do to attack this certain problem. Assume that my energy system is weak. If my immune system is weak it is only doing it at such a level. If I can find something that can do the same thing, I can make the immune system do the same thing at such a level.

So you would think the whole mentality is opposite, but remember, if you have colors, if you have light, you can only reach the total of the light by joining the complementary colors together. Only by having something and its opposite, only by really integrating together, you get the total.

Creation by Balancing the Opposites

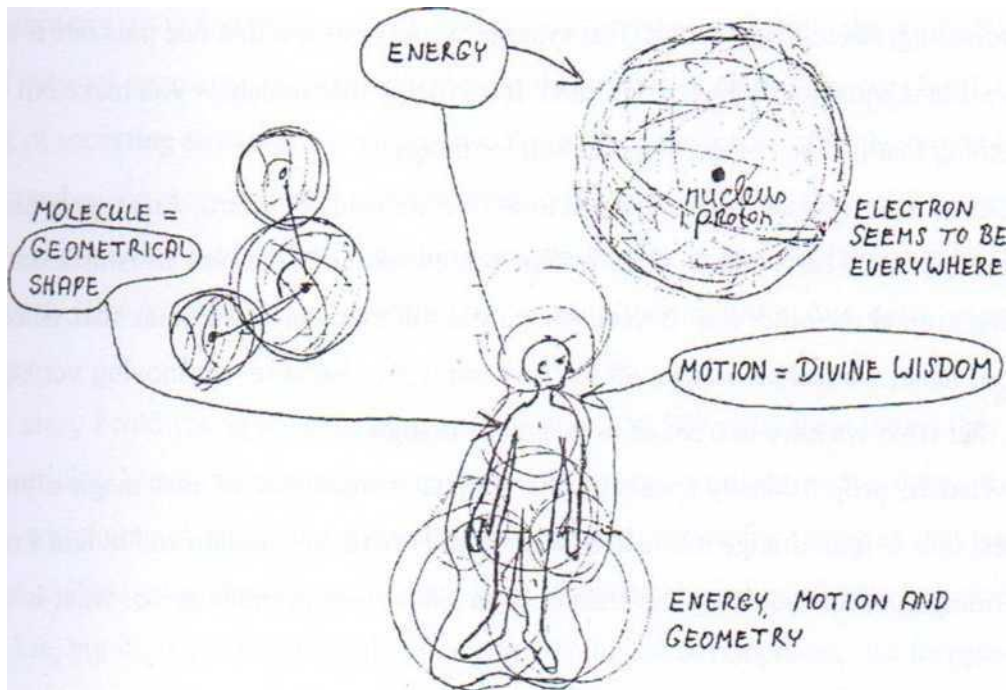

I speak like an artist, in my profession. If you bring two opposite colors, or in electricity two opposite charges, and you want to reach the totality through them, you put them together, nothing happens, they cancel each other. You take them away from each other, they do not interact, you still have nothing. But I know that creation is made by balance of the opposites.

How was creation made by balancing of the opposites? There is the first impulse, there is something before time and space. There was everything and there was the opposite. We may all think that this spiritual thing that was before time and space is something were everything has its opposite Before time and space, or outside time and space, there is no duality, there are no opposites. If somebody wants to know the ultimate existence of God and then says "God is the ultimate existence" then somebody else comes and says "no God is the ultimate void, non-existence". Both of them are wrong, because in reality, when you go beyond time and space, it is a collective thing, it is an abstract thing, it is ultimate non- existence with ultimate existence in one word. This is difficult to visualize, but this is the thing that we all believe in, somewhere, but we cannot express because the mind cannot express something that is beyond duality.

So we express it in our manifested time and space, now what happens? When you drop a stone in water you get waves, soon those waves will fade out and you have nothing. The first impulse that came out in creation, an impulse in the primordial, was just like a stone falling, and that is what we call the big bang. But one big bang does not make the universe by chance.

I want to know how I can join the opposites into something. Somewhere there must have been a second impulse, but of a different nature than the first one. The second impulse is a certain type of motion, balancing motion. In physics we say a circular motion, one is revolving around the other; only through the circular motion one may arrive at the unity out of the opposites.

Duality means one thing and its opposite, and with the circular motion, we have a trinity that equals a unity because a circular motion becomes the new unity. We cannot understand the circular motion without referring to a center; when we refer to the center this means that the circular motion represents time and space. It cannot exist without a center and this center is outside time and space because it does not rotate with the circle. This motion must have come also from beyond, so we have the first impulse, this power, this big bang. The second impulse is a law, a law means balanced motion. A motion that is governed in total balance.

If you balance a motion, this means that there is a meaning, you do not balance for nothing. So if we are going to discuss how the universe started, big bang is not the answer, the answer is power plus meaning. Power plus meaning means what? The word. So saying that in the beginning there was the word is more scientifically correct than any other scientific theory.

The Balancing Law: Wisdom

Before we go on let us take one look at matter to see how do we interact with it. All matter consists of atoms and things like that. I call the word "wisdom" for the law that balances tilings. Let's look at it that way. The opposites can form a synchronicity or a synchronic way of interacting; scientifically we call that synergy, Synergy means that one plus one is not equal to two, but is equal to maybe ten thousand. It is synergy that somehow you make out of things something that is much bigger than the sum of things.

Let us look at what we are living in now. We are made of atoms. An atom is like having this orange in my hand and another orange somewhere in the airport of Amsterdam, one is moving around the other one. It keeps moving in different waves so quick that wherever we put our hand, we feel an orange; 99,99 % is empty, but because it is moving very quickly it feels that what we have in front of us is a mega orange.

What is, proportionally speaking, the biggest constituent of that mega orange? The biggest one, is it an orange if it is like twice from here to Amsterdam and in fact I only have two oranges⁹ This would be less than one percent or one promille or so, what is the other 99,99%?

The constituent of this, is the role of motion, it is motion itself. What is motion? Geometric motion, first, is divine wisdom. Why do I call it divine? If something is balanced from within time and space, like intellectually balancing something, we always create imbalance, a bit of positive, a bit of negative and we end up having all sorts of disease. But when it is totally balanced through a center from beyond, then it is divine.

Geometry

We can take that actually the shapes that you see, your body and all that, in your perceived reality, what is it constituted of. Just the divine wisdom. This is the main constituent of your body; whether you like it or not, it is that way. Let's look at the molecule for example, go a higher level We learned in chemistry at school that when we join atoms with some geometrical lines we get a molecule. Again, everything seems to be speaking at the advantage of the homeopaths here. We have very little matter, atoms that are in themselves actually 99 % wisdom and the whole relationship is a geometrical relationship. But, using the same atoms, you could find three or four different types of elements. So it is not the matter but the geometrical relationship that gives these elements their qualities. So what gives anything you see in front of you its quality of being something? Not its constituents, but its geometrical shape

If geometry is the first expression of wisdom, it's time that we look at the world from the point of view of geometry. If I wanted to access the powers of nature's energy but I am not thinking of accessing an energy like electricity. You all read the reader of my lecture in Egypt. You remember the story were the scientist went to the time-machine, showed the electricity to the farao's and they said: "back". Of course you are coming to deal with a minute electricity of the body, like a small breeze, and you are coming with a storm. We don't want your electricity.

The story I told you at the beginning: a civilization, 10,000 years from today, that didn't have electricity. Maybe somewhere along the line, someone said: throw this away, it is not working with human beings. And there we come out with something telling us that we have created a civilization at the expense of man. Why at the expense of man? Man has never had a better life, but if we put that formula for any technological development, we forget one of the factors or one of the variables, and this is the immunity of man. I am sure that, if we put that, these developments would be banned, till the shops find a better way. Your mobile telephone, your computer and your television, all those interesting things of civilization, you pay for with your immunity. Is that Man?

The laws of nature

We architects, we put all the devices of modem technology in the house, air conditioning etc. and we cannot build without them. Are we building for man? We take man okay in his body measurements, we take him in his psychology of color and all that. But sooner or later we come to a point in architecture where we depend on certain taste, on a certain thing. But if even,' shape there interacts with energy, if we do not have a proper knowledge of the relationship of shape to man, we might be creating architectural pollution. We might be the first environmental hazard without knowing it. We, architects, think of such emotional things like: " I am going to use natural materials" or "I don't want use concrete, I have to take wood, to take stone," and that solves my problem. Well, you are taking material from nature, but does your shape, does your design exist in nature? It doesn't. If you know the laws of nature, then you can create a proper design.

When we were created as human beings and we were supposed to interact in the most sufficient way with our environment, then it would have been better that our skeleton would have been made of wood. Why was it made of a material that does not exist in nature? Why was it something created out of the natural elements that do not exist in nature? When we work with reinforced concrete, aren't we doing the same thing? So actually we are looking for the problems in the wrong place. We should look at the problems in terms of shape. An architect is a master of shape. He should have the knowledge of shape. In order for us to understand the power of shape in the holistic science of biogeometry, we can convince the architects about this power of shape, very simply by using the shape to cure incurable diseases in a human being by adjusting his energy field. So I say: use this shape and it will do that. Why should I use this shape? It is not different from any other shape. But if this shape can cure a person, then there are some shapes that have properties and if we know this language of shape then we can really stop creating architectural pollution.

Our mind

To go back to shape: Our minds have two ways of functioning. They have the left- and the right-brain functioning. It is split that way just for clarification, because it worked that way when they split the brain in epileptic patients. But we use it now just to express two methods of working inside the brain. The left-brain type of thinking is the analytical type of working.

This means that this type of thinking needs focusing. To make analysis you have to focus. It is the quantitative part, to calculate. It is all what we call today the mental activities, the calculative activities. In order to do that, you must focus. To focus means: you need a certain amount of pressure, this means stress. This left-brain is very important. It works with the five senses and the senses somehow create our perceived reality. Let's imagine the absolute being 100 %. If we want to be most sufficient in life then it wouldn't help very much if you had the possibility to hear 10 different or hundred other dimensions and other worlds than this one. It wouldn't help much, you wouldn't find your chair if you could see so many other dimensions with so many other people, you wouldn't know who you can go to, who is invisible, who is in your world, you get mixed up. If I was speaking and you heard sounds of ten other dimensions, you couldn't really interact with them. So, our senses are picking up from 100 % the few criteria that are most effective in the prolongation of physical life. How do I interact with this life? Let's say 5 %. In reality it might be just 1 %. I say 5 % because of the 5 senses, and from this limited 5 %, 1 % we interact with energies out there, 1% colors, 1 % sounds etc. Then we project a reality outside. So it is really a perceived reality. (When we go into radiesthesia I go more into that.) But this perceived reality has somehow been made by 5 senses and projected outside. If you go to a cinema the projector projects a film in front of you. This is your reality, but the real thing is inside the projector. You can't keep the projector going for ever, it will get hot. So you cannot keep your perceived reality for ever because it is not your natural state. You can only keep it for so long and then there is too much stress so you have to go asleep, you have to let it go.

If I am looking for the laws of nature, they are not in my perceived reality. Thank God, because my perceived reality is in a way mental. But the laws that make my heart beat, all the laws that run my body, if they came from our perceived reality, then we would have to be given a manual order to be able to run our body. From the absolute, from what we don't know, our body is run by the 95 % outside our perceived reality. That is a very, very important thing that we'll deal with when we discuss healing.

The language of the Laws of Nature

What is the language of the laws of nature of that 95 %? If numbers, language, letters etc. if all that is in my perceived reality and if a civilization wants to build itself using energy on all levels, the absolute energy that is running everything in the universe, that civilization would have to use a language from there. What is the language used in there? The right-brain hemisphere is not focusing, is mostly relaxing. It is a receiving thing. It receives the laws. And its language is holistic, not analytical. It perceives holistic use of things, general patterns of things. Then, how was the unity created from the duality by the trinity and that means the law of motion? The law of motion is a pattern. So the right-brain hemisphere interacts with this wisdom, this pattern, this geometric thing, this something in the absolute. This is the language of the absolute things, one of the main languages of the absolute reality. So if a civilization had the language of that absolute reality, if it could use the laws of that absolute reality and with those laws create something in civilization here.

Let's take an artist for example, an artist can draw a lotus flower. It could put me emotionally in touch with the lotus flower, but an ancient Egyptian drew the same lotus flower, but in a very geometrical way, with a certain way of putting colors and he kept doing the same thing for 3000 years that we know. (He might have done it for 10.000 years because before that we don't know of.) I feel very bad when someone speaks of ancient Egyptian art and says they didn't have imagination. It can't be that bad. I can lack imagination and I can take my pencil and draw a flower now and in 5 minutes. If you ask me to draw another flower, even with lack of imagination, I can't produce an exact replica of the first one. That needs something more than imagination. What they were doing was so precious that nobody was allowed to change as long as the civilization existed. They were dealing with the geometrical laws that expressed themselves in every lotus flower that we know. What we call the template. So it is the law of every lotus flower. When you judge ancient Egyptian art, do you think the ancient Egyptian only used to draw a person with his two shoulders like that and his hands like that, the Egyptian walk. You can think they only knew human beings like this, but maybe this had a very great importance.

Remember who was speaking about archetypes, Plato, Pythagoras, all those Greek philosophers were speaking about archetypes. But of course, the Greek were also the promoters of the philosophical way of looking at things, so actually all ancient sciences were translated into the modern western thoughts. When we learned how to think properly, we lost everything else. And then we come today and say: "we'll make some spiritual exercises, we are going to use certain rhythms to stop the mind, to transcend it". We put it there in the first place. And now we try to transcend back again because it closed something that put the barrier. But all those Greek people had to go for some time to Egypt. All Greek philosophers used to study in Alexandria. Pythagoras spent 22 years in Egypt. But whenever they went into a temple then there was one thing. There was a vow of silence, and they couldn't speak. It's like all the esoteric societies everywhere in the world The world is changing slowly from ancient sciences to modern sciences, so there is a power of silence to protect this law.

Leonardo Da Vinci went in front of the pope - some people say it was Botticelli, some say it was Leonardo da Vinci - and the pope wanted to see his greatness as an artist and all that Leonardo did was make a circle. He drew a perfect circle. Is it my ability to draw a perfect circle⁹ Could you train this and why is that so great? Today we discover that there was a sort of an esoteric movement. A spiritual movement that started with the Templars.

History of Religion

When we go back historically we find that all religions in the world are one. There is no difference. We in Egypt have a history of all the lost years of Jesus Christ. In Egypt we know exactly every spot where he went and at what age, he was an initiate of the Isis temple. Today they are discovering that Maria Magdalena was not as they called a prostitute, but an ancient Egyptian priestess and that to the Jews the word was not prostitute but outcast. Outcast means she was not a Jew, she came from ancient Egyptian science. John the Baptist was also head of the Johannite group, an agnostic group based in Alexandria. If you trace all the traditions in Christianity, you will find that many of them are not in the Jewish tradition. If you go historically to the time of the ancient Egyptian tradition, you can follow that and you can find that even the Jewish tradition was sometime in ancient Egypt.

There is only one reality and that is what the cavemen saw. There is nothing else. The cavemen saw reality. They started this relationship. We are trying to express that reality of them in the mentality of certain people, what the Greek called archetypes. If the ancient Egyptians knew the geometrical language of all the powers of nature, then geometrical language from the absolute means that I have a language that interacts not in a very limited area like our energies, electrical etc., that they interact with the electromagnetic vitality areas. No. they were using an energy that spends all, it's from the absolute, so it has from the vitality, emotional, mental, spiritual, it's an all-embracing energy. That's the concept of holistic energy. The ancient Egyptians understood that the language of that holistic energy is geometrical.

Ancient Egypt

We were speaking about how we balance the opposites. You have seen that the way to balance the opposites in nature is with the circular motion, and that is the same thing we do in art, in architecture. If you have two complementary colors, two opposite colors that don't interact well together, we use a pattern and you can make them interact. So for example if you get green and red in their full use you wouldn't easily put them beside each other when you work with them. But you can put the opposites in a pattern and make very nice things. Patterns are geometrical shapes or geometrical ways of looking at things.

Let's go back to ancient Egypt: this civilization was built on those geometrical shapes, the laws, the archetypal laws of nature. Maybe this is the reason that this civilization went on for so many years, defying the normal cycle of civilizations, because all through history civilizations go in a cycle just between three- and four hundred years. How come this civilization has been up there for 3000 years and our recorded history shows this civilization in its full bloom?

When you go to the first dynasty of the pyramids, with all those temples, it didn't start there. Because when we read our first dynasty of Egypt, it says that King Narmer or Menis as they called him, united the two parts of Egypt, the north and south, by uniting the religion. But we only read half of it. He was uniting the belief. What he did was: he had all the administrative things, taxes and everything, that were divided in all the areas of Egypt, in central control. But to centralize an administration means that there was an administration. So, it couldn't have started there. The problem with ancient Egypt is again: we go in history to the first dynasty and then we have what we call the chronicles of ancient Egypt from an ancient priest Manetho, who wrote the number of kings of ancient Egypt. He goes back to the first dynasty and tells about a certain 30 dynasties of kings. Before that, he says, there are so many dynasties of kings that were called the chamsahore, these are the shining ones. So he speaks about so many thousands of years of the shining ones and he is giving the name of every pharaoh and how many years this pharaoh was on the throne. Why should somebody invent that?

He called them shining ones, so he was referring to something spiritual. And then he went back and said: there is another several thousands of years of the Neteru. Neter is what we erroneously call the gods of the ancient Egyptians. But Neters are the powers of nature. And if the Neteru would be kings, then they were somehow in harmony with the powers of nature. A concept of man-god where men can interact with the powers of nature. If we go into those chronicles we go back 36.000 years of recorded history. But somewhere along the line somebody came and put a red line and said: "first dynasty till today is realistic and before that is mythology." Somebody judged it, just like that. If we look at the ancient Egyptian gods, look at ourselves first, if those gods were powers of nature, then where are they now? If they were powers of nature they were and still are out there, because powers of nature don't disappear. So where are the Egyptian gods? Who will find them⁹

Open energy-systems

If we look at our body: our body is an open energy-system. For example, I breathe the air, the air goes in, I interact with it, then breathe it out. With food it is the same thing. If this is the way I interact, I am an open energy-system. Then all the other energies - all energies are superimposed like in music where all octaves are interacting together - so energies are an open energy-system. Emotionally it is the same. There is an abstract emotion-energy out there, I take it, manipulate it with my emotions, use it and send it out again. The mental energy exists abstractly out there, I use it, send it out again. So imagine a mind energy going in the brain, being used and going out. Actually we are influenced by the abstract energies around us and we influence the energy around us. We can actually change the energy of a room like if we are doing something worthwhile Then we make something nice to the energy of the room. If we are doing or discussing something negative we might disturb the energy of the room and maybe we should do some sound rituals or clapping or other things to clean the energy again, since we are an open system.

Collective Level

Another concept becomes evident. When for example a modern psychologist like Carl Jung, speaks about the collective levels, thinking collectively unconsciously, he doesn't say where exactly we can find them. We want to find them, to use them. Like an ancient Egyptian everything to me is practical. We want those things, we want to put our hand on. So I want to put my hand on the collective level. Where is this level⁹ Is it an abstract thing, coming out there? All energies that are inside you are individual, energies outside you are collective. Collective out there means: by our standards it is collective, like the bacteria, or the cells in my body, have individual energy fields, but to them my total energy field is a collective level. This collective level is the individual level of the earth. The earth has a vitality level, an emotional level, mental level and spiritual level. We are an open system and if the earth didn't have them we wouldn't have them.

The Earth

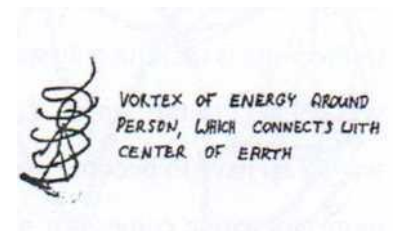

Is the earth a being or not? We are living inside the earth like our cells are living inside us. So the earth is a being. If it can feel, if it can think, if it can pray, then the earth is a being. We can actually measure when the earth is praying. I'll show you later, when you are going to measure with spiritual energy, that I can measure if one of you is praying and another one is not because of the emanating spiritual energy. At certain times, when the earth prays, there is spiritual energy in the earth atmosphere. In all the old times there were certain feasts on certain days of the year. You can look at your ancient feasts and when the day comes you start measuring and you will find on those special days sometimes a special energy. They were aware of spiritual energy in the atmosphere. At that time the earth is praying. So a feast means that we join it in its praying. So the earth is a being, a being that feels, that prays. We live inside that being, not on it, because the earth atmosphere is part of the earth.

There is no difference between us and the bacteria that live in our skin or our immune cells in our blood. If you ask our immune cells: "what do you think of this thing you are living in - meaning us - could this be a being or not?" You know their immune system is so organized, is such a society, the way they tackle things. Our societies would be ridiculous compared with the society of the immune system. If they would look at us, they would say: "No, no. This couldn't be a being, you know. It doesn't qualify as a being. A being does something organized. We harmonize things. If harmony is the criterion of a being, this cannot be a being." They looked at it that way. If we look at the earth, the earth has all the levels, so it is a being. And if it is a being, then, the collective knowledge comes in, goes out.

The Artist

How does the artist create? The artist is the spokesman of the earth. When you enter into an artistic feeling, there is this energy of connectivity. The artist creates around him an energy field, exactly like a spiritual spot to the center of the earth. Like in prayer, the artist has this in a different way and he connects. Let us say: we are in a spot of connection and there is an energy coming out in this place. This energy has patterns inside it, laws of that energy. Those patterns are geometrical energy, they come out, but when they come out into our databank each one translates it according to his association and his abilities

With the same energy one of you would start singing, the other person would play music, the third one would make poetry, the fourth one would make a painting, somebody would write a story.

Many of the ancient myths and stories sometimes refer to reality, but changed a bit in some aspects. If we go and look at different places on earth, South America, Northern Europe, at different times of history, we find somehow similar stories coming out. Because the storyteller interacted with the same earth energy, it was the earth speaking, and he interacted. The difference between a classical work of art, a timeless work of art, and something that is not up to that level, is whether or not it is a true connection and expression of the laws of the earth. If it is a true connection, the moment I listen to it, I am connected again. The artist becomes the spokesman of the earth. We don't do them together, it is us and the earth together. The earth expresses the laws, the archetypal laws and we put them in a manifested way, the way we can, dependent on our abilities. It is the same with inventions, people have the same ideas at the same time on different places.

The Ancient Gods

We spoke about Leonardo da Vinci and the circle he made. We know now that Leonardo was a grandmaster in the Priore de Sion and the former master of the priory was Botticelli. There are so many books now in Europe that have gone back to the history of the Templars, the Rosicrusians and the Priore de Sion and some of them have identified the black madonna's with the Mary Magdalen cult and then with the Isis cult.

When you know the history of Leonardo, you understand the circle. The whole outward thing was a cult. Newton was also one of the grandmasters there. What Leonardo was showing to the pope is that the only way to draw a perfect circle is when you become the center. When you connect to the center. You could imagine the center being there, but it doesn't work that way. You have to become the center. And once you feel you are in the center, it is not you any more, the circle comes out perfect. He was in a very expressive way showing all the secrets of those esoteric societies without really divulging anything of those secrets.

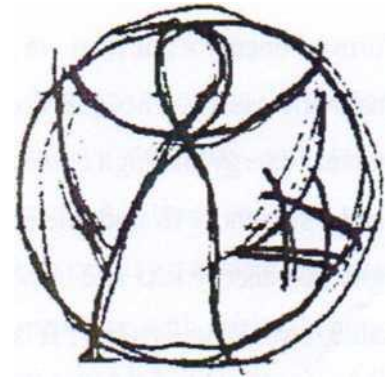

We want to understand ancient Egypt, how the society was, the reason it defied time, because it was not working within time. When you build a civilization using the archetypal powers, the laws, you are not working within time. We were speaking about their gods. If the air here has all those levels, then the air out there has also the qualities, those powers, those energies and we live also by those qualities of those different energies. You can call those energies gods, so where are the ancient Egyptian gods? They are the powers of nature who are out there and the same powers of nature which work within us and the same powers of nature outside us again. So ancient Egyptian gods are within you. They are the powers within you. I have taken some of the ancient Egyptian gods and studied their energy qualities. I went to our religious book, the holy Koran in Egypt. There is a verse giving the 99 qualities or attributes of god. I measured those qualities of the gods, energy wise, I wanted to follow this idea, so I measured every organ in the human body and energy and found the corresponding attribute or ancient Egyptian god. Then I said: if it has the same attributes, you could actually use those divine names or ancient Egyptian gods (or similar ones in any culture) for healing. Because each one would represent a certain force and playing a certain role inside the body. I did this and I gave it to a few medical doctors. Most of the alternative healers in Egypt listened already to my lectures, so they would be a bit autosuggested, but to give it the hard test I gave it to the regular doctors. They were astonished how those things work and they couldn't believe it. How can you say this and it works. I give you later some of the names of gods that open the chakra's.

The Angels

You can find those nature forces in the angels by the same way. Angels do not have a free will. They are beings of light which act according to a certain law given to them. An angel is programmed to do one thing and he has no will and he does this thing. Everyone is programmed. What is an angel then? We know that a being is someone who has a free will.

Because an angel has no free will it is a power of nature. But, if you go to the higher angels, then they are of a different nature than us. As you go up through the levels from physical to the emotional, to the mental, to spiritual, your individuality becomes less and collectivity becomes more. So we must have a concept of a collective being. If this collective being is a law, then he is a universal law.

If we think about the angel of death, it is the law of dying. This law of dying might be a formula of 5 or 6 criteria. The first one could be a big difference between the physical vitality and the second a higher level of vitality or incapability of the motion of vital forces in the body. Some of the variables would be dealing with a certain time and a certain place to be born, astrological wisdom and many other aspects, and this formula would be there. If any of us starts somehow interacting with this formula, the more it applies to him, the more he is interacting with the law. At some time when he is very near, 99% already applies to him, he is in resonance with the law. When he is in resonance with the law, the law of death is in him. Law of death means he is in total harmony, he is a copy of the angel of death and he would automatically see the angel of death. There are forces of nature, the laws of nature. Call them whatever you like. These are forces, real forces.

So, an angel is a scientific force you can work with. You can measure it, measure the force of an angel, see what he does. If you repeat the name of that one angel in such a way, on that organ, you will achieve a cure. Repeat it on another organ and nothing will happen. Only in this place will this work. The other angel will only work in that place. So that means there is a scientific relationship here.

The Laws Governing the Energies

If we think of the 'Unified Field Theory' where we are trying to bring everything into one final form of energy - but then we have a problem. We find that gravity is different than electromagnetic energy. They just don't fit together, so we make two definitions. Then we have low nuclear energy and high nuclear energy. So we have four aspects and with high reactors we're trying somehow to find one energy. But what we have missed is that the difference between how this energy acts and how the other energy acts is the way it acts. They don't follow the same laws. What is a law? It is 'something' governing 'something'. So, on everyone of those energies there is another type of energy, maybe on a mental level, governing how this energy works. The way to find the ultimate energy is not to combine. You won't find it by putting electro-magnetism and gravity together. You have to look at the fact that the common factor of all is that they have laws. Laws means: mental level. That means on every physical energy there is a mental energy riding on it, giving it its qualities. If we look at it that way you understand all those powers of nature bio-geometrically expressed.

These Laws in Architecture

Imagine somebody who wants to build a civilization based on those powers. As an architect the first thing we know is be true to every material you use This is the first thing we teach any student in the first year of our architectural school: see the properties of every material and use it according to its properties. Do you think that great architects like the ancient Egyptians, with all their achievements, didn't know that simple rule? Somebody says: you build a huge column in a temple but you have a nostalgic feeling, a romantic link to how your grandfather used to build a house with some tree; he didn't cut the branches off the tree so the tree went up and made a capitol like that... I'd have enough trouble building a temple in that dimension with stone, and I don't think I would open for myself a new door by starting to make my building look like plants again, it just doesn't fit. But, if I knew that somewhere out there, there are laws that can connect my building, make it a sort of resonator with spiritual energy, those laws would be geometrical. Where did I find those laws? In nature. So if I find in certain plants certain things, certain dimensions, I'm not making the column to look like that, no, I'm looking at certain dimensions and if I can get those dimensions, those laws ... You have the stone and then you give the form. To them, form was not just: column. The final form of the column would be the link there, and this would be given by those special geometrical shapes.

Quality of numbers

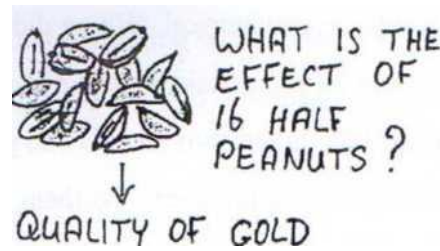

There are two ways of doing this. One way is sacred geometry. When you look at it from their point of view, sacred geometry has nothing to do with what we do today with sacred geometry. We are multiplying the patterns in such a way, creating whatever we want to do with them, but we have lost the essence. What I want to do, let's say as an ancient Egyptian, I want a quantitative way and a qualitative way of achieving resonance with spiritual energy. The quantitative way would have to end in a qualitative way because it has to transcend the left-brain type of thinking. I would have to use numbers in a qualitative way, in a transcending way. In many ancient scripts and documents you'll find people referring to numbers in a very qualitative way. When we say the number seven, for example, it is very dear, it is very lucky for us because seven has its energy qualities, the qualities of connection, seven produces a carrier wave - like Hertz waves the media use, they call them carrier waves because they carry information - the energy quality of seven is the connectivity carrier wave that carries information. So seven becomes important, it's a very important factor in prayer. For every number we are looking at is quality.

The carrier wave is a part of spirituality we know, but somehow in the numbers from one to ten, or one to nine, they couldn't find the complete spiritual energy components. As they went along they found that sixteen stones made a spiritual energy field.

I'll show you the quality of numbers in a very simple way, because our idea here in the two days is not to go into the details of things and, actually, the more simple the things are, the more important they are. If you have a pendulum and you understand a bit of radiesthesia you would find a spot on the body that has a problem, let's say his stomach. We can do this experiment tomorrow maybe at the end of the day, then we put some peanuts or something in a bowl, the person opens his hand, we put one peanut in the hand, then we test: he will get the energy of peanuts. Then with two peanuts, we test. At a certain number the disturbance will go away. So, for anything in the body you can find the correct number of peanuts, you can cure it. Of course it is difficult to have somebody stand like that with peanuts for two hours, but by testing it in that way, it's a very simple way of knowing the qualities of numbers.

Converting

The absurd division of science being a quantitative thing and the qualitative things are not real... this stupidity is expressed by the Pythagorean monochord, or by any musical instrument. Every musician knows for example that what I hear are qualitative things, but the different notes are related to different lengths - so actually a simple musical chord is a converter, it's like a computer that converts qualitative into quantitative, a mathematical relationship to a qualitative thing. So every musical instrument can convert this to that and this to that. Actually.. a feeling of something, or a note that you hear, or anything, is not less scientific than any other thing that you measure in a quantitative way since you have the skill to convert one into the other. We can convert a mathematical formula to colors or to music; one would be expressing the quantitative aspect of things, the other would be doing the qualitative aspect of things. Think of this also as a way of introducing the holistic way of thinking into modern technology, of bringing the energies into all modern products. This would be one way, by knowing exactly; you can study something, convert it, correct it and do it since we have something to do both ways.

Ancient Egypt

The first thing the ancient Egyptians did to build a temple was to find a power-spot, exactly like the cavemen did. But by that time they had developed a very advanced art of radiesthesia. They didn't use their clairvoyant abilities. Maybe they used them too, but they had both. I'm going to show you a real ancient Egyptian pendulum. This is what we call in Egypt the 'ouadj'. The ouadj is an amulet that has to do with prosperity. They tell us that this is a plant, attached here and this shows prosperity. But if you go and look at all the reliefs in the scepters, you're going to find in the hands of ancient Egyptian goddesses the elongated scepter like this. If we say that the gods and goddesses, or the nethers, are nature powers, and if those people knew the laws of the Absolute, the geometrical laws of nature, they could use the different scepters with the different Gods. Actually the scepters could be emanating, in a geometrical way, their power. So you would have an emitter, a device and you'd have the figure of the nether. This is a scepter that emits, from here, bottom of scepter, negative green.

I think, from the reader, you have an idea of what negative green is. Negative green is, very simply said, the carrier wave. The sun hits the earth on one side, colors are reflected on the sunny side. Anything that has not been reflected will come out on the shadow side. So negative green is something that goes through objects. If something goes through objects it's a perfect carrier wave, and this scepter emits a negative green in full components with a negative polarity. Negative polarity, negative green. Goddess and with this scepter, each Goddess had this scepter, plus her other scepters with it to show the property of the wave plus additional qualities, and here you'd have automatically this sort of emitter. With this emitter you could emit anything you want. You could use it for healing - to go through the fat layers of the skin, you could use it for any telepathic work, any psychic work. You can also point it at somebody for any work, but it isn't very suitable for healing because it is made to emit the full power, and things that emit the full power are the power of the Gods. Each God can manipulate that power or choose what it wants, or adjust it, with the other scepters too. You could study the scepters in the hands of the Gods to show: here is the God, here is what that God represents and here is the exact energy that is produced by that God. Now, you had to draw it that way. Not every artist can draw a batch of plants the way he wants, put his flowers up there, do this, do that... it wouldn't emit! So he has to do it that way. And if somebody had something like that (this is just an example) he had to stick to it. You could use this in a column for some reasons. We know from that, that they used radiesthesia.

The first person in the modern world to discover this pendulum, you have it in your reader, is the Frenchman Chaumery. He was the one that discovered the negative green and he mummified himself.

With the negative green pendulums like that, you could imagine, for example, how an ancient Egyptian would make an operation in the brain to remove a tumor without opening the skull. They used to do lots of surgery opening the skull. But there are mummies that were found with very minute holes in the skull and they went through that hole to the tumor, cut it in pieces and removed it. Now, how can you know where it is? Some people say: by looking at the eyes, by looking at other things. Okay, you might be able to locate it by indications, but removing it is another story. The few mummies that were found that way, were found not to have died during the operation, they lived after that, all the medical diagnosis say that. So, how could they find that?

Gold Digging

Let's say they wanted to dig for a vein of gold, a vein of gold a thousand kilometers out in the western desert. Then first you have to find the spot, then go down into the earth, maybe forty meters or so, and it's a small vein, if you hit beside it you won't get it. Imagine sending an expedition out there, and imagine having to send whatever supplies all the time to that expedition, so actually when you sent an expedition you had to have an open channel, things going and coming. Would you take all this trouble if you didn't know precisely in advance where the gold was? There isn't one gold mine in Egypt or the neighboring countries where, when you find it, you don't find ancient Egyptian reliefs or drawings down there. And whenever you find it, most of the gold has gone anyhow, they have taken it before you. There isn't one mine in all Egypt without their traces. You can go wherever you want, find the places by satellite, you go there, they have been there.

Some tribes in Egypt, I don't know if it is through what they eat or through whatever they do in their life, but they have an affinity for gold. You know, usually we have an affinity for water because seventy percent of our bodies works with water and most radiesthesia in the west has started as water divining. This is natural. But we don't have so much gold in our body that we automatically interact with gold. There is this tribe in the south of the Red Sea the 'Ababda'. When they come from the mining companies, they detect by satellite, they find the place and before they do any digging, when they want precise indications of where it is, they get one of those Ababda's - they are dark people like the Nubians. Those people don't detect water; for some reason they are made up that way, they just walk, walk, and as they get nearer to the gold they start shivering shivering shivering, and when he's on the gold he says; "now I'm on the gold". Depending on the way he shivers or something he knows how deep the gold is. It is very strange

We were having lunch once at one of the Rotary meetings in Cairo and the guest was the president of an Egyptian-American mining company, and - he wasn't speaking about those people at all - he was telling us about the work of the company, mining and the new technology of satellites. After he explained the whole technology that they were using, he said this last thing; "but at the end I get one from the Ababda to pinpoint the spot."

So, radiesthesia was something to them. It was not a tool. Radiesthesia was a way of life. If you look at it as a tool you don't really understand it. I'll get to how radiesthesia was a way of life after I give you a few things about ancient Egypt. If you find the proper spot, with a pendulum, with radiesthesia, then you want to accentuate the spiritual link. You use the tools you have, either the quantitative or the qualitative. The quantitative: you have your sixteen stones. You've read in the reader, spiritual energy has three components. I only discovered two of them. That one aspect of negative green is part of spirituality was discovered by Scariatin, an elder Russian who lived in Egypt. I followed his work and then discovered the two other components that were so obvious that they didn't need much discovery, until I measured! It took me thirty years to measure them and then at the end I found I was so stupid because they had been there all along. For example, one of them was this harmonic of the ultraviolet light. Well, we know spirituality has light, we know that this is the realm where angels are But sometimes, when you're looking to find a component in a measurement way, it takes you so many years to discover the obvious that you've believed in all along. So I discovered that you could measure spirituality with pendulums, adjust it or calibrate it on the ultra-violet - the normal ultra-violet you can get, this is a higher harmonic - like in music - a higher harmonic of ultra-violet.

The third one was even more obvious and that was gold: we drew golden halo's around all Saints around the world, in all history. But for me as an artist, I see that and tell the people: "golden halo", and as a healer we speak about 'aura', we speak about 'golden aura'. We do all that but somehow, the third component - the fact that with gold in my hand I would detect spirituality - this very simple thing just didn't click. I don't know why, but it took years.

The Gold Test

Then it took years, it becomes very simple. You get a person with no gold on his body and, we hold gold in our hand and the pendulum and then, if he prays, we find gold all over him. This is simple to use. Maybe not all the architects here are professional radiesthesists but they want a simple tool. Of course gold is not alone, you have negative green and ultra-violet, but they are more tricky to use for a beginner, but just gold in your hand or a small golden pendulum. If you have golden objects you can put your golden objects in the other hand and concentrate on the gold, then get a picture of an ancient temple and see if your pendulum detects gold in there, and things like that.

You can use this, I would say, as a short-cut, but for proper research we have to have the three elements together. Any one of the elements alone is not a proper indication because mentally it is very easy to construct any one of the three elements alone. I can easily find an angle that produces gold, easily find an angle that produces negative green or ultra-violet, but the criterion for a bio-geometrical shape is the shape that produces the three of them at the same time, and this is the difficult thing. So, let us take the simple thing with gold, we're going to take gold and we'll use that as we go along the lecture, this produces gold as if indicating that we have measured it.

Spirituality in Architecture

If the temple has been designed with the quality of the sixteen - the sixteen stones produce gold. With the golden pendulum we take some peanuts (I will save all experiments that are related to healing for the last day and go deeper into them - biosignature and healing and all that - because not everybody here would really be interested in going very deep into healing. We'll keep that for the last day and we'll go into the general aspects until then) but if you get your peanuts, up to fifteen peanuts you won't get any gold, with sixteen peanuts you get gold, seventeen peanuts: no gold again.

What do you do now? You can use the quantity of sixteen to give the quality of gold. But we have to find a way of making it applicable. Discovering something is one thing, and making it applicable is one thing. I can't as an architect imagine telling an architect: "you have to build your house with sixteen doors and sixteen windows and sixteen steps. You'd be putting the architect in a fixed scheme, like some people who are deforming, for example, science like Feng Shui; they are putting us in a very rigid scheme because they don't understand the essence.

So, they thought: if I don't want the quantitative thing, if you draw a line sixteen centimeters long, will it give gold? No, because who can read the centimeters? Does nature know the centimeters or inches? It doesn't. So how can you show nature 'sixteen'? Maybe by putting 'ten' beside 'sixteen', it would have the proportion. Our mind thinks always in relationships. So, ten to sixteen, that means we have a ratio and that is the ratio of the 'Golden Rules'.

Unfortunately, in older days, in the first year of architecture in the university the students used to draw Greek columns and things that like that for hours and hours till they went crazy because they never understood what they were doing. How should I spend the first year of my architectural studies, imitating and drawing all those ancient columns in all those proportions because the professor is telling me: "This is an ancient proportion of beauty"? And then, when I go to the second year in architecture we discard it and don't use it again. Because if it relates to beauty and if you can create beauty with any other way, with your expression, then why use this? But this was putting spirituality in the building.

When Le Corbusier made his first designs and everybody was attacking him, that this was factory architecture, he said: "la spiritualitee de l'architecture". How come? Was he just reacting? No. He had his modular with the proportion of 1.613, that is the sixteen, and put some dimensions, and said - if you make very simple architecture in those dimensions, you have spirituality in architecture. Now that we have spirituality in modern architecture, we can go to lunch.

Balancing Polarities

Before entering into some mental work, maybe we do some movements or something just to get you out of your sleepy mood. So, I'll show you some interesting notions, I'll give you a notion about a type of ancient Egyptian yoga and we will do some of the movements now. It's very simple. To give you an idea before what it's about... we were speaking about energies.

When we speak about energies, that means we are speaking about polarities and usually any disturbance in your body is an excess of one polarity or an excess of another. Instead of saying positive or negative we can say Yin-Yang, there are so many ways of expressing it, it's always too much or too little energy, a shift to that polarity or that polarity. So, balancing the polarities is one way of achieving a son of a balance and we are going to balance polarities using 'shape'. So, each one of us has brought his shape with him. Did anyone not bring his main shape with him⁹ Just to give you an idea: any organ of which you have two would be dealing with different polarities, otherwise why have two? You have two ears. They say: "because I want to hear stereophonic..." but you could have four ears and hear quadrophonic, so why? Anything that has 'two' deals with polarities. You can use anything that has 'two' of one thing to correct and heal anything. You have two eyes, one would be dealing with positive energy, one with negative energy; two nostrils, one with this and one with that. If you have a shift towards one energy then you could close one eye and increase the shift towards the other energy, or the opposite, or close one nostril Or use this finger or that finger, or that finger, because every finger has a different polarity. By just raising one finger or the other you could change polarities of the body. If you put one hand like that... you are doing one polarity, the other like that.... you are doing the other polarity. Like the Pharaohs, when you stand like that... you put one foot in front - here it is - and the other foot there {much laughing in the audience} so you have a polarity and a polarity. So we're going to understand this.

In ancient Egypt they had a doctor for the right eye and a doctor for the left eye. If you want to understand the reason? It's not because of the doctor being right-handed or left-handed, no, it had to do with the polarity. Your stomach and your liver, each has a different polarity: if one is negative the other is positive, and each eye, you have one positive and one negative. You know of course that you have all the points related to the organs on your eyes and this is the science of iridology that you all see in the books. Now, this eye, let's say the one with positive energy, with a positive polarity, would interact with an organ of positive polarity differently than with a negative polarity, and that interaction would be different than that of the other eye would be with the same organ. So it is logical that if somebody wanted to have a holistic look regarding one eye he would be looking at the interaction of certain polarities in the body. So it's logical then to say: I get a doctor for that eye and a doctor for that eye. That means I could distribute the specialties in a different way

I would say now: any problem is an increase in energy or decrease in energy. So we'll have the doctors for excess energy and doctors for the lack of energy and this is that easy. Now, how did this work? To make it work perfectly you yourself would have to do a measurement. But we can always do both sides in order to do an adjustment. But let's., eh., people who understand radiesthesia, for example, there would be a difference if I would put a pendulum on my hand, like this, I just stand like that and close this eye. I got the wrong one this time, you see? Then I close this one - I have it right - so one of them will keep increasing the pendulum movement. That would adjust your shift of energy. That is the general. But let's say you have a problem, anywhere in your body. You know how it is in radiesthesia: point at your problem, in any case measure it. Let's say you are using a simple chord, at your left side, and let's say you come to this spot and the pendulum says "no", there is a problem here. Try one of the two eyes. One of them will correct automatically.

The exercise can also go differently. You have your seven centers, the chakra's. Any imbalance in your body would be either too much positive or too much negative in one of the chakra's. Now, if you want to know the cause of all problems, we want to find the chakra that is the cause of all the others, so we can easily do the same thing. In the hand the pendulum and you have the person standing and tell him for example with one chakra, put first this hand and then this, change the polarity of the chakra, a bit more this, a bit more that. Here the pendulum pulls real high, then try on this chakra, then this chakra. Then, on one of the energy centers you can get a very very strong energizing: this will be the cause of all your problems in your body. Whenever you do healing, do whatever you want, when you go to that center then this will be the cause.

If we want to stand up and do some exercises, we'll do it very carefully. Actually, I don't know why I made you stand up, I'm going to tell you just to close one eye {much laughing}. You see, we Egyptians are very lazy, so when you think I'm going to start doing motions like this... No, we're very lazy. What is going to happen when we close one eye for one moment, some of you will get extended energy - better, and some will get worse. The best way to do this is if you know. But if you don't know we do a bit of this and a bit of that.

So, we just stand like that, first we don't want to do any change to the polarity. We keep the hands down and the neck down like that and we just close one eye. There is a saying of wisdom that says: "if you close one eye both eyes open". You must feel a certain energy going in you. It could be positive, it could be increasing your field, or decreasing it. Okay, now the other. When you did both, with one you get a feeling of tingling, that's when you do it right.

Now let's do this for a moment, one nostril, the other nostril. Okay. Now stand with one arm forward. We're doing it a bit quickly. When you have measured it properly, then you can stay a long time, but now we know that one will decrease and one will increase, during measuring we don't want to stay too long on the wrong one. That's why we just do a bit of this and a bit of that and slowly slowly we do adjustment.

Another easy one, but this is very tiring because it takes a lot of trust to do this. Arm forward, hand palm up, palm down. Other arm, palm up, palm down. What happens? Okay, now one foot forward... does that remind you of the Pharaoh's?

Some of those things, the one that brings you up and down, can change if you change direction, because it is related to polarities, and the earth has polarities. But this is a very simple way, did you feel change a bit? Move a bit. Of course, if you measure it and do the right one, then you can increase your energy.

Q.: I thought there was always a dominance of one brain hemisphere over the other.

A.: That way, they are balancing; beside the polarity effect you are also getting both hemispheres synchronized. Beside the polarity effect, one of them is emitting energy, one of them is receiving energy'. So when you enter into a house, you enter with your right foot; in that way you give light to the house, not to take the light from the people you are going to visit. To make sure that it is light, say a nice spiritual word before you put your right foot in the house.

This was the first type of interacting with energies through polarities. Can there be anything simpler⁷

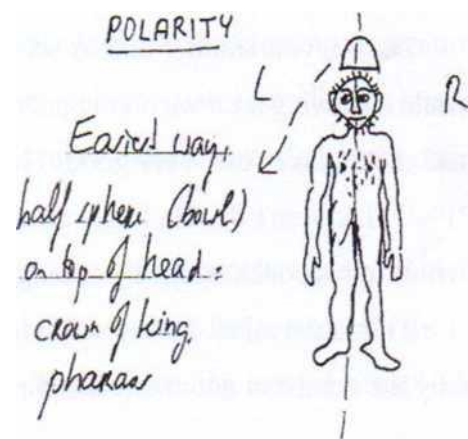

I could continue for some time with you and tell you to pronounce letters, that letter has positive energy, that letter negative energy, but that would be too tiring for you. This is a very effective one. Take a deep breath and stand ready. Put your right hand on your crown chakra, a few seconds, then your left hand. Right hand on your forehead chakra, left hand. The same successively on throat chakra, heart chakra, solar plexus, sexual chakra, root chakra. If your arms are long enough you can reach your base chakra, otherwise go as far as the root of the spine.

This should take off any polarity disturbances from your chakra's. it is a very quick one.

I told you we Egyptians are very lazy. Do you know how I open a chakra? I take any hemispherical bowl, any shape, and I just put it on the head for five seconds and take it off. It opens the chakra instantaneously (fig. 15) without any concentration. Remember" energy - function - shape. If I put shape in an energy', the energy will be shaped by the object, will perform the function. This is triggering the chakra to perform the right function. The lazy man's way.

D.: Do you need to have gold in your hand?

A.: This is like when you have the fire on the oven and you wan't to cook. Cooking in scientific terms is - we say: even distribution of heat - so that the fire gets evenly be distributed, we use the shape. When you put the shape, the energy of the fire takes the shape to perform the function. If we bring a big bowl, this will really be very strengthened by opening the chakra. Usually you do it with a very small one, but get a big one and put it on your head, after five seconds you feel your body going like that. That is the secret of the crown of kings. The king was the man-god. The man-god is a very important thing, it is the basis of all mysticism in the world.

The Mind Creates Instability

When we try to balance the opposites with our mental capacities, with our mind, we have to analyze the situation because the mind is analytical. Our mind is aware only of things that have been programmed into it, that have been put into our database. So whatever the mind is aware of, is not complete anyhow, and analyzing takes time; by the time it finishes analyzing, the situation is over. So if you start analyzing here at this seminar with the mind, the weekend will be over before you find anything. By analyzing we create imbalance somehow, because there is no way that you can balance things properly with the mind: you don't have all the criteria, so how can you balance things properly.

As you all know, the Sufis are a mystic sect in Islam and their tradition is making jokes. They make jokes all the time. The idea of the jokes is spiritual, it is to show you the limits of the mind. The jokes are endless. For example there is a joke about Goha, that's how we call him in Egypt - and in Persian he is called Nasreddin.

Every day Goha is passing the customs between two places, with his donkey. The donkey is carrying two baskets full of straw, one on either side of his body. The customs officer says: "Goha, I'm sure you are smuggling something, I can read your face, it is written all over your face!". They search the two baskets and everything but they can't find anything. This goes on for thirty years, and after that the customs-officer retires, he is an old man. Then one day he is sitting in a cafe with Goha sitting next to him, and finally he says: "Look, I am no customs- officer any more now, just tell me what you've been smuggling all those thirty years". And Goha says: "Donkeys!".

You see now, this is the mind, we're laughing at the intellectual capacities of the mind. I'll give you another one: A scientist is working and catches a fly. He holds the fly down while observing it through a magnifying-glass. Then he lets go of the fly and commands: "Fly!" and the fly takes off. Very good! He takes another fly, he cuts it's wings off and commands: "Fly!". It doesn't fly. He looks at it again and shouts: "I said fly! fly!". It doesn't fly. So he writes in his conclusions: by cutting the wings of a fly off, it loses the sense of hearing.

This is the mind. Isn't it very logical? Somehow it doesn't fit but it's very logical. That is why the mind cannot create stability, it has to create instability.

Our Space/Time Concept

The body functions are governed, like we said, by a universal wisdom. A wisdom, not coming from our perceived reality but from the absolute reality, which does not follow time and space. It is this wisdom which regulates all functions of our body. The moment the mind interferes in those functions, he creates problems.

Sometimes we philosophize and wonder if we have free will or if there is a divine something playing with us. Many philosophers think about that in complex ways. For example, Omar Khayyam tells you.

It is all a checkerboard of nights and days where destiny with us plays and plays.
And in the end back in the cupboard it lays.

This shows that we feel that there are higher, transcending things governing us. Or when Khayyam says:

The pen that writes and heaven writ.
Not all thy pity or all thy wit.
Shall change a single line of it.

When you listen to this, it shows that we don't have free will on this earth. Thank God we don't have free will in the important matters, such as the laws that govern our body, the laws that run our body-functions. In the important matters that relate to life and the prolongation of life, we don't have free will. Thanks for that, otherwise we would mess up with nature's laws.

But the mind does have free will for the unimportant things in life, like creating civilization, haha. That we can have, we can do what we like, we can spoil as much as we like as long as we don't touch the most important things. But the thing is: every time we interfere in the divine will with our mind, we cause problems in our body.

When you have pet — animals and you keep them outdoors, they never have any problem. Then a pet comes into your house and after having lived there with us for some years the pet has to see a psychiatrist. Whoever heard of an animal in the wild needing a psychiatrist? This shows us that these laws exist.

What is the difference between the way these laws work and the way our mind works? The mind works in our space/time concept, because we have created our space/time concept. In the space/time concept that the mind creates, things take time. There is this Duality-Concept.

When you have to wake up at seven o'clock in the morning, what happens sometimes is that you wake up. you look at the clock, it is five to seven and you think "Oh! I can sleep five more minutes". Then you get a dream and you think that the dream goes on for six, seven hours or for a day. When you wake up you think "I am late! I did not go to my office", then you watch the clock and only two minutes have passed. That means that our space/time concepts are created by our brain - in our space/time reality. They don't exist beyond that. Beyond that, in a dream reality, there is another time. The laws that come from the other level, that we access from the right-brain-tap-consciousness, they do not follow our time.

This is what the mystics call "illumination" - you can have information that otherwise would take a lifetime to decipher. On that level it would go into your right-brain consciousness in a split second. Then it would take you a lifetime to take this coded information through your left-brain consciousness, your data-bank, your meaning-level - and translate it into knowledge. You might be working on it all your life, and you don't know that what you have been doing all the time is that you have been translating this spark of light that you got in 1/100 of a second. That's what comes from there.

Personality

How do we balance things in life because we know that our brain makes a mess of everything. We are born with a basic set of emotional and mental level-functions, all the instincts and all those things. In our data-bank we have those to begin with. What happens when we interact is that a sort of a recording of that interaction and of the external stimuli is being made. When I have a similar interaction later, then, by association, I play the same thing again. So slowly, slowly, I form a pattern of reacting to external stimuli.

This pattern is what we call 'personality'. Until the age of seven or eight maybe, the pattern hasn't been formed completely, there are still many holes in it, it is still open. So, when a child is still open, he can have memories and very strange things are coming from everywhere, because his personality didn't close the holes yet. Once the whole tiling is closed up, we have made a mesh around ourselves.

But what is the mesh made of? It is made of memories and emotions, and as far as I know, the 'me' consists of some of my personality and some of my memories and emotions - because that's where the repetitive reaction is, the traits are on that level. If memories and emotions are my personality, then that is the T that I know.

The personality has been created by shielding me like that, and by the time I realize this, I am an individual. The word 'individual' is a false concept given to us by the personality. Because I am trapped on that level, I am an individual. We can no longer think of the light inside this thing, that it could be on a high level and not really be on a sort of individual level but it could have more collectivity in it. That is why something happens whenever this flash we're speaking about comes from the higher light....

Touched by the light

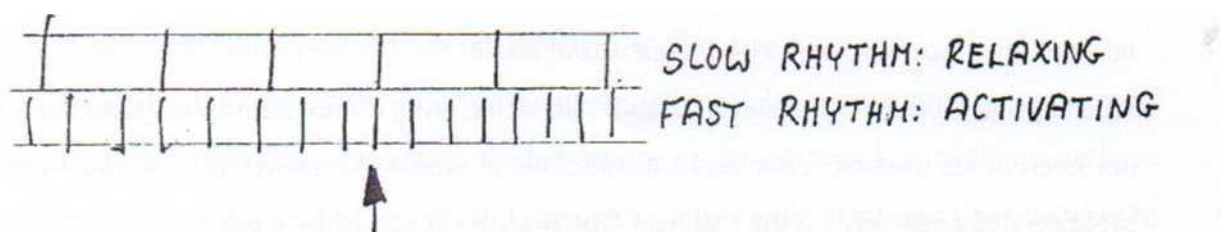

You know the expression "one day in your life you have been touched by the light" This "touched by the light", what does it do? It takes you out of individuality, so all of a sudden there's another type of personality, there is another type of omnipresence, Omni being, the feeling of being one with so many things.

The moment you are touched and become aware of that, you have a feeling of strangeness to the personality because as far as I am, I am the personality. And this is the "I". I cannot go beyond the I because the I is me, but something inside makes me feel like a stranger, I am visiting, I am not from here.

Some people can translate it according to their databank. Your databank - you know the feeling - you can translate it as if your soul came from another planet. You can translate it any way you want.

So, this being touched by the light and the light goes in, what does that mean⁷ Let's take it in all the types of spiritual exercise you do. You know, you've closed up the mental level and your personality has closed you up from higher levels, so we try to make cracks in the mental level. We do that by slowing it's function down. You know, the mental moves like this rhythm of tapping. If I tap in a slower rhythm, like that, then you will all fall asleep.

Quicker, ah... better. What happens if I tap in a slower rhythm. Usually two vibrations like that together, they meet somewhere. But if I control this one rhythm it cannot change. Then the higher one will slowly come down to it. Then, if I come down from let's say twenty beats per second to seven beats per second, I am in an alpha-wave, I am in something a bit receiving and creative, and if I go lower I manage to stop the mind to transcend it, to go beyond it.

What does that mean? That means that the mind is my personality. Now I'm transcending this personality; what does that mean⁹ Let's take a circle; the whole circle of my being is my personality. By this transcending I am letting a divine light, divine wisdom, come inside. So my personality is being pushed to the side, is becoming less and less, until there is more divine wisdom in there than there is personality.

At a certain level the majority wins. The personality has to become the voice of the new master, the new wisdom. If this wisdom is sacred, divine, and the mental becomes a spokesman for the higher level, then who is the real owner of that body⁹ It is not the personality any more, it's the higher level. The higher level is a divine attribute. So, if you find yourself at such a level, the mind is acting acts of wisdom. This act of wisdom occurs because you aren't you any more. We can say: you have given your personality to the higher master. Or you can say that you have become sort of a man-God. Because who is really in that body? Is it you or have you become a spokesman? So you've become a man-God on earth.

The ancient Egyptians used to say their pharaohs are man-Gods because it was a theocratic society. A theocratic society, this means they were working with the powers of nature, they were using them in their architecture and everything. So in a theocratic society the one to become pharaoh has got to be the person who is most in tune with nature. There are so many stories. Whenever people who have been given all this power of nature, make a mistake, the price is very, very high: all nature starts rebelling against them. A person who has attained that level, cannot afford a negative thought, not even in his dreams. Your real subconscious is where the power is, and you have to program that positively, so the real man-God must be governed by wisdom.

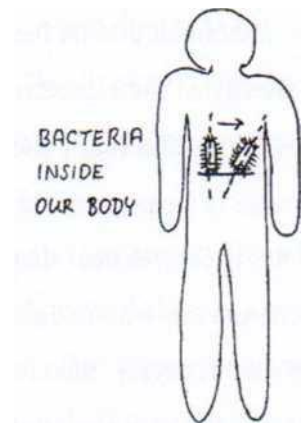

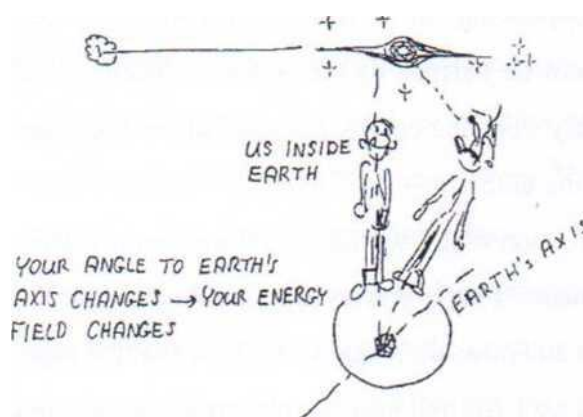

We say this divine force, wisdom, balances things and we spend so much time saying we have to have the power of positive thinking; we should stop negative thinking; as if you could do that on order, as if I can tell you "Stop being negative and be positive". Everyone looks at his partner and says: "Stop being negative, be positive!". This is something you cannot do, it has to be done to you. The only way to do it is to let divine wisdom, this energy, come in; this energy will balance things and do it for you.

Geometrical Shape and You

By now you must be thinking that I'm more of a preacher than somebody who is going to tell you about architecture, bio-geometry or healing. You must be thinking: "He is preaching again! There he goes again ...". No? It's very simple: any person who stands here - We are going to do the experiments tomorrow when we will go into the healing aspects - You have an energy field and you have an axis north-south. Your axis and the earth axis are related to each other. When you change direction, your energy will fluctuate, depending on the angle you make with the north-south axis. This is a physical law.

The laws of physics can't be changed. So this creates the situation that a healer can actually be very effective in one position and not effective at all in another.

Tomorrow morning I'll bring one of the rulers and we will do measurements on some of you. It's better to do measurements in the last session so we can measure the things we have previously talked about. Anyhow, each of you can write any topic of interest that you want to tackle during these two days, on a piece of paper and leave it on my table during the break - and I will include your topics in my talk.

This balancing thing is important, if I make a geometrical shape that can reproduce the three components of spirituality, like any one of the bio-geometrical shapes I have here, like the pendant that Levina is wearing. If I would ask her to come and stand here and turn around, she would prove my physics is wrong because her energy field will not change. I'll take her bio-geometrical pendant off and then she'll be scientifically correct again; the energy field will change, you see.

So: put geometrically induced spiritual energy there and all of a sudden what happens: the physical law is changed - that means something has more power on the physical law - that means it has to come from outside the cycle that we know.

Once you see it done by a shape, you could actually do the same thing by prayer. But you have to see it done with a shape first, and then I will tell you "say a prayer" and measure your hand, show you that you produce gold, get a piece of paper, put a geometrical shape in there and do it like what we were doing with the cigarette just before. When he takes a cigarette, makes a geometrical shape on the cigarette - then all of a sudden it is full of spiritual energy; then he holds it and he feels his energy expanding; his Immune-system somehow counteracts the energy of the cigarette and he will not be harmed by the cigarette. There is a change in taste, things like that - they are secondary - but the energy does not affect the cigarette; the cigarette is a carrier of this energy into the body.

So, if geometrical shapes can do that, then what I would do is measure the shape and then tell the person who is doing the experiment: "I want you to pray, looking at that paper". He does some prayers, then I'd get the paper and measure it again and show that the paper has the same energy components as the shapes, so I will tell you "Look, now you put gold on the paper ..., you put ultra-violet on the paper and you put negative green on the paper".

Once I show you that you have done it on the paper, there is no difference between you and the geometrical shape, whatever the geometrical shape can do, you can do.

The next step is that I ask you to take a cigarette and this time I won't do it for you. You yourself change it with a prayer and make it as effective as the cigarette on which we used the geometrical shape. It's very easy to do. If you haven't done the experiment from the piece of paper and me showing you that you possess somebody has to measure and show you that your energy has been changed, then you can perform any miracle - because now it has been scientifically proven that this really happens

Now, we know that this spiritual energy cancels our physical laws. We are back again to a subject of this morning, of the knowledge that the cavemen found It took us some time, it took us the whole day to reach it again, but it's the same old story again.

That means that by putting this spiritual energy into my field, I need that to balance. It isn't a luxury, it is a scientific practical necessity to do it, to balance myself. Because imagine, if there was only a very small range in the direction where my energy would be full, and in all other directions my energy would be decreasing, then we would all have to be walking in one direction all the time, everyone would walk in his or her own positive direction, or else he or she would lose energy. So we are losers: if ninety percent of all directions drop our energy, then we are losers in life on the energy level anyhow. So if we are losers, what do we have to do?

The moment we know we are losers, the only option is to access something that will cancel this tiling of ninety percent loss - and that is: spiritual energy. We are a kind of bacteria working here I'll tell you what we are . Let's say I go to the immune system, I go to the cells in your immune system. I go inside and ask one cell: "What are you doing⁹ What's your job?" What is he going to answer? He'll tell me "I am an architect". "Well, okay. What are you doing?" "I'm building this" Then I ask another cell: "What's your job?" He answers: "I'm an information specialist". Another one answers: "I'm a writer".

So everyone will tell me what his job is because it's a society and in any society there have to be different jobs - like in our society. Now, do you think that any one of them is aware of the fact that they have a role to play in the immune-system, towards that bigger being which is us. Probably not. They don't believe that we are a being to begin with. If they think they are much better than us, do you think their prime goal would be what they are doing to us? No.

This is exactly what we are doing to the earth, we are doing the same thing. We think that we are that important, so do we have a role towards the earth? We think "Well, towards the earth, that's not a being, we are important only". That is the same thing. But, we are living "in" the earth and we have a role to play.

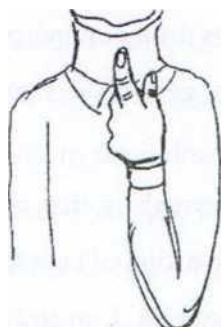

What role can we play? Let's look at our energy — levels. If we possess a level of interaction with spiritual energy - so many other species on earth possess the other levels -, but since we possess that level - and we are not the only ones to possess that level - all those energies are shape-related.

Signs and Spirituality

If you go into all the ancient sciences, you'll find that people have found the shapes that somehow interact with spirituality. The rose for example. You will find spiritual energy coming from the center of the rose.

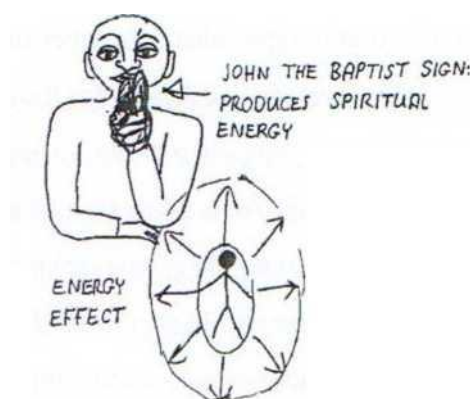

The hand-motion, this hand-motion, when you do this, this produces spirituality from here.

We're going to do another yoga exercise now, but first, let me explain this. You find this motion in all countries in the world, some Russian icons. This is the famous John the Baptist-sign, all through Renaissance there is this sign. I tested it on my assistants in Egypt.

I had two wooden models of hands. They are models that artists use for studying the shape of the hand - and you can bend the fingers on it.

By studying the energy of shape, I can make them emit spiritual energy. So whenever I am sitting and somebody asks me "Can you perform some healing on me?" I say "Let my assistant do it. He is hiding under the table and his hand is coming out, so let him do it". So when I studied this, I found out that the wooden shape emanated spiritual energy from that forefinger. I tried it on the other hand, the left hand - it didn't do it. It isn't in right or left or brain or something like that because it was two separate hands. It is the shape!

Somebody knew all along history, that this produces spiritual energy'. We use it in Islamic prayer, when we pray ... we do this, John the Baptist did this, you can go to the Russian icons and they do this, you can go back in history' and find that people do this all the time. Not only this, there are so many other things, even this, when we do this for prayer at a certain angle, it produces it, but you need the two hands.

This type of finger-yoga exercise is very easy, you don't have to stand up. The movement has to be a certain way exactly in order to get this energy. I want you to feel exactly what is happening between your fingertips and to your body. But don't touch, if you touch, you're changing the shape - we're speaking geometry here. See what you feel. Tomorrow I'll show you by radiesthesia and we will test it on a ruler so you will know it isn't auto-suggestion.

I ask one person to come and stand here (man stands in front of audience). Okay, now look at him. The people who are able to see auras here, look at his aura, (to the man.) You put your hand here, make the shape, and see if there is any change in there. Those people who cannot see the aura might, by looking at him, feel the same thing as he does in their own body. After eating isn't the proper time for this exercise, I know, because of the blood-pressure. I think that's enough to get an indication. Did anybody get an indication of the aura itself? Did anybody feel it in his body, because you can feel it in your body if you don't see it.

What I'm saying here is that this thing is not symbolic. It's not just 'there is one God and that's the symbol'. Of course, if you look at it symbolically with the other hand, or with your foot if you want. Point at anything and say there is no God but God", point at whatever you want, take any position you want, you will still get spirituality symbolically. But we're talking about a statue, a statue cannot do that, only this thing. So you see, it is all very practical.

The Man-God Concept

We find this man-God concept very prominently present in ancient times and this is the only way you can understand how mystics and saints of certain eras can be looked at as man-Gods.

Some people have problems when they look at the trinity of Jesus, son of God, and God the father and the Holy Ghost. In the beginning of Christianity there were so many controversies and different sects looking at this thing But here, if you look at it, it's easy.

Some people tell you "Son of God" means, like you go to church and say "Father". In church it's this symbolic flow of one representing the other. We're not dealing with the son of God, that's too easy to deal with - we'll go into something more difficult. Saint Paul said: He is God walking on earth. This is very difficult to envisage.

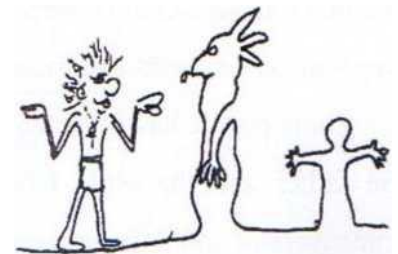

There are so many controversies and wars and hundreds of thousands of people in Europe have been killed just because of fights about the concept. But if you look at it in the ancient Egyptian or the mystical tradition, when you let the wisdom in. Now, who is out there? You or the divine wisdom...?

So actually you are the divine attribute of God walking on earth, it's not your personality any more. Now we have similar circumstances in that we all are from the same factory. Is anyone here coming from a different factory, from a different planet or something? Okay, we are all made in the same factory. That means every one of us is a sort of a repetition of the other. So for something to be scientifically correct, it should apply to anyone of you. It can't be that it applies to a saint but not to us. You see, nature doesn't give any privileges, these are laws.

Now look at it that way. Remember I said all those attributes, all those Gods move in you. I'll take one example, one attribute, just to give you an indication of how you are all saints, all Gods on earth. And this is the only time that you can manifest the power of this attribute on earth, by telling the thing "be!" and it becomes, according to the attribute.

The attribute of truth, the attribute of power, it depends on what kind of power you are getting inside you, what kind of nether, what kind of God or what kind of angel, whatever way look at it. If you get the angel of love or the power of love, you can just look at people and they'll be struck by love, or truth, or whatever. This is the concept of a man-God on earth. So you shouldn't have any trouble with that concept, it's something normal.

Now you're going to ask me "how can we reach such a concept?" The meaning of science is that something is repeatable under similar circumstances. But how does it work? What the mystics were doing: they were just expanding on a situation that exists in every one of you.

It works that way: I take a sip of water and then I say "Ahm, that's beautiful, that's nice". This is what I felt now. Of course I take the drink of water as an example. Then I look at the ceiling and I say "that's nice". Then I look at the colors of something you are wearing and I say "this is nice". And then at the flowers on the table "that's nice". When I say "nice" I felt something. Every time it was expressed with this feeling, I expressed it as nice; that's how I felt it.

I had the same feeling about many different objects, so you can say that the feeling of niceness was in me and not in the objects - because I am the one who felt it. If it's in me and not in the objects, then what are the objects doing out there⁷

We go into the laws of music because Henk is very restless, you know, he is playing with his hands already. He wants music, music, okay. Now, by the laws of music, you have to have more than one chord to achieve resonance. You can't make resonance with nothing, you have to make resonance with something.

So, if there is this feeling of beauty that I felt, this energy, this internal feeling - remember I said the energy is outside, it moves inside, out there it is collective, in there it is individual - this inner feeling that I got, was resonance between the energy of beauty (the aspect that was in me) with the abstract energy of beauty that is out there. Because to move this one, ..., all the aspects are inside me, but how will one work over the other? By entering into resonance. Resonance amplifies it, so I feel beauty. Sometimes resonance amplifies power, so I feel power, and things like that.

So actually the things I feel when I feel beauty or when I feel anything, is resonance of the personal with the impersonal or the collective or the absolute. So, in every feeling you have, for a split second you are a man-God because the absolute is in you and when it enters in you, it gives you this enchantment for a very second.

I take this glass and drink. How many attributes or energy-qualities are in there? First: power - to lift the glass. There are many power-coordination-things in it, there are about ten or fifteen energy-attributes that have moved when I drank this. But when something inside moves when I drink, and I am aware of it, then this means that the outside is in resonance with the inside; every time I use it I am in resonance with the outside.

So you see, there is nothing that you can do in life, except by being in resonance with the absolute energies. For a split second you are all saints, for a split second you are all man-Gods. So when a saint or a Sufi is amplifying it, he is just taking a split second and he is expanding on it, to understand its attributes. A mystic is a scientist studying something that we all have inside us. The laws of nature are there, we are all man-Gods.

Now, what happens at this moment. I told you all this. Maybe it is a nice setting and you believe it, or you interact with it. Whether you believe it or not, you throw' it inside, into your subconscious, and leave it there. Tomorrow you forget it but your subconscious won't forget it. From this moment on there will be a slight difference, created by resonance, although it is difficult to feel. The next glass of water you drink, the next person you say hello to, everything you do will have this slight difference. Maybe only measurement can show it, but it shows this awareness, this final awareness.

Awareness

We spoke about energy being amplified, it moves by resonance. The flower might have spiritual energy in it - some shapes, many shapes in nature have it. But awareness needs to create resonance between things and move energy. Now how do we create this awareness?

We have a bacteria and the role of this bacteria is to promote the motion of spiritual energy - like the role of any bacteria. Who knows of such a bacteria? You don't?! You don't have a mirror at home⁹ You are that bacteria! You are that bacteria that is supposed to move spiritual energy on the higher level. How do you move it? We give you free will. When you have free will, you use your mind, you create a lot of imbalance and when things go really wrong, you are aware of that something of the connection. When you are aware of it, you touch it, you enter into resonance with it in a way that the flower cannot do because it is already in harmony.

So if you want to look for intelligent species in the Universe, don't look for physical bodies. If you want to find out if the atmosphere on Mars supports life or not ... - this is nonsense. Life is not physical life. Here on earth there are so many species, invisible species that don't need a physical body. Mind, if it goes into water, it creates a body out of water. If it goes into fire, it creates a body out of fire. The fire-entities, elementals made of fire, could enjoy spending their holidays in the sun, couldn't they? That would be the ideal place for a holiday and then we say that you can't have life in the sun. Who said so? To them this is the ideal holiday-place.

If an intelligence can take his body out of any material, then what is the criteria and how do I find it? I know the criteria: whenever there is intelligence there is imbalance, and wherever there is imbalance, there is awareness toward the spiritual. So wherever there is intelligence, you can find it by looking for spiritual energy-emanation in that area.

But you have to distinguish between spiritual energy coming out of a shape and spiritual energy in a place. Let's say you look at a planet, you look at the moon You don't go to the center of the moon exactly in order to look for spiritual energy and say "I found something there". Go off the center a bit, because the center might emanate So don't get confused by the geometrical shape, but this is the way this happens. Now what does all this have to do with radiesthesia?

Radiesthesia

For people who have no previous knowledge, I will start in a simple way, and to those who have previous knowledge, I will show an alternative way.

Radiesthesia is very simple. Let's take a musical chord and then I make a note on that chord. Every eighth note will enter into resonance with it. So let's say I cover the whole piano and you only have access to one chord and you want to move the one at the end, you can hit the corresponding one here to move it.

Or, if one there hidden makes a sound, you can test it by seeing where is resonance on the one that you have. So with the octave that you have you can interact with what you don't have. In the piano it's limited out there, but you could find an instrument that has no limits and then you might be able to measure anything in the universe by resonance.

The Sound Box

Music now. How do we do that. I am looking at the music instruments to find a suitable head sound box, because I put the chord on a sound box and the sound box gives those different qualities. So I'm going to look for a very specially shaped sound box and attach the chord to that sound box. By using this I expand my possibilities to the possibilities of the sound box itself. Now what shape would be ideal for my optimum sound box. Any ideas? She gets the first prize. Okay come here since you are our sound box. This is alright. All I have to do now is to attach a wire to the center chord. We have to enter into resonance and play. You have a hammer and nail, so attach it; it won't hurt. I'll get my chord and we want to put it here, pull it down and then play the music and see what happens. In order that it be a musical chord, it has to be tied on both ends. If I put a weight, then it is still tied. It is difficult to notice with my eyes.

The sound box is a box that works in all ranges beyond even our normal hearing. I won't hear every' note because it is working on all levels, so I want to see it. In order to see it, I put a weight to keep it pulled down as a chord and then I detach it from the point so that instead of moving this way, it moves that way. What we have done here is we've moved it one octave in the sound. So now actually it is very simple, radiesthesia is music.

Now, she is the sound box. If you put it in your hand the chord then, when it moves, is an indicator that the sound box is resonating; this will move. Her energy field will contact, will enter into resonance with any vibration. If I calibrate this, this is an indicator. Now without this, I start to think of something, she is still in tune with it. But I want to see it, so this will help me see it. But if I put it in her hand, it will not move, I need to calibrate it, let us say like on the seven notes of music. So I take the piano, or any musical instrument, and play every note, and try'.. (I move this, because it is a heavy one, I have attached one of my biogeometrical scepters, emitters, as a pendulum, but usually a pendulum is like that). So I move it like that and then move the different lengths until I have the notes with Do, so I calibrate this with Do. This is Re, this is Mi.. Sol, La, Ti. Now I have seven musical notes calibrated on a musical instrument that I can hear, and with it I am going to measure things somewhere which I can't hear. So I am doing this, using a simple musical chord.

It is very easy. In radiesthesia it is like when you lose a key in the dark, you go and look for it under the light, and with radiesthesia you will find it. So with the note in your hand you can measure things that you don't know.

This sound box will enter into resonance with what? With vitality, because she has a vitality level; with emotional fields (which may go around the room) or with mental energies, and with spiritual energies, of course. So as a sound box she has all those levels, meaning that she can enter into resonance with all those levels.

But there is something nice here. We said: spiritual levels, these are not found in our perceived world, they are on the wisdom level. This leads to a very strange deduction: the shape of our sound box is made to resonate not only with the perceived reality, but with the total laws of the absolute reality. That's where the laws of the Universe come from.

A Perfect Instrument

So now we have a perfect instrument for what we call radiesthesia. You understand the concept that we are the instrument. How does this instrument work. I will not go into all the details of radiesthesia but I will go into special topics that will help you understand it.

This thing works, by resonance, I use the word resonance; this is a very interesting word.

Many people especially in healing circles always think of emitting energy and receiving energy. Emitting energy and receiving energy is something that happens when for example I want to heal somebody in America, and I emit energy. Energy cannot go faster than the speed of light.

That means that in any act of distant healing and in radiesthesia we can do distant healing for somebody, make the diagnosis and healing at a distance. I'm sure many of you know that; I won't pick on the details of that now, but I just pick on one criterion. How could you diagnose with radiesthesia at a distance somebody in America if the energy takes time to go there and time to come back, how would you be able to measure, how can you make your diagnosis using the chart. We know very well that we can instantaneously diagnose.

I think one of the institutes in Germany has done an experiment, and I'm doing the same experiments in Cairo: the brain tracers. You put them on somebody's head and they record the brain waves and put the section with all the alpha waves and how much percentage you have in every range. They put the person here and the person could be anywhere at the other end of the world and you tell him we adjust watches. The person in the room doesn't know at what time the brain tracer is going and you take the phone and tell the one over there: Okay, think of it now and you put your stopwatch. And you go to the brain tracer and the brain has reacted, but instantaneously. That means we are not using emission of energy. It can't be. That means resonance has something to it that is much quicker than emission of energy. It even defies time and space. We said that resonance works even in the absolute, so it is not bound by any boundaries and that makes a very interesting thing.

Can energy travel backwards in time? How can I pull energy backwards? It can't. How do we concentrate and how do we enter into resonance with something in our soundbox. By being aware of it, by concentrating on it. The sense of sound of hearing and all that has to do with awareness, I could be speaking now and one of you who is listening to me sees, let's say somebody else at the end of the room, speaking about two or speaking about one at the back. And all of a sudden I speak with a very loud voice: You hear those two speaking about you and not hear my voice, because you have tuned in. Your ear drum is like a sail. A storm can be hitting it but you can tune and get the breeze inside the storm. So we have selective tuning. This is the second property of our soundbox. We have selective tuning and we do not use emission or reception energy, we use resonance. So we're putting slowly the standards, the criteria that we are going to use.

Now another person at the other side of the room, while I am shouting my head off with a very loud voice, that person is day dreaming, about a nice place where he was last year or on a lake somewhere enjoying a nice meal and he can actually hear the chat he was having with another person at that time. If I would measure the energy field of that person I find him in resonance with that place. That means that with our resonance, with our awareness, we can travel backwards. That is some very nice criterion of our instrument. It is an instrument which can be tuned by a certain type of awareness to anything, irrelevant of time and space.

Now imagine, an instrument that can get information from the perceived world and from the absolute world. An instrument that can enter into resonance beyond the boundaries of time and space. This is our instrument.

How the Instrument Works

How does the instrument work. The moment it enters into resonance it becomes a copy, a copy is created. If I look at you like that, at the moment I look and enter into resonance, a copy of you is here automatically and a copy of me is there. So when I am doing healing, I am doing healing on the copy, and the copy of course knows that I am healing. It is so easy to manipulate something that I have here. Even if the person is at the other side of the world I am not working on the other side of the world, I am working on the copy that I have here.

So, what does the word copy mean. Copy means total information exchange. Total. Total information exchange of the energy field of the person, but we said that the person has 5% of the information, perceived world through the senses. That's what he perceives, but the energy field is not restricted by the 5 senses. The energy field just enters into resonance. So the energy field is in resonance with the totality, with the 100% of the absolute. If it wasn't doing this with the absolute, how could the absolute wisdom run our body. That means that we are in tune with the absolute, not with the five senses, so we have an instrument that can work beyond time and space, can work in perceived reality and absolute reality, and can have complete information exchange on all levels. I don't think there is a better instrument anywhere.

Of course information exchange is one thing and then translating it is another thing. Many people are clairvoyant, or clairaudient, or they use any psychic abilities. Psychic abilities go like that: I stop the organ of sight or of hearing or smell, I can stop any organ, and once I stop it, I let the brain center getting information from that organ, I get it from the next possible area of information So I can then translate some of this information in my field into clairvoyant information by taking it into the perception level or one of the other levels. By taking information in one of the brain centers I can translate.

But this is not a scientific way for a very simple thing. It goes into that perception center, but before we are made aware of it, they all go together into the meaning level, into the databank. Then the picture is formed with the meaning level, whether it is sound or picture or whatever it is. From the meaning level it is formed. That's why you have translation of dreams. You have to translate things. If an angel comes in the room, or an alien or anything, and none of you has seen that alien, that type of life. If one of his qualities is joy, or love, and we have never seen this image, each one of us might translate it differently. Maybe to one of you this ultimate joy is a bird singing on a tree, he closes his eyes and says: I see a bird singing on a tree. The other will say: I hear music. But actually what you are all doing is: there is something there to which you have nothing associated in your databank, then you get the nearest thing. So using any of the physic abilities, to translate information will always be colored by your databank, so it is not scientifically accurate. This is a problem.

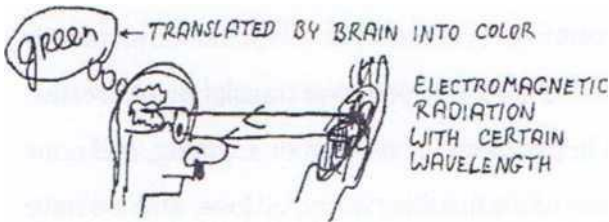

There is a Sufi and a famous scientist. The famous scientist was the Arab Avicenna, he was working in a sort of scientific radiesthesia. The Sufi Ibn-Nsad is a man who is the complete mystic, clairvoyant without the knowledge path, just the other psychic path. They meet and Avicenna tells Ibn Nsad: Oh, how great you are, you see all that I know. Ibn Nsad looks at him and says: no, you are the greater one, because you know all what I see. Avicenna knows how the brain translates and everything, so "you know what I see". This way of getting the information in is not accurate. We cannot build a science on it. So we decide where does the meaning level come in and we want to find in the human body an accurate level before the minimum level, before the translation occurs, because that's where you put your coloring.

The Scale Level

Let's take all the senses and see how they work. I speak of colors as an architect but today I speak of sounds. How does sound work. There is a movement of energy out there, so energy fields, and I have an energy field. I interact with that energy field through a special organ that chooses a range in that energy. The hearing or the eye chooses a certain range. So it is all a soup of energy there, but every organ is sensitive to one range. Whatever every range has in our body, the sense organ is designed specifically for that range. Once the organ interacts with the energy, there is a nerve going to the brain. The nerve is the same everywhere in the body, is just a wire with electricity in it, goes up or down. It is like our whole information technology in computers, zero one. So your energy is either pushed up or down of the nerve.

Before going to the brain center - and this is the very important thing for radiesthesia now - there is a measurement level, a scale level. The measurement level in sound for example, in the ear, when the energy is pushed up of the nerve, up to the maximum, I see Do, I hear the note Do. And then Re, and then Mi. I don't know what you use here, Do-Re-Mi or the C-D-E- G I see the Do, or I hear the Do and then Re, Mi, and then the Fa. When the energy is reduced, Sol, La, Ti. So actually the sound is your brain, measuring the energy interaction on your nerve and the first center of scale gives you this. So the brain has qualitative scales, in contrast to quantitative scales, they are man-made. These are qualitative scales telling you exactly what is happening to my energy. There is no sound out there, it doesn't exist; there is no color out there.

Some scientists think that there is this color and our brain just translates it back to the original color out there. This is nonsense, because if we choose five percent of the absolute, we create this perceived reality. So how can the absolute reality have the same sound or the same color like the perceived reality if the perceived is only 5% of the whole? The perceived is just a very small selection of the whole; once you put the whole into it, it's totally different reality . Like light. You put light into a prism which will divide it into colors. Now, we could have the blue reality, the yellow reality, etc.

The Absolute and the Perceived

But we want to find the absolute out there. Once we go into the absolute, it has everything and nothing. When somebody has tinnitus in the ear, they have a sound, then you can bring something that makes a complementary sound and cancel it. If you have everything and its opposite you have a state of everything or nothing. This is the state beyond time and space.

The absolute reality is totally different than the perceived reality. In the perceived reality sounds are made in the brain, colors are made in the brain. Let's look at something. What goes in any nerve is the same thing. It is just that some of the nerves go into the sound area and sound scale is created. Some of them go into the sight area and the sight scale is there. Some of them go into the touch area, the smell area and you have other scales there. On the scale level it is a true thing, there is no meaning yet from you, no coloring. The scale is an adjustment, a scale that's in all your lives.

If all of you have these scales, that means that they can be translated one into the others. Do could be equal to red, or to a certain smell, to a certain touch. If you want to use a scale for the string in radiesthesia, wouldn't you use one of the scales that you already have in you and just use it. Instead of using 5%, use the same scale but understand it differently. It is not music anymore, it's a scale of measurement. Is not color anymore, it is a scale of measurement. That's how we choose scales in radiesthesia. So actually what I am doing is I am measuring the effect of the resonance on my energy field using the scale and stop there. I don't go into the meaning level, otherwise I lose my scientific evaluation. That is radiesthesia.

Before entering into details of design, or of healing, or of measurement, the idea first is to get you into a holistic view of looking at things. Where even radiesthesia becomes a holistic thing, where we come into a certain frame of mind, where - whether you are discussing spirituality, measurement or whatever it is - you get this holistic view. Holistic view means that it explains many things in your world view, but it also explains the scientific criteria we are going to use. Once we have that, we can enter into any details if I use a pendulum instrument, show you how to measure this and this. If we don't go through what we are doing now, some of you who have not practised radiesthesia might look and see; oh, he must be moving the finger or not moving the fingers of his hand, he is auto suggesting himself. So we have to go through the whole thing.

Polarities

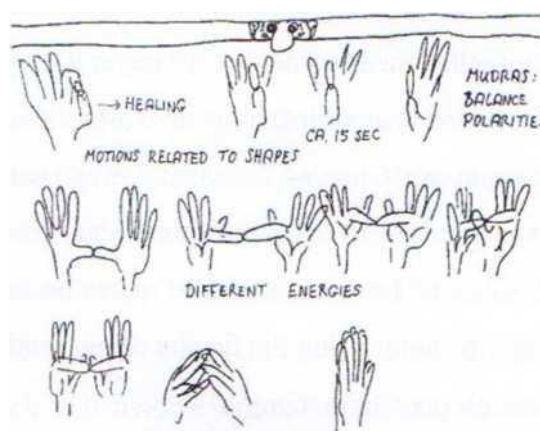

Now shall we start our yoga at the beginning of this session, but this time we'll do something different. I want to show you that we Egyptians don't have to stay three thousand years doing the same drawing because of lack of creativity, so I'll show you how we do it.

We are working with energies; that means our yoga are things related to polarities. Now we'll take another way of dealing with our polarities, we will use our fingers. Each finger has a different polarity. But remember there are two things with fingers. There is reflexology; if I keep touching all the points here, I am doing a reflexology massage on all the body. That's not the object now. The object of what we're doing now is playing with the polarities. If you ask me: "why play with the polarities, if I make this, here, I am closing the polarities, it's enough. Why all the rest if it is just two polarities". There are little nuances, differences with fingers, and each one of those reacts on certain organs.

Hand Positions

Also geometrically you can activate the energy of the organs, by just putting your hands at a distance from each other and then each time you raise your fingers separately - and you don't have to do that quick, you can do one and stay for some time. What we are going to do now is, first we take our fingers like that and okay, we'll do this. Anyhow you might find parallels of those things in many ancient traditions. This is one of the movements you find in some old icons and some hands of the saints in the churches, in the far-eastern Indian traditions and even in yoga. Actually you can heal people by doing this, because when you do this, there is the carrier wave coming out like that. We go to that to-morrow, but to-day we'll just take the different ... like this, and like this, and like this, and like this.

To make sure of that, we'll get somebody to test; can you come up? Now we choose any point of the body, any place where I turn my pendulum positively, like that First I am pushing it. We go into details of radiesthesia later, but this is just one point. You see it circles this area, and here. Of course they might be related. Now with your hands make the different positions/motions, and I'm going to see what the pendulum does. You see? Try this one. Next one, now go back to the second one, okay. For this center go again So this shows you that you can actually adjust all the centers. So this is what we do in the beginning, this, slowly, give each one about fifteen seconds, thirty seconds.

When you do those things -I told you we're lazy Egyptians and we don't move a lot - but when you do this and stay long enough with each one of them, you might feel energy. You might feel as if you're going to sweat, the heat in your body so it does not have to ... Because you are moving you are adjusting the energies.

I am showing you all different types of motions you do that are related to shape. There are many combinations to that, like I told you. You can do each movement there, because they are shapes they do the same effect. If you hold your hand like that, if you do this, you get an energy principle, you do this you get another, you do this you get another, and so on. Think of sometimes when you sit and you find yourself comfortable in a certain hand position. Sometimes you just do it unconsciously. Maybe this hand position for you at that time just balances your energy and you're not aware of it. You think I like to sit that way or that way. This is a very strong position too, when you do it that way, you can start that way and go in, and that way open them, close them.

Interface

There is a very important type of yoga that has to do with let's say biogeometrical interaction of things. One of the laws of creating spiritual energy - we have to go a bit into architecture from time to time so that the architects don't sleep - one of the laws is the law of interfaces. I have colors there. An interface is when something goes into something else, the boundary between two things. We have two levels of boundary. The first level of boundary like that. A simple boundary like that you find for example whenever two surfaces like this, one material and one material, come together. They have different energy qualities, so they create a sort of boundary, and usually on those boundaries there is energy, a carrier wave emanating. This negative green emanates in boundaries.

This is why for example you find the special feeling that you get when looking at the horizon. This negative green of the horizon increases your energy, this energy of connection. If you want to meditate, if you want to get into a certain mood of connectivity, the horizon is one of the important means, or the sea shores, the line between the sand and the water. This line there.

In the old witches lore, if you wanted to become a witch, then you dance naked on the sea shore. Now we make it on the sea shore. We take it step by step, leave the naked for later and take the seashore first. On the sea shores there is this negative green, this energy of power. So when you dance there on the sea shore, your body is being impregnated by this energy of connection. Witchcraft and all those things are related to connectivity. If you want to make connection, you want the same energy like the ancient Egyptian pendulum I showed you before; you want to emanate the same energy. If you dance on there you get this energy in your body.

Now why naked? I want to have the maximum storage space in the body for the negative green energy you are capturing, because you want to go there, take as much energy and capture it within you. Where is the energy that you take from there, where is it stored. In the fat layers of the body. We are like a wire with energy going in and the fat layers protect us. Otherwise I would bring my hand near this or near this apparatus and the hand will fall. I will not be able to move my fingers because the electricity here is much higher compared to what is in my cells and what is in my nerves so it would fall, but it doesn't fall, because it is insulated by the fat layers of the skin.

What means insulation? Insulation means it does not let the energy through. That means it stores it, it either reflects it or stores it. So the skin has two aspects about it, a reflecting aspect and a storage aspect. The more I expose of the fat layers to the shore, the more I can impregnate my body with that, so when they told the witches go there and dance naked, It was not because she was looking for a man, no, it was just looking for the most energy which she could get. That is the sea shore.

Negative green

Here you only get negative green.

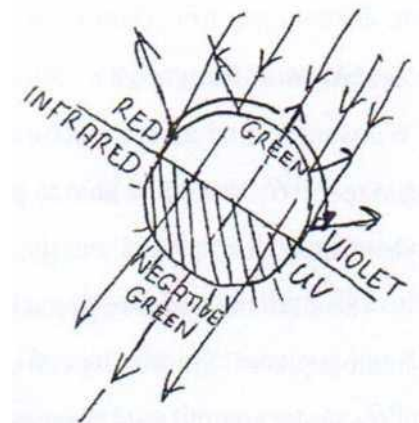

Q: If you talk about negative green, are you talking about the level of energy or the color itself?

A: I am speaking about the type of energy. Negative green here I am speaking about. It's color and energy. This is the earth and when the sun comes here you automatically measure it. When you measure the energy at this point in relationship to your body, this energy will produce on the nerve the energy of green. Or musically, what would it be musically? Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Ti. Where is the middle? This would be, color wise, green and this would be red, this would be violet, and in between you would have yellow, here orange and here sort of blue, indigo or whatever you put it, violet.

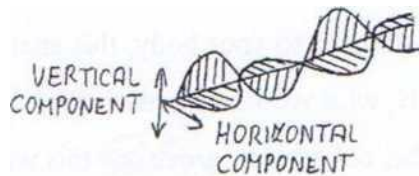

But remember in scales in radiesthesia books when using the color scale, you are going to find people attributing different colors to the same thing. That's a problem with radiesthesia, because when you are interacting with energy you can interact with what happens to the wavelengths. Or what happens to the amplitudes. So when you do this, you could have a color related to wavelengths, a color to amplitudes, you have another scale opposite and another scale opposite, so there are six interposed scales on it. But usually what you take is the sum of the reaction. But you can go into details of the reaction if you want. Some people go into the detail, but not aware that they picked up the detail and not the whole thing. But in general this is what it is.

While the energy hits here, I feel it as green. As it goes like that - this is the shadow area - and it goes like that, so I can have the colors as they go along. You end up with the violet and the red. These are all reflected. What goes through, is... You have two types. Something gets stored, either reflected. Some energy might get stored, and some energy might come out here. What comes out here is beyond the colors, violet you might have here, ultraviolet right on the edge, and red, infrared. Then what is happening here? NOTHING, IT IS SHADOW. D let us imagine, if there is any type of energy that does not get reflected and that can go through things, it will have to go out this side. We are not saying if it exists, because we know it exists on another level. We know that Herz waves exist, we know that X-rays exist, we know there are so many types of rays that go out, they would all be coming out here. Chaumery, the French scientist, discovered the negative green. He called it negative green, just because it lies in the opposite. Some other people call it by different names. The negative green actually has all its range. When you measure, it depends what comes out here.

The problem with the negative green emanation - I don't want to go too much in physics - is that you have the waves in a horizontal and a vertical plane.

This would be the horizontal and this would be the vertical aspect. Our body cells react favorably with this horizontal one. Where the vertical aspect of the negative green is present, this is attacking our cells, disturbing the energy of our cells. If you have this negative green in you, the vertical aspect is very dangerous; it is a sort of cancer provoking. With some pendulums which can measure all different aspects of negative green, you can actually attribute each one of those aspects to a different type of cancer. So we do not want any vertical negative green to enter into our body.

Tomorrow we will do the practical work and we will enter more into the aspects of which types of negative green can emanate and how we can cancel them. This is a very important thing, because just by sleeping on the wrong spot you can end up with any immune deficiency disease and we will want to find permanent ways of curing it.

Architectural Language

We want to find an architectural language that will completely cancel this. The criteria for biogeometry should be able to protect us. What would be the main criteria? We should have resonance with spiritual energy; the only thing that can cancel this.

So here the negative green comes out; it is a carrier wave. Usually you have both aspects in most places. Spirituality can cancel it, so once you find in one thing the negative green, the ultra-violet and the gold then you are sure, there is no vertical negative green. Even if you are not professional at measuring, just hold your pendulum with the gold in your hand and measure, and if you find it emanating gold you are sure that the negative green is canceled.

But this is not the final solution because this negative green here could be a complete negative green; I mean with both aspects. We go a step further. We go to the biogeometrical way of looking at things. We want actually not only the negative green, we want the total. Where can we find the three of them on earth ?

Interface means one going into the other, like a mountain in the sky, or the opposite way.

Now if you look at this,

could be a mountain

or a valley,

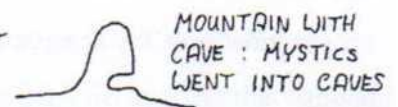

could be a peninsula

going into the see, or a bay . When the interface is like that, not just a boundary but a real interface, something going into the other, I have the three components of spirituality.

Sometimes you have something in the center; the energy is going up like that, and here in the center. The best interface is when both enter into each other. This is the perfect interface, when they link that way. Imagine a mountain with a cave . Now you know why the mystics go into the mountains and into the caves, because there is very strong spiritual energy up there.

Any two materials, once they have an interface, create spirituality. For instance ink and paper, you have an interface. This law of interfaces is very important thing, because once you produce spirituality, it cancels the rest of the stuff.

In architecture we have to have an understanding for this law of interfaces. When you go to some of the mosques, you find very strange things on top, all kinds of faces. To be a proper interface the positive should go into the negative. So an interface should be something like this.

What will this do to the building ? Or a simple interface just like all the old castles. A simple interface between two things you see. What will this do?

To be a proper interface you will have to measure and find gold energy. Automatically the whole building will be linked with this golden energy.

Once I wondered how people stay hours and hours enjoying the puzzles. You know the puzzles with their interfaces. So I measured some of the puzzles Building a puzzle, I found, is a fantastic spiritual exercise. Your body gets full of spiritual energy just by building a puzzle. Also chess; you see many of what we call games today are not games. They are ancient books of wisdom. Because of lack of knowledge we use them as games, but it is wisdom hidden in games.

Yoga with Hands

We took a step into architecture, now let us go back. All these things about mountains and caves and the saints are very interesting for architects or they make us understand many things in religion . But let us make another one of our lazy man's yoga exercises. If you can make the proper interface with your hands, if you can put them like this, and take them out without changing the proportion. Even if they change a bit, you can move one a bit in, out, until you get the proper interface. Try to have them all. .. Once you get it proper you will feel vibration in your hands.

In order to make sure, we get something gold in our hand and we see if it is emanating gold. It is tricky, the position has to be exactly equal to the negatives. Once you can do it right, you will feel it. You can feel a very strong tingling in your hands. So use the interface with your body. Open it a little, you lose it. Close it, you lose it. You will get that feeling.

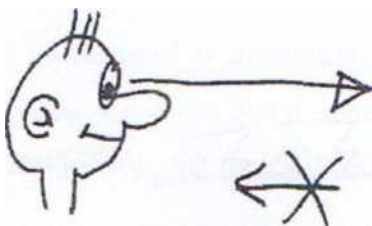

Projecting light

Let's go back to radiesthesia now. The last thing that we spoke about in radiesthesia was about the scales. The color scale, then the sound scale, smell, touch, the five senses. Actually the smell of things is produced in your brain; it is a scale. Like

I said, out there is everything and nothing. We create this by all the scales entering into our data-bank. There is a perceived reality, a meaning level on the perception level, the colors you see on people out there; this is the scale of measurement projected on the object of measurement. You see what a nice instrument this is. We learn more about it every minute. No instrument of measurement will super impose the results of the measurement on the object measured, but ours does. We feel the sound coming from there, that means we project it out there.

This projected reality comes from where? In order for a projection to happen, your projector needs light, to project the film on the screen. The yellow you see here has more light than the green beside it. In every color there is a degree of luminosity. That means that when you project your reality, you also project the light to go with it. I am really mixing you up. The light goes out that way. We project reality and we project light into it and this is reality! So when you say inner light, it really is inner light. What is out there is just energy and you project your light into energy. But there is a very nice thing here. This spiritual light - we said one of the components of spiritual energy is ultra-violet light -but it is on a higher harmonic; they are all in resonance together.

The light that you project is not the spiritual one, it is on a more physical level, but it is in resonance with the spiritual one. So when you are actually projecting light outside you, you are projecting your resonance with this light and also embedded on it is a spiritual one.

If you are aware of it, you expand it and resonance will happen . So imagine that for what you project outside, your perceived reality, are not you the center of projection? Then the perceived universe, the universe you perceive, where is the center of that universe ? Is it not where it first started ? So everyone of you has its own little word. The first word started in the heart of every one of you; everyone has his own little private big bang. It is inside you. That might explain why till very late in history there were two theories, the geocentric theory of the universe where earth was the center, and the heliocentric theory of our solar system.

Light of the Heart

We know that even 3000 years B.C., at the time of the pharao's, they had a way to dig a well and they had a way of measuring with the sun, and they could exactly tell the motion of the earth around the sun. All the navigators around the world , even since ancient times, knew exactly how the world was round and how the sun was the center and all that, and at the same time they speak of the earth being the center of everything.

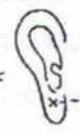

If you speak about your perceived reality, your own magical universe, then the center is in your heart. Why did I say the word “your heart” ? The actual light comes from your eye, from the brain, but the spiritual component, the inner light, is not emanated in your brain; it has to do with the fire principle. You know the relationship of fire to light ? Fire comes straight from your heart here and from the blood. And light, the spiritual light ? When we die, we go through a bit of fire and then we go onwards. This fire is only a cleansing thing. It is to add light to you. It is like forming a piece of clay to a piece of art; and then you put it in the fire to glaze it, to give it the final beauty. We are exactly like that. We are the pieces of clay. We are always grumbling why we are pressed and formed by what we have to endure in life, and then at the end we are even put into the fire. Why ? It is to get the final glaze.

One of the ways to increase your energy is very simple. Tomorrow we will do that. We will get somebody’s sample of saliva and put it on two pieces of paper. We’ll measure one and we will burn one with a lighter and see what happens to the first one. We will see the energy increasing, increasing and increasing. We do not want to burn you alive for an experiment, but your sample will be good enough.

Your pineal gland looks like an atrophied eye. So people tell us that maybe at the beginning of evolution, there was a sort of transparency at the top of the head and the pineal gland could detect a sort of light from up there in primitive life. And then as evolution got along, things grew harder and then it closed.

I do not think it worked like that because the brain is in between, so it is not detecting light from out there; it must be detecting the light from somewhere else. But as an eye it is detecting a light. The Chinese tell you that the

CHINESE: EARLOBE =
INVERTED FOETUS

POINT OF INNER VISION,
PINEAL GLAND

earlobe represents an inverted fetus, this would be the head, this would be the back and so on. The center point of the earlobe is called the point of inner vision. This point coincides with the pineal gland, so that means that the pineal gland is sensitive to the inner light that comes from the heart. That is how the heart, if you go through all the mystical traditions, is the secret. The heart has a very big spiritual secret. When we say the light of wisdom, all the books about mysticism speak about the light coming into the heart. They do not speak about the light coming into the eye, they say the heart, because they speak about this wisdom light. Once it comes there, the pineal gland reacts to it. This is this inner light. So imagine that this inner light is also carried in the light you send outside and make this world with you.

The "I" and the Measurement Level

Now' we take a tricky aspect of this created, this perceived reality. Of course if each one of us creates his own perceived reality, he can do with it what he wants. I can imagine one of you up there; it is my reality, so I could do that. In somebody else's reality it could be down there. But that would mean that everyone would have his own separate reality. It does not happen that way. I will tell you how it works.

Imagine a musical instrument with one cord. If I hit the cord, I make a sound and when I stop it, the sound stops. It is my cord; I hit it when I want, I stop it when I want. But then put many cords on the instrument, I hit my cord, the others enter into resonance. I stop my cord, nothing stops, the sound is still there. So you see when we project this thing, we enter into resonance. So you project it, but you cannot manipulate it that easy inside, because it gets its strength from collectivity. Now you know what is out there is the creation of your databank, your personality; your I.

Some people think there is an I, this I is the self and there is an over self. You cannot look at it that way; there is only one I related to your personality and that is the lower one. You cannot call the other one over "self". Self is too individual. The higher one is an Omni-present thing; you can't selfish that, it is of a totally different concept of the higher one. There is no detailed memory' or things like that, that would make your personality the you, it is a completely different way of being everywhere, every place. It is like the personality of the light; the personality of the air; the personality of all the archangels, who are laws of nature everywhere. That is the higher level of personality, a different level.

The lower I, my databank, I want to see it. Is that difficult if I want to see it? No. It is here right in front of me. Does not the databank project this reality? If you want to see the film in the projector, if you want to see what is on that film, you can simply look at the screen. I see myself in what I see outside but it is not the totality of your databank, of your personality. It depends on how many internal relationships have been created in it, but it is a large part of your personality. You created that thing, it is your personality out there, so think of it this way.

But the moment we say “you created that tiling” we are beyond the scale of measurement. We want to stay on the level of the scale of measurement, and instead of letting my databank, my brain inside interpret and give me a picture and all that. I am going to measure abstracts, colors or things. That is scientific radiesthesia. You will not get meanings like: will I get this contract tomorrow, am I going to this place, when will be my next incarnation, where was my last one, things like that. What you have to stick to is : stop at the measurement level. Because if we want to go into biogeometry, into all those aspects of healing etc., we should stop where we still are on a purely abstract thing.

Genes and DNA

I am very curious about the relationship between the genes and what you call the databank. Look at the DNA, what does it look like? A spiral; two musical chords put in such a way and there is data. Of course it is not exactly; musical chords are not made for storage, they are made for resonance. But this is a sort of storage thing.

You can look at it from a purely physical point of view, but if we assume that the function, shape and energy trinity is valid, then we might have much more stored in there than just the physical things we are speaking about. You could have maybe things from higher levels that you are not aware of, certain qualities, certain abilities of higher levels could be stored in the DNA just through the shape of the DNA. When we discuss shape, and when we discuss radiesthesia of shape, we are discussing the absolute, not just the physical. We go from the physical to the absolute.

Calibrating my Instrument

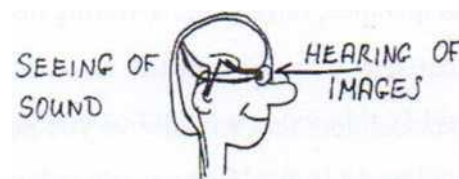

Now we have radiesthesia, we have the colors; how' do I adjust, calibrate my instrument to the colors or sounds ? I should not understand color and sound as the sound that I hear or the color I see. I am expanding the scale in order to let The color I see is a qualitative thing; it indicates the same quality on what I don't see. The note I hear is a qualitative thing indicating the note I do not hear; so I am expanding the scale, to show how it is qualitative. For example a person who is not a musician, let us say there is this “Do” here and there is the other “Do”. To me they do not sound the same. It is just as if they ran out of names and started again somewhere, with the same names. But a musician when I play this first note, he says it is a “Do”. I play the other one, he says it is a “Do”. How did he know it is a “Do”? Because he has moved from the purely mental way of learning, when he was still practicing, and he has taken it to his subconscious. Now he feels the “Do”, that is the difference.

This is what could explain somebody like Beethoven, when he plays without hearing. He does not need to hear it, he feels it already. It is him, it is his totality, and what do you mean it is him ? It is not that he is imagining, no. He cannot hear your words when you speak to him. But when he plays the music, he hears his music as if his hearing was okay, because it is like clairaudience. When you cancel the ear, it does not mean that the auditory center in the brain has stopped working. The ear does not function but he can still keep the energy interaction, like radiesthesia; and can still hear the music exactly in the same way.

I have a friend in the USA; Patrick Flanagan. Patrick was I think eighteen or nineteen, when he invented the neurophone. The neurophone is a way to hear sound, but by-passing the ear. You could actually put those electrodes behind the ear on the bone. His invention was to access the sound center in the brain externally, not through the ear .What you would get is not that you are hearing music, but you could call it “I imagine myself hearing that tune”. It is there, I am hearing it, but it is my imagination because it went directly to the brain.

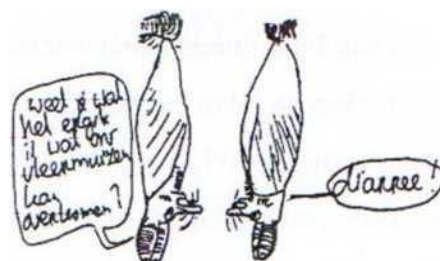

A blind man for example. How does someone who has been blind at birth imagine things? How do they dream? It is very' simple. All the nerves going from the senses to the brain, carry the same information. There is not much difference. So let us say if I switch the nerve coming from my eye and put it in the auditory center, and the nerve coming from my ear and put it in the visual center. I look at you and each one of you would be a different tune for me. It is that simple. Every time somebody speaks, I would start seeing. I would only see you when you speak. I would be hearing you all the time, even if you are not speaking. That would be just by switching the nerves.

Now let us say we cancel the eyes. The nervous system is all one, it is an electrical thing, when you touch anywhere, all the nerves will react together. It is not this one will react alone, and this alone and this alone. It is one nervous system. So even if you close the eyes the nerve going from the eye to the brain is still reacting in perfect harmony with the whole nervous system of the body. So a blind man can still receive sensory data. Instead of collecting them from the eyes, he would collect them from the other four senses. This sensory data go into the brain, and he would see a picture, he could imagine things like we imagine. There is an experiment that I haven't seen lately; it was written in Scientific American that they were asking blind men to draw things, a tree, a man etc. Not as good as we would draw it, but he sees the shapes.

A bat for example can see by daylight like we do, and when he goes into a cave, we thought that he moves on radar, an impulse and back, an impulse and back. But I have seen a study of the bat's brain on a program on BBC. They say: why do you assume that the bat is just hearing the clicks and navigating by sound⁷ No ! Once he gets in the dark and the eyes are not functioning, the clicks are transferred to the visual center. When he is moving, from a distance, the clicks are going slowly. So what he sees in his visual center, are pictures with intervals. And as he approaches something the clicks go quicker and quicker so that he gets a full picture of the thing. So the brain is one thing, and the organs are another thing.

Qualities, Not Scales

If the brain can work that way, in radiesthesia, we are using the center, extending the scale to everything we have. Now we understand it as qualities and not as scales anymore. Remember when I said this morning look at the numbers as qualities and not as numbers anymore. Now understand colors as qualities, raising my energy, lowering my energy. Understand sounds as qualities, raising and lowering my energy and not as sound anymore. If I understand them that way, I could measure any disturbance in your body with my pendulum and find the musical note that would give you healing.

I could actually use music to heal anything in the brain, anything, however complex it is. Because any disturbance in the body - you go into the brain, find a tumor, find anything in the body - is a disturbance of energy, either too much or too little. And the disturbance of energy is measured in the seven colors. If it is too low, then maybe it needs this sound or that, it is just like polarities. So if you have a problem in one area of your body, you can correct it by closing one eye or the other, putting one finger or the other, or using a musical note or another, because they are also polarities, up and down. So we can use music to reach any effect that we want.

Tomorrow we will do that when we enter into healing again. We are going to pick up people; diagnose a problem in a certain organ and find which musical note or combination of notes will cure that. So we can use music for healing. But the same musical notes correspond to colors or - we go one step further - correspond to shapes. Because when we draw an angle, every time I change the angle, that will affect my pendulum when it is calibrated on color; will show a different color. So every angle corresponds to a color. What does it mean that every angle corresponds to a different color? It means that every angle affects my energy system as if it was a color perception. We do not see the color, but it affects as if it was a color. That means I can use color, I can use musical notes, I can use smell, although it is very difficult to calibrate a pendulum on smells, but I can use smells to heal. A smell can be translated into a musical sound or into a color. Take aroma therapy; every oil is equal to a note or a color. You could actually measure what the body needs and use it.

This way of doing it is very precise. Tomorrow we are not going to make an easy exercise, like me putting my hand on your stomach like I did today. No, we are going to take an anatomy chart and find a very complex place in somebody's body, maybe go into the heart and find a muscle in the heart and choose and find a very complicated problem there, and then find the musical note, the color, the word, the body motion, whatever you think of, that will cure this thing. You can enter anywhere in the body, however deep inside and cure that thing. At the end of course we will have a simpler way, using bio-signatures, but we will keep that till the end.

How to Measure

Radiesthesia, used that way, has another meaning to us. How do I measure something? First of all I tune with it. I become a copy of it. But that means that every time I look at something, or hear something, I become a copy of that thing. This is very similar to the first concept that I told this morning, that all energies, the abstract ones, affect me. The quality of the energy in the room affects me. I manipulate it, then I affect it. Same thing: whenever you look at something, the moment you see it, you enter into resonance. Then look away; vibrationally the thing has changed and you have changed. Resonance means we both become a copy, and even after the resonance things are not the same anymore. So by doing something, by seeing your perceived world, you are constantly changing it, and you are constantly being changed

If we are going to be changed by resonance, then we must have a way of manipulating the quality of that change. When I look at a plant, the plant changes. But why should it have all my health problems ? Why not be able, with some knowledge, to manipulate the quality of how we change? If I hear somebody speak, he changes too. If you play a chord on a musical instrument and I hear it, the moment I hear it you will find my energy of my body on the instrument; you can measure it on the chord. You cannot separate yourself from all the objects around you.

One-ness

Now every time we measure, we become the thing we measure. Doesn't this give us a sort of one-ness? There is one-ness on a multiple level. The first one-ness is by creating our perceived world. If I create my perceived world, then me and my perceived world are one, because my personality is out there in the perceived world. This is the first level of one-ness, that many of the mystics speak about, by feeling one with the perceived world.

On this first level you can elude yourself, thinking I am one-ness with such and such, but in reality you are one-ness with yourself. Yourself laughs at you and tells you: you are again in my prison camp. So this is the first level of one-ness. That you do without being aware.

But there is a second level of one-ness. Remember like spirituality, when I said it can exist in nature and you are not aware of it and then, by being aware of it, you expand it, resonance happens. When you measure something by radiesthesia, you become the thing and the thing becomes you. That means both will expand and there is a one-ness; there is a complete exchange of information with that thing.

Imagine taking your pendulum, and every person, everything you measure you are one with that thing; you are one with everything. So imagine a science that creates this being one with everything, how will such a science transform you. You are using it, but it is transforming you. You are a scientist and without being aware you are a mystic without knowing it. So you think I am a scientist .Or am I a mystic? Or am I that? This is the way of a holistic view where everything is one.

I dare anyone of you that he finds an activity or a profession, that he writes it here, where I cannot apply the laws of spiritual energy.

Radiesthesia is a tool

Now I want you to make a simple exercise because here are people who are beginners in radiesthesia and people who are very advanced in radiesthesia.

I hope that the way I have explained it, gives the beginners an understanding of what the value of this science is. Maybe it gives everybody a better understanding that radiesthesia is not just a science of divination. The scientific circle are ridiculing it, they say it is not an exact science. We can say from a holistic point of view that it is an exact science. Which is more scientific, a scale that exists or scale that does not exist. Does a centimeter exist out there? Does any quantitative scale exist? No, it is a mental way for us to understand things, but nature does not work with centimeters or herz or whatever. It is our way of understanding. Which is more important: scales that do not exist or scales that exist? The qualitative scales exist, so I think that something that exists is surely more scientific than something which does not exist. If we are building something from the beginning, then at least the scale we are using is a scale that exists and will put us on a surer path than using a scale that does not exist. We can make more mistakes with scales that do not exist. If we look at it that way, then I think that even beginners have an idea of radiesthesia.

I want to make one very simple exercise with you all, the architects, designers or all those people who want to make designs in biogeometry. Radiesthesia for them is a tool. A tool to see how they are designing. We want to bring in spiritual energy in a practical way. If it is energy that exists, I want to be able to store it, to amplify it, and to use it. I can use it to my benefit.

Now, I want to design a cellular phone with it, so that it will not harm me. When we added this spiritual energy component to a cigarette, the cigarette became good for me. Why don't we do the same for all modern technology-. We have done this for example by adding this extra spiritual component to medicines like chemotherapy or interferon. In my virus research we did a lot of interferon research and we managed to make interferon by putting it in the proper biogeometrical cell that raises the immunity of the person instead of being harmful for your body and destroying your immunity. So we are cancelling the harmful side effects. By using bio-geometrical shapes with plants, the plant will grow and its immune system would defend it against the parasites. So here is natural organic planting. You just forget about pesticides and immune system who would just defend itself. The plant becomes healthier and the flower, if you cut it and put it in your living room, will stay at least three or four times the time of the flower that was not in the geometrical shape. There is a place for this way, geometrically, or using color or sound, to integrate spiritual energy into things or what we are doing with modern technology. If we do that we have a civilization that is designed for man.

The Gold test

What is the easiest way for the designers now to check their work? This morning we will take just the gold. We will learn to hold a piece of gold in our hand and measure another piece of gold. In radiesthesia as you all know sometimes, instead of using the scales, we use samples of something. So if I hold gold in my hand and in the other hand I put my pendulum it will turn. If I put silver in my hand I can detect silver. You hold something in your hand in order to be in tune with that material, we say sensitize your energy field to the gold, and then, when the gold is present in your energy field, you can easily detect the similar energy field. Otherwise you detect mostly water because that is what we have in our energy field.

So now let us do some experiments. If some of you have pendulums and we put a piece of gold on the table, even at a distance you can point at it. Or you hold gold in your hand and try to see if the pendulum will work. You do not have to learn so much radiesthesia. All you have to learn is just: I hold my pendulum and I become sensitive to gold. When an architect makes a house it is important we learn this gold test, because tomorrow you are working on architectural plans. I show you architectural plans and you are going to measure them. If the only thing you know in your life about radiesthesia is holding a piece of gold in your hand and detecting the gold energy; this is the most beneficial thing you can have in your life. You do not need more than that.

In nature you can take your gold and go to a flower find gold on the flower. So imagine a person spending his life by detecting spiritual energy or working with geometrical shapes. What is he actually doing ? He is becoming one with the spiritual energy' field all the time. This is a form of very' potent and very strong alchemy. Alchemy in old times was playing with metals. We put the metal here and the metal there, then do them on the fire and do different things; at a certain time we say some words, we make some symbols and we do some prayers, we do things when the moon is there, when Mars is there, when Neptune is there. People thought it was the beginning of chemistry . But then people said it is not only that but they were under the false impression that it could create gold. Now we know that many alchemists have managed to make a grain of stone maybe after forty days that is very gold-like. It is not important if it is real gold or gold-like. The whole thing was a spiritual exercise using metals, and the more you were in resonance with gold you were in resonance with your metal experiments. You wanted to reach a day when you could change one grain of the metals into gold with your energy. This was your certificate of graduation. So the grain of sand was your sign of achievement; you were the gold.

You hold gold in your hand, you take your pendulum and you do a test, looking for spiritual things. I am testing the hand like that, and before you know it you are a spiritual resonator. After that you will not need a pendulum, you will not need gold in your hand, because when you have become one with spirituality you are going to be first a channel for it whether you want it or not. Divine wisdom will work through you, irrelevant if you want it. You could pass beside somebody who would be in need of something; energy will be taken from you and transformed and you might feel something strange and go away while the other person benefits from it. You do not have to do things willingly.

Once you have become in resonance, very strange things will happen that are much beyond what you have ever believed of. You will look at a plan and say it works or it does not work. An architect would say: "I always drew my plan, I liked it and I said it works". It was not emanating spirituality, because he had not tuned in yet. Now he would look at his old plans and say: "it does not work". The moment comes that we hold our pendulum and will find that it works.

Take your pendulums out if you have them. If anyone does not have a pendulum you can take a piece of string and attach anything to it, and take gold. Your chain around your neck, your jewelry', you can make your pendulum out of anything. When I am going in the shopping center and I want to buy something, I cannot go with my pendulum and decide if I shall take and eat certain things. I am holding sometimes for instance the shopping bag that I put on my finger, I balance it, move it and see if the shopping bag turns right or turns left.

But the only thing is gold. Concentrate for instance on your gold ring. Maybe you have a pen made of something else, or glasses made of something else. To sensitize your body properly for this experiment you need more gold in your hand than any other material on your body. How can you make the little gold in your hand much bigger? By concentrating on it, so that you enter into resonance with it.

I am going to put gold somewhere here on the table where everybody can see it. Can somebody give me a big object made of gold? Just put it on the table. Sometimes, just to warn you, the experiment goes wrong and it gets turned into wood. Can you see this? Try to work on it, till you get a rotation of your pendulum just to get the feeling of it. In the beginning it is preferable to put your pendulum above the object. It is much easier for the beginners to come to the table and hold their pendulums close to the object and once they get the rotation once or twice then do it from a distance. All the ones from you who know how to use pendulums can actually look and do it. What would you like me to transform it into? Just to experiment and then we try to bring it back to gold, okay? But you know sometimes I make mistakes and I am still not very sure of myself. Now we put this on the table and here is another object on the table. The people who are doing it for the first time are going for the big gold and the others are going for the small gold. I will tell you now how to do it properly.

A Rule

In radiesthesia there is a very important rule. We want our energy field to deflect the pendulum. I give my pendulum the first push otherwise you lose energy. If my energy is going to make it move it is psychokinesis. You lose energy, we do not want that. I am pushing my pendulum and let my energy just turn it, so it needs very little energy. But if I hold such a heavy pendulum from the beginning it is moving very slowly like that. First you do not see it well because the rotation is very small. I want you to move it like that, maybe even with the gold in your hand, slowly, slowly find the proper length. Some lengths are better than others. You get the proper tuning. You will know exactly. When you feel a pull you have it right. When you do not feel it it is not right.

Q: Do you need to have a question?

A: No you don't need to have a question. This is not mental radiesthesia, this is an object in your hand. You can use both together, you can ask: is this gold? Just for focusing. But usually when you work with scales with physical things, we try to get the mind neutral and don't ask questions. You have in the back of your mind your question. Because this is the experiment we are going to need. Our criterion will be to look for gold in things that are not gold. So, this is the exercise I want you to do.

I cannot take you into biogeometry unless you know how to measure gold. This is the main criterion. The professional radiesthesists should be able to measure gold, negative green, ultra violet. They can do it mentally but preferably you should work by resonance. For research work they need "cone fictif pendulums and all the complex pendulums. I would say gold is enough for most practical cases. Because you are researching a geometrical shape, and if you draw a shape, or design a chair or design a plan, and the plan gives you gold, then you did it right.

Q: Does it change anything if you wear a golden ring?

A: No, it helps you more, the more gold you have. If you want to become an expert in that, you make yourself a small golden pendulum. You will become sensitized.

First you are detecting physical gold. After physical gold we are going to spiritual gold, which is a bit more subtle. But you find that sometimes with normal gold it is more powerful, sometimes you can detect the spiritual gold easier than you can detect the normal gold. In the beginning you may have some difficulties, but by the end of the day tomorrow you will detect the spiritual gold better than the other.

Q: Can you measure spiritual gold in your healing hand?

A: if you go to the center of every chakra you will find some gold in it. If you make your healing hand like that, one way of measuring if healing energy is coming out or not: you have the polarities, positive or negative, you can calibrate on a battery. I will show you how to do that tomorrow. Once you give healing all the polarities will change. So you cannot make polarity healing; any type of polarity treatment cannot be combined with spiritual energy. So, if you want to study polarity do not think spiritually. If you think spiritually you are going on a higher level.

Programming your pendulum

We will do some interesting experiments tomorrow. Here you are measuring actually spiritual gold.

Q: How is it possible that my pendulum moves in one direction and yours in the other?

A: You program it yes or no. Sometimes you mix lengths, sometimes you mix mental radiesthesia, with physical polarity, that means positive and negative on a battery. First you take a battery and we come on the positive of the battery. Find the point on the pendulum where it turns positive, so that you know this is the polarity point. The point you use mentally should be away from the polarity point, because you may ask yourself "is it good for me", but maybe the pendulum is acting on the polarity. So, first you find the polarity then move to another point so that you do not mix polarity with that. With the pendulum, you can program it in the way you want. When you speak with your subconscious: when it moves right, I want this to indicate as yes.

Today I just want you to learn how to measure gold. Tomorrow I am going to show a drawing and then I want you to measure gold on that drawing. I find it important that architects or designers can detect gold I am asking everybody: come to the table and do it, see that resonance works. Tomorrow I am using radiesthesia not for the science of radiesthesia but to go deeper, to start into biogeometry, biosignatures and healing . Today we are just perfecting the methodology.

Q: You told us about sound, and that you can heal with sound. In England there is a lady who has a special computer program. You have to speak in a microphone, then you see a diagram and you can see on the screen what happens, what illness you have. She gives you the tape and you have to listen to it.

A: Yes I know the program. It is a nice program. You can do the same thing tomorrow. We are then doing some experiments, we have somebody speak and when he is speaking you diagnose his voice with the pendulum till we find which color he needs to adjust. We can make that from your voice while you are speaking I can take an anatomy diagram and go into the depth of your body and from your voice I can analyze it on the anatomy diagram. Tomorrow we are going much deeper in all those things.

Tomorrow I can do more and explain more on the negative green. We have a mixed audience here. There are things that we need to go in depth in radiesthesia and some of you want to go deeper into negative green. I can take you into negative green, in ancient Egypt with the pharaohs, and how to use it, but the object today was to let the people who are not radiesthesists have an understanding of radiesthesia. We will look at details of negative green, but it is very important that we perfect the simplest things before we are going into the depth.

When we start integrating this spiritual energy - this is the ultimate goal- we have spiritual energy as an energy . Tomorrow we are going to see how we can store it, how we amplify it, how we send it. We will also do some experiments with energies like love for instance. How can I measure a feeling of likeness or love. How can I store it. How can I amplify it. How can I emit it. What are the dangers, what are the properties. Whenever we use anything we come to the point that we are balancing it with spiritual energy. Whenever I go deeper into anything, I have to balance it with spiritual energy.

The introduction today maybe was a bit long, but we have to go slowly and perfect the simple experiment with gold I see that some of you especially the architects are restless and they want to go more into architectural shapes. Radiesthesists who want to go into deeper properties of the negative green. We are going there tomorrow. I don't want to spend time in telling you more about radiesthesia, because radiesthesia is a tool. Tomorrow is a day for biogeometry and biosignatures. In the morning we are working with biogeometry, design language and architectural shapes. In the afternoon we are going to do biosignatures as a form of healing and show how the concept of biosignatures works. I have come here especially to interact with you. So, it is more important to finish a job properly than just to be limited by time.

I can tell whatever you want. So after dinner when you want for instance to know the secrets of negative green and how it was used in ancient Egypt, and the magical aspects of the shadows, because that is where negative green is. So the shadow is a whole magical scientific universe related to working with the shadows. After dinner I will go deeper into negative green and at the same time ancient Egypt and ancient architecture. I use negative green to do both things. Negative green in illness, the earth grids and other things. Negative green is very important but also very' dangerous. If you do too much measurements with negative green you can harm yourself. So knowledge is the best defense.

A Sound Experiment

Before you leave we are making one very interesting sound experiment. I am going to ask somebody to come and stand with me. (Somebody comes forward). Now I am just going to make resonance with his energy and I am going to see which sounds increase the pendulum turn and which sounds decrease the pendulum turn. Let us start with a sound we know the "A". (Audience is making this sound). Actually, when you say "A" you are healing yourself. Now we all say the "A" Audience.

The sound stays for some time before it drops. Let us see what the "E" (English pronunciation) will do to him. Audience "E". I think this gentleman has enough of this one. Now we will show the carrier properties of sound. Because the vowels, the "A", the "E", they are carrier waves. Carrier waves can carry qualities. Consonants cannot carry. Let us see, if we put just something (the "E") on the "B" for instance. So quickly the "B-E" after another and see if the "E" will carry the "B". If the same quality is there in the beginning and there is change then it did not carry' it. You can start now . Audience "BE". You see, the "E" carries the "B".

You can test another letter like the "M", like "ME". Why are we doing this with the "E". The "A" is too powerful to do this experiment properly. It will be difficult to let the "A" carry a letter that will drop its energy. It is easier to do the opposite.

Let us make another experiment now. We are going to say the "E" and at the end before we stop we put the "B", not at the beginning. Like "E-B". Audience: EEEE ... B. Now what happened? Can the end affect the beginning? Yes the intention, because we said put it at the end. So the moment you have the intention, that means it is a program, that means that the end existed before the beginning. So you can put something at the end of a sound. It is the intention of the creator of the sound, not of the one who is listening to the sound. We will put him somewhere and he would not know what we are doing. It would still work because we put the intention. Remember we produce the sound, we become a copy of him and he will become a copy of us. So whoever put the intention does not really matter. If he has the intention or if we have the intention it does not really matter. What happens if you have the intention and then you change your mind, you do not do it at the end. What will happen? In the beginning you are going to say "I am going to start" and I am not going to do it. So you already put the program at the beginning. So if you change your mind in the middle, if while you are going you change your mind, then it is too late, you put intention. But this shows how sound works, how we can modify with intention.

Now we are going to discuss something very interesting but we won't go very deep into it, I'll let you think about it while you are eating. Sound is the sound we hear, but it is not all the sound; there is a sound we do not hear. How is sound produced? Energy comes out of the throat, it goes in the mouth, there is lower cavity, upper cavity, so there is an architectural shape there, and then inside this architectural shape there is the tongue that can modify this architectural shape, and then there is the mouth that can modify the shape, and then it goes out. So actually I can make a geometrical analysis of every sound that comes out. Sound is fixed in a range, but geometry is not. Sound works here, geometry' is in the absolute.

Healing by Silence

Before we leave we are going to practice the secrets of a new type of yoga. Of a new type of healing your body. You are going to heal your body, you are going to heal the problems of your body with the sound of silence. You are going to make the geometrical components of sound and see how they affect the energy of your body; what we want to see are the qualities because it is energy going out and the sound is given when you hear it. What gives quality to that energy going out? It is the geometrical properties of all the places it passes through. So by using the shape without the sound you can work on the other levels beyond the sound level. Does this sound logical⁹ It is good after we make an exercise to show them that there is something. Somebody maybe interested in, somebody not. We concentrate on all the architectural things but those who want to know this type of sound. This is a very very potent thing. It is much more potent than the sound you know. Because the sound in the absolute is much more potent of the sound in the perceived. This is just a notion, since today is the day of just going out everywhere. So before we concentrate on something it is good to do that. I think we have done our A and our E and now we can have dinner and after dinner we can sit together and go on further.

Knowledge from Inside

In the questions I have here: a discussion of geometrical shapes; art and sculptures; all those things are transcendental through architecture. All that is going to be covered anyhow by biogeometry. But before I enter in it, some of you wanted some deeper knowledge of the negative green. We put a lot in the reader that you have, so I am going to try to give you some knowledge that is not in the reader. The whole aspect of radiesthesia we are speaking about. I am not telling anything that you find in the books, because that you can look up in the books. There is one important aspect. When we have a holistic science and we are treating radiesthesia holistically now, we are treating it in such a way that you can easily shift and take it and use it in modern technology and use it in medicine. We are going to see how we can use this, but the most important aspect in our way of discussing things is, that whatever I tell you ... if it is a reality, if it is qualitative science, coming from inside you, if it is really holistic, then you should have the feeling that you already know it. Otherwise it is not worth anything.

Because you might think the way I am introducing it could be new but I am telling you in an other way about something, about yourself, that exists within you, about you being the best tool or sound box or something like that. You might not have noticed that you are a sound box and could act as a musical instrument.

It is just the way to show you things that you know about yourself When I teach for example a science like algebra or something like that, and I start showing algebra, you have to go home and study because it is not in you. But whatever I tell you here, in whichever way I tell it, at the end it has to be very easy and you have to feel somehow I always knew it. If you don't get this feeling of somehow I always knew it, then I have not done my job properly. If you think OK what he told, I have to go for books, I have to study, I did not understand what he said, then I did not do my job. My job is to make you feel that it is coming from inside you; it has been always there. When you come and say after a whole weekend: you did not say anything that was new to me, this could be because it comes from inside you. What I am speaking of are aspects that should not be new to you. They should be part of you.

Lets look how we look at knowledge. Like I told you, you have in your energy field whatever you interact with, you become a copy. So besides let's say this perceived reality that you see in front of you, you have all the knowledge of the absolute also in your energy field. Each one of you has the whole knowledge of the universe in his energy field. Everything that you interact with this absolute thing you have all the knowledge inside you. If it is all is inside us, it is very easy. The problem is how to get it out. But you see the respect that you have for every' human being, however primitive he is, by knowing that every person is in front of me is the complete knowledge of the universe on all levels then every human being is a very important thing.

The problem is how do I get it out? It is not how YOU get it out. The knowledge is there.

It has to ripen with you and at the right moment, when it prepares you, it comes out. You think when I prepare myself with the necessary equipment, intellectual equipment, with the necessary abilities, I will access that knowledge.

Think a bit differently about that. That knowledge is beyond our time space concept, it is in the absolute. So maybe the abilities you are preparing to be able to read that knowledge, maybe that knowledge is preparing the abilities in you in order to come out and manifest. You should look at it in many ways. If for example there is something inside me that wants to come out....

You know the whole idea of Jung's synchronicity is: when something outside happens that coincides with something else, with no perceivable connection between both, and the something outside will coincide with something inside, so this is a true act of synchronism (it does not have to be two things outside) So the something outside you could just a very simple symbol that will motivate, bring out something from inside you, and bring out the knowledge. So symbolic meanings of everyday things, of anything. Anything, at the proper moment that it wants a certain knowledge from inside you to come out, could become a symbol that activates the knowledge and the knowledge comes out.

But what makes that thing that you see outside you a symbol⁹ It could be a bird that you hear every day all your life, and then today it becomes a symbol and it activates something in front of you, but it was always there. So what makes that thing become a symbol and give a synchronistic relationship with what you have inside you? It is what you have inside you. The answer creates the question, not the opposite. Sometimes what is inside you makes you see a symbol in something, in order to look inside, as if somebody inside is tapping showing you something to look at in order that he can come out. The knowledge is all in you and it is always coming out so whatever I am telling you, it is just bringing knowledge from inside you.

This type of knowledge, this is true knowledge, true knowledge based on a sort of qualitative things. True knowledge will always come from inside you. It is different, it is not like an algebra exam, or a philosophy exam, or a history exam where you have to study for because it is not inside you. This is man-made thing, but the true thing will always emerge from inside you, you do not have to study it at all. The day you have to study for it then it is not really nature with you.

The Grids

Like we did with radiesthesia, I am trying to tackle all the material in a way that you do not see in books. Whatever you can find in radiesthesia books that you can find everywhere. We will take negative green, some of you want to know more about that. Where can negative green really be found, used and of any practical use. Not just theories, you want some practical advice on negative green. The first thing in modern building biology (Baubiologie) or radiesthesia is that we know the existence of the grids. There are different grids. There are what we call Hartmann grids. This is something you must all know. The earth has energy grids like squares going like that, and every grid has about a thickness and going up like that. So you have one that is going north-south, Hartmann grids and the Curry grids are at 45 degrees to them. You all know the grids? So I do not have to go deep into that.

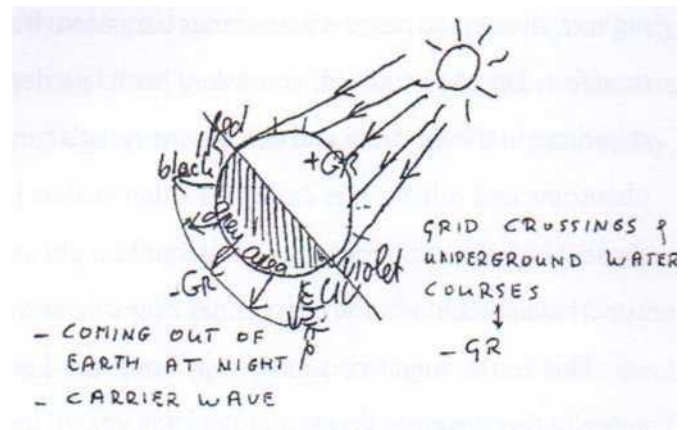

The most important thing to all those grids is that they carry energy in them, and at certain crossings the energy' can move vertically; it could be positive or negative. What is the problem of grids? In most books of radiesthesia they tell you to use the different color scales to measure each type of grid. One with orange, one with green. That is not really important or necessary', because if the grids only gave some normal colors they won't be of any importance to us; if there is a grid emanating orange, so what? If I sleep on it, it is vitalizing, but what I want to look for in the grid is not those colors, I want to know if the grid has negative green in it.

Negative Green as Carrier

We want to know exactly what the negative green is. I will introduce you to it in a very simple way. You know how we can create /release energy by splitting the atom. This is what we do in our modern science. In ancient wisdom it tells you what is above is like what is below. Hermes Toht, we call him Dahuty in Egypt, in the gnostic period they changed it, they called him Hermes. What is about that law that means the same principle that applies to the atom could apply on higher levels to others shapes. So let's take the sphere. I have a sphere. The sphere is a geometrical shape. Drawing a sphere that way means that I was not really cantered to the center. If I was centered to the center is just to be there with the center and somehow even if I do this it comes out right.

This sphere interacts with energies in such a way that all reflected light will be reflected here, let us say that here is the source and somewhere along there this would be the shadow side. When we say this is the light side and this is the shadow side and all what is not reflected here comes out here, carrying information but it comes out in a very scattered way and we call that negative green.

Negative green here would be what? If this is green and that is violet and this is red, this area would be red, would have infrared and black somewhere here. And here we would have ultra violet and white here. What would we call this area; negative green properly spoken would be the grey area.

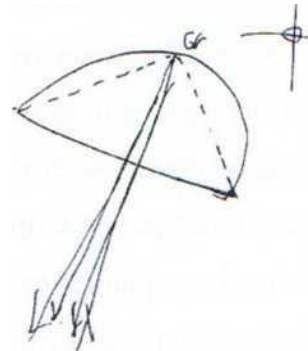

What does that mean to us? That there is an energy, a carrier wave coming out like that. Now there are many ways that such carrier waves can come. Usually they come out on that side at night, and on that side they do not come out. Unless of course they are geometrically induced. For example the center of a grid, any cross center of grid would cause two lines like that, it will make a vortex like that. So on the grid centers you could have them everywhere. They are supposed to be only here but on the grid centers you have them everywhere. Underground water crossings, then you have them everywhere. Remember underground water, I told you, the friction between two materials so the river, the sea shore - remember the lady dancing naked on the sea shore - so on the shore there is negative green, so negative green that way and another negative green that way, and you have a very strong negative green vortex coming out here. Under circumstances you can have points of negative green coming out all over, but here specially you have negative green. There is a sort of a carrier wave, I mean energy coming out of the earth at night, on that level.

This energy means what? That anything from any other invisible realm can easily manifest through a carrier wave. A carrier wave is a doorway, energy can move along it. The old tales tell you that when you stand at the cross-roads the witches can steal you. That is because on the cross-roads you have negative green, so you have a doorway to other dimensions, so you can easily be taken from one dimension to the other. Negative green is always a doorway. The night is always the place where things can move from one realm to the other. They can easily manifest. Do not be afraid, you asked me to go deeper into negative green. You should have asked me in the morning and not before you go to sleep. All those things can come out, those phantoms and others, it is easier for other realms to come out here. We have an idea that all those vampires and things they come out at night and then when the sun comes up they vanish again because at night the energy that keeps them sustained gives them energy and brings them up. This is the negative green, they have the automatic connection to our world. This is actually this negative green.

The negative green, like any vibration, in its totality it has a vertical negative and a positive horizontal polarity. This is the complete wave. What we have here is no special emission of energy in any direction. If there is a rotation, a sphere will always keep its energy with a certain thing, and the emanations here are weak, emanations probably contained in this area, so there is no specially strong shooting out of energy.

What happens here if we make something like splitting the atom? You get automatically an unbalanced shape. An unbalanced shape is a very' very strong emitter of negative green. Much more stronger than all what you see here, because you have split the shape. So you will have your green here and then there will be a concentration of negative green shooting out that way a very strong carrier wave.

Scale of Spirituality

A sphere and a pyramid are one. Geometrically they are one. So it is the shape that shoots very strong negative green out there. This negative green is a mummifying energy. The vertical aspect is a mummifying energy, the horizontal one is very slight mummification; balances more than mummifies. The vertical one is a very strong mummifier, the vertical we can call a cancerous energy', and the horizontal one is a spiritual energy.

The first person who found out that the horizontal was a spiritual energy was Enel. He was famous under the name Enel but his name was Kurner Scariatin, a White Russian. He lived in Egypt for many years and he wrote his first books about radiesthesia in Egypt. Enel found out that the horizontal component of negative green alone, without the vertical one, indicated the amount of spirituality you had. So he could measure the amount of negative green in your body and you would know exactly on what spiritual level you were. So you could determine true saints from false saints, true guru's from false guru's, because everybody is a guru today, everybody is a master.

He found that on a spiritual scale from 0 to 350, on the level of 350 you will find the major prophets, normal human beings are between 10 and 20. So you see the difference. But the moment you pray, you are at 4000. What I am speaking is your basic level. Your basic level is the level that is completely uninfluenced by any spiritual activity. You can ground yourself to a basic level by just putting one hand on your base chakra, you get your spiritual level and you can measure it in negative green.

If you work a bit, you increase your negative green level, so advanced people might find 50-60-70. But there is one thing about the increase of negative green level. It is something that has to do with all aspects of spirituality but it is spirituality and the knowledge. You have to have both aspects. The actual power aspect and the knowledge aspect. Knowledge alone does not help you spirituality power alone does not help you. You need both. Knowledge you will be aware of it; becoming aware of it and knowledge will increase this value in you. Enel went and measured so many of the churches in Egypt - we have so many saints in Egypt from the early Christianity - he measured many of those saints and he made a list of the different levels. He found that somehow this for example negative green has to do with saints.

This will explain something. You know the saying that the bodies of spiritually advanced people, like saints and prophets, do not decay when they are buried in the earth. This is a saying that you find in so many traditions since ancient antiquity. You bury them and they say the earth does not eat their bodies, does not take their bodies; it just preserves them as they are. So why does this happen. If somebody has a very high level of negative green, then the bacteria will not come to a high level of negative green. Of course you could just mummify the person with both sides of negative green. Because if he is dead you can have both sides of negative green on him and it will be better mummification. But I am speaking of any saint or advanced person who is not mummified, just dies, and who is buried without mummification, his body could be preserved.

You know Francis of Assisi for example. You have seen how many years, without special mummification, he stayed in a life-like state as if he was sleeping there for so many years.

When they went and decided to upgrade the whole area where he is, they installed new electrical air condition systems, he started to deteriorate. Negative green would protect somebody to a certain limit, but when our modern technology comes in, it could spoil everything because these are subtle energies. So negative green on one side is a very good thing, is related to spirituality'. If I build negative green into a tomb, I can preserve it, but then I do not need to have the horizontal alone, I can do it with both of them.

Why Mummification?

In the ancient times they had this healing by dreams. Like the Asclepius Temple in Greece, they had ancient initiation temples in Egypt and there are many stories about how people got healed. You would go to the temple and then you fast and do some spiritual exercises and all that for a couple of days, and then you go in there and then you enter into this initiatory' dream. In this dream you would somehow be in contact with higher wisdom and you would understand the nature of your disease, or get cured from it completely. It was a sort of dream therapy in the temple. But dream alone does not help, we all dream at home but does not help us much. But if the building is made in such a way that it has very concentrated negative green energy, the moment you go in there, the strong connection, the spiritual connection is achieved.

There are many types of initiation. You could in some temples do initiation through astral projection. This would be ideal because it creates a doorway, where you can go out of your body, be taught the information you needed and come back. Or it was just a dream temple where your consciousness would go up and down. In any way the negative green was used in architecture to induce this state.

How did they do the negative green. In architecture of course we do not want the negative green alone, we want the three components of spirituality. But here we are discussing the negative green alone. After we are finished with the negative green we go into architecture, but let's finish with the negative green. If you build your tomb in such a way, the mummy will be preserved and then there is a very' strong link between the mummy and somewhere. Do you think that ancient Egyptians mummified a body because they really believed that you needed your body in the after-life? People who are so advanced won't have such a primitive idea. In radiesthesia when I want to enter into vibrational resonance with one of you, I need a sample from you, like we used a sample of gold to find gold. Now what would be the best sample for your soul up there? Your body. It is obvious. Your body is the best sample I can use for your soul. So whatever I do with that body -I can give power, empower the soul - will give energy to the soul, help the soul beyond, keep giving it a lot of power.

So you could give power to the soul, but if somebody else got his hand on the body, he could really imprison the soul. So you have to make sure that nobody got to the mummy. If you are not sure, you just bury him in the ground and let him decay, or burn the body, and you won't have any trouble anymore. But if you go through the process of mummification, it is a two sided blade, you have to protect it from anybody reaching the mummy.

This mummy is in contact with the soul and it is also for another thing. The mummy as it is, is preserved by negative green, so it does not harm it anyhow. It is just mummification. So we put the vertical element in it to make full mummification. In the mummification, it is not important to have the person as is, because you take his brains out, you take everything out. There is actually more in the jars than is in the mummy. But the most important thing there is the shape of the mummy. We come again to the body.

You want something which is in contact with the soul and then beside the mummy that you have put in there you bring all the belongings of that person. Because his favorite chair will have the impregnation of the pharaoh. A good magician or scientist of the time could just take the chair where the pharaoh sat and imprison the soul of the pharaoh. They had to put everything that the deceased person possessed, not only the pharaoh but all high officials, in there with them.

After they put all that here, they needed the mummy for something else. The mummy with negative green was also the house of what we call the Ka. The Ka is your first level of vitality, that is the vitality that you have in you. When you die, your vitality, electromagnetism and all this vitality just go out. This vitality has what we say the four levels of physical-etheric energy. Very close to physical energy like all the levels of heat, electromagnetism, all very close to the earth and it also has very little of the emotional and mental aspects in it, but in a very little form, not a full soul, so it does not have your personality really, just fragments of it that, through impregnation, it has. So this shade, or vitality cannot stay in the body. If the body goes beyond a certain level, when the life functions are lost in the body the Ka just fades out. If you go in the cemetery you find that this entity of people who just died will persist there for 3 days without the body. Because it is just energy, nothing is holding it, so it just dissipates in ether.

But what is an energy' entity with very little personality? What importance does that have? First of all it is the nearest level to the physical. It is so near to the physical that I can do physical things with it. The second thing is that since the soul with all the programs are gone, anybody can reprogram it, because your will, your personality and all you have is not in it. So it has more fragments of emotions and thoughts, it will do daily things, instincts, when it sees an apple it will go and take the energy of it and eat it as if it is eating an apple and things like that. It may talk a bit, if somebody attacks it, it will hit back, but very small things like that, very primitive. So anything that is that primitive can easily be reprogrammed by a clever magician or scientist. We can also reprogram it to protect the tomb. To reprogram it you have to continue energizing it. The body is not capable of energizing it, so how do we do that? We put some magical amulets on the chakra's, the energy centers of the body, to activate the chakra's, the energy doors. So the Ka can go in and out. All the chakra's with all those amulets would have a certain negative green link again coming out; you need negative green to go in and go out. Every' one of the 7 chakra's in your body has negative green. Every secondary chakra in all your joints has negative green in it, so it is a channel in-out. Even the third level acupuncture points have a slight negative green in it. Because anything that has to do with connectivity must have negative green in it, otherwise it could not connect. If you put this negative green system on the mummy, the shade can come in and out and it can protect the mummy but the shade needs energy.

So we go back to thinking how we can feed the shade. We can bring offerings daily, food, drinks, all things bringing it every day in there. This Ka by habit will just go find food and drink, or just go and take energy from it. It thinks it is eating but it is just taking energy from it To protect the tomb, you needed the Ka to be alive, so it was the biggest crime if somebody stopped giving the offerings to the tomb because that means that the protection would not go longer.

They knew with time that you could not guarantee the offerings forever, so they used another thing. Remember what we said in the morning: when we draw the archetypal design of the lotus flower, we have the energy of the lotus flower. If I draw the archetypal design of an apple I can have the energy of the apple. So I start drawing archetypal scenes of the everyday life of the pharaoh and then in a special ceremony where I could make a negative green connection between all those archetypal things in the tomb and the archetypal essence, a sort of prayers and things like that, I connect the archetype in resonance with the laws and the moment it is connected it is finished. The archetype works now because I have the energy of the archetype So the Ka can keep eating in there and drinking taking energy to eternity. Finished, we have secured that.

They made another securing. Even if the mummy decays, the Ka could go, they put a statue behind a wall like that with a hole. They put a statue inside the hole because they did not want anybody to touch it. Because if anybody touches it, it changes the impregnation, the Ka cannot go in it again. They had to keep the impregnation of the pharaoh on the statue. If anybody found the statue he could actually imprison the soul of the pharaoh. So what they did was the statue in the likeness of the pharaoh was always put in a niche in the wall and blocked, completely blocked, with a very small hole there to indicate the Ka would go in and go out. So if the mummy was lost for any way the Ka could go and find its home in the likeness of the mummy.

With all those magical things for all that to work, we would have to have a very strong permanent negative green inside the tomb. So that was the reason of using hemispheres, of using pyramids and all that: to keep a very strong negative green energy there for all this, because the whole story we are speaking about depends on connection. Once you lose the connection the whole thing is useless and they used that shapes. If we find that this negative green was very harmful, to people, and if we want to use the shape with something that has to do with the living, then we have to cancel the vertical aspect of the negative green. What can cancel the vertical aspect of the negative green. The only one that can cancel this, is the total spectrum of spirituality. Once we have it, it cancels this. Or an increase of the horizontal one to pull the other one with it; it is a directional thing.

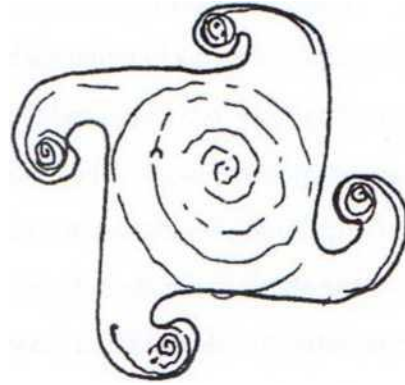

Crop Circles

When speaking about this, I am going to speak about something that has to do with another form of thing that is linked to negative green. I have a picture that one of you gave me of a crop circle. You all know the crop circle.

Of course, any plant would have negative green coming from the center. The energy direction of anything you see on earth depends on its linear direction. So you can understand a plant that is going up like that, means that the energy pattern is something between the center of the earth and the center of the sun, so it is a vertical energy pattern. If it is something that fits with a crawling thing, the energy pattern will go that way. So the form here shows the direction of the energy pattern.

Now, I draw this crop circle and see, this is one that you know. From the first impression that you have on such a crop circle, you have to look at rotation. Most of the things that have an anti-clockwise rotation are not beneficent. The ones with a clockwise rotation are usually more beneficent, and that is very important for architecture. When we make an architectural plan (if we are not making a centralized plan) then we want to put a rotation. One of the ways of achieving biogeometrical energy in architecture is through rotation.

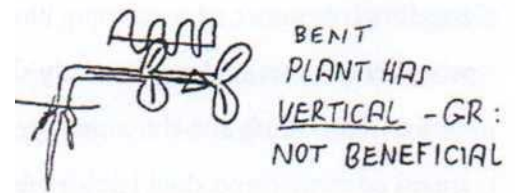

But rotation has to be positive rotation. Now let us see this, is this still rotating or maybe by turning these to the inside. You know they do such little tricks sometimes to cancel. If it was just like that we would have a problem, but we can test it and see. So I would go.... that way like I said, this rotation won't be very beneficial. Probably if I do it the other side then it would be more beneficial. But forget about this special crop circle that has this design. What if the crop circle had a better design, a proper design? There is a problem with crop circles. You can get a design for a crop circle and draw it on paper, sacred geometry, and it looks fine if you use a very simple design. You know the proportion 1.6, coming from sixteen like I said, you can get a spiritual energy field and if you do that so, you start emanating spirituality.

But I found something very strange. I noticed that when there was a group who were doing measurements on crop circles. They were very good designs and all of a sudden some of them started feeling bad. One of them had a heartbeat, this had this, that had that. So I checked them. We know that many people go in the circle they get alternate states, this alter state of consciousness. But the alter state of consciousness can come to you in so many different ways, by increasing your energy field so much or by decreasing it so much both ways you can get an alter state of consciousness. So I tested them and then found that there was vertical negative green coming out of a sacred geometry shape. This is very strange, because a sacred geometry shape drawn properly should emit spirituality and we should not have any vertical negative green. So the whole thing did not scientifically fit together.

After a lot of study and research into it, I found how it worked. The plant has at the center this horizontal negative green coming up; this connection that has to do with the spirituality of the plant. If you bend a plant, the horizontal becomes vertical because the plant is not made to be bent like that. The plant was made to stand up.

So when they bent it, this thing happened and the crop circle started giving vertical negative green and the alter state that you got into was at the same time with an alter state of your energy field and your health, and everybody felt very' bad.

So you see the negative green nature, you do not play with nature, otherwise you generate. You leave everything in the direction in which it is supposed to live. You won't be very happy if somebody came and said "you look nicer on your head". This is exactly, when you do that with the plant. When I did this research and found that, many of the people who were crop circle fanatics hated me for it. I tested the same crop circles; when they are done on the sand then there is no problem, it is only when they were done on plants, that gives this problem. So this special crop circle you could get an altered state looking at it, but it is not a good thing.

What is the cause, who made the crop circles? It is not easy to say, because once you make something with so much negative green coining out of it, it is a doorway for all possible dimensions. So even if somebody comes and does it as a trick; he makes a hook, comes at night and does a crop circle. If he has developed a certain machine to do it or whatever and he does it. Once it emits such a strong negative green, at the time people come there is so much phychic activity in there from the people who come from different worlds, because it has become a doorway, that if you tried clairvoyance or psychically to find who did it, you would go crazy There is so much information coming from everywhere that you won't know whether it was an alien, whether it was a spiritual thing, because there is so much negative green coming out, so automatically everybody will come with a different theory. There is no way to be able to assess it.

A Warning

But you should not work on vertical negative green. This is a very very important warning; because when you start working with anything you sensitize your energy field to it. I want you to sensitize yourself to gold so that you become always in tune with spirituality. But if you sensitize yourself with negative green, you would be able to find it everywhere the vertical negative green. You would see somebody and you can tell him: you have cancer, you have this, you have that But you have become vertical negative green with time, and you end up with any form of cancer or something like that, so it is very dangerous. I have seen myself people who went, it was an American lady she wanted with a pendulum to study the vertical negative green in the tomb and the mummy. We told her not to do that. She insisted and she took a friend of mine (who died lately) who was very advanced spiritually and in radiesthesia, etc. They went in the museum and I told him: do not follow what she wants, just tell her no. He said: no, do not worry I can protect myself. They went and did the measurements. Next day she was in her hotel room, he was in bed in a near coma for 3 days. We had to go and bring him back. Everything was upside down, his chakra's were closed, everything was a in a mess. The same thing was with her. That is at the basis of what we call the curse of the pharaohs.

The Curse of the Pharaohs

There are two types of curse. The first type is: you get hit by the negative green. If you just go in and come out, nothing would happen but if you take your torch and you keep studying the shapes or the mummy and look here and look there, you might end up with too much negative green and you end up with this curse of the pharaohs.

Another type of curse would be if you go in the grave and the Ka who was supposed to defend the grave hits you. The Ka is there; how will it hit you? It will crack your energy field, it will hit at your chakra. There is an ancient papyrus with one of the sons of Ramses going into the tomb, a magical papyrus, and they tell him what to do He puts something with fire on his head, lit like a torch. There is a special dagger consecrated with prayers and all that in one hand, and another torch in the other hand. They told him; with that you go inside the tomb. So his chakra's protected, and the tip of the dagger and the torch are a sort of protection against the Ka, because the Ka is there. This is how negative green works in the tomb with the Ka and all that.

Cancelling Negative Green

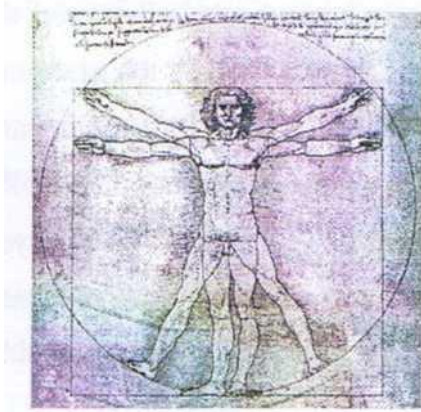

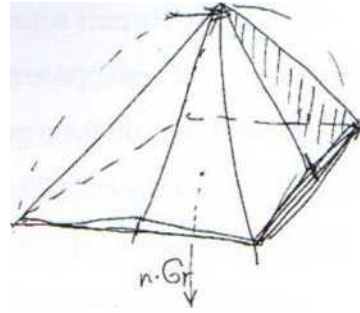

If we built the pyramid with the negative green and we wanted to cancel the negative green, that means we are weakening the mummification, and to geometrically cancel the negative green is very very difficult. So why would anybody go through all the trouble of cancelling the negative green? To cancel the negative green you need spirituality; the best and safest thing is spirituality of the three components. The first generation of radiesthetists, the time of Chaumery and Turenne who were doing work with negative green, thought that you could somehow put green on it. If you put the green energy on the negative green you could cancel it, or if you put very strong horizontal negative green on it, the vertical one would be cancelled.

But it did not work with Chaumery when he did all his shapes and tried to mummify things. He added so many hemispheres, one on the other. One thing you should never do is to work with a battery of hemispheres. At that time he was thinking of emission of energy. Forget about radiesthesia as emission of energy. Remember, we said our middle name is resonance. Everyone of you should have resonance as is middle name, because that is how it works. You might think: I put the shapes here and down there, even if I don't look at the shapes, even if I go in another room. I mentally put them, I am in resonance with them, and they will hit me wherever I go.

So don't play with negative green emission. If you have captured too much negative green. The most potent way is not to use horizontal negative green or green, but to use spirituality with an added green. Because the spirituality has the gold, has the ultraviolet, has the horizontal negative green plus some green on it, and this is your best protection against negative green.

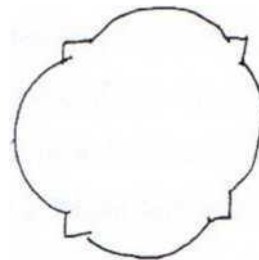

How to Create Spirituality

What they did was at the time, the pyramid was there ... This is the pyramid, and from down there from the center it would be emanating this negative green. How do I create spirituality in there? They had to find a way to create the gold. Remember Leonardo da Vinci when he draw this man standing like that, the square and the circle that way, and you had the man standing up like this, and the hands touching these points and then the hands touching these points, here at this meeting place, and here you had .. so the one with open arms is spiritual man and this one is physical man. He wanted to say in other ways that the square represented the physical world and the circle represented the spiritual world and man was the connection between both. You needed man to square the circle. So he was the link there.

If squaring the circle was one way of achieving spirituality and that is how the ancients did it, there is no way of using it in architecture. Because how can I use squaring the circle in architecture? Because I am either using the circle or using the square. But I could superimpose one on the other. If you go to some of the domes where they have this circle and then it goes into the square and then they put all those shapes. There are so many different tricks here and there to cancel the negative green from a dome, whether it is a dome like that or a pyramid. So you could square the circle if you are building a hemispherical shape. Another way would be to find a way, because if your building is a square, you don't have a circle. So you either build a square or you are building a circle, if my goal was to square the circle, how can I, in the building, at the same time use the square and the circle. I could of course build a building that goes something like this. Of course you find those shapes; this is one of the ways of squaring the circle.

If this square and this circle have the same area, how can I relate them together, if I want to use this alone without this. I have to introduce the essence of rotation in the square. How do I introduce this? Of course we know that this will not fit in the circle to be the same area, it is a bit bigger, it comes out at the edges. So I push it in, I force it in, so I get this point here, here, here and here, but I want the same dimensions of the square, because if I change the dimension, I don't have the link, so I end up...

It is not the same area anymore but it is the same square, and the square tells you: I am in the circle. The rotation is there because the star is a rotational figure, the square is not. Here we end up with 8 sides. This 4 pointed 8 sided star emanates gold. So when you do this here this means I have to go in a little bit here creates a side, in a little bit here creates a side and the other side the same. Then here I cancel negative green and I get gold and instead of this negative green I get the horizontal negative green and I get the ultra-violet light. That means I have introduced angelic atmosphere in there. You find that in all ancient esoteric books and scriptures: the 8 angels who carry the throne of God. So it is speaking about this geometrical law. The rotation and this automatically give you gold.

How to Build a Pyramid

Now imagine people having to build this with stones that are so heavy, we don't know today how they built the pyramids. Because we are all architects, we know they could have had ramps, and hundreds of people have pushed the stones, I agree with anything they say, but there comes one spot that is insoluble. The stones were put in so tight that you cannot put a foil in between them; they fit in like that. So if we had so many people putting the stone on rollers as they say, pulling it with ropes, and pushing it, now when you come to the spot, how will you put it in place? At least if you use the ropes you could not put it near the other because you have the thickness of the ropes. And if you put it that way and pushed it, I don't think you can push a stone of so many tons. You would scratch it. Imagine all this and then we still have to cut the stones in such a way that when they are added at the end they give the slope on this side and the slope on that side. Imagine what calculation this would need, slope that way, slope that way and move the stones up. It is incredible work. Why should you go through all the trouble? It is difficult enough to build a great pyramid without all this. I am not saying any theories, but I just ask a question: why to go through all the trouble⁹

One thing is for sure. It was intended for the living. Maybe at the end they closed it and some pharaoh decided to close it as his tomb But it must have been used for many years before that for living purposes. Initiation, astronomy, so many things are possible. I don't want to speculate. The pure scientific fact here is that somebody used the squaring of the circle to introduce spiritual energy in order to make the shape emanate gold. They must have had a very important reason to emanate gold here, and up there, and everywhere, because you are emanating gold everywhere up and down. They must have had a very important reason to do that. But this is now the secret of all architecture. In architecture we want our plans to emanate gold. Whatever I do, I want it to emanate gold

The Secret of Architecture

I have two paths. One path we discussed and that is the sacred geometry path. Sacred geometry is a new word. We architects used it for ages, for thousands of years, but never called it sacred geometry. It was called the canons of architecture. The word canon means law. Law is so as the ancient canons, the ancient laws of beauty. The Greeks called it laws of beauty. But what they learned in the temples of ancient Egypt, maybe they were not allowed to say all the secrets and they called it the laws of ancient beauty. Even if you take this proportion to simplify things for architects, it is still not that simple. Because Corbusier spoke about a theory, but Corbusier used it without really going into all this. He just got excited by the idea of maybe I can mix two scales for beauty, and these scales that they represent what mathematically is the Fibonacci series - you know, the mathematical series - this would represent life. So if I use it in architecture I'll make living architecture because I'll have the proportions of life. It was very complex, because imagine that whatever you wanted to do, a chair, a door or a table, you have to take one of the scales, you cannot mix both, either the red one or the blue one, and you build your whole building based on that.

But if you did that, you created actual spirituality. We are working, like we said, in a quantitative way, quantitative industrialization, so it is better to multiply something by two or divide it by half. But to go into 1:1.6 is not really an easy proportion to industrialize yourself into, and if the whole industry does not know the value. Maybe if somebody came and said: to bring man back into our civilization, maybe we should change the norms and integrate this in the norms, integrate spirituality into everything that is produced in the factories. But you have to believe in spirituality in the first place. People are calling it geometry of beauty. So even modern architects failed to understand this and modern architects said it is too limiting that I have to go to the modular law for everything, it is too limiting for me. But if they said it differently, instead of: this is giving the proportion of beauty, this is going to guarantee spirituality of your building, then we would have stuck to it. But at the origin of modern architecture was a sense of spirituality. Maybe not deep enough, but it was there. Misunderstood maybe. But we are going to take that back, and work with it. We found that what they called sacred geometry is not really geometry. It is sacred quantity, it is a mathematical way, it is the quality of numbers translated into geometrical things.

The Quality of Shape

But what is geometry then? We are going to look at it both ways. Sacred geometry and biogeometry. Biogeometry deals with the quality of shape.

You know the problem. Sometimes people were fanatics of sacred geometry, they tried to impose sacred geometry on everything. Tried to impose the Fibonacci series on nature. Because they can impose it on one thing or the other. This is not right. Because if you go out in nature and really study everything. If you study the proportions of the people in this room I mean if we would fit according to those proportions we would all somehow be similar in a way but we don't. Even our bodies are so different. So nature was not really going to a very strict mathematical thing in everything it was doing.

There must be another way and that is the quality of shape. Shape has a quality. A rose is still a rose when it is like that, like that, like that, it is still a rose. It is changing the proportion but it is still a rose. You are still a human being and still sacred whether you are a child with the proportion of the head bigger compared to your body, and as you grow up the proportions change. You are still a sacred person on all those levels, although your proportions keep changing all the time. How do we study then the quality of shape? What is the quality of shape?

We look at shape from two angles. From an angle that shape can emit energy so we have emitters of shape so now I can use geometry to emit energy. You never know how far you can go with this emitting of energy. Maybe airplanes, maybe whatever they do, lately everybody is thinking of doing work with them, people are crazy, but this emission of energy is one school.

And then there is this not emitting of energy but balancing of energy, shapes that balance energy, that create harmony. These are shapes that interact with spiritual energy. Whether they are closed, open whatever they go, there is a spiritual quality to shape. So biogeometry is studying the spiritual qualities of shape. That is a very important way of looking at things. Because not everything is calculated mathematically. Somehow inside us we cannot think that everything in us should be mathematical, mathematical, mathematical, no, maybe shape can have different aspects, can involve slowly in this direction, that direction and still be spiritual. That is exactly biogeometry.

Q: Is the Cheops pyramid really built like this?

A: I am not joking. There are pictures in some Egyptology books that show one day a year you go when the sun is exactly in this direction. So maybe 30-60 seconds you will have this, and they tell you the splitting of the pyramid. In ancient texts that the day that the pyramid splits (it does not really split, but this is what happens). I have seen it about 30 years ago. I don't remember exactly, but it must have been at the summer solstice.

Interchangeable Scales

Before we go to geometry, let us have some new notions. I can translate color, like red for example, to musical notes, but I can also translate it to an angle. They are all scales of the same thing. I can also translate it to polarity Yin-Yang. What does that mean? Whatever we cannot understand in one, we can understand in the other. The laws of one would apply to the other. Because we are taking with them the scale expanding universally.

So what do we learn from that? First, in musical notes, we have resonance. Concept of resonance. Can there be resonance of shape? When I discuss biosignatures with you, we are going to make a new look at the human body. Shapes that are similar in your body are in resonance with each other. So imagine you study normal anatomy and physiology. After you have done that, we come and teach you to study the chakra's and energy centers. After you have done that, come and study the meridians and all that Then somebody comes and tell you: ho, there is something else, come and study the biogeometrical relationship of the organs of your body. So can the ear be in resonance with the kidney? I discovered those things in a way when I did the drawing of my signatures for healing. Sometimes I find that a signature made for something was needed for something else. That is totally irrelevant. The signature was tested for this, so why does it work there. I had such a thing with the virus C when I was hepatitis virus C. I used some immunity signatures and I used some signatures for the liver and then something still did not fit properly and then the functions of the liver were a bit better, but when I went to the details of the cells, I found that something was still not correct. So I needed something to correct the inside of the cell. And I found out that one of the signatures of the heart corrected this problem.

This was one of the signatures that had a geometrical relationship with the shape because the heart does many motions of energy in there. So you see there is a new thing we are going to study, we are going to study geometrical resonance. The geometrical shape can enter into resonance. So human beings can enter into resonance with each other, just by their geometrical shape. You could of course use the same theories of color in music, the same theories of music in color, the same theories of geometry in music and the same theories of geometry in color. Because they are all the same thing. They have interchangeable scales. So if the scales can be translated one into the other, then the laws in one should apply to the other because it is just a change of the name. So we should automatically think this is very normal, of course every geometrical shape should resonate with the other.

Not Bounded by Time and Space

We take it a bit further to drive you a bit out of your mind. We said that resonance is not bounded by time and space. So the geometrical shapes are in resonance not bound by time and space; they can resonate with something in the past, they can resonate with something in the future. They can also - we'll not go into this topic this time - resonate with the different planes of nature. There is a geometrical language for every plane of nature. I use this geometrical language sometimes to create pendulums, to create shapes, it depends on how I want to use my pendulums for what purpose and all that. There is a special way of tuning in your pendulum instrument to different levels of nature.

So you have geometrical resonance with levels of nature, geometrical resonance between shapes beyond time and space. Now imagine you making a certain activity, a certain motion. You would be affecting or in resonance with somebody who did the same activity a thousand years ago and with somebody who will be doing this activity a thousand years from today. Since you will be in nature, both of you in resonance, you are going to influence the activity of the past. The activity of the past is influenced by the activity of the future, just because of the geometrical shape that you are doing in whatever you are doing. There is a relationship that goes beyond time and space and that is found in sound, it is found in geometry.

In Architecture

So when somebody says architecture is frozen sound, it is not just philosophical but it is reality. It is sound. We want to choose out of all those properties something for use in architecture. I have property resonance of shape, I have property resonance with other shapes, resonance with different levels, that is one property, I have property of emitters, shapes that emit, and I have property of biogeometrical shapes, shapes that produce spiritual energy. There is a very big problem with shapes like that. They have only been used for sacred buildings, buildings you cannot use all the time. Because although they emit spirituality here, it is still an emission, and any emission is like splitting the atom, like working with nuclear energy. Any emission on any level will raise your energy and then saturate you and after a bit it will have a negative effect. You cannot use emission in architecture. Even if it is emitting certain ... let us say I decide to make shapes that emit a soothing violet energy in the bedroom, an activating orange energy in the living-room and so on. And then somebody is sick and he has to stay 3-4 days in the bedroom. He never stands up again. If the person was sick of a sort of a high blood pressure or something then he would be better when he stays in this room. But what if his deficiency is due to low energy of any reason.

You cannot use shapes that emit in buildings that you cannot control. You use them only in buildings of temporary use, temples. If you want to use them for permanent use only in tombs. But even if you want to use them temporarily - some of you use pyramids for meditation - because you cannot dent the pyramid and because energy flows along the lines, you have just to make a line here. If this is a metal thing like that, then you make a vertical scratch on this rod here, four vertical scratches, then turn your pyramid, get your pendulum and test. If it is emitting gold, your scratches are long enough, if it is not yet emitting gold you should make the scratches somewhat deeper or longer until it emits gold, then your pyramid is safe. It should be in the exact middle. The lines or scratches should point to the tip; you cannot divide it physically but you can divide it energetically.

Electrical Appliances

We come to a point here where I tell you energy flows along lines - we'll see that when we do biosignatures - but you see here all these electrical lines mean that any electrical energy in the wall, even if you close the appliance, that the energy is flowing along the lines.

So all things that are negative shape have to be studied for the quality of energy they might carry. One of the dangers of all this is that they could carry a lot of vertical negative green. The Curry and Hartmann grids and underground water crossings are things that emanate negative green and they are the major causes of cancer, but the other major cause for cancers... is the negative green from all our electrical appliances.

The Fribourg Experience

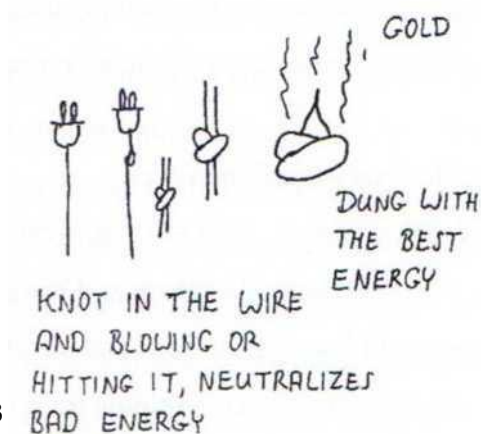

What do we do with our electrical appliances? I have to show you how this works because with the electrical appliances, I learned something very strange. I was in Fribourg many years ago and I went to a friend and he tells me: "There is a lady living here who wants to see you. Because she's been sick now for a month, she doesn't go to work or anything. The doctors don't know what is wrong with her and she asked me to tell you to come". So I went down there to the lady and she asked me: "Can you please check all the electrical wiring and find out in the wall when something is plugged in, find the right direction of the plug, should it be this way or that way". The first thing I told her you know, with my engineering experience: "But it is alternating current. What is the difference when I put the plug in this way or that way?" She said: "The same thing happened to me ten years ago and a Swiss farmer came from the mountains and with a pendulum he checked every plug. He put each one in the right direction and the next morning I was in perfect health as if nothing had happened at all. So please can you check them?"

You know in sciences like that you should be open to everything, you can learn from everybody. In the beginning I made a mistake of putting some of my engineering knowledge in there, but I said if it works I'm going to see. I took my pendulum and I found when I tested this way I've got vertical negative green, I change it. I've got horizontal negative green. So actually I could use electricity to work for me, not against me. Now if we could do that it's a very important thing.

Now we can test that. One way of testing it is to hold your pendulum, point just at the wire and see if it is good for you or not. In one direction it will be good and in the other not. Let's see what Johan is doing with me here... let's see this wire this one's okay. Let's look at this orange one... caught you on that one! You see the appliance is not working so how can that be? I'm speaking and let us see how far this goes. I'm speaking and I leave my pen that way... point back at Johan haha... I leave my pen like that, you see the danger of this? What if all of you - most of you are radiesthesists of course - are able to check the plug at home... and put a sign on there...

I was once in America. I tried to turn the plug but it didn't turn, what do I do then? And I had both lamps beside my bed. I used an old magical trick and I did this (voice: "They can cancel each other?") It doesn't cancel... what will the knot do when the current around it is coming here, it will come in the knot.

It is not a clear linear thing. It will take 2 or 3 weeks then the knot will be charged and then it will flow. All you have to do is take it and pfff, or hit it with your hand, because this is very subtle energy. I want to empty the knot. The time is not important, but now all you can do is just open it and close it again.

There are many ancient forms of healing that deal with knots. When I give energy with my hand, healing a person, and if I want to have stored that energy into something and give it to him to keep with him for a very long time, I could get a rope... did I say something you knew? You have that here in ancient folklore in Holland⁹ You won't have it here? The healer brings this into a string and he pffff is blowing healing energy on it pffff... a prayer you know, you usually do prayers... while you are praying you start doing the knot, so the energy of the prayer gets trapped in the knot. Then you do the second knot and do the prayer. You want seven knots, because I want a carrier wave to keep taking the energy of the knots into my body. So you make seven knots and you come and place it around somebody's wrist and tight. Now your healing energy is in the knots, but it doesn't stay in the knots because there are seven, so it will enter the body. The knot is a storage place. So use the knot for storage and now use it for protection. This could mean the difference between health and immune deficiency. Just a very simple thing like that. I learned it very simply.

I did it there in Fribourg when I was to the lady. The next day I was intrigued. I went down in the morning, I said I'm going to visit her and see how she feels. I went there to her flat, I knocked and she was not there. She went to work, in the morning, and I did it in the evening. So I learned in that way all about electricity, I learned what I didn't learn in my architectural practice. This is very important. Like I told, you some very insignificant things and a little knot like that, if that is all what you learned from this weekend I think it could be a very important tiling in your life, just the knot. I want all radiesthesists to test this very simple way of doing it.

Forms emit

Q: Is a cone also an emitter?

A: Yes. The ancient egyptians used to put sugar in cones, with the negative green in the center, so that the ants wouldn't come in the sugar cone, provided you did the proper proportions of the cone. This was an ancient thing that they used to do in old times. I haven't tested it myself but it works like that. Remember all these shapes that you see. They are used because there was ancient knowledge in there. The ancient egyptians had this knowledge; then when modern religion came, people who had this knowledge were looked at as magicians. Today I have this problem whenever I do a spectacular healing with a drawing on a person, or with a chip, or on a ring, I give her. Somebody has an incurable disease, I do drawings on a ring and give it to him. Some people, even people doing alternative medicine, think it's a form of magic because a drawing cannot do instantaneous healing. If it does, it's magic. They do not know that colors, music and form are the same. So if I can do healing with one, I can do it with the other. The letters of the alphabet are shapes. The way you draw numbers are shapes, There are so many ways of using forms. So this is the idea here of you using forms that emit only in temporary things. You can use that for meditation if of course you are not going to live under it for good. I mean you can just meditate a bit under a pyramid and go out: it's okay, but if you make a pyramid like that for everyday life, even if you modified it, the energy will be too much for you. So we have to find now the laws of biogeometry, how do I access this aspect of spirituality through geometry. There must be some guidelines.

The Louvre Pyramid and the Borobudur

Q.: "The glass pyramid at the Louvre in Paris, does that emit green energy as well?"

A: I haven't measured it. You see, all the metal frames and the geometrical shapes, I do not know exactly the center of the side. If by chance the center of the side has something that moves the energy, because as you can see on the site there are so much motions of energy there, I have to test it for that.

voice: I was there a couple of years ago, I was very intrigued by it.

Karim: How did you feel?

voice: Well, I came out of the metro and walked into the corridor towards the pyramid... there were all sorts of waves of rainbow (?)... coming out of the top and going into the corridor, so I sat down there and watched the people who came out of the metro, very stressed, and when they were touched by the light, they started to relax. You couldn't come under the top. But there is a small one where you go out. I was in that little pyramid, there is a sort of balcony, just to feel with my hand under the top and I got a kind of shock, like wow.

Karim: But what was it? The shock was pleasant or not pleasant.

voice: Well no, not really. It was a sort of warning, hey what you are doing?

Karim: Then it is not properly solved. If it's properly solved you would get this feeling of, what spirituality does to you, this feeling of spirituality, of grace, things like that. If you got this feeling of warning, then it needs some correcting, voice: I couldn't measure.

Karim: You don't have to go under the top,... you can look at the top, point at the top and you can still capture the energy. You can pull it towards you, say hey, give me a bit of that, voice: In the Borobudur, a temple in Indonesia, the first levels are square and the top three are circles.

Karim: It depends on the proportion. I have to see and measure it to tell you.

Ancient Knowledge

Most of those things, like I told you, were ancient knowledge, from the time of ancient Egyptians, ancient Sumerian, Chinese and all that. With the coming of modern religions, this ancient knowledge had to be hidden, because people thought this ancient knowledge is magic. But what happened is the builders of the sacred buildings, they knew they had the true knowledge. Every new religion doesn't start with big huge buildings and temples, no it starts as a primitive religion. Then those people come slowly and start telling you want to build this; they start putting the knowhow into the buildings without telling anybody that they are carriers of the ancient secrets. The ancient secrets are with us till today, only we do not know of them.

You know the stories of the Knight Templars for example. They went on the crusades and came back and you know that most of the big churches in France were somehow commissioned or under supervision of the Knight Templars. That is why you have so many of those strange things that many people didn't understand at the time; but there is this ancient knowledge, hidden in the work.

Until one day somebody came in the church and said hey, these people are doing some magical activities, they have gone too far in doing magical activities, and then they started burning them. All through history people are hiding into what we call types of guilds were the workers worked. All the Suli ways have names that have to do with building. Nagsabendi is a decorator, Benda is a free mason, all those people are. The spirituality was not a spirituality of belief. No, outwardly towards society they were deep believers and mystics, because that's how modern religion saw them. Inside, they were in reality scientists of ancient knowledge, they were knowers, keepers of that ancient knowledge.

The modern example of all that is Newton. Today, so many years after his death, they discover his true identity that he was a grandmaster again of the Prieure de Sion of which Botticelli, Leonardo and Jean Cocteau and all those people were grandmasters. They discover all the alchemical writings that he had hidden in his secret laboratory where he did alchemy. When he died his family didn't want to discredit him as a magician, so somehow they hid those things. Those things are much easier to digest today, showing the true nature of Newton. Many of the people who are doing things today are specially connected to special sciences, special buildings or things like that, they are the carriers of the ancient secrets and using them.

Actually a lot of the work that we do in biogeometry and all those things causes me a lot of controversy between many of the esoteric groups that are close in Egypt. Because I'm part of most of those groups and I do a lot of work with them and they are all my friends, we are very close for many years. It is a path that we go all together, but our mentality is different. My mentality is that people have reached such a level where knowledge is to be shared and I believe that anybody who asks should be given, because people are ready. Today you cannot treat people by giving a little thing and then telling them: "come next year, come within two years, you are not ready now". This doesn't work today, we are very fast. And people are willing to accept this. Today, if somebody asks for something that is very deep knowledge, give it to him. All what I'm saying here will be different to different people, many of you would see important things in a little word I said here, and another will pass by and not see it. So we have this concept in Egypt. Most of the people who do this, look at me as a person, who is betraying the ancient way of secrecy because all this knowledge shouldn't be given and somebody who decides to say this is a holistic science and I'm going to put ancient secret knowledge into a mobile phone or computer, this is crazy, It doesn't work. What I'm really doing, is a different way of looking at things, but today I feel that people are ready for it. Unfortunately that you risk even in our modern time that somebody somewhere will call you a magician and people will point at you that you are manipulating strong forces, you are doing this, you are doing that. Whenever something happened Oh! of course Ibrahim must have done that. If you make a cure of something incurable, then straightaway some would look at you: Oh, he is something very special because he can do all those miracles. They never say it is our end knowledge and science that everybody can learn, no, of course that must be one of those black magicians.

The word black magician is misunderstood today, unfortunately we use black magician as a bad word. Black magician; the word means the highest form of science. Magician is magus, that is a scientist. Black means Egypt, because the Nile, the flood of the Nile and we have this dark silt, it was called the black land. In ancient times all the initiates who came out of the Egyptian temples with all the secret knowledge, they could perform miracles everywhere. For example when Moses split the sea, he was also a magician of king Soser. All those things were considered ancient Egyptian science, the highest form of science, it was a praise... this is black magic, the magic of the black land, it was the highest grade you could give to an initiate that he's a black magician.

J.K.: Ibrahim, just for tonight: it was fabulous.

Karim: Thank you. What I say is induced by your presence. It is really like that. It is no thanks to me, it is all of us together, because some people tell you when the student is ready the master appears. That is what we use all the time, but they forget saying that when the master is ready the student appears. So at the end there is no master, no student, there is nothing, nothing comes out from one person. It always comes out of a whole thing. I learned from you, you learned from me. I might be speaking but remember when I'm speaking, my energy is in every one of you and everyone's energy is in me; and the laws of resonance: we are learning from each other.

Spiritual Exercise

Today is Sunday. Many of you are used to pray on Sunday, so we'll do this time some movements that are a bit different to what we did yesterday. What we did yesterday was related to polarity. What we will do today are similar things, but related to spirituality. We want to increase spirituality exactly as if we were praying, a sort of geometrical prayer. One type you already have done is to make the right forefinger pointing upwards under the chin, leaving it there for a minute. It is important not to touch, because if you touch yourself you are changing the geometrical shape. You see, it is geometrical shapes we are dealing with.

I would take something eh, for gold, and check that we are ... who has something really big in gold? I can do it actually without the gold. I can imagine, but this is just to show you. Okay, so I hold something gold in my hand. We are going to check today that your instruments are calibrated on gold. We will check the other types of instruments than the pendulum. I see some of you have Lecher antenna's, some of you have?.... sort of things like that. All other instruments By the end of the session we will calibrate them on gold, so you can find the proper wavelength on the antenna on the Lecher instruments on gold. That is important for us to work. You don't have to do this with pendulum, everybody can use his own instrument.

Q: Can we use dowsing rods? A: Yes, Dowsing rods, Lecher antenna, whatever instruments you have. You are not supposed to change to a pendulum because I am holding a pendulum. No, the reason I hold a pendulum and I work with pendulum is because I use scepters. Scepters are like pharaonic emitters. What I do is: I design my scepters and instead of walking with my scepter in my hand like in ancient Egypt, I design it smaller and then, because it has weight. I use it as a pendulum. It helps me because it can emit its own energy, so I don't have to emit from my energy and I can leave it on the table. If somebody wants healing I can just put his picture on the table, I can put that in front of it. It is my little assistant.

So, now we want to see if this is done right. Where is the gold? You see, the more she takes,.... that is how we check that you are doing it right. You see, when you radiate gold that means you are doing it right. If you don't radiate gold, then you correct the motion a bit, the motion of your fingers and things like that. It does not matter if you are right-handed or left-handed because it is not physiology, it is just geometrical shape. This pile that goes up to the right direction and to the finger.

Q: Can I measure for myself? A: Of course you can, if you can use the pendulum with both hands, because remember: you have to do this on your right hand, not with left hand, it does not work. This motion is a right-handed motion. In the left hand it does not work, but if I want to measure for myself, I bring it inside, and I work with the pendulum with my left hand. Provided of course, you use both hands with the pendulum. It is easier on somebody else and it is easiest first on a wooden statue. This is most scientific, because like I said, on a human being there will always be the idea that there was autosuggestion.

The person has to believe or not to believe. It does not have to do with believe or not believe. Believe or not believe would come if you use your left hand, or out of your foot if you want. But with your right hand, you can be a believer or not believer.

We look at spirituality today. You must have understood it from yesterday, we are going in a very practical way. We started from beyond time and space, where there is the everything and the nothing. There is no chaos. Everything and nothing out there does not mean that you still have the chaos, what the ancients call: the primordial scene. It is nothing to you, because you did not get something out of it, and it is everything because it has everything, it has all the laws of nature. When by the first impulse in the "Big Bang" all the laws of everything in nature were programmed in it. That is why I said the property would be the word, because it was an impulse with a meaning. Beyond time and space, there is a level where we have everything and nothing in one word. Because how can something be everything and nothing in one word. Everything beyond time and space when you go outside into the absolute, everything is the maximum of the attribute and the maximum of its opposite in one.

That is why we cannot deal with it, that is why we cannot comprehend it. So, we have to do some manifestation into our time and space and then we try' to explain it in our time and space. But if we look at it in a very abstract way like that, we have no problem with what we call divinity. To each one of you, whether you believe or you don't believe, whether you are with religion or without religion, there is something beyond time and space that is everything and nothing. It is as simple as that.

It does not need somebody to stretch to say: I believe in it or I don't believe in it. Because, if you think differently, tell me what could be beyond time and space⁹ It could be just chaos.

What is the meaning of chaos? Chaos could also be information, because if there was nothing, there would be no chaos. Chaos would be information but not arranged properly, that means a state of everything. If we know everything and nothing, but that we do not perceive, but that is as far as you think. But now: manifested into our world.

You saw how I told you the very practical way of the caveman, how he saw the light. Call that light anything you want. There is that type of energy and he has learned to point at it, to do this, to do that. There is a type of energy that we can interact with by resonance. And this type of energy can adjust, anything within the physical world can be balanced and adjusted by it. Call it by any name, to do something. No religious ritual has come out of a belief. Every religious ritual has come out of a practical experiencing of the real thing that existed. This is one thing that you must know because it is as simple as that: here is my finger, here is gold. You can translate it, whichever you want, but it is a reality: here is my finger, and here is gold. Where the gold comes from I don't know, but it is gold.

Why does humanity unconsciously feel this attachment to gold? It must be because there is resonance there. So, why do all the churches and all those temples have so much gold? We should not always think negative because they are greedy, because it is political, no, because they feel something, something with this gold. When dealing with spirituality in a very practical way, we must know that this is a way of transforming our belief into a reality. Because belief is abstract. Everyone of you will say: you believe what you believe and I believe what I believe. But if everything in time and space is energy and everything exists, we want to make sure that our belief is on one level, but on another level this belief is based on something that exists. So we ask us one thing:

Does Spirituality Exist?

You can say: yes. But who said that gold, ultraviolet and negative green are components in spirituality? I say, until now this is the closest we could get to measuring spirituality, because when somebody prays, I can find the components in there. These are the measurable components. But don't delude yourself in thinking that you have already the totality of this abstract energy, no. We have three components, we have to measure it, but it could have so many other unmeasurable components by our time, because remember, it is the center that is beyond time and space and you are measuring from time and space. So we might have three components of its manifestation in time and space, but, whatever we say, we are still pointing at it. We don't have it, pointing at it. Even the caveman who saw the light, the light is the manifestation in how he experienced this thing and projected the light from him to understand it. But its reality is much bigger than that, because its reality is not only in that light, its reality is everywhere.

If we said yesterday: the rotation of the center of every atom is the point that goes beyond time and space, all you have to do, is look at your skin, like this, and think: oh, how wonderful. Let us say: if the center of every atom in my body is a point beyond time and space. So is this abstract the infinite, it could not have been before time and space. Could we say that this absolute thing, transcendent, God, Divinity, was it before the creation of time and space? No? Because on that level the world before is equal to the world after. So, it is before, after, during? In that place you cannot say: up, down, middle, so it is all the time. So this point beyond time and space exists all the time before and after, and the center of every atom in your body is the doorway to the transcendent divinity beyond time and space. If you could just look at every atom, if you could look at the doorways there. This motion is balanced eternally by the point, by this beyond time and space. Otherwise any motion would stop. So just by thinking: This is not matter, this is wisdom - that is what we said yesterday - or the atom has a center, if you look at your hand and think of it for a moment, you radiate gold.

The Resonance with the Absolute

The whole technique, the type of radiesthesia that we use, differs a bit from the type of radiesthesia you use here, in the meaning of the word resonance. We all say: resonance, but maybe to me it has a slightly different meaning than to you. You see, to you, for example, especially as an example when you use Lecher antenna's and things like that, you are speaking about waves (Wellenlänge). We are still speaking about emission and receiving. But the resonance I am speaking about uses another type of connectivity. It uses awareness. And awareness can go forward in time, backwards in time, transcend, go anywhere.

There is a very big difference of resonance made by awareness and when I have to send something and receive something. In order that you understand that, it is just explaining the mechanism. When you are a radiesthesists, you are working with it, but understanding how it works would expand your possibilities enormously.

Look at it that way: we have all the information of the universe in our bodies. How? You must have the information of the perceived universe, because you projected it. You cannot project something and not have all this meaning in you, if you are the one who gave it meaning. So it is in you already, in your field. But that is the five percent. How about the absolute? Its information is within you because the laws from the absolute are the ones that work in the laws of your body, discovered by the absolute, like we said. So again you are in resonance to the absolute. All the information in everyone of you is energetically a copy of the whole perceived and absolute universe. You are everything in there and your body has the geometrical constitution to resonate with all this absolute. Because if you did not have the geometrical configuration to resonate with it, you would not hold it, it would not stay.

Imagine a geometrical shape that resonates with the full information of the universe of the absolute. This could explain what somebody said to me: Man is made of the image of God. That means: the geometrical configuration, that can be translated into the total energy of the universe. Now if you understand that, you have all religions and all the creeds within you.

I won't tell you anything new, it is coming out of you, and if you don't feel that, it is not real information. It is just a man-made thing. I am not making that out of courtesy, or something like that. No, we are speaking science here, there is no courtesy about it. I am just saying a very simple fact, if all the information of the whole universe is inside you, the problem is: how do I read it? I can only read 5%. How do I read the rest? There is so much if the whole knowledge of the past is in there. Even the knowledge of the different area's, different worlds, the worlds or area's where the dead are. Everything that existed or will ever exist is there. It makes you feel really great, but I want to access it.

Accessing the Knowledge of the Universe

The problem here is: it accesses you! You do not access it at will, but you can prepare yourself and when you are worthy of certain information, it accesses you. How do you prepare yourself? By knowledge, by work, by action. When you do anything, you are concentrating on it, you are increasing your sensitivity in that area. And when you do certain work, increasing your sensitivity in it, this work you are doing will start resonating with similar work. So it expands to resonance. Once it expands to resonance with external works, this inside thing now has found the light, the expansion.

So the information you need will come out. How⁹ By connecting to this expansion. You don't need the awareness to send it, it will come out when needed, so the information will come out. How will the information come out? When it is ready, it is like somebody waiting to go out but looking for an occasion. You know, somebody is closed behind that door, he is looking at us, he is waiting for us, let us say he does not work with radiesthesia at all. Let's say he is somebody who works as an agriculturist, maybe gardener. And he is very interested in what we are saying because he feels energy and all things like that behind the door. So he is waiting till we say the word: plant. And he just comes out and says: Yes! I know all about plants. How would he come out if you don't give him a chance to come out. But we have been saying the word "plant" all our lives, and he never came out because he did not know we were saying it.

This is what happens to us. This thing waits inside and waits till it finds something to tell you: look at this, to make you aware. What it does, it throws out a symbolic meaning at the thing. Maybe you can go out every day for thirty years in front of the same tree, and when that thing is ready, one day, you look in front of the tree: it shows the symbolic thing out there. When the apple fell on Newton's head - probably it didn't fall exactly on his head, he was studying the motion of the apple - but how many apples did he see falling all his life? Apples have been falling all the time. But when the law was ready If we have all the information of the universe it goes out, all you need is using the law of resonance through awareness to get this information.

When we speak about musical notes, or sounds or Wellenlange, we are using them in their transcendental function, not in their physical function. You can also for example use the length of wave on an antenna to access spiritual things, because you know the law of resonance. You can calibrate it, your antenna We are going to do an exercise and a bit later you all get your antenna's. We are going to calibrate the antenna's on all what we did. We are going to calibrate them on color, on music, on different things. So, you will have on your antenna the translation of one scale to another, you will have the calibration on it and then the colors beside it, the musical notes beside it, and you will have a mark for the gold too. Because you can resonate from one realm to the other realms. It does not mean that something works on a Wellenlange that you cannot translate to something else. No, you can easily translate it.

What we are doing now, is, when you are doing such a motion, what is happening when we do this⁷ When we did this, we made a movement that geometrically resonates with spiritual energies. When we do it, we don't need to be aware because there is geometrical resonance. The motion itself can awaken all spiritual things, spiritual information in you can come out. So, if you just sit for a moment and meditate, you will not be thinking, or it will be difficult for you to think, of how much money you have made this week in your business, are you going to sign a contract tomorrow', and all that. Somehow this will get strange ideas from your sub-conscience because you have tuned your station to receive from a certain thing inside you. Whatever motion you are doing, it is not prayer for something.

We are giving a geometrical resonance with our information of the universe and each one of you can get a totally different information. I mean, it is not the same information in everyone that will come out, it is very important information that will come; it is just waiting.

Now' we will do different exercises. I give you the gold. I showed you how it works, but I will do it without the gold. We have done the John the Baptist sign. Another one will be to hold your hands beside and below your cheeks. But this is very tricky, because it does not work at any distance. If you do too much . . . it does not work, if you are too close it does not work. At certain distance it works. You are going to feel the energy and in order to know that you are not feeling your normal energy of vitality, it is a point that increases the energy when you go in, it gets less again. Then when you come very near, of course you lose the energy. When you go in there is a point between in and out. It is difficult to get it, to feel it, it might be different the way you hold your hand or something but you can get it. Wherever you hold your hands there is a polarity, so when you do that you are going to feel energy all the time. Don't think of any emission of energy from your hands, the moment you emit energy from your hands you can't measure, you're open. Then bring it like that somewhere in there, there will be more energy than just before and just after. There will be very much energy, try, if you close your eyes, you'll get a golden thing, you can get it. I can test and see if you've got it properly. Your hand should be more open, should be more to the angle, yes. The feeling could be different for each person, because what spiritual energy also does is raise immunity, and when you raise your immune system there is cleansing. You could do this exercise and all of a sudden feel very bad or get bad thoughts; it is because it is cleansing.

Let's see, you have to get a bit closer. You feel it now? Just a bit out, slightly, okay, it is like adjusting something, you feel it, once you get it, it is a very slight difference, don't close your hands, keep them like that, slightly open and maybe a bit like that, okay. It is working now, you can open it a bit more, amplify it, but it is already working.

People are different in sensitivity, but if you don't feel it, that does not mean that there is nothing. When going into a building, a temple, a spiritual building, somebody might feel it very hard, the other person might not feel it. This does not mean one is better than the other, because on the absolute level we are all the same; one has trained the sensitivity, one has not. Like if somebody says: I can see the aura, the other one says, no I cannot, I can hear it. The other one says: I cannot see it at all; so what, we do not have to see it at all. We are not interested in going through the senses because it is always colored by our databank. It is just an exercise to show something. I would not really go and make a proper medical check-up or diagnosis just by looking at the aura, or just by passing my hand on the body or things like that. I could do it initially, but then when something is really critical I have to go deep and use my instruments go there and see. So it is not really important who is more sensitive, who can see, who can feel, the information is in everyone of us.

Now we have done our spiritual exercise for the morning.

Bio-Geometry

When you start shaking with this you did it very well, you got the proper angle, you see the feeling is different. When I give somebody a biogeometrical shape to wear, what happens when he wears it I am going to show you. I have lots of projections to show'. The aura will be amplified with spiritual energy. What happens is, initially, the first reaction, the aura amplifies, the immune system will become strengthened. When it becomes stronger, it starts cleaning your body, cleaning your body of the symptoms you associate with sickness, those symptoms the immune system will automatically start. If your intestines or colon have a weakness and you put a spiritual sign, you get diarrhea, but maybe for ten minutes, it cleans. Or if you are a smoker, you find yourself coughing, because your immune system is stronger now. It is like somebody who is too lazy to clean his house. The day he has enough energy, he starts cleaning the house. When you start cleaning the house you make a lot of dust, but after that it will be alright. With spiritual energy it depends how strong, or how quickly your immune system will rise. With some people you feel it goes up suddenly, with some people it goes up slowly. Once you increase the energy, the physical reacts different by different people. If it goes stronger, you can feel the cleansing effect. You do this, or do any spiritual thing and all of a sudden you get a headache or start cough, or there is something wrong with your body and then it gets okay. Or you can just bypass all that, no cleansing side-effects, and directly into the strong effect of the energy itself, so you can shake or do things like that. Everybody can feel different. Some people, when they wear a biogeometrical shape, the first thing that happens, when you sleep, is you enter into a sort of a nightmare state, because your subconscious is being cleaned, because healing happens on all levels. Maybe the first night you get a nightmare, so what? Maybe you remember things in your life, bad situations, slight psychiatric pulling them out. If this happens there is nothing wrong with that. The same thing happens when someone goes to a spiritual power spot. Some people go to a spiritual power spot, and they feel very enlightened, they see a lot of light, some others go to the same power spot and they feel either their whole system goes wrong, their whole health goes wrong, or they start getting nightmares or so. All are healthy symptoms, all mean we are being purified.

Negative green

Now I have two questions here before we go further into biogeometry. One is related to negative green, when we said the vertical negative green is not good for us and the horizontal negative green is good for us. What about the entities that live in the negative green. If we cancel the negative green, are we harming any entities, because we are not supposed to harm any entities in nature?

What we are doing here is: negative green is not a place to live for entities; negative green is usually the place where you find any type of entity, because negative green is the doorway. So any entity who wants to move from one place to the other will use the negative green. But this has nothing to do with vertical negative green or horizontal negative green. The entities will move just as well on the vertical or the horizontal. Moving from one realm to the other is not a permanent thing, they are not living inside the negative green. Usually, when negative green is found in nature, it is found in totality. When it is found in plants and human beings, I mean not coming out of the earth, then it is usually polarized. When the sun hits the moon, it is polarized, you get only horizontal. When the sun hits the earth you get the horizontal; only at sun flares sometimes you get the vertical with it. But this has nothing to do with entity life. It is just a doorway, a path of communication.

If you are going to use it in a way which is temporal, then you leave it vertical or horizontal. If you are going to use it in a permanent way then use the horizontal, other forms of life might live on the vertical. So you are not cancelling the vertical negative green from nature, you are cancelling it from your house.

Good and Bad; Action and Reaction

Everything is divine so we do not judge anything. If for example you say coffee is bad for me, or cigarettes are bad for me, there is nothing good or bad in anything, nothing at all. Good and bad is a relationship. Good and bad is the result of my mind not being able to balance the opposites properly so I create an excess of positive and an excess of negative. If we say evil it is an excess of positive or an excess of negative. Something is good or bad means balanced or imbalanced. That means we create the imbalance, nature creates the balance. But when we create imbalance it is only a step towards moving the spiritual energy which creates the balance. What we create we call good and bad on one level, or evil on one level comes into another level and becomes part of the duality to be arranged on a higher thing.

If you do something good in your life and you find bad things happening to you, there is the law of energy, every action has a reaction. There is no way of making an action without making an energy reaction. You can sit and do nothing, but whatever you do: action equals reaction. The reaction can never be bigger than the action, its physics can never be bigger, so the stronger your doing is, the bigger reaction you get. But it cannot be more than your action, the reaction can never exceed your power, your possibilities. Saying 'I am not up to it' is not possible, because the reaction cannot be bigger than the action. There is no avalanche effect here, and even in an avalanche effect the positive is being raised with the negative, so it does not really matter.

So if you find a big problem, if you know that this is a reaction to that, oh, I am really worth it. Yes, because what you get is related to your strength. Divine laws don't give you something. Divine laws do not kill a fly with a big stone. Don't think I am a person like that and I get a problem like this that will finish me. No, it is always action equals reaction.

When you know that, why is it equal to it? When there is a very strong action and I get a weak reaction, how can I balance the opposites? There is no balancing possible, they have to be both in a sort of similar power to balance them. If you get a juggler balancing both, there is a difference between a juggler playing with two little marbles and another one with two heavy balls. So if I have two really strong opposites, then this is a good chance to exercise my wisdom.

You have to know one thing that is very important. Let's say I have a problem with one of you; we meet and we create a problem. Then you think that this is a problem between the two persons. Reality is not what is between the two persons, look at it in a different way. Each person is projecting his reality, so each person is interacting with the problem and has his own reality. The problem is only where our realities interact. But then afterwards I have my reality and you have your reality, I have my perceived and you have your perceived, it is projected from within me. So now the real reaction is my reaction with my inner light, with what is in me. The situation is just an occasion, an exam, something for me to interact with what is in me.

If you look at it that way, then the other person who was there, he was just there to create a situation; there is nothing personal, he is creating the situation out. He is creating it then because he has his exam. He is working with himself and I am working with myself and the situation is created. If you do not think of this higher link, you forget the situation, you look at the person and the person looks at me and instead of an exam having such a magnitude we put personal things and inflate it, inflate it. The problem becomes so big because we are putting so much into it on the horizontal level that it becomes bigger. The moment I realize that I am just here to interact with the situation and the situation is an inner exam, instead of looking up here I look up there. At that moment the personal aspects that overload the situation disappear and only the test is left. A test is always something nice, it is an exam, you graduate. You can cancel the test if you want, but if you want your exam, there is a very tricky thing here. If you look at the situation horizontally, between you and the other person, the situation will become more than the action. You are pushing the reaction, you are inflating it more than the action between you and the other person, you keep inflating and inflating it, until you really feel you are getting what you deserve, or you feel as if it is a punishment for something. This happens because it is stronger than you.

But the punishment can become a present, if you look up and say: “this is a test between me and myself”. What happens when you look up⁹ The wisdom, this energy, the gold comes in and the gold balances everything.

So in the balancing it will take away the personal feelings until you are left with the situation. It is fantastic, in the process of balancing it, you are left with the exam. And so you feel that, instead of it being a punishment, it has become an exam for you, it has become a present, it is like an initiation, you are g

A Problem with Someone: Bless Him

For instance we will present this situation in a practical way: you have this problem with a person and what happens at the start? There will be negative energies surrounding both of you. You are harming the person and that person is harming you. You feel as if it is a psychic attack and your energy level goes down. You feel as if you have to protect yourself. How do you protect yourself against a person who hates you? We will do a test on this now.

First of all you think of the person and your energy goes down. When that person thinks of you, again your energy level will go down. This is the law of resonance. When you think of each other, both your energy levels will go down. When you are thinking “this person is harming me”, he is probably thinking the same. Where it starts, we do not know, but the result is that we are both bringing ourselves down.

The most obvious way of protection is in creating a protective energy field around you. It could be a ball of light, it could be anything, there are so many forms of protection. All these manners in which you can protect yourself will protect you against bad things coming from the outside world, but they will not protect you against yourself. That much is obvious because you are the one that creates the problem.

If you know the person that you are interacting with, you both know the problem, this means that he is already inside you. We are speaking about the copy, the resonance creates a copy. The person is inside you, so how can you protect yourself against something that is already inside your energy field? The protection will not work this way, because you already have the awareness, and the awareness creates a connection. The fact that you put up your shield means that you are aware! The moment you are aware you create a connecting link with the person. If this happens, both your energy levels will go down. It is inescapable, every time you raise your energy level it will go down again the moment you think of each other.

How do we solve this problem? We have to trick the system and it is a mechanical thing we have to trick. So what if you raise his energy when you are in resonance? It is easy to raise his energy because he is in you anyhow. Instead of raising your energy you raise his energy. You are in resonance with him, so you raise your own energy level because you are getting a copy of him.

How do you raise the energy level? By blessing him. Send him the spiritual light, make a spiritual sign. Bless him and this increases his energy level, so your energy too will increase. When both are inside of you, and you can bless him, then you could bless yourself. Why bless him⁰ Blessing yourself means that you want to raise your energy spiritually and you will raise his energy too. But blessing yourself is not very spiritual, there is something of selfishness, it lacks the unconditional giving, the giving which one links with spirituality.

How do you bless a person? I am going to do this exercise with you, so that you see how it works. If you bless a person and say: "Bless him and let him stop doing this", it does not work, it is no blessing. The most dangerous thing you can do, is to try to touch somebody's will, even your own will. Try to touch your own will and you are creating problems. Do not touch any will because, again, action creates reaction. So you are putting a subconscious pressure inside of him and since you are copies, you are putting pressure on yourself. This will stay with you for years. One day it will come out as a sickness or something else. For instance you said: "God bless him and make him stop", and you made him stop everything. The answer is still in there, to come out one day. So we do not want to touch any will.

You want to turn the negative relationship between yourself and him into an exam that you pass. When you say: "God bless him", it means that you want the divine exam but not the human one. If the whole situation has no divine aspect and there is no wisdom part in it, then maybe automatically the whole situation will disappear. But if the situation is a divine test that is written for you, then you do not want it to disappear. In that case, when you say "Bless him”, you are getting the wisdom aspect and not the personal aspect. You do not know the wisdom aspect, so you never say: ” I want this or I do not want that”. It is not up to you to judge, all you have to say is: “Bless him”, that is all. There is no other way.

If you knew how effective this method is - and I am going to show this now in an experimental way - you would bless your enemies day and night. I will tell you something. When I enter somewhere in a sacred building where I can pray, the first thing I do is to start with the people with whom I might have problems or who are against me. And I say: “God bless them” or “God bless this person”. So imagine a person starts by blessing his enemies. You do not want to start blessing your friends until your energy field is spiritually fully expanded and very clear and full of light. So you have a present to give to your friends, you are not giving them any problems. You start by blessing your enemies. After that you become very strong and very clean and can then bless your friends.

Is there anybody here who has somebody he hates and who is after him? I will show you how this works. Nobody can tell me that there is no one who hates him or that he has no problem with anybody, it would mean that you are doing nothing. The more you do, the more reaction you will create. For example before I came over here, those television programs made a lot of fuss about me, and now many people in Egypt are telephoning, so this had a very positive effect. At the same time, when a positive effect starts on a new science, I should expect a reaction of the medical association, the medical doctors, they would be curious about the medical effects. Does that make me feel different? It means I have something; if I had nothing, who would care? So you look at it in a positive way. What do I do in this situation? I say: “God bless the doctors. They are helping us so much in our life, God bless the medical system. How many of us have needed operations and have been cured. God bless them”; and not: “God bless them and make them stop this”. Everyone of us has had good experiences with the medical system, and some bad too okay, but they are doing their best. It is not the doctor’s fault, when he gives you a prescription, that the medicine has side effects. It is not the fault of the pharmaceutical company that they discover a cure but which will have side effects too. If they decided not to give it to you because it has side effects, it also would not be fair. The only thing they should say is: “Here is the medicine and these are the side-effects”. So we say bless them all. Bless the people who are making the mobile phones. They are harmful but I bless these people because it is something which makes my life more comfortable. It is up to me now to cancel the side effects.

It is quite normal that somebody can think of another person in this negative way, so I want somebody to come here for the experiment. Do not bless the person on the way, as the relationship has to stay as it is. We will first try the protection and then the blessing, to see the difference.

No Repressing

This act of not trying to repress or to change somebody's will, applies to you too. We are speaking about the person who is part of your energy field. Even when you work on your own energy field to change something in your life, you do not try to use anything on the will. Even if it is your own will. Because there is a natural way of change in life and there is an unnatural way of change. We all pass through different phases in life, these phases need the different characteristics we have. At one stage in your life some things were very important to you and others less so, your character was formed through certain things. Now you go through another stage in life and you do not need those other characteristics anymore or maybe - if they come into your present context - they are going to be harmful, you have to stop them. You stop them intellectually, mentally, you tell yourself in this position: "I should not do this".

For instance you like to drink too much or take anything that was part of your life at a certain age and now has to change at another age. You decide to repress this. Repressing it will become a problem. When you push any energy down, it will want to come up. Your strong will is repressing it. We are only aware of this problem on the day that your will, that is doing the repressing, is confronted with new elements, the new criteria that are repressing the old; when something happens in your life. When something hits your personality and shakes it. Once the repressor is shaken, those others will come up and revolt. And then we say that this is a person with a split personality because the one that has been imprisoned has come out.

We do not have to wait to see a patient with a split personality to understand what we are doing wrong. We can all be creating split personalities at a certain level in ourselves and in our children. This happens because we do not know how this works. If you repress something, if you hide it for yourself, that means that this thing that is being repressed, will come out one day. Even if it does not come out while you are alive. When you die, your conscience, the one that represses, is gone, there will only be the subconscious form left. So those things will just come out.

For example if you had a drinking problem and you stopped it by repressing it. Then you die and you have not touched a bottle for 40 or 50 years, you did not feel that you needed one, because consciously you finished. The external factors play a role. Say that you have become a very important person or a preacher, or somebody who cannot indulge in something like that; all those external factors have made it possible for you to repress this drinking habit. Either one day you will start drinking whenever there is a problem, or you will abstain until you die. The moment you die, there is no conscious mind anymore. Things will start flashing from the subconscious. What you have programmed just comes out. All of a sudden the soul, instead of going it's way, will come down to earth when it should not and go to the nearest bar. It cannot drink as it is not physical, so the only way in which it can enjoy the alcohol is by sticking to other people who are drinking. It is sticking to a person or in extreme cases, it might even think of possession. Our preacher, who stayed so clean all his life, is now in a bar possessing people and - if you could bring him back and tell him what happened - he would not recognize himself. He would think: "I lived a perfect life and the other guy was doing everything. Now I am back on earth and he is up there, does this happen to me? So why did I behave all my life? They are going to a higher level while I was better than them". This happens because he was repressing his urges.

There is a natural mechanism of going about these things. Whenever there is something like that in your life, you move on to something else. Change your direction of looking. Forget about whatever you were doing. What you were doing becomes unimportant because there is a new direction. Do not stop it. Just concentrate on your new direction and do whatever you want to do. Automatically, by concentrating on the new things, your attention will be caught. In time those things will become less important, and slowly the characteristic habit will fade. In this way there will be a healthy change. The same with your children. You teach a child by saying "do this, do that, don't do this or that". The moment they leave the house they can do everything they want. But if you just show them the proper way, look here, look there, you show them life, the day they go out they will have seen it all.

The Staircase; Don 't Judge

A very important thing here is, in order to properly interact with spiritual energy - spiritual energy will clean you from inside - that there is something you can do consciously to help this process along. You should know that each one of you is like a staircase. Every step on the staircase is some stage in life. Remember that you would not be sitting here in this spot on your staircase, if you had not been on each one of those steps down there. I think that people like you, who decide to come and spend a weekend here instead of doing anything else, are finding a certain value in themselves, otherwise you would not be here. There is something very important happening inside of you. Especially, the younger people are, the more I appreciate what they are doing.

Lately in lectures in Egypt I often see fifteen year old students. Big groups of teenagers are coming to the lectures. I am really happy because at our age it is more logical for us to be interested, we really need it. But children of fifteen, why wouldn't they go with their friends, why wouldn't they go to the disco, why should they come? A little while ago I got a very nice comment from one of them, it was a girl. She came and said: "we have so many friends our age who would like to have a weekly lecture, or if that is not possible, maybe a monthly lecture. Could you make one especially for us? When we come with twenty people and we find a hundred people in the room we feel too embarrassed to tell our friends to come. There are many of us, so could you do that?" Of course I appreciate the interest of those youngsters much more because they have so much else to do. That means that all of you have decided to put a value on yourself. What gave you this feeling of value? Every step along the way gave you that value. If there was a bad step, you would have a bad value. You went every step along the way.

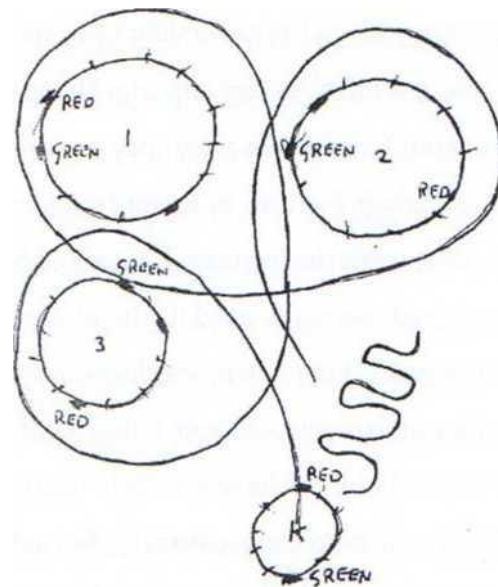

We do not want to judge: I used to do this but I stopped doing it. I am after a spiritual life and I changed completely and left that. That is wrong, because you are judging the steps you took in your life. You say that this one was a good or this one was a bad step, this one is okay and that one is cracked. As long as there are cracked steps on the staircase you will not be able to take another step or to build new steps. As an architect the moment I see a crack somewhere, I stop, I cannot go higher, there is a crack. But if you realize that you are causing those cracks yourself, then you will go down to repair the cracks and then you can build up again.

How do we repair the cracks? In stopping judgment. We stop judging anything about our life in the past. Wisdom will make you look at everything that happened before during your life as a very important thing in this moment. You can tell me about any action in your life, however bad it was, that has not worked out in a positive way towards the person you are today? You should be proud of every step you took on those stairs. That is the way to look at your past. I will give you an example.

Freedom

I am drawing three circles, three people, three situations, they each have the color blue in a different place. The green and the red and all the other colors in another place. Everyone is a totality, we have the total information of the universe. Imagine that each one of you is a field in which all the colors are present. I come and I am here in this corner and I too have all the colors in a different place. Depending on my taste, I am looking for something similar to my coloring. I will look for the colors I recognize and see from this angle.

Let us define freedom. One of the definitions of freedom is to be free, to form a judgment on anything and to express yourself. On this drawing I would express myself on the color relationships over here and that would be freedom. But actually what is happening, is that from this angle, I do not see all the colors anyhow in any one of them, because I am a prisoner of my point of view. So what you call freedom will put you in a prison. The moment you say: “I am free to express what I want”, means that you are the prisoner of your point of view.

You have to move on the drawing. If you move in a certain direction you will not see anything. But if wisdom directs your movements and controls it and you manage somehow to get the overall picture, then you will know that everyone has all the colors. If one of you is a radiesthesists and the other is an architect and you say: "I see another radiesthesists with whom I have something in common, with the architect I have nothing in common", go around him and maybe he loves poetry just like you. Freedom is the ability to move. Any point of view means that you are not free.

Back to the stairs in your life, one of the steps has a crack because you judge it; it is something out of your past life and you are judging because you are still a prisoner of your point of view. The day you become free you turn around, you repair the cracks. So once repaired, you can go higher up to build more steps. But as long as you judge, you will not be able to get any higher.

Blessing (continued)

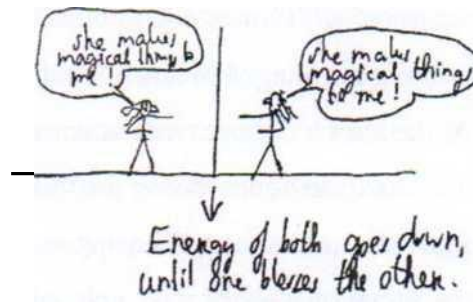

I knew this lady in Egypt who came to me and told me:

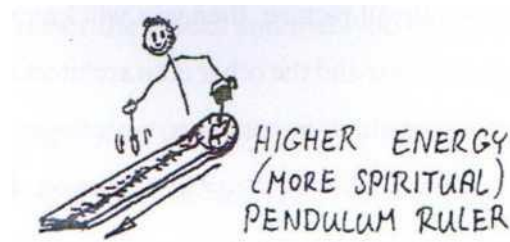

"Somebody is using magic against me. My husband divorced me and married another woman and this woman is doing me harm". I could have said: "This can not be possible, I spoke to the other woman and she said exactly the same thing about you". Of course I did not speak with the other woman but if I would have spoken to her, she would have said that anyhow. You cannot love her because she took your husband away from you. Automatically you are causing her energy to go down. And she cannot like you, maybe because with your husband she will always have the memory that he was with you, so she will bring your energy down. There is no magic in it, it is a very natural human thing that is happening. So you bless her.

She tried, but it would not work as you have to do it with all your heart. She said: "I cannot", and I said that I knew, because the level stayed down. You cannot trick it. In the end we got her to do it once, and her life changed. The next day she phoned me and she said. "I woke up today and I felt so much more relaxed and everything looks so much lighter. I am so happy. Instead of losing my thoughts to her or him I am thinking of my own life". All this because of the blessing.

This is how you have to look at things and we now apply this to the person who has the problem. (Continuation of previous experiment.) We do the measurement of your energy now.

Something has happened, his energy went up because of two things. The only thing that brings it up like that is he used some spiritual thing during building up his protection; it was not just a mechanical but spiritual thing which raised his energy. The spiritual thing will also protect him against all the other negative things he does not know about. Think about the person again. Awareness is like a telephone call. If you have made the connection with him then you have to trick the system. Think of it egoistically: "I am going to bless him just to feel better myself". Bless him anyway without wanting anything. See him in a lot of light and bless him. His energy level has gone up now. At the start it did not work and it took a bit of pushing.

Imagine now blessing the food before eating it, blessing your drink, blessing the tree in front of your house and blessing your home. When you go to somebody and you come in, bless the home and every time you see a person in your mind you bless him. If you do that continuously, you will be cured of everything. Your energy will go up every time. If you do this always, in time all the physical ailments will go away. This is a very simple way of doing things. Very easy and you will really help yourself.

The aurastar

Instead of speaking about measurements and using the pendulum, we are going to speak about architecture. We cannot explain architecture to architects with pendulums, we will talk about a different method. Most of us are healers here. If this weekend was only for architects, then it would not work to tell them to design in a certain way because the pendulum says so. They need to have things which they can see with their eyes.

So we use three levels to diagnose the human being.

I the first level is radiesthesia.

II the second is with anatomical charts

With radiesthesia and anatomical charts I can analyze in a very precise way the energy, when I am doing my work. It is the quickest and most accurate way.

III the third level will be the complete medical diagnosis in hospital before and after with every case.

This is an intermediate level and the idea behind an intermediate level is to have a visual level, because most people want to see things.

This system works like this: you have reflexology points in your hand related to the organs. These zones are a bit more widespread than acupunctural points. You can actually make electrodes in the form of a hand and put your hand there (any size will do). In reflexology there are some small movements you can make to take the size of different hands.

Why reflexology? It is not to make a quick analysis like that, as it is not very practical to come with different electrodes and keep sticking them all over the body. You cannot tell everybody to take off their clothes and then start with something like that. Reflexology is an easy way to get electrical information. The accuracy here is not our problem. As I told before, for accuracy I use radiesthesia and there is medical diagnosis. The accuracy of reflexology depends sometimes on the humidity in the room, because you are putting your hand on a sensor that picks. It is the same with acupuncture. It also depends on what is happening to your skin, you can be sweating a bit or you can have a dry skin, so you have, let us say you have got 85% accuracy. What we are looking for now is change. We want to see what changes can happen to a person by biogeometry, by biosignatures, by architecture. So here we have for example the energy of the kidney, the energy of the uterus. What happens here is: the programmer of this software has taken these measurements, and super-imposed on the picture here, Leonardo's circle and square with the human body, the measurements from the hand around the body. So this could be a medical diagnosis or something like that. But as you know, all aura's are related one way or the other, some people can use this to see higher states, but originally it is a medical thing, it works on the functions of the body.

So this is a normal person without biosignatures. Here for example you see changes in the stomach. It shows you the organs. We are not going into the analysis of the organs now; the colors are enough, we can see it with the colors. Now we take the color scale, the green would be the balance. Light blue and yellow are also in the balanced area. Where colors get a bit darker, you have imbalance. And as you go to the red you have imbalance. Here you have over function. Here over- plus under function. It needs a bit of training to read the colors, but you will get to know this. Now if we use just a biogeometrical sign on that person, you see what happens. The nice thing is this instantaneous effect.

I was in Switzerland a few months ago, and went to a conference about energy healing in Basel for three days. I found the people using this Auramaster. I was intrigued if this machine was sensitive enough to pick up what I did. The first thing I tried with my wife, was to put a hand on the machine, I drew a sign on the other hand, and it changed something. I found this instantaneous response of the body. So I liked the idea, and I bought the machine.

We are now in the process of developing a very nice thing. The lady who invented the machine, came to Cairo and saw the work we do with biosignatures. She is proposing to get the programmers to do a very interesting thing for me. She said: "If we find a disturbance in an organ, we can put in a database the signs that are related to this organ". So every time a disturbance like that happens, the computer can print a sheet with the signs this person needs. Then while the person looks at the sheet with the signs, it will change. All this is instantaneous. So we get a print of the person without the signs, and a print with the signs. Perhaps there are still some problems left, then maybe we can adjust. In the beginning we will have to do a lot of intervention to correct, but maybe in time we can do it. I received an e-mail recently that the programmers are willing to integrate this in the machines program, so many people can use it without understanding radiesthesia.

Now this is biogeometry. We are not speaking about any healing. We are just speaking about the gold, the three components in the body. In this case there was no aggravation. But you could have in a case for example the red here increase very much, and then recede. It depends. Sometimes you get this, sometimes you get that.

Architecture

Now what does this have to do with architecture? Look, this is the same person again with the effect of biogeometrical architecture. You see the effect is much stronger even than the sign: why? Because the sign is this small and architecture is that big. But to test this I did not put the person in an architectural house, I test it with the plan. The plan of course is bigger and more effective than a biogeometrical shape. But if you get into a real house 3 dimension, you will still get a much better effect than that. But you can check it on the plan. You don't build a house first, and then you measure and you find, upps, I must have done something wrong.

I will show you the plan that I used for this check. It is a plan for a small tourist health spa on the Red Sea that I am building. It is built with biogeometrical shapes, and it has springs. After I bought the land I found the springs there. I went to measure them, and guess what : gold! I thought first impression, I was auto suggesting myself. It would be too good. You want to build a health spa with biogeometry and all that, and then you find the gold spring. So I tested with other pendulums: gold. I took some water with me and let other people test: gold. So now the buildings have a healing effect just by being there. The plans here, the text is a bit in arabic. There are two floors, on the lower floor: entrance, bedroom, guest toilet, bedroom with bathroom, living/dining area, open kitchen and storage, an open terrace. Going up there are two rooms with bathroom, a living area. It doesn't have to look like this. Each architect has his individual style. I used biogeometrical shapes here.

With biogeometry' you don't have to take consideration for north and south. You only have to take architectural consideration for the view, the sun and the north wind. Besides climatological considerations, biogeometry, once it puts the spiritual, cancels all the directional Influences.

The most important thing here is that it cancels all the electric or vertical negative green. (Some people call the vertical, negative green, the electrical and the horizontal, the magnetic. You will find some books, referring to electric and magnetic, actually it should be electric-like and magnetic-like). So what this will do, it will cancel all the harmful effects of the grids, or of any underground waters. How will it cancel it? It cancels it by the gold and the excessive magnetic green. The first researches in radiesthesia for cancer were done in the thirties. People were using horizontal negative green to combat the vertical negative green of the cancer in the body. There is a book in french written in the 30's or 40's by Henry Chretien, "Le Concert". It is all about radiesthesia, the grids and the cancer; but he says if you have negative green in there, and you have the gold, you are protected from all those harmful things. The good thing is, it will also protect you against all the appliances and all things that you have in the house. That does not mean that you should not look at the polarities when you put the electricity; you have to do everything, but this will do the necessary protection.

Now let's look at this plan. There are many architectural interpretations in it which are my individual expressions, combined with biogeometrical considerations. What I want to do now is very simple. For you to make sure that the biogeometrical works, we are going to test it. We already have one person here because his saliva sample is here. Now can someone else come over here and hold his hand above the drawing; just above it. The light will take the energy up to your hand. You see how it works? Now everyone can take out his pendulum and test if the projection emits gold. Or does the projection cancel it, because it is projection, inversion, mirror and all that. You see the gold is still there. Why? Because the spiritual energy cancels the physical properties, like it can cancel your relationship to the north. Even in a mirror. I can tell you about that in architecture and Chinese medicine and Feng Shui, the mirror is a very tricky thing. Every radiesthesists knows that, because it inverts vibration. That is why in old times they say if you look too much in the mirror, you will become mad. Because it inverts your vibration and hits you so that your aura shrinks. If you put spiritual energy on the mirror, it cancels the bad effect. What I usually do when there is a mirror, I draw this sign in one or all four of the corners, and the effects is finished. You can do the same on your computer screen. You can try everything that is not biogeometrical; once it goes into the mirror it gets inverted. So even this we can bypass.

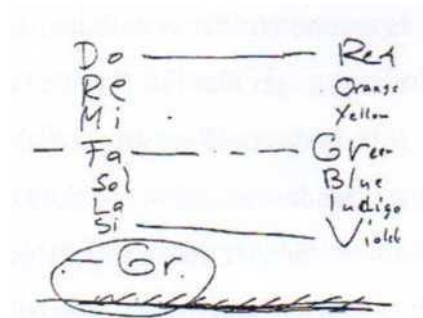

After lunch we will go to the practical. How do we make biogeometrical architecture. How do we make biogeometrical color placements. I will give an idea about color placements in Feng Shui, and then give an idea how we do it, because what is the difference between Feng Shui and biogeometry color placement? What would be the criteria for biogeometrical color placement? The objective, the goal for the placement would be: find the place for everything, put it in the place where it creates gold in the whole room. From now on your middle name is gold. Be like King Midas: whatever he touches turns to gold. You have to become King Midas in a biogeometrical way. Turn everything you touch into gold. Lucky enough you will not turn your food into gold.

Calibrating Instruments

Before we go into biogeometry, I ask all of you to calibrate your measuring instrument on the color scale on the gold. We can adjust a lecher antenna on the color. Find out the length that corresponds with red and make a mark, and with the other colors. And make a mark for gold. So who wants to calibrate his instrument? For a quick calibration we choose one color. You see I make the red on the flip-over. Now find out the length on your antenna for red and make a mark (4.6?). We can cross-check with each other. We have that⁹I put the blue and the green beside it, so that we can work on that. Afterwards you can do the rest of the colors, but three is enough for now. Mark the points so that we end with a color scale on your measuring instrument.

We can also calibrate on a tone, and then you will have correspondence of color and wave length. What note do you have? It is an F (Fa). What do you find? Green! Green is 7.2 So now we have the correspondence.

F=green. The green is in the middle of the color scale and the F is in the middle of the tone scale, so they correspond. When you go up, you go to red; and down you go to violet.

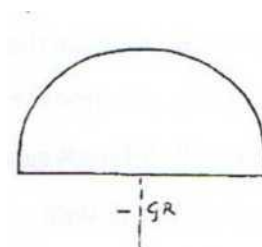

Sometimes you might find a blue inside the C (Do). It is like the yin and the yang; sometimes inside the yin you find the yang, inside the yang you find the yin. Because there are actually six opposite scales interpenetrating, depending on the wave length and the amplitude etc.; all different scales. So sometimes you have a primary, a secondary, a third scale hidden within each other.

What I am interested in now is the gold. We need to have something big in gold. Can you see it⁹ Can you do your calibration? Don't concentrate on the lower point, because that's an Egyptian Ankh; there will be negative green coming out there. After you calibrated on gold you are going to calibrate on orange. There is a primary orange in gold on 12.5 (and secondary' violet, a third level of something else). Are your calibrations close to each other? Then there is no problem with calibration. Because you know in radiesthesia, especially when you test other people, sometimes different people get different measurements. You should not think that there is something wrong; you might be getting a different level. When you are measuring something are you measuring the material, the external color, the shape? There are so many levels of measurement. Even if you measure any element. All elements are on seven lines in the Mendeliev table. Each line where you have elements, you will have a different color for the material. But there are only seven lines, seven colors and more than ninety materials. Where is the difference?

You will find many things on the color red. You test the primary color, then it will be red. Then the secondary color for each material, a third; fourth and fifth color. Some radiesthesists in some books go as far as telling you that the hierarchy of colors of any material can go up to 22 levels. They can do it in numbers, test which number is first, which is second etc. Or in colors, or in sound. But up to 22 would be the combination. Nobody wants to go that far But this is just to show you somebody could get the first level, and somebody could get the second one. If you want to analyze gold for example gives orange, and a secondary color in the blues or in the violet. Somebody might get the secondary color and not the first. It doesn't really matter.

When you measured gold in total, material resonance with gold, did you get the scale measurements for gold⁹ Where is it in relation to orange? Is it near it or far away? Test the orange too. 18⁹ Let's do this; adjust on the orange and see if you can use this adjustment to resonate with the gold; is it near enough? There is so many different oranges, it is an orange range. That is why I am not saying is it on it, but is it near it. On it, we would have to get the perfect colors. Remember these gold are also not pure gold's; they have things in them. So that is why I am saying it is near it. So if you don't have gold with you, you can use the orange. All our instruments can detect gold now. And negative green⁹ That is very easy. Let us calibrate on negative green too. I can even do that when I use green, but I won't use green not to mix you up. The easy way to do it would be to draw half a circle. Let me see, yes it works, you can calibrate here on this line.

Is there anybody having trouble with calibration? Sometimes with so many people in the room, working at a distance, you will be crossing so many energy fields, you might get trouble; it is easier to come and put your hand near it than from far. If anybody has trouble, you can get a simple string and put a weight on it. just like a pendulum, then move it like any pendulum. Coming at every color keep moving it, changing the length. When it turns, make a knot in the string. You can do all the colors very simply on a piece of string. With some instruments, especially the rod, you might have difficulties, depending on the type of rods you are using.

When you don't have the colors, you may calibrate on simple angles, each corresponding with a color. The most precise instrument is this virtual cone, developed by Chaumery and De Belizal. They thought it is easier to calibrate the pendulum geometrically than using colors; it is a way of translating real cones, with various apex angles to be calibrated to various colors. To get all of them, I could get an umbrella, I change the position of the umbrella with a string and each time I get a different color. Because you wouldn't like to carry an umbrella all around, Chaumery had the idea that when you think of something, or when you identify it with a few points, it will still give the effect of the complete shape. He thought: can

I make a virtual cone, a "cone fictif"? So he made this pendulum in wood. A disc is sliding along a stem, and the virtual cone is defined by the point and the base of the disc. Moving the disc up and down, supporting it each time by a little pin in a thorough going hole in the stem, I can get all the different angles. The lowest one is usually the negative green. Then you go up all the way, above negative green, you have black, infrared, and somewhere here is green, going up you have the violet and white and then above the white below the black you have negative green again. For the gold you can calibrate it. This is very simple but it is the most precise device I have ever seen. It is so sensitive, when you hold one of those in your hand ..

Q.: Can you buy them?

A.: You can buy them in Europe, but if you have any troubles I can send them from Egypt, but they are very easy to make, provided that you calibrate them correctly. If you want it pre-calibrated, we can send it to you.

Q : I have a problem with calibration. I found that when you put this pin in a hole and you make the disc rest upon it, the upper surface of the disc does not correspond with the marking line on the stem.

A.: It is the lower surface that is important.

Q.: Yes, but also that is lower than the mark.

A.: That is so that it takes on the mark. It depends on the manufacture, but the Chaumery one puts it down here. Is it not accurate?

Q.: What determines the accuracy is the position of the pin. The hole should be just below the mark.

A.: Yes it should be, and you should have this integral smaller size disc up. The people who calibrated this they have been testing it, they calibrated it on the hole. The other one (the mark) would be secondary. It works correctly.

Remember in the cone fictif you have this little dent. Chaumery never spoke about it, he never said why. On the base of the disc he wrote: down, and here. up. The reason is that besides every angle, there is another angle that gives the vertical. The vertical and the horizontal are one thing, so at a slight shift it gives the vertical. When you turn it upside down, the disc moves slightly, 2 millimeters, the angle changes a bit and you detect the vertical.

Q.: Also with negative green?

A.: Yes, that is precisely why he never said why it was. When Chaumery died from the negative green - you don't want to fill your body with negative green every day - he preferred not to let people play with negative green.

This is the most precise instrument. For the gold you hold gold in your hand, it's more precise, and this is the pendulum.

Q.: Is there a similarity between the horizontal and the vertical component of negative green, such as with the left and right polarity of the Lecher antenna?

A.: The vertical negative green will give you a negative polarity, and the other one will give you a positive polarity. Spirituality will give you positive polarity.

If you have to work with negative green, then put a bio-geometrical sign on you to help you. But there is one thing: if you make a protection from negative green, when you wear the bio-geometrical sign it will not affect you at all, but you cannot measure. If you want to measure, you are concentrating your awareness on the negative green, so your protection is gone. But the good thing is that when you wear a bio-geometrical shape it will help you back again. Whatever you do, don't spend too much time with negative green.

Q: I work a lot with measuring earth grid lines, what can I do with all the negative green, what can I do to protect myself?

A: 1) Go a lot in the sun, there is green.

2) Wear biogeometrical shapes at all time.

3) Every time there is negative green inside you, take a shower the same day.

4) The very important thing: you take an anatomy book, look at the organs, any organ in your body, that you find with the pendulum which has vertical negative green, straight away you do healing on that organ and get it done with on the same day.

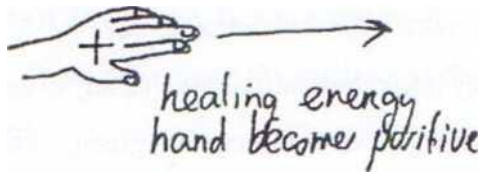

For polarity I will take a battery. If I use this hand to put a finger on one pole of the battery I will get a different result than when I use the other hand. The point that gives me positive with this hand will give me negative with the other, because my body is polarized. So always when you make a polarity measurement you do it the same way as your calibration.

There is something you must take care of whenever you measure with the pendulum colors or polarities or something, in such calibration you should let it continue for a long time, because there is point which is called a series point. If you have heard of Abbe Mermet, the Jesuit priest, he found one point on the pendulum between the polarities that gives a series point. A series point will turn on any object; a number of turns clockwise, a number of oscillations and the same number the other way and then stop. It is based on the qualitative aspects in the shape of numbers. When he was looking for water, he would check the series point; clean water had number series so and so, dirty water had this, salty water had that. He was the most famous sourcier, water diviner, in France. He could tell how deep the water is, the direction of the flow, the amount of the flow and the quality of the water. He applied the series method. The difficulty with the series method is when it goes in one sense and then when it stops turning there is ellipse in-between. For good results you should do your counting when the pendulum pulls; then the ellipse is not pulling and then it pulls again and you do your count, it comes back to the ellipse and after that it pulls and you do your count. So with sensitivity you get it. I'm just explaining this series point because when you don't use it you should avoid it, because it will mix you up. When you do mental work in radiesthesia, like many of you do, you should avoid the polarity point and the series point, because if my pendulum is calibrated on polarity and I don't know, just by chance I hold the point of polarity, and then I'm asking mental questions and the pendulum will go and measure polarity.

Now I have calibrated my pendulum on polarity.

You will remember what I told you about polarity of the eyes? But the polarity of my eyes (one closed and one open) cannot be observed anymore. What cancelled the polarity? The gold! When I emit healing energy from my hand, with a bit of gold and a bit of spirituality, the whole polarity becomes positive. This is very important for those of you who do healing by polarities of the body: you should not think I put spiritual energy with it. Spiritual energy doesn't need polarities; you can put your hands anywhere and it will work. Don't think spirituality unless you have finished the polarity treatment. So this is how the positive negative green cancels the other one automatically, although it is here only polarity, but everything becomes positive.

Radio-activity is one type of negative green. You will know the famous story about the monks who lived just off Hiroshima when they had the automatic blast there. The monks stayed in the area, of course outside the direct blast. Not one of them got sick, any sickness related to radio-activity, because they were praying through the whole event, so the gold cancelled even radio-activity.

Q.: A question about polarities: As a rule one finger is left and the other one is right, but I stumbled on people that had one hand completely left and only two fingers right on the other hand.

A.: The polarities? Yes. There are sometimes mixed polarities in the body when there is a disturbance in the electric polarity under the shape. It could come out through the polarity of the shape.

What does this have to do with architecture? When you cancel polarity, this means that you cancel all your problems related to direction. I will show you how this works. We still have the sample here of one of you. Now-I want you to stand here. I am measuring here and I am getting around the energy up to the half line, 50% I want you to turn; stop. You see, it went down completely, nearly 5%. So when you would sit in that direction for the next hour, you would feel completely depleted. Now turn again, in any direction. A bit more, wait. That means that the directions play a role here.

We'll do the same test again, now what happens. Turn again to the other side, take another direction, another direction. You see: he is not affected by anything.

Q.: Did you put your other pendulum (scepter) towards him?

A.: Oh, you were looking. Because I put the pointer, the biogeometrical shape emitting against his body. Now I give him this in his hand. Now turn in any direction. We said spiritual energy cancels all polarities. You are raised in a state on a higher level than the physical state.

That means that my architectural plan or my building will work in any direction. If I wanted to start by telling you now where to place your bed - which is very important, because you are eight hours a day in your bed - there is a slight problem. The polarity of the man is opposite to the polarity of the woman, so who shall we sacrifice? If I would now try with a lady here, we would find that she is at the maximum where he is at the minimum and the opposite. There is no direct solution for where your head should point, unless you are sleeping alone. So what do we do? We cancel the polarity. So that is what we do with biogeometry.

The Laws of Biogeometry

Biogeometry means that we are working with spiritual energy. Let us try to find the laws; these laws would have to do with divine wisdom or something like that. When you draw a circle this is a motion around a point which is beyond time and space. If I measure with my pendulum the center, this will give me gold, but the moment I say this is the center and I draw it on the paper, I will lose my gold, because it is another shape, another circle. You should understand the spirituality beyond time and space, the abstract, the absolute, the everything and nothing, once you can point at it from within time and space, but if you think you have your hand on it, you don't have it. If you think now I can philosophize about what is God, at that moment it escapes you again. The moment you put the point, you lose it.

We'll have one quick yoga exercise. The most important yoga exercise in your life. If you are aware of it, this is the secret of secrets; it is the easiest thing you can think of: just rotate your head or your body, just a small rotation. Any rotation will create an invisible center. The moment I change direction, this means that there is a force, I'm pointing to the center. So the idea to tune in with the center is: from where you are, within time and space, create a motion that connects you to the center. Put your finger on the center and it is lost, but the nearest thing to it is rotation, so rotation is the secret of secrets.

You have two types of rotation, clockwise and anti-clockwise. They both work but one of them is beneficent to us, as energy giving, the other one is energy taking. When I go around a spiritual spot I want to take its energy so I go round in left direction. In Mekka they do this. In all other cases only the clockwise rotation is good.

There is a Sufi saying - it is actually the meaning of the word Islam, which people nowadays don't know -, that is 'surrender'. Surrender to what? That you are under somebody Else's command That is what we said this morning, your face is your personality. Surrender, give your face, instead of your face having this direction, put your face in another direction, that is a rotation towards another place. Exactly as we said this morning: instead of the personality being the king, becomes the servant to another king, and this is just by rotation. In the Holy Koran it says that every major prophet in every religion, like Jesus Christ is a moslem, Mohammed is a moslem, Moses is a moslem, Christians are moslems, Jews are moslems. It is not meant by that they have the Islamic creed, it means that they all have turned their faces. If you are aware of the real secret of rotation, that is the secret of secrets. So awareness makes you enter into resonance with the center.

Now we are going to do this, this awareness. You can do it with your hand, a nice yoga exercise while we are sitting. Slowly make a rotation, you may close your eyes and create a center somewhere ... clockwise. Do you feel something? Let us test it; you'll see: it is gold. If you want to make it another time, stand up. You don't have to make a full circle, just indicate it, any rotation is pointing to the center. If you receive a guest, make a gesture with your hand: please. So just try and rotate, and after that take your pendulum and see if there is gold around you. Probably you will find it in the whole room, you will find the center. Let's try it, at this point there is no gold. Now all of you make your rotation ... you find gold everywhere in the room.

Q : Can you measure intensities?

A.: That depends on your rotation, on your awareness, right now I am only showing you that it happens.

Rotation will be the first principle of design. For example in the design I made, which I showed you, how did I create rotation. With my modular axis for the design, I have in axis like that, so I rotate it and put another square in that square (A). Then that is the modular system for the villa which causes the rotation. I have a room, I can do two things (B,C) that cause rotation. This could be applied on a small scale or a big scale by anybody designing anything.

Application in Architecture

How does this express itself in architecture?

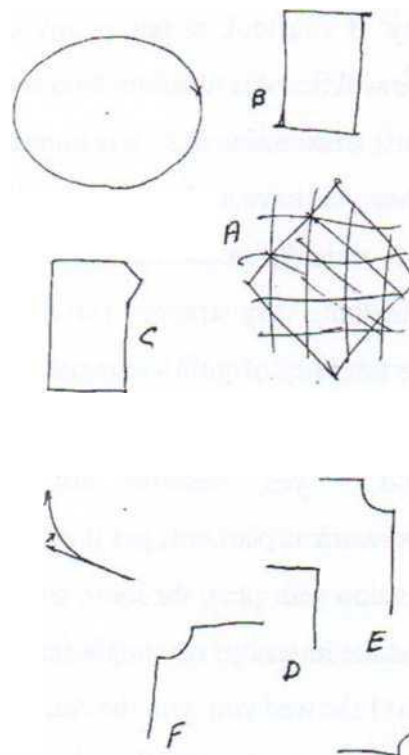

If you look at shape (D), that doesn't do much.

Here I touch the center and lost it. Now with biogeometrical shape (E). This shape (E) rotates either in this or in that direction; when you look at it this way you will feel it rotates that way. Then the direction of rotation of course makes a lot of difference, but what happens with spirituality? Once you have rotated you are beyond time and space, the direction of rotation doesn't count anymore, because even that you cancel. So if I draw the shape that way (F), it works as good as (E). The invisible center is radiating out there.

Q.: You can design on any length?

A.: Anything, because biogeometry is the property of shape, the concept of shape, not a fixed proportion, not anything. The difference between sacred geometry and biogeometry: one is fixed proportion, this is movement, the quality of shape. In a few minutes we will see the difference between biogeometrical placement of objects and Feng Shui; again one with the complete freedom and motion of spirituality and one which is a bit fixed.

In Feng Shui you would have difficulty in cancelling an earth radiating spot, but you can do that with a biogeometrical shape. With Feng Shui you will have to stick to polarity; here you are above polarities, so you can allow yourself to change, you don't have to put the green in the East But his freedom has to go according to wisdom. There come new laws. Wisdom means: I place green somewhere where it creates spirituality in the whole room.

If I can move in any direction, then there are so many different biogeometrical shapes. I'll tell you a few of them I work with. By putting a grid like this (A), I already have a sense of rotation in the drawing.

Q. . Is it important in which direction the plan is rotated?

A.: Once you are measuring, once you get the gold, it doesn't really matter when the plan is rotated, but to get the gold, you will probably have to do it the clockwise way. If you look at one of my plans you will find this rotation. You see the sense of direction in it. It is important, when you have a plan, just rotation is not enough, you're going to find something very strange. The amount, the intensity of gold - remember you asked: can you measure the intensity of gold - yes, because not every geometrical plan will get the same intensity. The better your architecture is, the more you develop your plan, the more you get gold in it. If you have a scale, say, on a ruler like this, to find the intensity, you might find that this plan gives 50, some sketches may give 50, the plan that I showed you with the Aura machine is 300, by the time we reach this plan as shown, this is much more potent. Somehow you feel this rotation of the whole thing.

Now we quickly go to some more elements; I'll show you some, and then I will show pictures of these elements. If I want to spiritualize the energy of a room, in the beginning I was so happy that I wanted to build houses anew and build them biogeometrically; that is the only solution for everybody. Then of course it doesn't work; you cannot pull down your own house, so I had to find other solutions, without tearing the house. One of the very simple solutions is nothing simpler than what we have been saying these two days. Life couldn't be simpler, I don't know why we are making it so complex; I'll show you a very effective biogeometrical way. In a room like this, what can we do.

Let's say this is the section of the room; this is the ground and energy is coming up and just coming down, I put horizontally against the wall, a beam having a cross section a triangle 45° , 45° , 90° . So I create with two grids a simple thing on the wall. You see how simple that is.

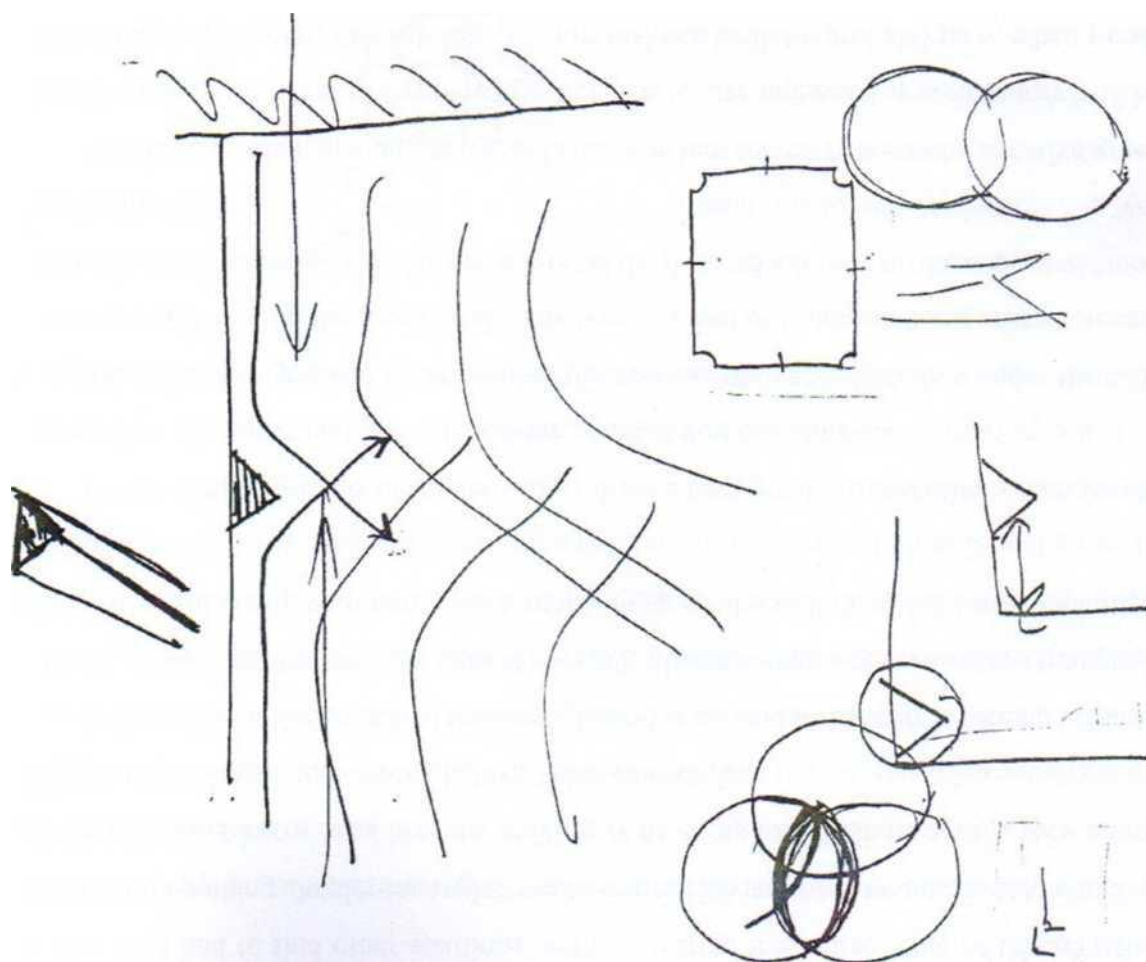

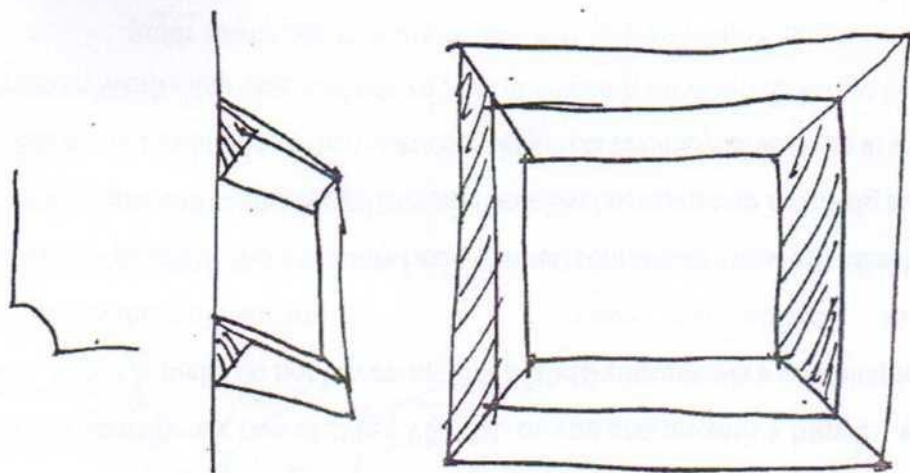

If you want to use this beam vertical -I draw a horizontal cross-section - then you have to put two. So horizontal you can put one, vertical you can put two.

This of course you can do anywhere, this section, 45° , 45° , 90° . Just under the ceiling, you can use it around the room. Make any type of panel of frames in decoration, you can do a bit of a classical thing. You can use it around the door, as a square on the cupboard, you can use it anywhere.

You have to use it in multiple places because in bio-geometry it is not a negative green or a gold emitter. (I have told you we do not like to use emission in architecture.) If I put something in front of it, that will stop it; it just makes a field. So probably now, when we made this rotation, you wouldn't find the gold outside in the corridor, but if we emit gold it goes out but we do not like emission.

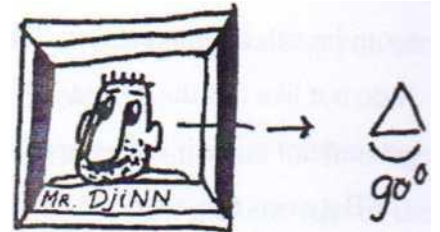

You can actually use two of those vertical, or you end up with a frame; I will show you the frame. Now I actually do not have a picture of the frame but it is a very simple, now I make a frame. This is the cross section.

Any size is possible. You actually need the horizontal one, we work all the time with it. Any horizontal one will work alone. The only sensitive aspect if you are using the two vertical ones without a horizontal one, then you cannot go too far, they have to be at a distance. If it is in a frame it works any size.

Possession

To show the effects of this frame I take a very extreme case, a case of possession. We have a lot of such cases, because in Egypt many people play around which fire entities we call djinns, like Aladdin and the djinn in the magic lamp. Those djinns have lots of properties, but they are not fire elemental like in Europe; it is another dimension of fire. Many people, especially in the poor areas, interact with those djinns, because those djinns make miracles for them. The djinns are not elementals on the emotional astral level as most elementals are; they are between the astral and the physical, so they can materialize as small animals like snakes and things like that.

Some people of course interact with the djinn, because the djinn can perform healing and things like that. They lower your spirituality completely and the djinns possess people and then give them powers. The family will not go to exorcise the person, because the person has become a spiritual man. The djinn will read in your mind and see who you like most. If you like a saint, he will tell you I am the saint so and so and I have come to enter into your aura; it is some sort of medium ship. They perform lots of healing and the villagers keep bringing them presents. This is a very bad thing because the djinns can be very nasty, they are a possessing entity. Usually exorcism of the djinn is much much more difficult than any other type of exorcism of any other entities. The church or the priest will do it. They have special exorcists who have the know-how.

If we have something invading something, spiritual energy by biogeometry will not attack anything. It is not a protection, it is not attacking, it is not harming, it is not that at all. What it will do is balancing energy, it restores, it gives wisdom, it restores wisdom, it is a balancing law. Natural wisdom does not place the djinn inside your body, this is not wisdom, so spirituality here is a very strong solution. Anyhow we know it is the priest and the shapes that do the exorcism, so we know that spirituality is linked to it.

In some very very severe cases they come to me to find a solution. Sometimes I need to put not only protection or not only change the energy field of the body, but also clean the place of the building. Sometimes I give a person a sign to wear. The moment the sign goes in, the aura changes color like you have seen here; once it changes color and the infrared has minimized, the djinn has no hold. So he just floats up. But he can go out and if he is in the room he can tell the person: "throw off that thing". And automatically this person will say: "I do not like this thing" and will throw it away and the djinn can come in again. So sometimes you cannot solve it unless you clear the body and you clear the space at the same time.

Between this shape to clear the space and this shape on the body (figure 5) we have managed to do phantastic things with exorcism. The problem with such entities, the exorcism business is always a very' nasty thing. When you see how it is done, it is a very messy thing, but the way we do it is very easy and clean.

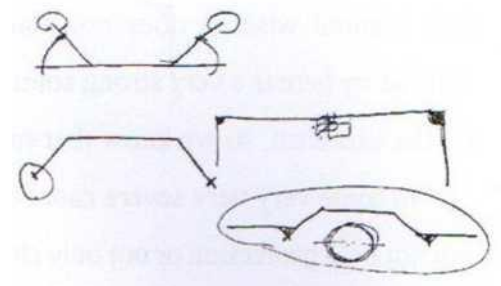

There is a very important thing here also for medical people. What is the difference between possession and multiple personality; is possession the ancient term and multiple personality the new term? The problem is that maybe between 100 patients 99 will be multiple personality and 1 only will be possession The doctor who treats the multiple personality, what does he have to do? What you do is reconciliation. Reconciliation of the opposites, so the patient will get his balance back.

The treatment with possession is separation of the opposites. What happens if a possessed person falls in the hands of a psychiatrist? He wants to join them and give him things he does not want to join because he is resisting this foreign thing. Psychiatrists give him tranquillizers or lithium or things to weaken his resistance, so you are inviting the thing. The patient might end up mad, and will be sent to a sanatorium and we will never know that this wasn't a case of a split personality.

The same thing is dangerous when a person with split personality goes to a spiritual healer or an exorcist. An exorcist will look at the split personality and split you in half.

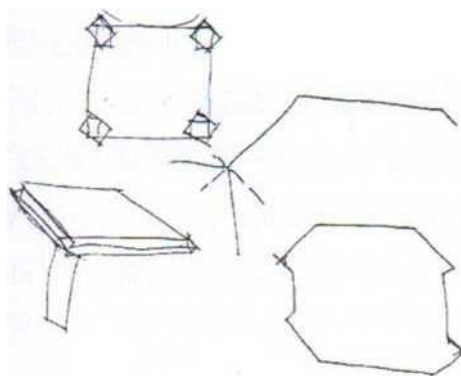

For Architects and Decorators

Now, I am going to do some touches there for architects and decorators. The very simple elements I told you are enough to do a lot. I show you how. You have the corner of the room like that, (figure) you come and do something here, or the ceiling, you put a circular thing here, anywhere, sides up. You can really start using this.

The problem is, when you have the walls, sometimes you cannot go all the way here and do something like that, you have to separate both. But sometimes you can separate with an object here, or you can draw a line on the wall so that you can get this on the wall, so you can use it for the corner treatments. The corners are always problematic.

If you design a chair, these are the four legs of the chair. What if I turn the four legs of the chair? I have here four vertical emitters on the sides, for example. I am giving general rules that apply to all of you and we will keep in contact at all times.

Now you did here two things, you did rotation and you got these vertical elements together there. You could of course in the same chair - if it is like that and you have already solved this aspect by doing this rotation -, you could come here on the sides of the seat of the chair (figure) and make something like this if you want. You can use that for tables, for chairs, for whatever you want.

A very potent shape is this shape, and here a very tiny cross. The cross is not needed, the cross is the connecting point. If you draw' it that way and that way, I am doing half of it now. Now I want to connect this that way, it does not work. You find in many houses the niches like this, it does not work. It is a very simple shape, you have this and it is a double rotation here.

You may say : oh, this shape is everywhere. It is not the shape, bio-geometry is the quality of shape. So quality of shape means: how' do I interact which this shape. You can only interact along this direction, this direction and that direction, if you have a house like this you can come here and place this vertical thing and place this and this vertical thing so you have the double effect from those two and you have connected here on the cross grid. This shape only works horizontal because the rotation is horizontal, it does not work vertical.

This shape I draw on a piece of paper to make photocopies for you. Whatever you put in this area; in front of this shape, the harmful side effects are reduced; your cigarettes, your medicine, plates and a complete set made based on this design. If you want to use this to design a plate you have a problem you cannot use this way. It has to be 90 degrees, no other way. Then you get gold in there, but only horizontal.

The frame works only vertical on the wall; you cannot put the shapes of the frame on the ground, they won't work there. So the frame is vertical, this is horizontal, remember the rotation

The last thing now I am going to tell you is, once you have checked the design that it has gold, then you go with your pen and the gold into the details of the design, because it could be generally gold but there are some corners not giving gold, so go everywhere and check the gold. If your plan is giving gold, that means you have produced a power spot in the area. You can orient your bed wherever you want, you can do whatever you want, you can even place colors wherever you want, they won't affect you.

About Feng Shui

But we have a way of placing colors, we have a way of placing objects. The problem with Feng Shui too is that the schools attack each other, for example we have here the compass school. In China they have many mountain areas, so they have the form school and the forms are related to the elements. I explained to you before, the law of the interfaces, the law of things, how they moved. But in the flat areas they use the compass school. There is a very big problem with the compass school, because you have here, you have your bagua and the color distributions here, you have north and south, east and west and then you place here green, here white or yellow and then red and then you can place here black. Some schools will tell you blue If you arrange the colors that way, the energy Of course even' energy, depending on the direction of this, has a different quality. They equate those qualities. Let's say with your relationship with children, if you have this energy matter, or your career, or all those things. You can equate them here, but the whole idea is adjust energy using color. This might be good, it is based on the system of somebody who knew and measured some time, but he gave it and then some day people stopped measuring and put it rigid and this is where the problem arose. I do not think that the decorators and designers here are willing, every time they make a room or a house, to use those colors in the same places. What if somebody wants to make a white and white decoration.

Then comes another school and tells you: all I want you to use is a compass; I arrange them according to the entry- of the room. But what do I mean by entry of the room, if I arrange the door that way or this way, where is the science? That is the black hat sector in America because they always use the entry of the doorway. So you can have in the same room or in the same house different rooms with different color orientations, or in the same room what will you do, use the one with the door or the one with the orientation, they mix you up here.

Look at it that way: both are correct but you should understand them. Instead of fighting together, they should understand each other.

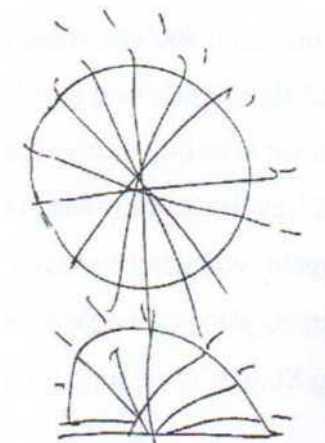

Object and Color Placement

I am taking radiesthesia now. If you have a circle here, then automatically this is the north, this is the south and automatically you might find green here on the north. If you do not have a compass you draw a circle, find the green and you can point to the north and the negative green will point to the south. You can use it to measure straight away, it is a paper compass, but this is something that is based on the north-south of the earth.

You have so many books of radiesthesia who come and make a circle like this and make like this or make half a circle like this and they write so many things here. You can write whatever you want here and use your pendulum to point the direction, this is mental measurement, the circle is just placing things there, but it is not correct.

If you want to make it correct you would get, let's say I am putting stones or herbs, so I get the stone and I take my pendulum and come on the center here and move my stone around till I find a place of maximum energy, so I put the place of this and then the next one here, so you create your own circle of stones or herbs, but each thing according to its place, not according to just put it on the circle. That means you always have to orient this one and you know where everything is.

In radiesthesia I think the first were the brothers Servaix from Belgium who said we can polarize the circle. If I make the north here, the negative green would be here, but I can change it in any direction and still would have the green here and the negative green here. So I have polarized it; I have made my own polarity, not the earth polarity. You can polarize with half a circle, but you can also polarize with a color arrangement if you put the colors. In the case of radiesthesia, if I arrange my colors properly I put but all the colors. The idea behind polarization is that you put all the colors, not just one or two. Once you put all the colors on the circle and then you take it away from the north and you change direction, what you are doing is creating your own polarity in the room. So in the black hat sect when you can just enter the room and place the colors of the bagua, if you place all of them, not just one, you might make mistakes there, but if you place all of them, you make your own polarity.

All this is too complex for us because we want one thing that does not exist here, we want spirituality. We want to cancel earth rays, we want to cancel things. It is not that here we are cancelling things, we want the higher wisdom to do it for us, we do not trust it that we do it.

Find with your pendulum the place of every color or ever)' object in the room. This simple trick has done wonders. I have used it to put some color distribution in a Montessori school as a research project, and the children changed completely. All you have to do is take some object in your hand. I want to put this bottle somewhere in this room, but wherever I put it, I want the whole room to become gold. This is bio-geometrical color placement or object placement, when you decorate or when you design.

This is how you do it. You take your pendulum, gold in your hand and you stand in the middle of the room and here you go, you are looking for gold right under and move your bottle. It is easier when somebody else can go around the room with the bottle. If we put the bottle right there, we have gold here. The trick is: make a mark, say the bottle belongs there, take it back again, because if you do not take it back again you cannot make new measurements of other objects. Then take another object, I want to place the book, I want to place that. So this is our sort of bio-geometrical Egyptian Feng Shui. It is creating gold.

Now we are placing objects in the room, but the first thing is go check if you have somewhere in your room a spot with earth radiation. Once you place an object you can cancel it, but I will do something extra. Whenever I have a spot with earth radiation I just take a biogeometrical shape or cut a piece of cardboard. You can put it anywhere on the grid line if you cannot come to the spot, to the crossing. To be sure if you find a negative green spot even though you have done all your things, the best protection - because you are dealing with cancer here it is no joke - somebody moves your tilings, you take this and where you found your spot, put it. If the frame can point at the spot it will cancel it, the biogeometry shape can point at the spot and will cancel it. Spots could be sometimes very harmful, they are not easy to deal with; so the surest way to end it is that you put this on it.

What will happen? It is not like the methods used in Europe. One may use reflex back, like the farmers did when they had problems with the cat. They used to put bottles upside down in the ground to reflex back the negative green. Every week they broke the bottle and put a new bottle, because the bottles got impregnated and then they radiated the negative green and they become very bad for you.

All those devices you find in the marked are either reflectors or dispersers. Dispersers are very dangerous, it is not because you are on the bed that you disperse the negative green that way, but remember you have a neighbor there in the other house. So dispersing negative green is something you should never do, because you are harming other people, you are harming the other rooms, just not to let it come to your bed. There are other ways. You can put cork mat under the bed, but these gets sometimes impregnated with time, you can do those the correct placement and this and you can do the same thing now when you have a painting, a painter.

I want to receive in Egypt pictures of your houses before and after, I want to see pictures of your art, pictures of your designs and all that, because we make a sort of a permanent exchange of information. I have a website and on that website we can show, interact, who did what, if somebody had an interesting idea I put it on the website so the others can read it, so we continue working together.

Paintings and Music

Now a painter, what will he do, he wants to create a painting. How do we evaluate a good piece of music or a painting? We evaluate it if it is a true mirror of the feelings of the owner or of the person who did it. That is a problem; we have emotional problems, you put them on the painting or in the music and then you bring me all your problems. Now we want to change all those criteria; now I want music and paintings to emanate gold and change us. We all have problems, we do not need other people's problems, we only need something that elevates us.

The painter who wants to make a painting can move his color on the canvas until gold emanates from the center of the canvas. He can have an idea how to distribute his colors even on a canvas.

With music it is a bit more difficult to get the gold emanation, but I give you one easy way. If you say "A", you might get horizontal negative green without the proper gold, but if you manage to make a double tone, one from here and one from the top, you get gold. Of course when you all together say "A" the double notes are coming anyway so we get the gold. If you do it alone you have to make as if you are doing two tones at the same time, like all the sacred chants, the koranic chants. I cannot do it, maybe Henk can do it.

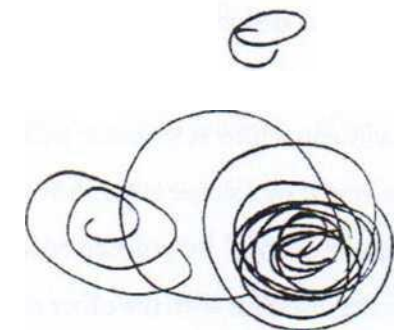

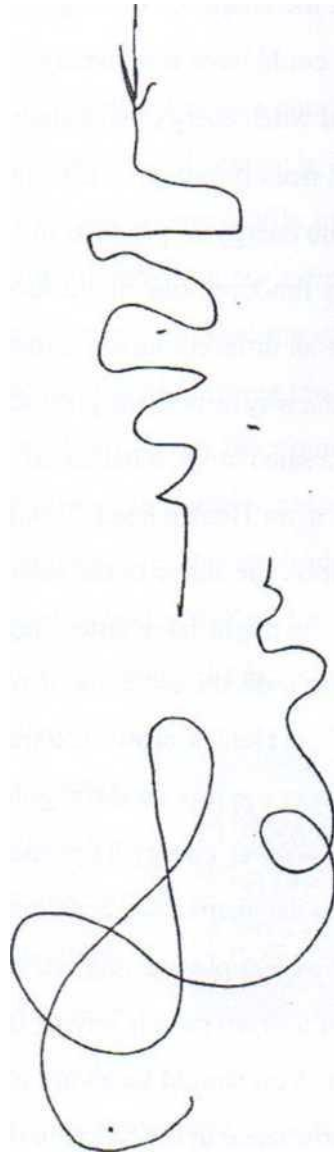

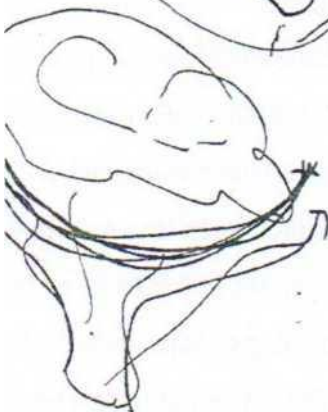

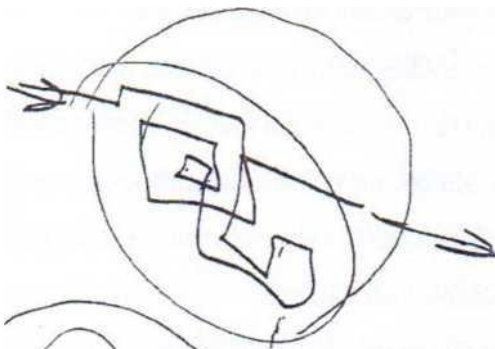

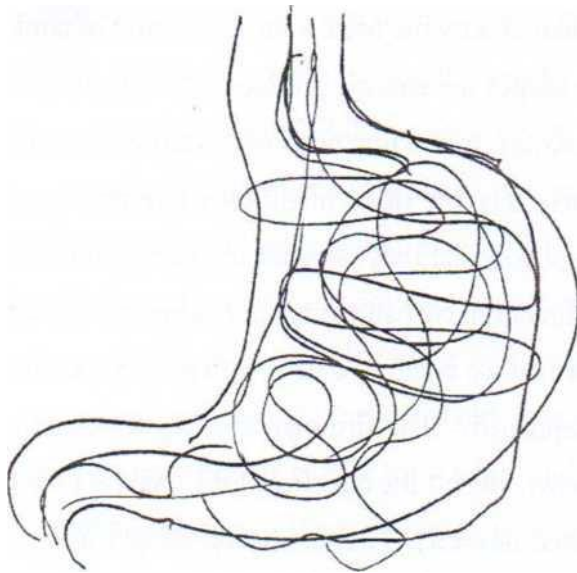

But you can always check it which the pendulum till you get gold.

Why do I need this. Once I start with one chord you cannot touch the end of the universe. But if there is anything else that makes resonance with it, we touch beyond time and space, the absolute, we touch the past, the future and everything.

Biosignatures

Now we go into bio-signatures. We do not have much time but we will do the essential. I want to give you the exact way of the forms in nature, how the laws of wisdom write the forms in nature because that is the writing of the world. I said the geometrical laws are up there, they manifest, it is like the templates. We will not go into that, because it takes a very long time to explain to you how they work, but you understand from the beginning how they work.

Let's do a direct practical thing how bio-signature works. It is very simple. I give you an example; it does not mean it is exactly the same, but an example. If an organ has a shape - let's say this is the stomach - then there is a relationship between the energy, the function and the shape. The shape of your organs plays a very important role in the function.

If this is the shape of the organ the function has a physical and a vibrational aspect. One stomach could have ten, twenty functions. How do we think the functions are. Functions are produced when energy takes shape, like exactly the fire I want to function of cooking and this is food, I need the shape. This shape shapes the energy, produces the function, so the pattern shapes the energy to produce the function. In the functions of the stomach there is a pattern for every function, one might look like this, the other might look like this spiral and so on. They are all different layers, superimposed, and they produce the energy functions.

By the way how shape produces function: we had a very interesting experience with Henk. We had a salad bowl, it had salad, we said we wanted to fill it with gold. I took the salad bowl and put it on Henk's head. What happened? The fire that is in Henk's chakra, his energy center, took the shape of the salad bowl. He felt the opening of the chakra. (We do not go by feelings; he might have auto-suggested himself). The interesting thing was I took the bowl again, put it on the table and it was full of gold energy. Where did it take the gold from? It took it from Henk's crown chakra, because once it opens, you can connect with the earth, you can connect up, it is fantastic gold. So you open your crown chakra that way.

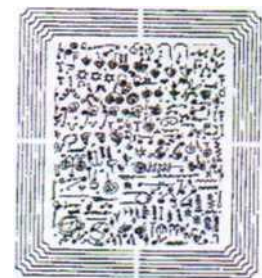

Shape gives energy its properties but, as we touched before, shape can make resonance which similar shape, like music and color. Imagine that colors can make resonance with each other. Two people wearing red might be in a certain color resonance, although they are not aware of it. Two people having the same hairstyle and are not aware of the resonance, things like that. You should be aware of resonance, invisible resonances.

Disturbance in the function might be disturbance in the shape of the stomach, you do not know and disturbance in this line. If one line is a disturbance in the shape and if I draw a similar linear function as this and I draw the correct one, if this is a true bio-geometrical shape, it will enter into resonance with this. If it is any shape it will not enter into resonance, it is useless. If this shape enters into resonance with this stomach line, this one is fixed so the other one will change. So you can correct, it is that simple. This is an energy shape, how do I get this one to resonate with the other one? I have to put energy. It is like a computer: you have to put electricity into this shape, then it produces function. But where do I find electricity or electromagnetism⁹ I can find it on the peripheral surface of my body, you feel some energy like that, when this happens, it could in a physical sense, make an instantaneous correction. This could take some time as you never know where the cause of the problem lies. If you use this you can correct an organ but it is never easy and you need more knowledge in order to let the correction endure.

We found a very interesting tiling here, if this works in a similar way as a computer, then the size of those shapes will vary in strength. How far will it go when I reduce it, how much will you lose the smaller it gets? Will you lose the whole energy or just a little bit? Does it work like a computer? So we reduced those, we put 400 of those on the computer and continued reducing them till we got just a point. The point means, not that the computer is drawing them, because the computer does not have these possibilities, it just put the thing right there and did not move at all. But it took a quarter of an hour to get the point. There is absolutely no geometrical element there, only an energy coat was left, nothing else.

We tested this on different people for a while and whenever I teach somebody I ask if I may do a test on him and I put the point on a piece of paper in his hand. And I found that it worked, with all the functions that were in it, being still active. By using the same method that is used in producing chips, you put 400 or 500 of those diagrams in one chip. The nice thing here is that they represent energy interaction. You can put them together, in the body they are together, and each one works in a different way. It is not like the problem with traditional medicine where you cannot put everything together, here in a computer chip, you can. Whenever you need something you interact with it. We tried this and it worked. So we made those chips. Why did we make those chips? As this is a new science, you do not want to miss some relationships before hundred scientists. The relationships will be at the back of the chip and whatever I miss, the chip will bring in.

There is a difference between healers using this and just giving it to anybody. If you want to see what a person needs as a healer, your interaction with his body, your diagnosis, your using the chip, is already half the cure. Sometimes while I take a sample, I take a picture, and while I am just trying out my pendulum I ask what he feels, I am just choosing. By the time I finish choosing, the person who is in front of me, sits up and asks what I am doing because something was moving in his body. With the healer this works as an additional factor and it gives us a new insight as we are developing the science, you learn more from your mistakes.

If we give everybody a chip like that we will not learn anything. If somebody has an incurable disease and this happens to them, I did not serve anything. If I do this ten times correctly and once it does not work, I ask why and search for a varying factor. Something these ten had and this other person did not have. Maybe there is a sign here for something among there and then I find it, I can see if it is related to something.

For instance I have been treating a certain number of patients with a kidney problem and I find I cannot treat this one person. By some chance they all had the sign for the ear and this one did not get it and as the ear has a geometric relationship with the kidney, that was the reason I could not treat him. So the interaction is important.

Using the Signs

Now we will see how to use those signs. The most efficient way to use them, what most people tell me is, when there is a problem, you just draw it on the hand. This seems to work better than on a chip or something like that. I will give you a set of signs, of the basic signs that are related together and you can use them whenever you want. You will get the signs and you now know how to use them.

All metal objects when you put signs on them, will impregnate in time. All metals can impregnate. When you have nylon, or static things, or earth rays coming up, the metal will be impregnated. Usually as with a ring on your hand, your hand hangs down and all cosmic matters are cleared while the earth things may stagnate. The problem with all metals you wear, even with those chips, is that every day you have to knock it on a hard surface and blow on it to clean it. This goes for your jewelry as well. In the evening you feel that it is not right to keep it on and you should hit it every day. But if a healer has given it or worked on a certain piece, then you tell the person to start hitting it after three days and from then on each day. When a healer has been working on it he has put his healing energy in it, so let him profit from this healing energy first. Although when we give it to medical people of course we do not tell that, we just give the chips. But a healer is interested to combine both workings.

It took me thirty years to trace the energy functions of the organs. And once you have been working on something for such a long time and you have found so many signs, you become sensitive to it. From the absolute the tiling comes out, sometimes I am sitting in front of a patient and something tells me: look, this organ might have another sign that goes with it which might look like that. I draw it on a piece of paper and put date and time with it and keep it for research. It could be a personal sign, there are so many different signs. When I put the stomach sign, the spiral, on somebody's hand, it will perform the healing immediately because it is my energy tract in there. But it will not work on everybody.

The Personal Diagram

It happens that when I sit with a person (this is what clairvoyance is) I sometimes get a personal diagram. After some training with bio-signatures you can do this. What is a personal diagram? I might feel that this person needs something else. I have a vision and I start drawing and for no reason I will know that this is what the person needs. And then the person looks at it and I test his stomach and everything is okay.

If the healer gets this, it is what we call a personal diagram. The personal diagram is related to a person, to a time and to a place. The same person might not need the diagram tomorrow or in another place. It could be for him just at that moment, to be put in his energy field and then never again. This is a personal diagram and sometimes they are very effective. Once you work with those signs you become sensitive to such things. Because you are entering with the collective, the information you will want to get out. And believe me, whether you like it or not, you are going to receive so much information, once you are interested in something it all comes out.

Let us look at a typical case, what would I do with a person with a disturbed stomach? Before I do anything else I just check. I will show you and you will not believe how easy it is. Of course you do not just work on the stomach. You have to do the whole body. Energy is not like organs, if you need one thing the energy will disturb the whole body. Now we will test one thing and I draw the number one stomach sign. You don't have to believe me, you have to see it for yourself. Again I do a test, I want to look if this is the one she needs. Because there are more diagrams for the stomach. So I draw' different signs for the stomach to see which is the one she needs. It is very easy. I take the pen and put a drawing on her hand now and you can all test her stomach with the pendulum.

The stomach is a very important organ. But first things first. Whenever I give anybody the sign I always start with one bio-geometrical sign, any bio-geometrical sign. Because this is what puts the spiritual energy into everything. So it will adjust all this. The first thing that we need, this is the easiest way of tackling the problem, is to let the body tackle it. The body knows how to correct itself better than we do. If we introduce a new system, the body will take care of it. This drawing will boost the thymus gland. The thymus gland usually deals with immunity, as we grow older it deteriorates.

Quality of Shape and the different Signs

If you draw it in a different way the shape will lose its quality. There is a limit to how far you can distort the shape. The direction should be oriented in the same way. It still has to retain the same visual quality. There is a sign for general immunity, it is important. This is a very nice one. What deals with immunity? This form is the most important sign that deals with immunity. The spinal cord.

The next one is very nice because you see the power of shape in it. Energy of shape, you can see here it has something to do with the stomach. There is still a relationship with the two sides of the thymus gland. Here is the base of the spine, the swerving is moving the energy along the vertebra to the back of the brain, we go into the brain and this might correspond to the pituitary. The central nervous system is the beginning and then we are going into the spine. This will help with back problems but it is also good for the central nervous system and the spine.

The liver is an important organ. This is one of the signs for the liver. Of course there are as many as twenty for the liver. I just give you examples of the main organs of the body. If you put these on somebody the person will not be able to sleep at night. He will not be used to so much energy. You are used to a certain amount of energy and at night time you have so much energy left, you are tired and you go to sleep. You are not used to a body that has 100% energy all the time and in the evening you will stay awake.

When you use this one, it is for relaxation. It goes together with the sign for stress and the sign for immunity. This also is an important one for depression. When you are depressed it will work on the emotions.

This is what we want to do now, this is a very simple basic set. Will somebody come over here and look at the signs. Look in general at the signs. Now we want to know how you can test which one he needs, as he is looking at them all. You look at his energy and if one of them increases it, he needs it. If nothing happens he doesn't need it. If the pendulum goes the other way, we have done a wrong drawing because if we put down a proper bio-signature, if it exists in your body, in no way can it turn the pendulum in the opposite direction. Let us test the different signatures. There are different signs he needs. If you all will just look at that, you will feel a difference.

The Working of Sound Yoga

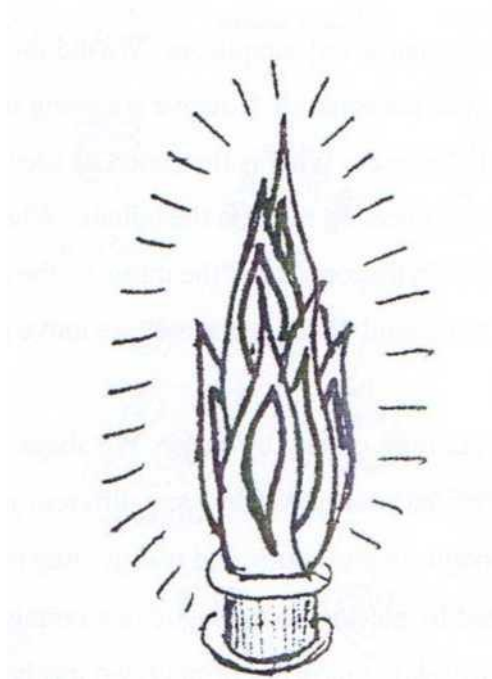

We are going to do make one last yoga, a very simple one. We did the last one, which was the spiritually most important one, with the rotation. Now we are going to work with sound. But now it is going to be the sound of silence. What is the sound of silence? Sound is restricted to the hearing range but outside our hearing range is the infinite. What is on the other side of sound? What was the sound when Pythagoras said "the music of the spheres"? We react to a sound because it is within a certain range. When we speak, we move in a certain range and in that range you hear the sound.

Air movement and sound get their quality by shape. We shape sound with our mouth. There is a relation between form and energy. When I say different letters there is a relation between the movement of my tongue in my mouth, and energy. Any problem, any disturbance in your body, could be regulated by placing your tongue in a certain position, or with your mouth open (pronouncing the vowels) or closed. Forming two mechanisms, one that you can control, the movement with the tongue, and the cavities, the boxes in the throat or up top. We will not go into those at the moment.

It is so easy, will somebody stand up and perhaps we will find a disturbance somewhere. I want to correct this chakra. We will do two tests, one with mouth movement and one with the tongue movement. We will do the first one with the mouth, without actually saying anything. The shapes with the different letters are made with the mouth and at a certain shape the body will react. Then with the tongue in your mouth you try different locations right, left, up and down, etcetera. And here also the body will react.

Before we leave we will make the sound yoga, the sound of silence. You will make the motions of the vowels without saying anything, then close your mouth and do the tongue motions as said, in the different directions. We will check this with one of you and see how he was before and what will be the difference after the exercise. It was about 50% and we test him again afterwards. It only takes a minute. You will try this for yourselves and you will be able to tell me which one makes the gold. You will find the gold from the silence, from the absolute. Test each other and you will see what happens. You do not have to believe all what I tell you. You have to experience it yourselves. What we are doing is experiencing something, all I do is explaining the mechanism.

No part of this book may be reproduced in any form, by print, photoprism*, microfilm or any other means without written permission from the author.

(We regret that due to the poor quality of the tape recording of the first part of the workshop, the text will contain some gaps and uncertain interpretations. Otherwise, the nature of the workshop will make recorded spoken wordless comprehensible. We give the text as it was understood, with the various diagrams. The reader will have to take it as it is. No doubt the forthcoming Seminar in September next will give answers to many questions and elucidate unclear points.)

Recapitulation

We are going to recapitulate what we did the past two days.

Bio-Geometry is not just the way of interaction between your energy field and shapes.

We went through the right-brain perception; the language of the right brain. It is not that confined. It is a holistic science. The language of the left-brain perception is analytical. The language of the right brain is holistic, and the laws of nature are always holistic. We are using this way to access nature's forces.

There is a slightly different way of accessing this in ancient Egypt and in the European style, especially when you look at radiesthesia.

The main difference in the ways of thinking is in the way you look at radiesthesia from the point of view of energy. What I did yesterday was looking at radiesthesia comparing it with the theories of sound, and sound and force. Radiesthesia in western Europe is mainly a mental thing, on the basis of an agreement with your sub consciousness. The way of interacting with your sub consciousness is very popular in the beginning. Your sub consciousness had to be silent so long, and once you open the door it starts talking. In the beginning it gives fantastic results; it is telling you from the present, the past and the future, you will be overwhelmed by what the subconscious will do. Until the moment comes when you get your first wrong results. That is a very critical moment and you take a decision that way, start to feel it, and then all your measurements will go wrong. Then radiesthesia is not a science. The mental method in radiesthesia is not a science; this is very important, when it is used for everyday things where your wishes may come in and your suggestions.

The ancient Egyptian will not use it to ask questions such as "will she love me?", or "will I get money tomorrow?" He directs himself to the sub consciousness, not of the individuals, but of the collective. There are two energy levels. The basic or lowest energy level; the other is the level where all the laws of the universe are which govern your body.

And then you go higher and higher. So the person who knows that the human being who is the captain with so many players, he can always speak to the captain and not to members of the team. But now' you become a professional ... and now you are going to speak to all the players, because you want to know all the players. If you really want to understand the game, you have to know each player.

It is like people living in an apartment house, and all you have been doing is speaking to the gerant. "Did you hear anything to-day?". "Yes," and he tells you what he heard about the various apartments and the people. But imagine what happens if you can speak to the individuals. With all this information you can draw a map of the unconscious. Radiesthesia is a much more important thing than at the mental level (the level of the captain and the concierge), the level of the players, the captain, the coach, the sponsors, the owner, up to the level of the country which the team represents, there is no limit you can go with radiesthesia. So mental radiesthesia is very important, you can go from here all the way to there, all the levels to the absolute, because as you go here, there is a level You go out, the higher the level, the higher the collectivity and less individuality. I am here and you are there, my vitality level is here. I can still tell that I am here but you are mixed up in my vitality. Emotionally now, you look at it with emotional energy, there is probably one shape in the room, our emotional energy. Our mental energy might be a shape which is already here and then here ... The more you go up, the more collectivity there is. The same when you go inside.

So imagine when you have a map of the inside you can travel. At one level you can still reach the whole universe. Because ... we can project our perceived reality, so the easiest thing is to go into what we project in a holistic way, but we can go beyond the perceived reality. Let us call it esoteric radiesthesia or whatever you like, but this is what the ancient Egyptian would be interested in when starting a dialogue. This is why, when looking at what you call the book of the death (a wrong name, it should be the book of the living), they speak of the subconscious they are going to find ... They didn't go as far as religions, but they enter into resonance with star aliens and constellations, because when you are in resonance with some ...it gives a detailed chart of everything.

The second aspect of radiesthesia is the scientific aspect. When it started, there were Chaumery and De Belizal, Turenne, all those famous men who started the scientific school of radiesthesia. They were basically looking in a different way. They were looking at the ... and the pendulum related to colors or, like Turenne, to polarity. That is how they built radiesthesia. They made their installments, the most precise instruments. The books of Chaumery and De Belizal, and of Turenne (he wrote eleven books, three of which on radiesthesia; his approach was polarity). The books of Chaumery are the Bible of radiesthesia.

In recent years there came a new input to radiesthesia. It came from the healers who send out waves and receive them by the hands. When it is a wave - everything in time and space is energy - why don't you use the physics of..

We can use instruments, an antenna, which is very important to determine the wavelength, and there is the amplitude. I am thinking of turning radiesthesia to be an extension of radio technology. Then I can translate everything into wavelengths ... So we went into measuring the wavelength, which is a very interesting development. It gives a sort of scientific taste, a scientific reality, but it is a very dangerous development because it limits you so much into technology, and it brings radiesthesia into quantitative measurements. I made qualitative of measurements; the color scale is a qualitative scale, and so is the musical scale. So turning me into quantitative scales, the Lecher antenna and all that, is limited, but it is so simple. I told yesterday that there are three colors, just calibrate your Lecher antenna on the three colors and you can ...

You can also calibrate your Lecher antenna on the musical scale and all of a sudden we are in tune together again.

Radiesthesia as we see, is based on the pharaonic concept of resonance. I think it was very pertinent in the words of Pythagoras. He made the same thing as the Lecher antenna. He took something to vibrate and he expressed it in mathematical theories ...

He kept the secret Egypt in his society, but by that time the Greek had developed something very dangerous, and that was the importance of the mind. This is one of the most dangerous developments which they have done in our civilization, because the moment at which the mind becomes God - the criterion for everything - whatever the mind cannot comprehend, is pushed aside into mythology. Even spiritual energy which was experienced as a practical thing. Even that was pushed to belief. All of a sudden the simple idea of a single person who knew what we call to-day ancient magic, had a practical way of because he could see them. He had nothing to conceal; he could see the spot, he could see the wounded animal, go to the spot, and then all of a sudden, get healed, so that he took his sick to the spot. A very practical way of living and thinking. But when the mind came in, that was considered magic, belief, superstition. And that means that the mind decided that religion was belief. If the mind decides that the center of our being is just belief, then when all of a sudden looking at the caveman, we changed the whole practical way of thinking and reformed it the way we want it. The caveman, he looked at the storms and all the forces of nature, and they were so strong ... so that psychologically he needed something that was more powerful. That is where the split happened between an analytical way of thinking and the belief system.

The holistic way has always been there, it was never away. Pythagoras taught mathematics, he got the truth at that time because he knew that there was this very important mind. Many of the things he was saying would become magic; he believed in it strongly. Even some of them tried to explain, they had cosmology, they tried to explain that always in a mental way. So if you had anything to do with the powers of nature, in a practical way, you had to hide it, or you would have been a magician. This is what happened to Pythagoras. They said: he is giving us a science, but there is something else ...

Newton was more intelligent; he kept it hidden completely so well that he was respected as a father of modern science. They never knew until so many years after his death that he was an alchemist, that he was the grandmaster of the Priore de Sion. He knew that even in the modern world, as long as the mind governs, you could believe at the time you touch the nature's forces, you could believe in religion (?), anytime, to-day, in the future, and you would believe it as long as the mind sits on the throne. When you would dethrone the mind and you believe that reality is higher than the mind, you would never take somebody and make him the ruler if you knew there were so many others that knew much more. So the day you say wisdom exists, that the spiritual energy field exists, so why take a ruler from the lower level, take him from the higher level. This is exactly what we are going to do in radiesthesia, we are using the energies, a spiritual type of energy, in a very practical way. That would, to begin with before it can govern the mind, it would have to fit into the mind, and then govern. It is like a silent revolution to create a new world.

It looks now if I am preaching for a spiritual ... , but I am an engineer. Anything within time and space is a reality and can be measured. There is nothing that would prevent me from thinking that spiritual energy exists, this is a reality. Would I believe in something that does not exist, something so important in the world? When in radiesthesia you can touch it, I am sure. And turning belief into reality gives me such an internal power. I don't care how often I have to explain it, in different ways. When I sit down with religious people and explain to them how this thing works, like I showed yesterday: when I use the statue, when I do this, it creates spiritual energy.

Recently I attended a religious conference. One of the highest priests cancelled all his evening meetings after the conference because he wanted to listen to me. I felt very embarrassed. I said: I have come here to listen to what you have to say. He said: what I have to say, you can listen to any time, you can find it in the books, but now I want to listen to what you have to say, because you know so many things, and you are showing me so many things that are there. Now I know that I can touch them. It is very important for me that I can touch things. Once it is like that with spirituality you can lead it, you can channel it, you can store it, you can divide it, it has become a very practical thing.

As the person who said that spirituality can be measured we have to give credit to a Russian named Scariatin, who wrote books under the pseudonym Enel, very important books. In one of his books he writes about the story of Moses. Why would Enel write about Moses? He also wrote other books, three on radiesthesia, but the most important in all his work that was forgotten is a very important statement, that in the negative green, which is a carrier wave that goes through everything,... for geometry, for shape, this is the ray of connectivity. It does not help very much if you don't have a certain level of science without communication. This is our communication.

In the pyramids most of waves have for example polarization. In nature all living things have only the horizontal component. Radio waves, all the things used in our technology, have both. Sickness in you has both; whenever you find a vertical element in your body, you have a sickness. Any disease, microbes or viruses, has a vertical component. In modern technology they are bombarding us with exactly the thing that is similar to our disease condition.

So in the negative green, before it was found, in radiesthesia the French radiesthesists found that earth rays coming from crossings of rivers or shifts in the earth with different materials or the various grids; they found the negative green . This caused a boost in radiesthesia. The vertical aspect somehow disturbs the information courses in your cells, leading to cancer etc.

Enel found something very strange. When somebody had cancer, he showed the vertical aspect of negative green, and he could decrease the horizontal one; if you increase the horizontal, you could minimize the vertical aspect.

Enel researched with the instruments of Chaumery; he did make his own pendulum, but based upon Chaumery's results and discovered that the horizontal aspect is beneficial for man. In the range of negative green there is an aspect which he gave the name Omega (tekeningetje opnemen).

Chaumery and De Belizal developed a pendulum with which you can measure 64 different types of negative green. Each cancerous area in the body corresponds to a special aspect of negative green. Chaumery found out that this had to do with spirituality. When you pray, there is spirituality. It is obvious that with spiritual places or persons the more spiritual they are, the more you find negative green inside their bodies.

The Scale of Negative Green

You can actually differentiate between two prophets, you can easily measure the person and say who is who. If somebody tells you for example: there are so many books that tell you that for example Jesus Christ... or is it the shroud of Turin, is it really his, or is it a publication by Leonardo da Vinci? Measure it. The negative green on the scale of negative green goes from zero up like that. Zero is only found at certain times. It can be found in the realm of certain elementals. If you work with them, some other dimensions evaluate in other directions. Some types of elementals are in other dimensions. We have fire elementals. So, unless you are very, very strong in your knowledge, they will pull you back. You are going one way, they are going another way. Some magicians, especially in the orient, used the djinns, like Aladdin. The Arabs used to work with the djinns. They can do a lot for you, they can bring you things etc. but they are in another dimension. Any healer who can move things - you left something in Amsterdam, or in your car, and they will see to it that you get it back immediately - when you measure the person, you will find his spiritual level; that means, when you measure zero, he is using the djinn.

Now I am going to tell you something that some people might like and some might not like. Eating the meat of pork brings you down to zero.

There is not one religion in the world, not the Moslems, not the Jews, that did not have an inhibition against eating pork; even Christianity had this prohibition in the beginning. Christianity was something that had two roots: ancient Egyptian science and the Jewish tradition. The Jewish tradition is also linked with ancient Egypt. I wondered for a very long time why would religion even have to spend such little time in ... But through measurement I found it out. This might explain something. Remember the incident when Jesus Christ removed the demons from the people who were possessed and put them into the pigs. You think that Jesus Christ would not have love for animals. Remember once when he was walking and he saw somebody who was beating the dogs, and he went mad and said. What are you doing? The man looked at him and said: This is Jesus the man.

... The fact that this energy was put in an animal did no harm, because there was no way that Jesus would harm an animal. Otherwise there would be no Christianity. The way I believe is very universal; I am more Moslem than any Moslem, more Christian than any Christian and more Jew than any Jew, more of everything than anybody else, so to me anything like that when I see something that hurts me very much inside, I research and research, I want to find why, so I found that it did not hurt.

Mother thing that could bring this out to zero is menstrual blood. When it is thrown out (not inside you) brings you to zero. That is why in certain religions a woman should not enter a temple or do intensive prayer. Because any prayer is connectivity, and to have connectivity, you must know to whom you direct it, you don't know whom you are connecting with. So with the zero level you don't ..

There are people who talk a lot about this. The men pray 30 days a month, and the women pray 25, and they state that women lack the mind of religion. Women were made to channel the divine law' of creation of the human species, and if you have to channel that, how are the divine laws governed in our bodies? Not by our mind. If I would say from now on your mind is going to govern your body instead of the higher things. Okay, now you are moving your hand, remember you have to raise your hand, you walk, remember to do this, remember to do that, one minute shows you cannot run the spot. Because creation, the laws of the universe, are not left to somebody to do what he wants. No, these are beyond our will.

Q: In the culture of the North-American Indians, women are not allowed to attend the sweat hut ceremonies during their period, because at zero they have too much power.

A: What power⁹ Remember in all ancient religions you walk a lot through entities. When the woman has so much spiritual power, she has power related to blood, but it is a different power you are speaking about. It is a power you have, but you are not allowed to enter a temple with it or do intensive prayer; this means that your power is not in harmony with the power of the temple.

The woman, during the stage of bearing a child, the laws of wisdom take over and her mind becomes the spokesman for the higher wisdom. Yesterday, when we spoke about mysticism, the higher coming in the lower, and the personality being a servant of the mind, and the mind being the servant of your personal wisdom. The highest thing that mystics want to reach. The woman at this stage is a divine being. You remember when I spoke of the man-god, when the divine enters the human, the concept of all prophets, this divinity being the prophet of earth, because if you are serving a higher wisdom, then who are you? Your address with the master is the divine one in that body. The woman at that time is divine. Call it what you want to call it, but through birth a mother becomes for some time a divine being.

I am not saying that because I like women. It is a reality, because we, as a man, if a child moves, I look at its face, then it moves more, and I look again, and I ask my mind if I should not see things, and then he cries, and I ask myself: is there something wrong. By the time I ask myself that, the baby will probably already have a problem. But with the woman it is different. If you measure, her brain will react in the same instant as the child. There is no transmission of energy to the woman, it is an instantaneous reaction. Sometimes she would translate the reaction into a physical activity before it even happens with the child. So the woman can sometimes wake up and know that there is a problem, and then the problem happens with the baby, because here is the divine law of wisdom working through the woman.

It is the divine law of creation that will change everything in order to manifest itself in nature. So if you, as a woman, spend some time of the year as a divine being, then surely you would need less amount of prayer in order to achieve the same level that a man would reach.

At certain times of your life you are that thing that is being channeled. When you look at it that way, there is nothing wrong in having four days menstrual pain.

So on the scale, zero is only found in the natural realm, with elementals. The normal human beings will be between 7 and 20. Most of the spiritual healers would go up to 70 to 100. The major prophets in history are up to 350.

This is the level what is called your base level. The moment you pray, when I measure you, you have 4000. Or if you wear a biogeometrical shape, you have so many thousands. You can get the base level when you put your hand on your base chakra, where you are grounded. When you read, especially in old ... in many of the old Indian spiritual systems. Many of them tell you that Jesus, until to the inscription (?) he was not yet initiated on a high level, and then he survived the prescription and he was initiated later on in Egypt by the masters there. Some say that he was called Lord Jesa (Arabic for Jesus). Some say he was Lord Maitreya, the Maitreya is Jesus Christ, but this whole concept of... he went to be initiated there. You see this is not what they called initiation by John the Baptist.

Enel made that scale. He went up to 120. He did not reach 350. He made it in Egypt with the saints. Sainte Therese ... and some of the old golden churches you have there. Later on I took the studies, looking for the complete spectrum of spirituality, and I found the ultraviolet, which is angelic light, and the gold which is spiritual light. When you have an ultraviolet, this is a condition to have angelic contacts, because ultraviolet is the environment where the higher angels can live. If you are lower than that, you can have contact with the fairies and things like that. When you pray, any time, your level goes high. Prophets are at 350.

Measuring Gold

With radiesthesia we discovered the components of spirituality, we spoke about the ultraviolet, about the gold. The gold here is not physical gold, something higher, but through physical gold you can enter into resonance with it. This seems very obvious, but it took me 30 years to find out what was very obvious. When I was in Zurich, I studied every church and I never knew how I could measure spirituality. Once I found that gold was one of the components, it was there all the time. Sometimes the obvious things in life are difficult to measure. The problem is: I did not go to first visit religious places. When I looked to find my answers, I was purely measuring. When I found them, I found that somewhere along the line somebody knew all this, because you could see it.

So when, in radiesthesia, we can measure gold, that energy, we have two paths of research. Speaking from my point of view of the forms, one path is we have the trinity of energy, function and form or shape. The energy and function will be noticed. I speak to the shapes, because I am an architect, and because shapes are silent. The biogeometrical way - not the science of biogeometry - is the way to read the secrets of nature in shapes.

Wisdom

We spoke about archetypes, the laws of the universe, how can I access the spiritual? Shapes are their manifestation, every shape out there is wisdom. We said yesterday that an atom is like an orange in my hand and an orange in Amsterdam. One going very fast around the other, wherever you put your hand you find an orange, so you measure a fantastic huge mega orange, but actually the main constituent is motion, balanced motion, balanced movement of a circle around a center that does not move (time and space move). The circle expresses controlled motion, and that we can call wisdom. So the main constituent of matter, whether you like it or not, is wisdom.

So every shape you see in nature is shaped wisdom. Wisdom is movement, so every shape in nature is an expression of divine wisdom. If you understand this, every shape is a law. Divine wisdom ... so instead of speaking about compassion, love and all that, I am speaking about a law. This is divine wisdom. Imagine something as abstract and as far away from us as divine wisdom, you can actually hold it in your hand. If you know this, then you can hold divine wisdom in your hand.

Now put gold in your hand, take your pendulum, go out in nature and find out where all these shapes interact with the gold. Where is the gold, where is the negative green. If a flower interacts with the sun, light is coming in the flower, is there any form of spiritual interaction to form? Or is it just light? I am speaking about form and not about not-awareness. When my pendulum goes to the flower, I see whether there is negative green, because negative green connects. Is there gold? If there is gold, then this form is in resonance with spirituality. So one type of research is: take your gold and pendulum in your hand and enjoy interacting with wisdom out there in nature.

The Quality of Shape: Biogeometry

The other step is a different thing. Why don't I study the language of form to produce this energy of the three components, so that I can use the form language to produce spiritual energy?

We said earlier that there are two schools. I know the first school of sacred geometry, but also the golden ratio. With this idea in mind, I was thinking: how do I measure the proportion; 16 pebbles or something will give me gold. So now I know the secret of the quantitative 16, turned into the proportion 1.6 will give me gold. So actually sacred geometry was a way of bringing the divine energy into buildings. Then when one elaborates on it too much, it becomes the proportion of beauty, it keeps the aspect of beauty, but it loses the aspect of spirituality. This is very subtle.

So while sacred geometry is the science of accessing spirituality, so quantitative, numerative, there is another school, and this is biogeometry, which is producing spirituality. Producing spirituality through the secret or the quality of shape. Because our mind reads the quality of shapes - qualities, not quantities. When you look at the flower which grows, your mind does not need to study the proportions; it has the quality, the form of quality. So it can move, it can change, it can change proportions, but it is still a flower. So biogeometry is something that can change slowly and still has its concept. When you ask me: draw the biogeometrical shape of... you don't see me with the ruler and compass. If I needed to do sacred geometry, then I would have to have my mathematical instruments. But here it is the feeling of shape. Whether is a bit like this or like that; of course there are some laws which you discover on the way, and if you lose it somewhere, you ask yourself why, but whether it is a bit less or more, or shorter or longer, as long as you feel that it is right, and you can check your feeling with the measurement of the pendulum. If, at a certain moment, you feel it has changed, take the pendulum and check; if you don't find the gold, it is not there anymore. So the feeling of the quality of shape is biogeometry.

Energy in the Organs

We now go one step further; we have looked at shapes, you look at the human body and discover

In the beginning of radiesthesia, radiesthesia is based on ... I used the chord for resonance.

But my sound box, the human body, how does the human body become a sound box? I know the sound box must be hollow inside, and none of you is that hollow, but you can function as a sound box. This is not science, this is nonsense.

We see in radiesthesia that sound can be converted into geometrical angles, shapes, can be converted to colors. You can convert one into the other. So the geometrical shape of the human body can become a chord resonator without being hollow inside. Everything is shaped.

If the shape of the body tells this, we go more inside, then the shape of every organ plays a roll in the functioning of the organ. We should understand this, it is very important, that all the biological functions in our body are somehow interacting; shape is not just a container. Your body is not just a container. When stuffing a heart and a kidney etc., shake it so that you have a human being. Shapes place something in giving in what is inside its function. That means if you go inside an organ, the energy that moves inside the organ, there is the peripheral energy inside the organ, that goes in the shape, and there is the central energy in the organ that goes inside.

This is exactly like the whole body; there is a central energy and there is the peripheral energy. Chakra healing uses the central energy of the body; acupuncture uses peripheral energy of the body. So any living entity must have a central energy and a peripheral energy. These are two systems, central and peripheral, the energy systems that you work with.

I use the peripheral energy to detect or enter into resonance with the organ. In radiesthesia we hold the pendulum on a sample and we look at the diagram. A professional doctor asks: why do you look at the diagram and diagnose the patient while you have the patient in front of you? Why do you think the diagram is better than the person. But it is like that: when I look at the form of an organ on the diagram, and there is inside an energy moving, an energy pattern, a peripheral energy pattern of the organ, I will resonate with that peripheral energy pattern. So automatically I am tuned in to the organ.

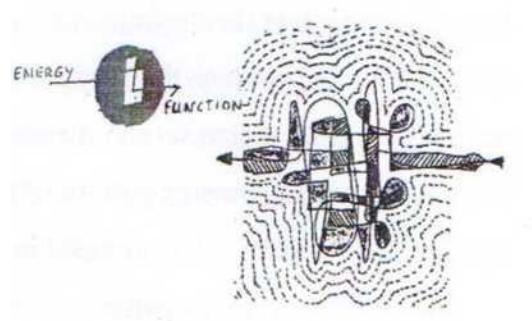

The peripheral energy patterns of the organs are the things that enter into resonance with the drawing. So when I look at the diagram and point at... If it was not like that, if the peripheral energy pattern of the organ was not really related to its function, I would not be able to correct it straight away, while at the moment I correct it I find the pendulum turning left. Any disturbance in the energy or the function will give a disturbance in the shape, and disturbance in the shape will be evident. Shape here is also what we call the peripheral energy system.

So now I use the peripheral energy system to connect. But you can also use the peripheral energy system to heal. If you have an anatomy drawing of the stomach and imagine it, project it on the organ of a person with a stomach problem, you will adjust the stomach problem. Instead of using biosignatures you can look into the other one. If you look long enough the drawing will enter into resonance with the organ and will affect the energy of the organ and the internal energy system will be adjusted. But if the energy system starts, changing, adjusting the shape starts adjusting and then the function starts adjusting. So you can very simply perform healing with an anatomical guide in your pocket.

We have two different things. One way is the peripheral energy healing. Then we use the peripheral energy to correct. The second way is to enter into the central energy system. The peripheral energy is about 5% of the total energy, the internal is about 95%. If you have the knowledge to go directly into the internal, this is a very strong way of achieving healing. In the internal energy system you look for the patterns of flow of energy, because whenever function is to be produced, energy follows a movement. This movement happens inside the peripheral energy system, it cannot go outside and come back. The patterns of movement are in a way related to the general shape of the organ. Some of them are a bit different because ... , but many of the biosignatures have a relationship with the organ, as if somebody has drawn an abstract presentation of the organ.

Biosignatures

Biosignatures are very simple. Energy - shape - produces function. You know all this from computer technology: energy goes into the chip and produces function. What is the chip in the computer, is exactly this biosignature. We started with big things, but in the end we discovered that you can control the motion, you can actually print the circuit and it will keep performing its function. The nicest thing in computer chip technology is that you can design the motions on a big scale and then shrink them and they will fulfill their function. When you shrink them, they lose a bit in power but they are still useable. The bigger the shapes, the more effect

When you want to use biosignatures in a room, for example you have all the glass painted with biosignatures, the light comes in, they will have a bigger effect than the small ones which you wear, but the ones that you wear are always in your energy field and the others are different. We saw yesterday that the biogeometrical shape of a house affected the energy of our body stronger than the little shapes.

Biogeometrical Shapes for the Gold

To-day we are going to do exercises. After spending a lot with the concepts you would like me to do in front of you, we will do two cases to show you how I diagnose with biosignatures, their effect on the person, how I engrave them on the chips, what happens to the person. We will take two cases, Johan and Henny, since they are the organizers. We must have caused them a lot of trouble and headache during the last days, so that if at least we are going to do some healing, we take them to thank them for all they did.

The other thing would be that we want to get these forms transform our body. When we transform our body we use biogeometrical shapes to correct the function. We found that there are two healings. We can use biogeometrical forms in raising our spiritual level.

Biogeometry is like alchemy. In alchemy the person is putting ... and we think he is doing it to produce gold, but actually the gold is just a certificate. A grain of gold is the certificate that he has become gold, that his aura has become gold. The alchemist had to spend sometimes 40 days for his experiments, sometimes longer. Biogeometry has a shape that produces gold. You might say: maybe to me it was an ... but I went through many years of research, and when I discovered the biogeometrical shape, its meaning for me is different. It is not the application, it is the evidence. To me it is my certificate, I feel it has transformed me.

If I put it on a person - somebody might say it has a different meaning, because I did not do it - but take this little story: we put this artificial bow on our head, when a clairvoyant looks at you he can think you are a saint. But look at it like that. We have a treasure far out in the desert and you have to go through the desert. You have to go to the water well in order to get water, so you go to the well and carry water with you. You must make a container. The more containers you make, the more water you can carry and the more likely it is that you come through the desert. What biogeometry does is tell you: come, I have something very nice for you, I give you the present of this waterfall, now you have all the water in the world, and you don't have to go all the way to the well, I save you the journey to the well. But still, biogeometry plus the water, you still have to go out and make the container in order to find the treasure, so by putting the spirituality, the field (?). I give you to save the water, but unless it goes out through action, you do not... but at least having it around you makes it easier for you, because it is there all the time. It is as if somebody who loves you is pleasuring you not all the time but only 4 hours a day. Having this thing, it protects you from all the negative influences that, every time you take a step in the desert, pull you back.

So healing would not be biosignatures alone. Although we have biosignatures for the level of the organs, for the emotional level for the mental level, but without the biogeometry so that you get the gold in you, the biosignatures will not be as effective. It is much more effective because the gold - remember the gold is the wisdom, the balancing energy, it cleans the intellect, the negative green is the connectivity, ultraviolet is the light, the spiritual light - so we would have to add to the biosignatures the biogeometrical aspect here.

Exactly like this, you have to correct the function and also add the spirituality. The same thing we apply on them, we are going to apply on the arrangement of the room. Because the house - you have the first skin, your house is the second skin, your neighborhood is the third skin, the city is the fourth skin until you reach the earth as a higher level of your skin like I am the outer skin of, let us say, the cells of my blood. The solar system is a skin.

The Pattern of the Room

We will look at this even at the bottom in a different way. For example if I have a house, it is just like a body. I make windows in the house for me to interact with outside, not for peeping to come and look inside. If there is an emergency and someone knocks at the door in vain, he may knock on the window, but the window is my way of addressing the environment.

The same with my body. The fat layers and the skin are the external walls of my house. This peripheral energy system looks through my windows, and through that it adjusts the cells with the physical reality - whether it is day or night - but it also enters into resonance with the absolute reality. So imagine when our stomach or our heart is performing its function - we said that the laws come from the absolute for that - it is taking into consideration every moment in the universe. If somebody picks a flower on a distant star, it plays a role while your stomach is taking awareness of that through the windows.

So the windows are my way of seeing the universe. When someone comes and uses the windows to take a look into the house, there is something wrong, it is contained. In an emergency, if there is a problem, you can see that there is somebody out there, shouting hey, hey. Okay. But if I don't understand the real essence of the window, then there is a problem. So we are going to go directly.

The same thing now with the room. The pattern of the room means function. That is architectural, because I am an architect. To a doctor it may be different, but we cannot come with our sciences and say: what you see is nonsense, we have something better. So you can't come with biogeometry, or Feng Shui, and completely neglect it. All the matter that I have studied in my life as an architect about function, form and things like that; we have to get the functions, where comes the light, where comes the furniture. Then, once I get the functions right, the physical aspects right, then I go into the energy aspects of the room. Once I get all the energy aspects right, health wise I mean, the proper ventilation, the proper sun, the proper colors, I take another stand: 1) geo-biology, I want to know whether there is anything harmful in the room, or from the materials, and then I can go a step further and place an extra criterion, so I go to sciences like Feng Shui, where I start the proper placement.

There are different schools, but I showed you yesterday that the various schools, although they are fighting all the time, and you see that in all the books. In reality the fact is that they don't understand each other. There is the compass school where you arrange all the colors according to all the directions of what you call ...

You cannot neglect the earth's polarity. They called that system the black hat system. They call it an emotion force: you put it that way, and emotionally you interact with it. Reality is not like that. The circle can be oriented A hemisphere is oriented, this is very important...

Instead of diagnosing every organ with the pendulum I want to find, through the law of resonance, what needs to be adjusted in your energy field, and then afterwards I can check what known problems you have. Resonance makes energy fields copies of each other, beyond time and space. And so when you take a diagram and use resonance, you can correct any problem in your body that has a cause beyond our time and space.

I will now take a sample of one of you as a test person and put it here on my ruler. Now I will enter into resonance with the various diagrams and see which ones increases the pendulum turn. This is the primary energy level on the ruler. This is an instrument of Chaumery. Every biosignature that will raise the resonance to go higher, the test person needs it. At every sign I will tell you what it is, for example for the ear, but it is only the resonance and it is not a diagnosis telling what is wrong with the ear. When I draw each sign on the sheet of the overhead projector, you may all test the influence of the sign on the test person; but wait when you are testing until I finished my work (see reproduced sheets). You can check the effect of each sign on yourself while I'm working.

The thymus gland; everybody needs it because we all have it atrophying. Every organ that is atrophying will show some negative energy in it. Test it on yourself.

Once you have the signatures, go out in nature, find the leaf of a tree, of a plant, and find the geometrical relationship. In view of the trinity geometry - energy - function, try for example to find the plant that raises your immunity.

In connection with gall bladder and liver disturbances there are several signs. Even if your gall bladder has been removed, you might need this sign, you may think that the problem was solved but you still have all the symptoms because on the energy level the problem was not solved.

There is something with the kidneys. Remember these are resonance problems. Some of them might have manifested, some might have not, but whenever we need the signs, we put them. The upper one of the kidney signs looks a bit like the ionic column. The capture of the ionic column has something to do with the vibration of underground water. When you stand up, your kidneys, as a shape, interact with energy of water, like the ionic column; so the form also plays an important function.

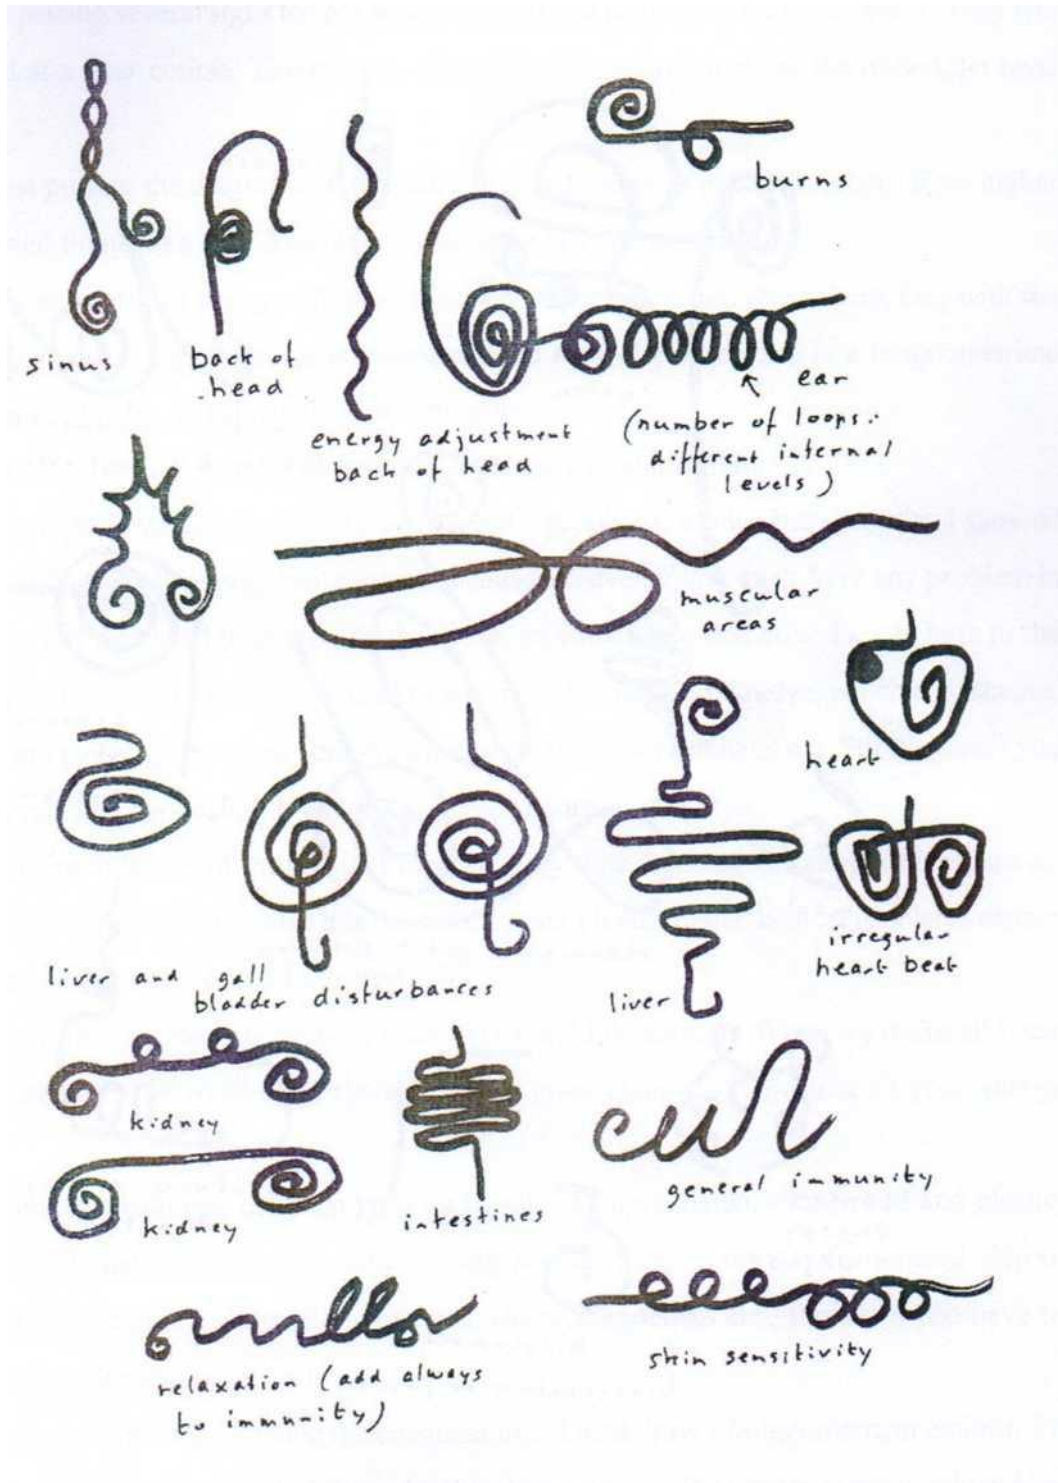

Do you see the similarity of the sign for the heart? When it has over- or under pressure this one balances it.

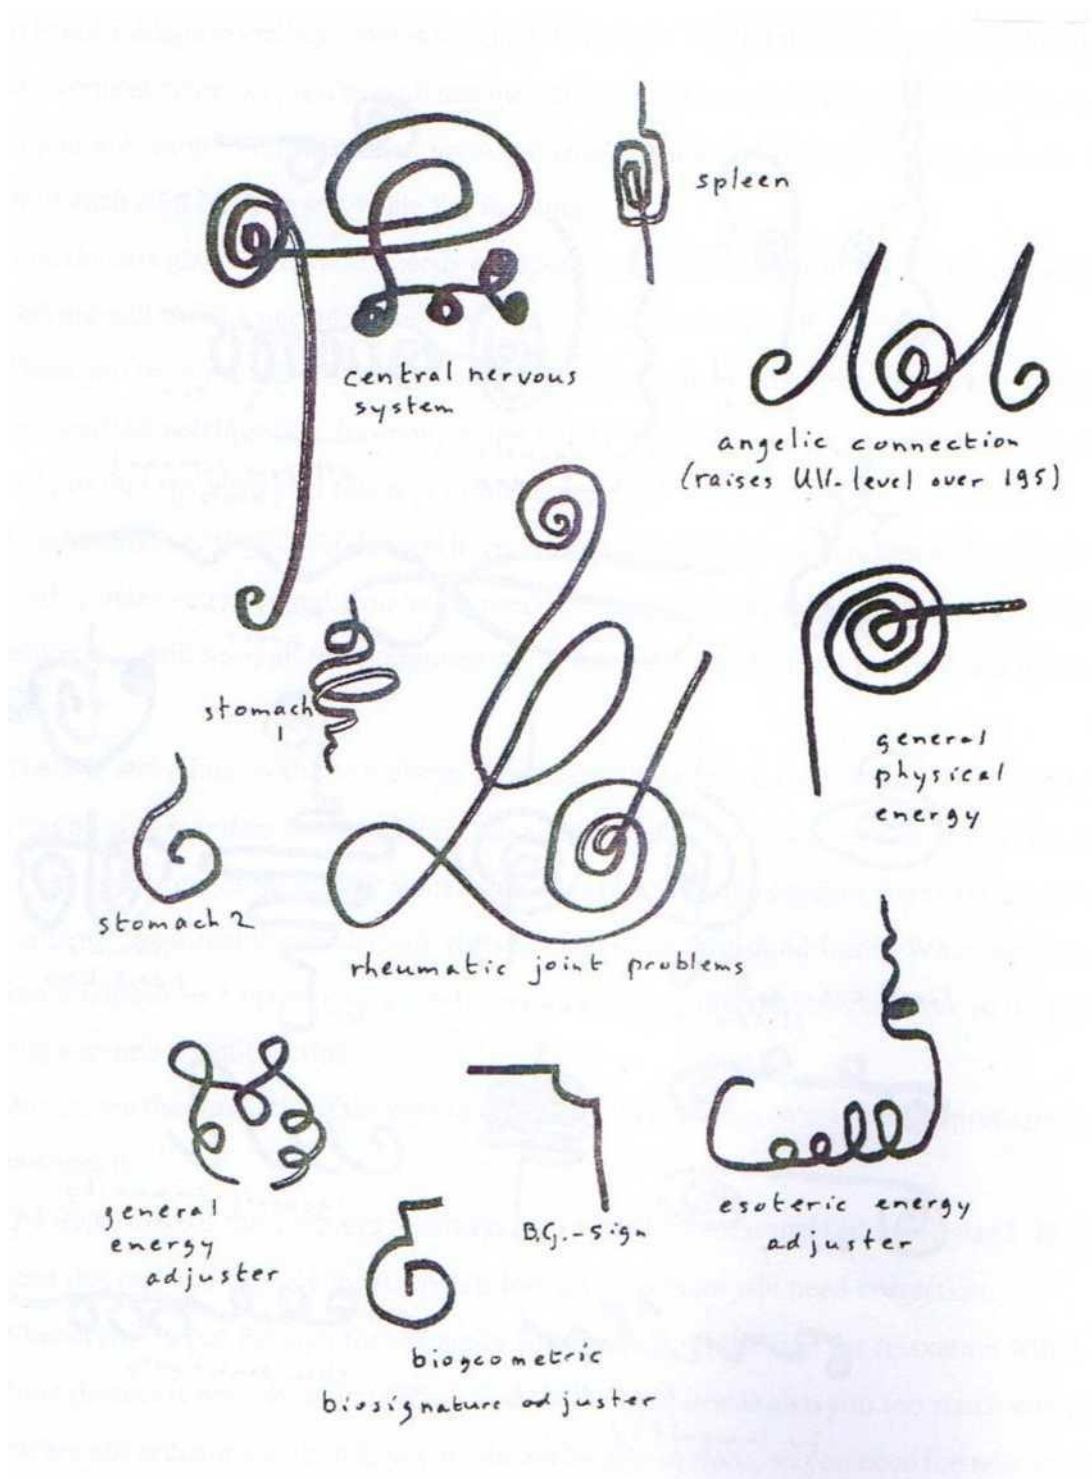

The upper one of the kidneys resonates also with the suprarenal (adrenal) gland. When you need this one and the one for the heart, the heart pressure will need correction.

Whenever you put the sign for immunity you have to put the sign for relaxation with it.

Your thymus is now' shrinking. When you do the sign, it will give you too much energy, and you are not accustomed to that; you might not be able to sleep, so you need the relaxation.

You never know with a patient. If the immunity system goes in with a big boost, then you might have some cleansing effect, diarrhea, too much energy at night. If the immune system starts slowly, there is a stress release in your body. When the immunity cleans, it also cleanses your subconscious, so you might get nightmares the first time.

Bums you do not need but it can come in handy. So you know this sign. It is usually very effective.

After placing several signs for physical problems, we have signs for other levels. They will be treated at a later course. There is one of angelic connection; it raises the ultraviolet level over 195.

I'm just putting the diagrams. The healing comes from your immune system, from higher wisdom, and things like that. The higher angels are laws of the universe.

This is an esoteric energy adjuster. It is very important to use these there, i.e., with the two biogeometrical signs. One is a biogeometrical sign, the other one is a biogeometrical biosignature adjuster. It adjusts the link with gold.

What we now have is not a diagnosis but resonance relationship.

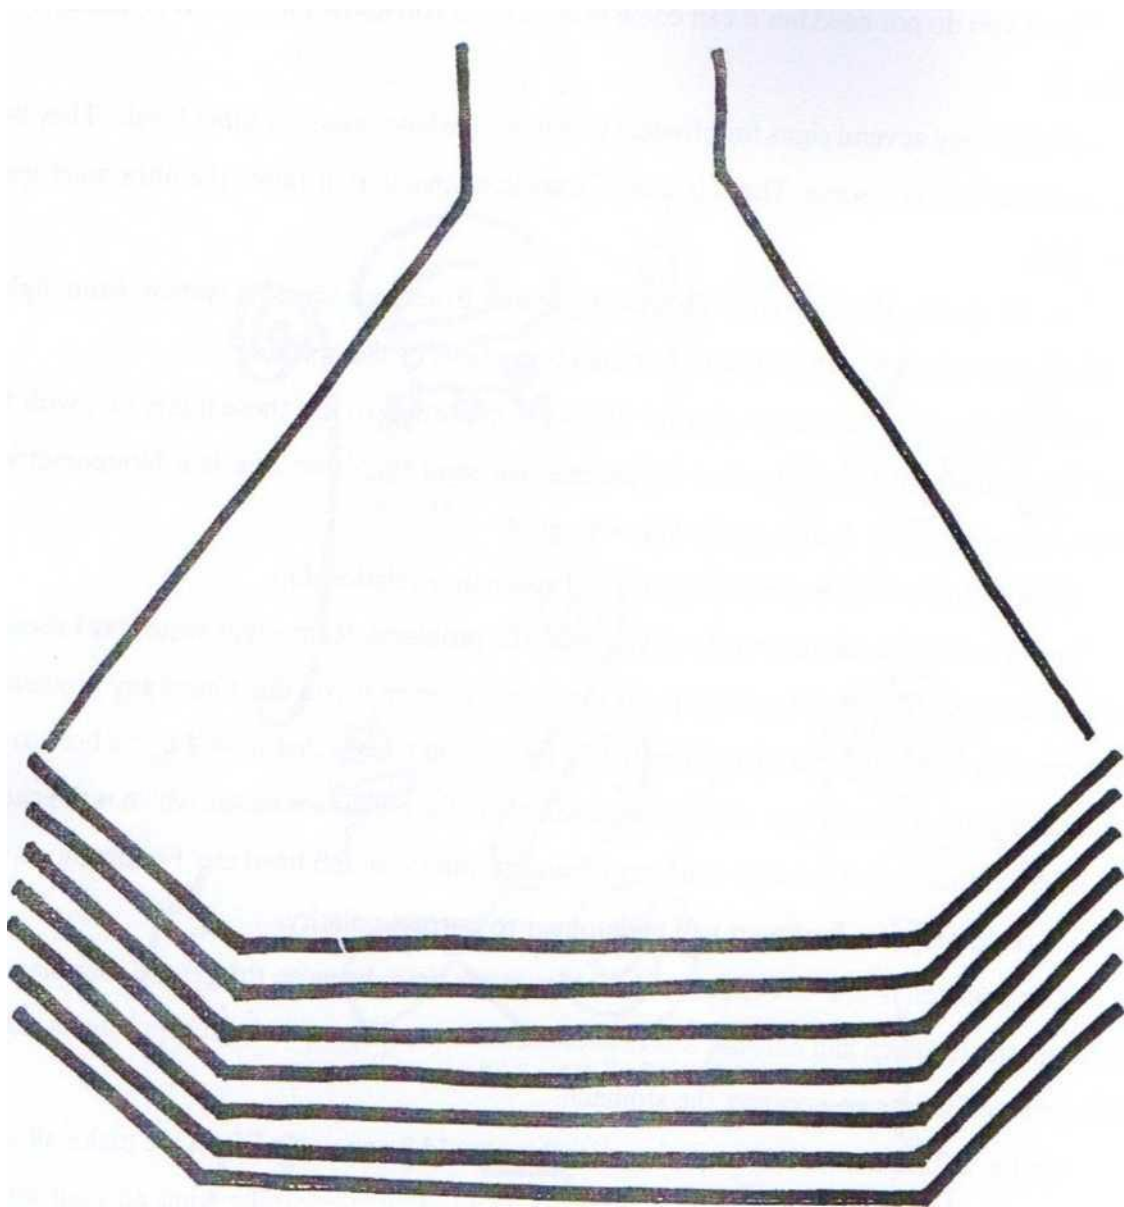

I can proceed by asking you about your specific problems. Remember yesterday I showed you how to find which energy center was the cause, so even if you don't have any problem in that area, we would need to determine the cause, so you can do that now. I come here to the balancing point, I want to see which chakra will make the pendulum move, which is the cause. So start with your right hand on your crown chakra, then your left hand etc. For diagnosis you can work quickly, for healing it will take longer to correct polarity.

The stomach is one of the things I look at every time, because the central meridians go through the stomach and because it is behind the solar plexus; many medical problems cannot be corrected unless you correct the stomach.

As far as biogeometrical analysis goes, this should be enough. When we make all these biosignatures on a personal chip, there is a very good chance of adjusting all your energy systems.

All objects which you carry on your body will be impregnated, even wood and plastic, although these materials less than metal. In our society there is no way for a metal chip to escape impregnation by electrostatic charges, electromagnetism etc., therefore you have to smash it every day and blow on it.

There is another way of using the biosignatures. I now draw a biogeometrical emitter. To the shape you can add, instead of the gold, the ultraviolet and the negative green, which here are not in an emitting form but just create a field. It uses the quality of the number seven. Lines channel energy. It works only in a horizontal way. You may take photocopies.

In Egypt we have such an emitter full of signs. In case of an emergency we put a picture of the person, a saliva or his name opposite the opening, for anybody far away you can use it.

About emitting healing energy to a person. When you put a seven, it is a carrier and an amplifier. To send love to somebody, put the word inside. You can even send a color to a place, or a very powerful crystal or a stone. Problem: amplifying any feeling, to use it scientifically, I program the crystal with my feeling, I always have to use the biogeometrical shape to program it. Why? The biogeometrical shape has gold, has the divine wisdom, even an empty image gives spiritual energy. Love has always the aspect of wanting. Anything amplified can cause a problem, so don't play with energies, not even with love. So there is a tabu on sending any energy or any feeling with a shape other than a B.G. shape. It is the only shape because it will balance it, it cleans all the aspects in it. Sending love normally, without amplifying it, it is okay; amplification creates the problem. If you put hate here, it would be cancelled and it would only transmit spiritual energy.

You can put a picture of a place here. Improvise without telling people.

Rawya: Saliva has been used but it is unhygienic. It is better to use such things as a hair, or a piece of scotch tape which the person has put for a few seconds on his skin, for example on the forehead, so that it takes information in skin humidity and fat. After contact with the skin, close the scotch tape. When you do the measuring, you may touch the tape (in resonance you will be a copy of what you measure), but no other person may touch it.

At the end of a diagnosis and a treatment, finish it, so that connections are broken, or bless the patient.

To make a diagnosis we use anatomical charts. You look at each and every organ and enter into resonance with the organ of the patient to determine which ones need be cured. Shapes are in resonance with each other.

When I put my pendulum on the sample of the patient, I am in general resonance with the full energy field. When I look at the drawing of an organ I enter into resonance with the shape of that particular organ in the body of the patient, so I'm speaking directly the pictorial language to it. For example the heart. Then I'm going into details of the heart, the various muscles of the heart, and I find the proper biosignature which the test person needs for this heart muscle.

Now I'm going to test it. I redraw the B.S. for the overhead projector. The test person must not look at the screen, I will first measure. Now look at the screen. You see, the energy level of the test person instantaneously increases. This is the way to go inside.

Sometimes you get the feeling that a patient needs a special, personal diagram. This is a diagram made for this person at this place and at this time; maybe tomorrow he will not need it anymore. This personal diagram adjusts anything in the body.

Looking at the person and imagining the shape of a particular organ you can also use to adjust; this uses the peripheral energy system. Sometimes it is a particular cell, in the liver or the pancreas, for example, which I can point at accurately in the picture. Just by looking at the picture you can create healing. Sometimes with diabetes, for example, you can hit the exact nucleus.

Sometimes it is interesting to go into the brain, because something like the hypothalamus is not something you let your doctor play with, or the pineal gland, better do it with a diagram at a distance.

Once you tested a B.S. by radiesthesia, there is no way you can do harm with it. The patient might not need it, but it doesn't do any harm.

Rule 1: don't interfere with what doctors do. We are a complement to what doctors do.

Rule 2: no healing before the patient goes to the doctor.

A problem can be treated biologically, but the cause can be emotional or vibrational or somewhere else, energy-wise. If this is the case and I don't have the sign for the cause, what will happen? The medicine will work, but after a week the problem is back again.

Healers sometimes think they know the problem better than the doctor, but he is licensed and you are not.

Try to work in harmony with the doctor.

Shall we now go into the brain of the test person. Let's take the hypothalamus, to see if there are any harmonic problems.

Usually for every organ you have so many signs. Testing with the pendulum before you don't have to try all the signs for that organ. This is the anatomy. If you have a very specific problem, let us say a tumor somewhere in the body, then you would have to go and find the organ and find the place of the disturbance, and then you would have to work with a sign to adjust the energy in there. You can put all the medical things together. The sign would help you, but if you feel okay that day, then why not intervene with your energy and try to. You will probably find the proper sign, so you adjust the energy. You will probably do the same as a healer, but in an adjusted energy it is easy to perform miracles. If you think: why do I feel so strong today, it is because the energy in the area has been adjusted. Maybe yesterday you spent half your hour in adjusting the energy and you didn't get to the tumor.

The emitter can be used in many ways even without biosignatures. You can put a command in here. For example you can write "heal the muscle of the heart". It is better if you draw the heart, because the right brain is a visual language, but even in spoken language it works. You can visualize the heart and say the words while the name of the patient is in front of the opening. A test of the test person shows that it works.

"Stop smoking" would be affecting your will, but a healing command is allowed. A non-smoking command would be cancelled, only the blessing would be left.

Biogeometrical shape means spiritual, sevens means group, so it is the same as group healing in a geometrical way.

Point at whatever you want, a sick plant, a sick pet.

How long will my mental command of healing the heart stay? Everything you create mentally is erased at sunset and at dawn (change of polarities). We don't pollute the collective mental unconsciousness with it. Only the things that are so potent that they stay with you day and night, with time they take a place in the collective. So this is a nice thing. It would be better to put a B.S. here. It is a combination of biosignature and biogeometry.

With biosignatures in many cases you get instantaneous effect, but it shouldn't make you think that you can cure anything instantaneously. I remember cases where the blood cell count was very low, when the people went to the laboratory two days later the count had increased considerably and four days later the count was normal (laboratories in Egypt think they make mistakes). With a cold the symptoms will get worse because the B.S. raises your immunity so your body will work harder. I have got very good effects with epilepsy, which nobody can deal with properly with the proper signs and put the medicine here to cancel the side effects.

The room

Please remove one chair from the room because we have sixteen, and they will automatically give you gold. Everyone check problem areas in the room.

In Baubiologie negative green is either reflected or deflected, but you cannot cancel it. Even the reflectors will impregnate after some time and they will let some through, people will throw them away. If you deflect negative green from your bed to your neighbor, it is not particularly kind.

The grid crossing you could solve, but not the combination with underground waters, or earth fractures, will become dangerous. We will solve that.

Corner areas are often problematic; you could solve it by a plant, but you might not like the plant in the corner. We will do plant placement, color placement, object placement. The most powerful things appear to be the simplest. You don't have to study so much, all you want is to make your home a home. If you go back home, vibrationally, energy wise, there is the dimensional aspect of home, your home could be a spiritual dimension, not only time and space.

Making it a home, we must make a doorway to spiritual space, like ancient temple. If I don't have a power spot, I create one.

Simple: make the whole house or the room radiate gold, spirituality. Don't worry about the Feng Shui rules, the direction you are sleeping, the gold, spiritual energy, balances everything.

We go back to mother earth. There is a place for everything in nature. The correct place for any object in a space will create gold in the whole room. When coffee is no good for me and I put the cup in the right position, coffee will become good for me, because it is charged with gold.

Remove things from the center of the room. We'll start here. Will someone take gold in his hand and be ready to measure. Meanwhile someone finds a grid point, slightly off the center of the room; please mark it. Let someone take any object in the room and walk around with it until gold is measured. Mark the place but remove the object again otherwise you cannot do any further measurements. You need not find the best place for each and every object in the room, but I usually do at least 10 or 12.

For color placement let us take something red. The inside of this jacket is perfect. Again walk around the room until gold is measured, mark the place. Do the same thing with something green etc.

For a vase of flowers or for plants do the same things again. There are 2 rules of placement for flowers First the axis of the flower. A plant has a polarity, respect it. How? Take your pendulum, someone turns the plant slowly until you get the maximum deflection.

Also stones cut from the earth have been lying in one position for millions of years and they have obtained a polarity. Using these stones to build, respect this polarity. When I have slept on my right side all my life I will not feel well when you turn me on my left.

Second rule: the relationship between the plant, the human and the earth. I look at one of you, somebody may turn the plant around in the room until I find an area where the axis of the plant, the axis of the earth and the axis of this person are in tune and let the plant correct him, when for example he has a chronic disease. But don't put the plant in a position to correct him when the energy of the plant goes low; we have to find a compromise. The connection with the person must not be at the expense of the plant.

Let us test it. Please turn the plant slowly. Okay, now we know that this is good for the man. But it is not good for the plant, so we'll find another spot for it. It is very important to take care of the plant. Now we have a match. Wherever you put a plant, you can find a way to cure a personal disease with it.

Two remarks. When turning the plant very very slowly, there is a fine point where the plant might radiate gold, but we are looking for a placement in the overall environment of the room. So go around the room. Any object, any plant, any color is energy, the axis of the earth is energy, there is peripheral energy of the room, so if I move energy in energy, there is some place where I am able to produce gold in the room

Try again, walk around with one shoe in your hand until your shoe radiates gold! Remember this one yoga exercise, close your eyes and try to find, without a pendulum, whether Henk has found the proper place for this shoe, whether you feel the gold.

Once you have the gold, you make a fine adjustment of the place of the plant.

The gold changes your relationship with all the laws of physics that you know. That is the whole idea: the spiritual gold will harmonize your relationship with the environment, even if you do the wrong thing (everything has its limits: don't start smoking all around the clock or drink ten bottles of whisky everyday).

In Feng Shui you place colors according to a fixed scheme.

To make measurements, it is best to take the chip away from your body. The chip does not work in the lower part of your body. Don't judge anything, such as your material. Don't say that concrete is bad, but if you use it find the proper direction in which it will radiate gold. Would there be anything in the universe that does not create gold? Find the proper spot.

Would it be possible to take an electronic thing instead of a color? Can I achieve gold in the room with a mobile phone? Or with a computer, or with an electronic gadget? The answer is yes. Place your electronic devices where they become harmless. Although maybe if the flower goes there, the harm of this will go away without changing its place. Let's try another object now.

Q.: How do you determine the distance⁹

A.: The idea is your relationship to the north-south. We first determine the direction. In one direction you can move an object, plant or color to try and find the maximum intensity of the gold, like we discussed yesterday. You can calibrate a ruler.

If you think you can find it by feeling, okay. Yes? Okay, I will not say anything, Henk walks around and he will find it. Wonderful. Once we have found it in this way, you can do fine tuning with your pendulum.

Now we will have to check whether we have annulled the negative power spot (with crossing). These spots are no joke, they can make the difference between cancer and a healthy life. Put at least ten objects or colors on the proper place and then check whether the negative spot has been cancelled indeed.

An architect of course can use his various elements to cancel a negative power spot by the appropriate choice of his materials etc.

There is another way to make gold. Move the seat of a person around the room to find a proper spot which, for this person, creates gold. In other words: find the spot that you can make the house gold.

Let us check whether the corners of the room are alright. Are the candles alright (waxinelichtjes)? You are not putting the remedy for the corner alone; the spiritual placement of any object will also cancel the corner problem and will create gold in the whole room. If the corner needs yellow, you need not put yellow in the corner; the yellow will have to be put in the place where it creates gold.

It is very important and it cannot be simpler.

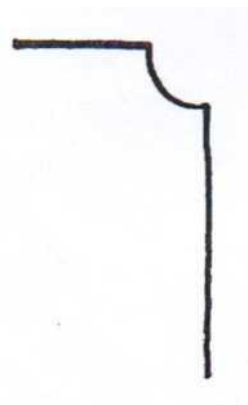

You have two options: the gold and special personal therapeutic treatment placement for an organ. If there is a deficiency somewhere in the body, the gold will take time to adjust it. So you take the gold off again, move an object to correct an organ in the body. Suppose that Henk has something with his stomach, we could take the red to correct Henk's stomach. There is a place for it. But you could also put another red on that place and put the first red back.

Let us say you have a problem with a child, or with your partner. Instead of judging, find a solution. Move objects or colors until you have corrected the problem ...

If you practice this four or five times, I'm sure you will not need your pendulum anymore, you will feel it, each time when an object or a color will intensify the gold, like water diviners, with some experience, they know where the water is and they need their rods only to find the exact location. Also you will be sensitized to this. If you work all the time with biogeometry, looking for gold, gold, gold, you fill your aura with gold. If you wear a biogeometrical sign, you will automatically fill it with gold. You become sensitized to this gold. When you enter a room you will automatically feel I have to put this object, I have to put my computer there, move it a bit like that, and you just arrange your room, and I bet when you take your pendulum you will find the gold.

We are really going into fields where nothing is impossible. Any incurable disease, something really severe, we'll have a spot in the room which will adjust it. You can do lots of things with it, you can improvise. You may look for gold everywhere.

Now, at the end of this workshop, what I would like from all of you is that you communicate to me all your experiences, so that we can exchange information, on health problems, on difficulties with children and everything. Perhaps we can arrive at a monthly newsletter or I can put your experiences on my web page.

When I am in Europe you can reach me on my mobile Swiss telephone: (+41) 49-4015921. When I don't reply I will be in Egypt.

AVERTISSEMENT

Cet ouvrage est le fruit de 30 années d'études, de recherches silencieuses et patientes, certaines décevantes, d'autres exaltantes. Il est aussi le prolongement naturel du volume déjà paru en 1939, puis réédité en 1956 sous un titre différent : Essai de radiesthésie vibratoire, et cela en collaboration avec Lion Chaumery enlevé, hélas, prématurément à notre affection le 27 février 1957.

Notre collaborateur et ami a été en effet victime de ses expériences et complètement déshydraté par notre rayon vert négatif (V —). A cette époque nous n'avions pas encore trouvé la vibration antidote, découverte depuis lors avec M. P. A. Morel qui a bien voulu se pencher sur nos travaux et nous assurer son concours précieux.

Si nous nous sommes tenus à l'écart de toute activité pendant une longue période dans ce domaine passionnant des Forces Invisibles, c'est précisément parce que nous voulions trouver et découvrir la vibration protectrice qui nous permettrait de poursuivre nos travaux en toute sécurité.

C'est maintenant chose faite et nous savons désormais que l'antidote du V — est le V + qui neutralise toute radioactivité emmagasinée dans l'organisme.

Helas ! la plupart des spécialistes de la baguette et du pendule ignorent les lois fondamentales qui permettent de disséquer, puis d'étalonner toutes les vibrations du spectre visible et invisible, depuis les plus longues : Infra-rouge jusqu'aux plus courtes : Ultra-violet.

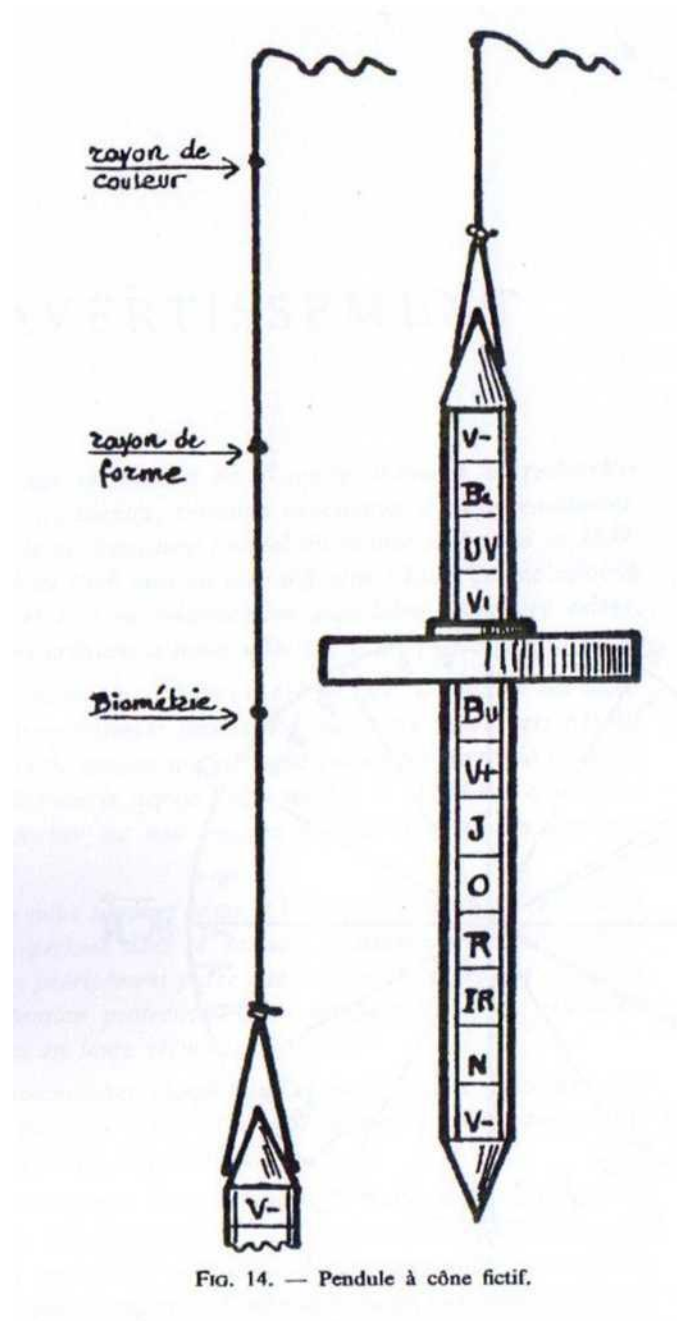

FIG. 14. — Pendule à cône fictif.

La règle biométrique (fig. 19).

Le principe de cette règle dérive de la règle émettrice ainsi que de l'écartot-sélecteur.

Elle est constituée de la façon suivante : d'une part par une règle droite en bois, repliable sur elle-même et portant plusieurs échelles biométriques; d'autre part par un ensemble de formes métalliques :

- 1) un losange fixe en zinc, orienté dans l'axe Nord-Sud;
- 2) un second losange en cuivre, mobile, pivotant sur le losange en zinc.

Sa fonction est celle d'un sélecteur par déplacement de sa pointe positive.

Ces deux losanges, fixe et mobile, sont axis sur un disque étalonné aux vibrations-couleurs du spectre visible et invisible. La mobilité du losange-cuivre autorise, suivant sa position, une orientation très précise des différentes émissions-couleurs et cela en synchronisation avec les réglages du pendule universel ou le pendule & cadencé fictif.

(I) N. B. — Après chaque genre de recherches avec la sphère, on doit la déimprigner en l'embuant d'un souffle chaud, comme pour nettoyer un miroir.

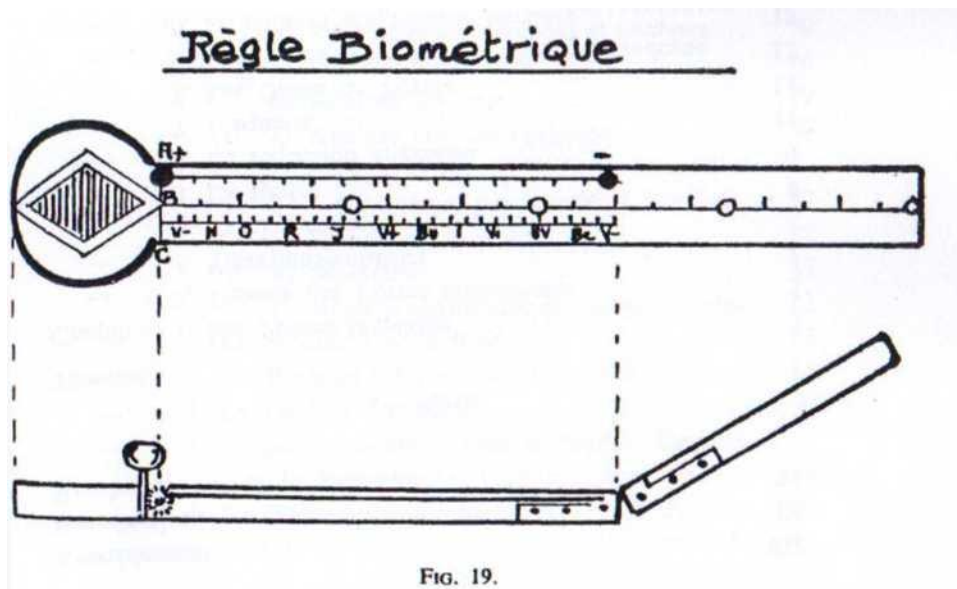

Pour toutes ces détectations le Pendule Gyptien peut parfaitement remplir le rôle, avec avantage.

La rfegle elle-meme comprend :

- 1° une dchelle de mesures « A » du P.H. sanguin, en coefficient basique, alcalinitd, aciditd, ainsi que les polarites;
- 2° une dchelle « B » de mesures biomedtriques et en %;
- 3° une dchelle de mesures « C » pour la tension artdrielle.

Il faut, pour son utilisation pratique, placer un doigt ou un t  moin biologique, faisant l'objet d'une recherche, sur la forme emettrice zinc-cuivre.

D'autre part voici les instructions 4 observer pour ohaque dchelle.

a) Echelle « A » P.H. sanguin.

Cette dchelle est   quip  e d'une corde d'acier, tendue entre deux points fixes et timbr  e de 14 divisions, chacune d'elles sdparde par 10 sous-divisions.

Deux aimants, places de part et d'autre des deux points fixes crdent un champ magn  tique dans la corde d'acier.
