

THE VIBRATIONAL TESTING AND HEALING SERIES
Class Two

THE UNIVERSAL VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM
with Robert J. Gilbert Ph.D.

PART 2: PRACTICES

All Contents Copyright 2015: Please Do Not Copy or Distribute

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. INTRODUCTION TO PART 2	p. 4
a) The Three Classes in this Series	p. 4
b) Parts 1 and 2 of this Class	p. 4
c) Vibrational Testing and Entrainment	p. 5
 II. PREPARATION FOR TESTING: CLEARING THE ENERGY CENTERS & CHANNELS	 p. 7
a) Before You Begin	p. 9
b) Clearing the Central Channel: Energy Flows of Heaven and Earth	p. 10
c) Creating the Dynamic Sphere of Protective Energy: Torus Exercise	p. 13
d) Clearing the Energy Meridians	p. 17
e) Clearing the 3 Key Areas in the Head	p. 22
f) Clearing and Activating the Energy Flows to the Pendulum	p. 24
g) Simple Clearing Method with Crystals	p. 27
h) Simple Clearing Method with Essential Oil Spray	p. 27
i) Clearing the Mind: Overcoming Mental Projections to Avoid Influencing the Testing	p. 28
 III. INTRODUCTION TO THE VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL WAVE PENDULUM SET	 p. 31
a) Basics of the Two Pendulums	p. 31
b) Components of the Horizontal Wave Pendulum	p. 33
c) Radiesthesia Principles behind the V & H Pendulum Set	p. 34
 IV. HOW TO TEST THE 12 BANDS OF THE VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM: BENEFICIAL (HORIZONTAL) WAVES	 p. 37
a) Accurate Testing with the Vertical and Horizontal Wave Pendulums	p. 37
b) Setting the Dial to Test a Specific Band	p. 39
c) Principles for Calibrating String Length on the V & H Pendulums	p. 41
d) Practice: Calibrating the String Length on the Horizontal Pendulum	p. 44
e) Practice: Testing the 12 Beneficial (Horizontal Wave) Bands	p. 47
 V. BACKGROUND TO FUNCTIONS & EFFECTS OF THE 12 BANDS	 p. 52
a) French Radiesthesia Research into the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum	p. 52
b) The Universal Vibrational Spectrum within every Scale of Quality	p. 53
c) The Universal Vibrational Spectrum within every Plane of Existence	p. 54
d) Sacred Geometry of the 12 Bands: the Division into 7 and 5	p. 57
e) Color Functions as a Guide to Understanding Powers of the 12 Bands	p. 59

f) Chakra Associations Color Model (Modern Western Variant)	p. 60
g) The Chinese 5 Elements / Organs / Meridians Model	p. 64
h) The Steiner / European Rosicrucian 4 Ethers Model	p. 68
i) Modern Color Therapy Systems	p. 74

VI. FUNCTIONS & EFFECTS OF THE 12 BANDS:

BENEFICIAL (HORIZONTAL) WAVES

a) 7 Practical Sources for Applying the Vibrational Bands	p. 77
b) The Aspects Described for Each Vibrational Band	p. 79
c) Begin and End each Vibrational Band Section with Testing	p. 81
d) Powers of the Red Band	p. 83
e) Powers of the Orange Band	p. 87
f) Powers of the Yellow Band	p. 90
g) Powers of the Green Band	p. 93
h) Powers of the Blue Band	p. 97
i) Powers of the Indigo Band	p. 101
j) Powers of the Violet Band	p. 104
k) Powers of the Ultra-Violet Band	p. 108
l) Powers of the White Band	p. 111
m) Powers of the Negative Green / Grey Band	p. 114
n) Powers of the Black Band	p. 122
o) Powers of the Infra-Red Band	p. 125

VII. RESONANCE TESTING: 2 MAJOR WAYS TO ATTUNE THE PENDULUM TO THE DESIRED VIBRATION

a) The Principle of Resonance	p. 128
b) The Sample Linking Method	p. 129
c) The Intrinsic Vibration Method	p. 131

VIII. THE CENTERING VIBRATION: BACKGROUND

a) Spiritual Traditions and the Energy of the Center	p. 135
b) Polarity Balancing with the 12 Bands vs. Centering	p. 137
c) Sources of the Centering Vibration	p. 139

IX. HOW TO TEST FOR THE CENTERING VIBRATION

a) Preparing your Energy and Awareness for Accurate Vibrational Testing	p. 146
b) Collect the Items needed for these Practices	p. 146
c) Testing the Prime Phenomenon: Connecting to the Center of the Circle	p. 148
d) Testing with Gold: Resonance with the Centering Vibration	p. 166
e) Testing with the BG16 Pendulum	p. 172

I. INTRODUCTION TO PART 2

A. THE THREE CLASSES IN THIS SERIES

In the first class in this series, The Personal Wavelength, you learned how to test the specific strengthening and weakening effects of any vibration on a particular person (or on any living being.) It will be very helpful if you are aware of basic concepts from that class, including testing using the Personal Wavelength method, the different types of Witnesses, etc.

In this second class in the series, you will learn to detect and identify the full range of Vibrations present within the invisible world of Energy which surrounds us.

These first two classes in this series teach two different techniques, which are both essential for complete Vibrational Testing and Healing:

Testing the Personal Wavelength reveals the EFFECTS of a Vibration ON A SPECIFIC LIVING BEING, whereas testing the Vibrational Spectrum allows you to know the EXACT TYPE OF VIBRATION which is present, and its intrinsic ENERGY FUNCTIONS.

The third and final class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing, will combine these two methods and go deeper into a wide range of practical applications.

B. PARTS 1 AND 2 OF THIS CLASS

Part I of this present class provided the historical and conceptual background to our work with the Vibrational Spectrum. Please complete Part I before beginning Part II, in order to understand the essential foundations of this work.

Here in Part II you will learn practical hands-on methods for testing each Band of the Vibrational Spectrum, along with details on the specific powers and applications of each Vibrational Band.

Concepts which you should be familiar with from Part I to prepare for the practical work of Part II, include:

- * The System of 12 Bands comprising the complete Vibrational Spectrum.
- * The Centering Vibration.

- * The names of the 12 Bands are related to different Colors, however their essential vibrational power transcends Color and may appear within other quality scales (within a sound, a shape, etc.) or may manifest as completely invisible radiations from a person, place, or thing.
- * Each Band has both Vertical and Horizontal waves. The Vertical Wave is basically detrimental, and the Horizontal Wave is basically beneficial (although this is a simplification).
- * The “Negative Green” band contains the most dangerous Vertical Wave; however its Horizontal Wave is beneficial and indeed is essential for Life and for many practical applications.

C. VIBRATIONAL TESTING AND ENTRAINMENT

In the pages which follow, you will learn how to detect each of Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum using specific tools.

You will need the following tools:

- * The Vertical and Horizontal Wave Pendulum Set
- * The “BG3” Pendulum
- * A simple “Neutral Pendulum” as used in the Personal Wavelength class

It is necessary to entrain your energy system to each Band of the Spectrum in order to detect it accurately, which requires regular practice of the techniques which follow.

Without regular practice you will not develop the new “organs of perception” in your energy system, which will allow you to perceive these subtle energies which have such a profound (although virtually unknown to the public) effect on ourselves and on all living beings.

Remember that the Vibrational Testing Tool acts as a focusing device, which allows you to detect one precise vibration out of the “soup” of vibrations which surrounds us.

Don’t make the common mistake of thinking that the use of the testing tool is “artificial” and should be abandoned as soon as possible: it is what allows the proper entrainment to take place.

Persons who abandon the Radiesthesia tool before their entrainment process is complete, often end up testing only their own projected thoughtforms (although they are not even aware this is happening) instead of the actual empirical subtle vibrations of what they are testing.

If you commit to regular practice with these Vibrational Testing tools, they will help you to engrave into your subtle body the new organs of perception through which you can accurately perceive the invisible world around you.

This transformation of your subtle body can change your destiny; it creates structures within you which can be taken even beyond the Gate of Death, creating new subtle “sense organs” which you can use also in existence beyond the Physical Plane.

This is truly a Spiritual Initiation process, a foundation for the “New Etheric Clairvoyance” described in Part I of this class.

It is also the foundation for vital new advanced Holistic Health testing and healing methods.

This demonstrates the fundamental unity between work in Spiritual Science and in practical applications of Vibrational Science.

Please remember that all methods in this class are for your personal exploration only. The user assumes all responsibility for their exploration of these methods and concepts.

I hope that you enjoy the process of awakening to the invisible world of Vibration and Spirit which awaits you in the remainder of this training.

I also hope that you will choose to put your new skills into service, to help those in need whenever and wherever possible.

Many Blessings,
Robert J. Gilbert Ph.D.

II. PREPARATION FOR TESTING: CLEARING THE ENERGY CENTERS & CHANNELS

The exercises which follow were first given in the Personal Wavelength online class. We repeat them now in this class to continue your process of learning them, with some added details.

Remember to perform these clearing exercises just before you begin the testing practices which follow, so that your testing will flow more easily and will be more accurate.

It is a common mistake to not pay attention to the state of one's own internal energy or consciousness before beginning Vibrational Testing or Healing practices. It is vitally important that your energy and consciousness be as clear as possible before testing external energies, or applying healing energies to a person or location.

The exercises which follow each have a specific purpose.

They are presented in order going from the largest scale in the Energy Field (Central Channel) to the smallest / most focused (the Energy Meridian flows to the specific fingers which hold the Pendulum.)

Then there are two very simple clearing methods using Crystals or Essential Oils, followed by the final practice: attaining a Clear Mind state before beginning radiesthesia testing.

Here is a quick summary of the Clearing practices which follow:

1. Clearing the Central Channel. This opens and balances the two most important major flows in the larger human energy field; the "Heavenly Flow" which descends from above through the Central Channel of the body, and the "Earthly Flow" which ascends from below through your Central Channel.
2. Torus Exercise. This creates a flow through the Central Channel of the body, which then flows into a dynamic sphere of energy which surrounds and protects the entire body. This is a core Sacred Geometry energy pattern which already exists in the human energy field; by consciously practicing this exercise, this Toroidal flow pattern is activated and intensified. This exercise has the power to help protect a person's energy field against the invasion of external pathogenic energies, leading to its use by some energy healers (including Medical Chi Gong practitioners.)

3. Clearing the Energy Meridians: This is a very simple and fast method to help clear all 14 Major Energy Meridians in the Human Body.
4. Clearing the 3 Key Areas in the Head: This clears important areas in the head which must be open and active in order for a person to be able to detect subtle energies; ie to accurately practice Vibrational Testing.
5. Clearing and Activating the Energy Flows to the Pendulum: This clears the specific Energy Meridians (Lung and Large Intestine Meridians) which supply energy to the Thumb and Forefinger, the two fingers which hold the Pendulum in Vibrational Testing. Your energy must flow through the Pendulum in order for you to test accurately.
6. Simple Clearing Method with Crystals: This is a simple method to extract toxic vibrations from energy centers of the body using specific stones.
7. Simple Clearing Method with Essential Oil Spray: This is a simple method to generally clear and freshen the energy field, through the use of specific essential oils.
8. Clearing the Mind: This is an essential practice to clear the mind and to ensure that you are not projecting thoughtforms, which could interfere with the accuracy of your testing vibrational fields. It is sadly very common today for people to think they are testing / perceiving the objective nature of an external energy field (of a person, an object, or a location) when in reality they are only testing their own projected thoughtforms. This fundamental mistake is due to their not having trained properly to keep their mind clear during testing, an essential skill which was emphasized in classical esoteric systems but often overlooked in modern Western systems.

Once you have learned and practiced each of the above methods, you can choose which ones to do before any particular radiesthesia testing session.

If time is a factor, you can choose some of the quicker methods.

At a bare minimum, it will be very helpful to do at least the following before any major radiesthesia testing session, in this sequence:

1. Simple Clearing Method with Crystals and/or Simple Clearing Method with Essential Oil Spray.
2. Clearing and Activating the Energy Flows to the Pendulum.
3. Clearing the Mind.

If you find yourself blocked from accurate testing after this, be sure to do the Clearing the 3 Key Areas in the Head practice; if you are still blocked, then do the Clearing the Energy Meridians practice, with one of the recommended stones if possible.

A. BEFORE YOU BEGIN

Accurate Vibrational Testing requires that the energy in your own body and energy system be open and flowing, so that you can energetically connect with the dynamic, invisible vibrational world around you. This was well understood in the ancient world, where for example Feng Shui practitioners in China would be expected to master Chi Gong internal energy practices before beginning Feng Shui training (this is largely ignored by many Feng Shui trainings in the West today.)

Before you begin:

1. Go to the bathroom, to empty your urinary bladder and bowels as much as possible before you begin. This will help your energy flow, and reduce tension in your body.
2. Set up a bowl of Salt Water next to you, so that you can direct into it any toxic energy you are purging out from body as a result of these practices.

Simply fill a non-porous bowl (for example glass, pyrex, or ceramic -- not plastic) with pure water, and add in Salt until it reaches saturation; ie, add salt until it no longer dissolves into the water and some crystals of salt gather at the bottom of the bowl.

You do not need to use expensive sea salt, any salt will do. To save money if you use the Salt Water bowl technique regularly (and you should!) the cheapest way to get bulk salt that I have found is to buy pure Salt (USP Sodium Chloride) in 40 lb. bags which are sold for use in swimming pools; another option to get the large Salt Bags sold at a home supply store for pouring into home water filter systems, but in that case check the label to be sure they do not have any other chemical additives and are just pure salt.

Dispose of the salt water in the bowl when you are done, by flushing it down the toilet (it has a similar vibration as other waste products from your body have.) Wash out the bowl well, and refill it clear water and salt for the next time you need it. The salt water bowl should be a regular feature of your environment anytime you are doing vibrational work of any kind, so that it is ready for you to dump toxic energies into anytime that you may need it.

Do not overlook the use of the Salt Water bowl! It is very common to find energy practitioners today simply releasing toxic energy from themselves or their clients into the space they are in, contaminating the air or surfaces in the room; this is a major mistake and very poor energy hygiene. Always direct toxic energy into the Salt Water bowl, where the water will collect the energy and the Green Vibration of the Salt will help disintegrate it.

3. Drink a large glass of pure water. It is essential that you stay hydrated when doing energy practices. A key principle known to many traditions is that water allows energy to flow, whether that water is in your body, in the Earth, within a stone, etc.

B. CLEARING THE CENTRAL CHANNEL: ENERGY FLOWS OF HEAVEN AND EARTH

The most fundamental and essential energy flow in (and outside) your body is the Central Column of Energy; this is the primary energy axis of your body. It is a vertical column of energy which extends far above your head and enters into the body at the Crown Center, running through the midline of your body and down into the Earth. At its greatest extent surrounding the entire physical body and energy field the Central Column becomes the “Pillar of Light”; at its most physicalized form along the centerline of our body, the Central Column is referred to as the “Central Channel” with its midline being the “Golden Thread.”

The Central Column (also known as the Column of Glory or Column of Spirit) is introduced in our Essential Teachings and Practices of Spiritual Science online training, with more advanced exercises taught in our other Spiritual Science classes (including Connecting with Spiritual Beings and Spiritual Empowerment.) These courses deal in more detail with issues such as the overall size of the Column, layers within the Column etc.

We are taking a very simplified approach in the exercise below; deeper details of this energy structure and more advanced practices can be found in the classes mentioned above.

There are both “Heaven” and “Earth” flows of energy in this vertically oriented energy Column. The Heaven Flow is Yang (positive current in terms of polarity); it descends down the Central Column from high above your head, down into the head at the Crown Center and through the Central Axis of your body to exit at the Perineum and continue straight down into the Earth (when standing, this energy flow partially goes between your legs).

The Earth Flow is Yin (negative current in terms of polarity); it ascends from deep in the Earth to rise between your legs (when standing), entering into the Perineum and up the Central Column of your body, to exit out the Crown and ascend up the higher parts of the Central Column outside of your physical body.

Note: If you feel you are in a location where the Earth Energy below is contaminated, then move to an area where the Earth Energy below feels clean and clear to do this practice (you can also test the quality of the Earth energy beneath you, with the Radiesthesia methods you will learn in this class.) You don’t want to pull contaminated energy into your body.

Another option is to create a Mental-Vibrational Witness of an energetic filter placed in the Central Column beneath your feet, which filters out the contaminated energy being pulled up from the Earth into your Central Column.

Yet another option is to create a physical filter for the Earth Energy you are pulling up the Central Column, by placing a Carbon-based stone such as Jet or Shungite beneath each foot (or if you have only one stone, between the feet). Another stone which could be used is Indigo Gabbro (aka “Mystic Merlinite”), as it is unusually powerful for absorbing & transmuting toxic vibrations into beneficial.

In this simple beginning practice with the Central Channel, we will simply move Light and Energy in the Heaven Flow, and then in the Earth Flow.

PRACTICAL TIPS:

- * We will use our hands to mirror the movement of the energy through the Central Column.
- * This practice is linked to the principle we emphasized in the first class in this series: Energy follows Attention. You will place your attention on the location of the energy, so that the movement of your attention then moves the energy in the channel. The most important aspect of the practice is to actually feel the movement of the energy in the Central Channel, so only go as fast as you can keep your attention clear on the energy movement; at some point in your practice you may feel when the energy movement is fully activated and you can just allow the energy to move at its own natural speed and in its own rhythm.
- * Keep the tip of your tongue connected to the roof of your mouth throughout this practice.
- * This practice is most effective when performed standing up.

STEP 1:

Start with the Heaven Flow: bring a Clear Divine Light down from high up the Column into your Crown Center, then down the midline of your Body and into the Earth. If you are conscious of the beneficial Spiritual Beings who assist you in life, or you have particular Beings or Masters you invoke in your spiritual tradition, you can invoke or ask them for help, clearing, and/or healing which can stream down into your body and energy field with the Heaven Flow. For example, in some branches of the Christian tradition this “Heaven Flow” is experienced as the “Descent of the Holy Spirit”, so in that case the Holy Spirit would be invoked to descend with the Light and Energy into the Central Column (some Christian healers use invocations as simple as “Holy Spirit, Come.”)

Let the Divine Light and Energy coming down the Central Column illuminate your entire body and energy field from the inside, expelling blockages and toxicity (which you may perceive as dark, hard, or sticky areas in your energy field).

If you feel energetic toxins in your body or energy field wanting to be expelled as an effect of the descent of the Divine Light, expel these toxins with intention into the Salt Water Bowl you have next to you. Remember to never just release toxic vibrations into the space, always project them into the Salt Water bowl to contain them.

STEP 2:

Then activate the Earth Flow, pulling Light and Energy from the Center of the Earth into your feet and into the Central Column whose midline is between your legs, rising into the Perineum area at the base of the trunk and through the body to exit out the Crown Center and stream high up the Column above you. Again purge any toxic energy out of your body into the Salt Water bowl as the energy ascends up your Central Column.

This opens or “flushes out” these two essential energy flows, which must be balanced for the human energy field to be in equilibrium. [Remember the discussion in Part 1 of this class, regarding de Belizal’s concept of needing to balance the “compensating forces” rising up from the Earth with those descending from the Cosmos.]

There are many more advanced practices with the Central Column given in the Online Trainings mentioned at the beginning of this section.

Note 1: The exact midline of the Central Column running through your body is the “Golden Thread”, which has extremely powerful and balanced energy. Anytime you are feeling unbalanced either energetically or psychologically, you can put your attention on the midline of your body running from your Crown Center down to your Perineum at the base of the abdomen; this is Golden Thread centerline running through the Central Column in your body. Although very simple, this practice is extremely balancing and centering.

Note 2 : Another important part of the Earth flow (in addition to the Central Column flow up the midline of your body), is the rising of Earth energy to enter your body at the base of your feet at the Kidney 1 “Bubbling Spring” acupuncture point and then ascending upwards through your body.

Note 3: The Central Column has a Vertical orientation, but this does NOT mean that it has Vertical Waves necessarily. The physical orientation of an object does not mean that it has Radiesthetic waves of that orientation. The Vertical and Horizontal Waves present in a person’s Central Column can arise from a variety of different spiritual and energetic influences on the person, and from their own level of spiritual development.

C. CREATING THE DYNAMIC SPHERE OF PROTECTIVE ENERGY: TORUS EXERCISE

The preceding exercise with the Central Column opened up the Heavenly and Earthly energy flows through the midline of our body and energy field.

This exercise will now circulate energy through this Central Column in the body and then have it move out around the body from points above the head and below the feet. The point above the head, where the energy moving up the Central Column will reach the top of the circulation and then move out and down to all sides to create an energetic sphere around the body, is the distance above your head where the your middle finger touches when you hold your hand at full arm's length above your head.

The point below the body, where the energy moving down the Central Column will reach the bottom of the circulation and then move out and up to all sides to create an energetic sphere around the body, is the same distance as you found from the Crown of your Head to the fingertip of the middle finger when you held your arm at full arm's length above your head. That length is the distance below the bottom of your feet into the Earth where the lower point of the Torus sphere is in this exercise.

This new exercise creates a Toroidal energy flow around the body. A Torus is a geometric form which is essentially a Sphere that opens at the top and bottom, so that a tube of energy runs through the center of the Sphere: this allows a dynamic energy movement running vertically through the center of the Sphere and then out to flow around the boundary of the entire Sphere, making the Torus a powerful energy circulation form compared to the more static energy containment form of a pure Sphere.

The Torus form is found throughout all scales of structure in natural systems: from the molecular level, to the structure of an apple or a magnet, to the circulation of the energy field around the human body, and all the way up in scale to the energetic field around planets and even larger celestial objects.

We will first create the Toroidal circulation in the direction of the Earthly Flow rising up from the Earth through our Central Column, then moving out at our Crown Center and descending in a spherical form around our body back to a point beneath our feet,

Then we will create the Toroidal Circulation in the opposite direction, that connected to the Heavenly Flow descending from above through the Central Column.

Remember the note from the end of the previous exercise; when pulling energy up your Central Column, you can make a mental or physical filter for the Earth energy rising up your Column if feel the Earth energy is contaminated where you are, and you cannot easily go to a different, cleaner location to do this practice.

In the Toroidal Flow practices below, please note that you will move your hands at each stage of the practice to mirror the movement of the energy at each stage.

Keep the tip of your tongue connected to the roof of your mouth throughout this exercise.

See the streaming video of in this training to see how the exercise is properly performed.

STEP 1: EARTHLY TOROIDAL FLOW

Activate the Earthly Flow of energy from beneath you, with both hands pointing downward to beneath your feet. Pull the energy up your Central Column through the Midline of your body, raising both hands (fingers pointed towards the ground) to be level with the energy as it rises out of your Crown Center and above your head. When your hands / energy are at the level of your Crown Center, point your fingers upward as you hands ascend above your head.

When your arms are at full extension, with the fingers of both hands above your head pointing up your Column, then let the energy above your head move out to all sides equally and descend around your body creating the outline of a great Sphere around you. Your hands mirror the movement of the energy out around you by coming down around your sides pointing outward, arms at full extension. Note that your hands are then tracing out the boundary of the sphere around you to the sides; the size of the sphere around you is determined by the length of your arms and where your extended fingers then touch the circumference of the Sphere.

At the bottom of the movement around your body, the base of the Energy Sphere around you connects to a point below your feet; your fingers are then pointing to below your feet at that point.

Then continue the Flow from below to above through your Central Column, with your hands mirroring the movement, then when the energy reaches the height above your head marked by your fingertips (when your arms are at full extension pointing above your head) let the energy and your hands descend along the spherical boundary around your body again to the point below your feet.

The complete movement up your Central Column and then down around the body back to beneath your feet counts as 1 repetition. Do 7 repetitions of this exercise.

STEP 2: HEAVENLY TOROIDAL FLOW

Now we just reverse the direction of the Toroidal Flow, so that it follows the Heavenly flow descending down the Central Column from above.

Note that this Step 2 is the opposite polarity, the mirror image, of Step 1.

Start with your arms at full extension above your head, fingers of both hands touching and pointing upwards. Activate the Heavenly Flow of Energy from high above you in the Central Column. As you pull the energy down the Column and into your Crown Center, let your hands' movement show the level the energy has reached in its cycle. As your hands reach the level of your upper chest, your fingers will naturally turn from pointing upward to pointing downward as they descend with the energy further downward. The energy descends down your midline in the Central Column, out your Perineum at the base of your trunk and descends between your legs down into the Earth.

When the Energy reaches a point beneath your feet (at a distance beneath your feet roughly equal to the distance between the top of your head and where your fingertips touched your Central Column when your arms were fully extended above you) then let the Energy rise up from the point beneath you to flow out to all sides in a spherical flow upwards around the outside of your body. Let your hands' movement (with your arms at full extension) around your body mirror the movement of the energy up around your body, until the fingers of your hands touch above your head, showing the upper limit of the Energy Sphere around your body.

The complete movement down your Central Column and then up around the body back to above your head counts as 1 repetition. Do 7 repetitions of this exercise.

STEP 3: BOTH TOROIDAL MOVEMENTS SIMULTANEOUSLY (SCALAR ENERGY FLOW)

We now do both movements simultaneously, so that the two energy flows pass through each other.

Start with your left hand in the position to start the Earth Flow: arm extended downwards and fingers pointing down to the point beneath your feet. Your right hand is in the position to start the Heavenly Flow; arm extended upward and fingers above your head pointing up.

As you start the movement, you simultaneously ascend the Earthly Flow and the left hand mirroring its movement, while also descending the Heavenly Flow and the right hand mirroring its movement. The two hands pass by each other in their movement, around the level of the navel.

Focus on feeling the energetic sensation of the two energy flows in the Central Column, one from above and one from below, passing through each other; it is a distinctly different feeling than either flow by itself. This is the key to the benefit of this practice.

When the two flows have reached their top and bottom points, mirrored by the left hand now above the head at full arm extension and fingers pointing up, while the right hand is now at full arm extension in front of the body and fingers pointing down, then create the simultaneous movement of the energy spheres rising from below and down from above.

The right hand will mirror the energy movement by rising in a circular arc up the right side of your body at full arm extension, while the left hand mirrors its energy movement by descending in a circular arc down the left side of the body with arms at full extension.

Focus on feeling the energetic sensation of the two spherical energy flows around the body, one from above and one from below, passing through each other. It is a distinctly different sensation than either flow by itself.

When you have returned to the original starting points of the two Toroidal circulations -- mirrored by the Left hand now again pointing down at the point between your feet, while your Right hand is again above your head pointing upwards -- you have completed one repetition.

Do 7 repetitions.

NOTE: Step 3 of this practice, where the two different energy flows pass through each other dynamically, creates a “Scalar” energy effect. This creates equilibrium between the two dynamic energy flows, while also potentially creating a profound “gating” effect where a higher level energy enters into your energy field. The two fields passing through each creates a type of Zero Point that allows the higher level energy to enter into your field.

Remember to watch the streaming Video for this section to see how the practice is performed.

D. CLEARING THE ENERGY MERIDIANS

After experiencing the ascending (Yin, Earthly) and descending (Yang, Heavenly) flows through the primary energy axis of the Body - the Central Column - and integrated into the Toroidal flow through and around the body, we experience these Yin and Yang flows through the primary energy meridians of the Body.

To get an initial idea of the natural flow of the Meridians in your body, start by holding your hands up over your head, so that your arms are raised.

The Yin Earth energy rises up the inside of your legs, up the front of the body, and then up the inside of the arms to the fingertips.

The Yang Heaven energy descends down the back of the arms, down the back, and down the outside of the legs.

Note: this is an accurate generalization that is taught in Chinese Medicine circles. There are other energy flows in the body which may be part of a different pattern.

In the Personal Wavelength training you learned to test all 14 major Energy Meridians and all their Acupuncture Points.

Now we will do a highly effective general practice to help Clear the Energy Meridians in the shortest possible time.

The simplified method below is based on my study of the natural flow patterns of the Meridians, along with my having analyzed many different Chi Gong practices used for clearing the Meridians and extracting out the most essential aspects.

With each step, I note for you which specific Meridian (all 14 major meridians) is affected by that step.

Once you have learned this practice, it is possible to perform the entire exercise in only a few minutes.

METHODS OF GENERAL CLEARING OF THE MERIDIANS

The primary method to perform this exercise is to tap firmly with your fingertips, along the major energy flows of the meridians on the surface of the body.

For those who are physically or energetically fragile, or highly sensitive, there are two main alternatives:

1. Instead of tapping along the body with the fingertips, just lightly rub with the fingertips along the flow of the meridians.
2. Instead of tapping or rubbing lightly the meridian flow pattern with the fingertips, keep the fingers off the body and just point the fingertips toward the body. Project energy from the fingertips to the body, magnetically pulling the energy through the meridians.

Because of the powerful movement of energy in the Meridians of the body which this practice promotes, women who are pregnant may want to avoid this practice altogether; if they do the practice they should just simply lightly trace out the movements of the meridians on the body, and not use strong tapping.

NOTE ON TAPPING THE TOES:

Tap the ends of the toe tips, but also be sure to tap on the nail beds of the toes as well; the nail beds in the hands and feet have important acupuncture points.

BEFORE YOU BEGIN:

Touch the tip of your tongue to the roof of your mouth. This connects the Governing and Conception Vessels, and assists a major energy flow in the body.

STEP ONE: CLEARING THE INSIDE AND OUTSIDE OF THE ARMS TO THE FACE

Use your right hand fingers to tap from the upper left side of your chest down the inside of your left arm moving from shoulder to the left hand fingertips (clears Lung, Heart, and Pericardium Meridians), then over the back of your fingers to continue to tap along the outside of arms to your neck and face (clears Large Intestine, Small Intestine, and Triple Warmer Meridians). When tapping the face, be sure to tap over the cheek to the outer edge of the eyebrows, then tap back on your face to end just in front of the ears.

Then do the same on the other side, using your left hand fingers to tap on the right side of your chest, arms, neck and face.

STEP TWO: CLEARING THE BELT MERIDIAN AND DOWN THE BACK OF THE LEGS

Tap with both hands at the front of the belly, moving your hands to tap the area with your palms and fingers which starts around navel height and extends below the navel into the lower abdomen. Tap out to both sides, left and right. (This helps to clear the Dai Mai or Belt Meridian, which is not part of the 14 main meridians but rather one of the "8 Ancestral Meridians" which help to control the main meridians.) When your hands reach the point on your back opposite the navel (called the Meng Mein in Chinese Medicine), then tap down your lower back and down the back of both legs (clears Urinary Bladder Meridian) and then around the sides of your foot to the toes.

Bend over from the waist to tap down the back of the legs, then straighten up again at the end.

NOTE: Because of the stimulation of the Belt Meridian, Women who are Pregnant may want to avoid this movement, unless advised by a Doctor of Chinese Medicine.

STEP THREE: CLEARING THE SIDES OF THE LEGS

Tap down from the side of your hips down the outside of both legs, to along the outer edge of your feet to the toes (clears Gall Bladder Meridian).

If your knees are healthy, squat down as you pat down the legs, keeping the spine as straight as possible; then rise up out of the squat to stand straight at the end of this step. If your knees are not healthy, just lean over from the waist to pat down the legs, then straighten up at the end.

STEP FOUR: CLEARING FROM THE FACE DOWN THE FRONT OF BODY AND LEGS

Tap down from just underneath the center of each eye, down your face, neck, down both sides of your chest and over your nipples, patting down in two lines beneath your nipples down over both sides of the pelvis, down the front of both legs to the toes (clears Stomach Meridian.)

If your knees are healthy, you can squat down as you pat down the legs, keeping the spine as straight as possible. If your knees are not healthy, just bend over from the waist to pat down the legs.

STEP FIVE: CLEARING UP THE INSIDE OF THE LEGS

Tap from the ends of the toes and toe nail beds, then along the inside of the foot and then up the inside of the legs (clears Liver, Spleen, and Kidney Meridians) to join the hands at the Perineum at the base of your trunk; stand straight at the end. This movements continues directly into Step Six below.

STEP SIX: CLEARING UP THE FRONT CENTERLINE OF BODY

Tap with the fingertips of both hands from your Perineum straight up the front centerline of your body over your genitals, abdomen, centerline of chest and throat up to the center of your lower lip (clears Conception Vessel, ie “Ren” Meridian.)

STEP SEVEN: CLEARING UP THE BACK CENTERLINE OF THE BODY TO DOWN THE FRONT OF THE HEAD

Tap with both hands’ fingertips from the base of your spine up the spine (tapping with your arms coming up from below at the beginning of the practice, when you arms reach their upward limit then switch arm position at the mid-spine to then tap from above at the mid-spine and continue) to up the back of your neck, up the centerline of the back of your head to the top of your head, then down the front centerline of your head to the midpoint of your upper lip (clears Governing Vessel, ie the “Du” Meridian.)

Remember that you want to keep the tip of your tongue connected to the roof of your mouth throughout this entire practice.

STEP EIGHT: SHAKING THE ENTIRE BODY

Shake your body to help circulate the energy released by the practice, and to further open any blockages in your physical or energetic body. If you have been trained to sweep the energy field with energetic projections from your hands to clear toxic energies, do so now over your whole body and deposit the toxic energy into the salt water bowl. Wash your hands afterwards, or spray your hands with Ananda Spray or other type of Essential Oil Spray.

Tune into the feeling in your energy body; see if you feel that one time through this practice is enough, or if more repetitions are needed to clear your Meridians sufficiently.

If you are very energetically sensitive, or feel energetically fragile, just do one cycle and then slowly over time build up to multiple cycles.

If you are energetically strong, feel free to do multiple cycles.

When you have finished the Cycle of Steps 1 through 8 as many times as you choose to do, then go to the final Step 9 below.

STEP NINE: COLLECT THE ENERGY IN YOUR LOWER ABDOMEN

Hold your Hands over your lower abdomen, palms flat on the area beneath the navel. Collect the energy loose in your body in the lower abdomen, which is the safest place to store energy within the human energy system. (In Chinese Medicine and Internal Alchemy, this is the Lower Dan Tian area.)

Note 1: If you have Ananda Spray or other type of Essential Oil mixture which is designed to be sprayed on the body to clear toxic energy, spray this either at the beginning or the end of the practice (or both) over the whole body.

Note 2: If you have been trained how to run the Microcosmic Orbit through the Governing and Conception Vessels, do this now. If you don't know what this is, then end the practice here (you can find instructions on how to run the Microcosmic Orbit from many different texts on Daoist Yoga, including Mantak Chia's Awaken Healing Energy Through the Tao).

STONE METHOD OF CLEARING THE ENERGY MERIDIANS

A very powerful and useful variant method of doing this Clearing of the Meridians practice is to use the rubbing technique with a stone of the appropriate vibrational quality, rather than just using your hand to tap.

Shape: The Optimal Shape is the “massage wand” shape, which is a cylinder shape which is rounded on both ends -- with one end coming to a more acutely angled rounded point than the other blunt end. The end with the more acute angle is always the end which primarily projects energy outward, so that is the end you want to rub along on the body (Note: in reality both ends project energy outward to some extent.) Use the acute angle tip directly on the meridian pathway if you are clearing a single pathway; if working on a larger area which covers multiple meridians (inside of arm, outside of arm, etc.) then use the side of the massage wand to cover the larger area.

If you do not have the stone in the form of a massage wand, then just rub a basic rounded and polished Pebble / Palmstone along the body as an alternative.

Best Stones for this method:

We recommend using one of the “Adaptogenic” Stones, which have an especially profound overall balancing effect in addition to their specific functions. Please see the articles on this topic on the www.vesica.org website, with much more information in the How to Use Crystals and Gemstones Online training.

My two top picks for stones to use for Clearing the Meridians are:

To clear detrimental energy from the meridians and balance the energy:

Indigo Gabbro, aka “Mystic Merlinite”, from Madagascar.

Or:

To increase circulation and recharge the energy system:

Iron Rose Quartz (aka Hematoid Rose Quartz, Hematoid Quartz, or Sacred Heart Quartz). Can use either the Red or the Yellow (Golden Healer) type.

Note: Beware of “Heat-Treated” stones of this type which have flooded the market, which do not have the same beneficial vibrations as the natural unheated stone; see our article about this stone on our Vesica website.

Be sure to clean and clear the stones after the practice!

E. CLEARING THE 3 KEY AREAS IN THE HEAD

The ability to perceive subtle vibrational energies requires the activity of specific centers in the human head. If these centers are blocked, you will not accurately test vibrations around you (as well as there being other potentially serious energetic and psychological consequences of these blockages).

AREA 1: Third Eye Center and Forehead Centers. Most traditions only focus on the Third Eye Center at the root of the nose, between the eyebrows (the “Ajna” chakra of Indian Yoga), however there are other very important energy centers above this which are in the entire forehead; these higher forehead centers have a variety of names in different systems, including the “Joy Center”, Makara, Unicorn Center, etc.

AREA 2: Crown Center.

AREA 3: Back of the Head Centers. This covers from the “bump” on the back of the head (technically the “external occipital protuberance”) down to the location where the spine enters into the back of the skull (called the “Jade Pillow” in Daoist Yoga.)

HOW TO KNOW WHEN THE AREA IS CLEAR:

1. Personal Wavelength method: Calibrate to the person’s Personal Wavelength on a Neutral Pendulum, as taught in the first class in this series. The Energy Centers should test as having as fully strong a clockwise spin as the person’s general Personal Wavelength; if it slows down or goes Counter-Clockwise, the area needs more clearing.
2. Vertical Wave Pendulum method: Test the Center for Vertical Wave of -G; there should be none present. If there is significant V-G present, further clearing is required. Advanced form of this would be test on all 12 Vertical Wave Bands on the Vertical Wave Pendulum, to ensure there are no strong Vertical Waves in any Band present at the Energy Center.

METHODS OF CLEARING:

- a) Hands-only method: Tapping gently on, or rubbing the centers. If you are trained in hands-on energy projection methods, you can project a white or very light green vibration from your fingertips into the area, rotating the fingers counter-clockwise (as seen from in front of the area you are working on) to extract toxic energy -- which then should always be deposited in the salt water bowl.

After the toxicity has been extracted, you can if you choose project beneficial vibrations into the energy center; however you must be sure you have cleansed the center sufficiently before energizing it, and it is vital to cleanse your hands after extracting the toxic energy before you use them project the beneficial energy (you can cleanse them with water or with Essential Oil Spray.) A white light or other beneficial vibration can (if desired) be projected into the center from the fingers using a clockwise rotation in front of the center.

Unless you have developed advanced skill in energy projections from the hands, please only do this energizing of head centers very gently and for a short time.

b) Stone Method. The optimal stone to use for this is “Mystic Merlinite” (Indigo Gabbro) on each location in turn, instructing the stone to pull and transmute the toxic energy from the location (it will do this when in contact with the energy center in any case, but it is important to have clear intent and to give precise directions to stones whenever using them.)

If no Indigo Gabbro is available, use another type of stone which can absorb toxic energy (Obsidian or Smoky Quartz are good examples) or which has the correct vibrations to clear the center.

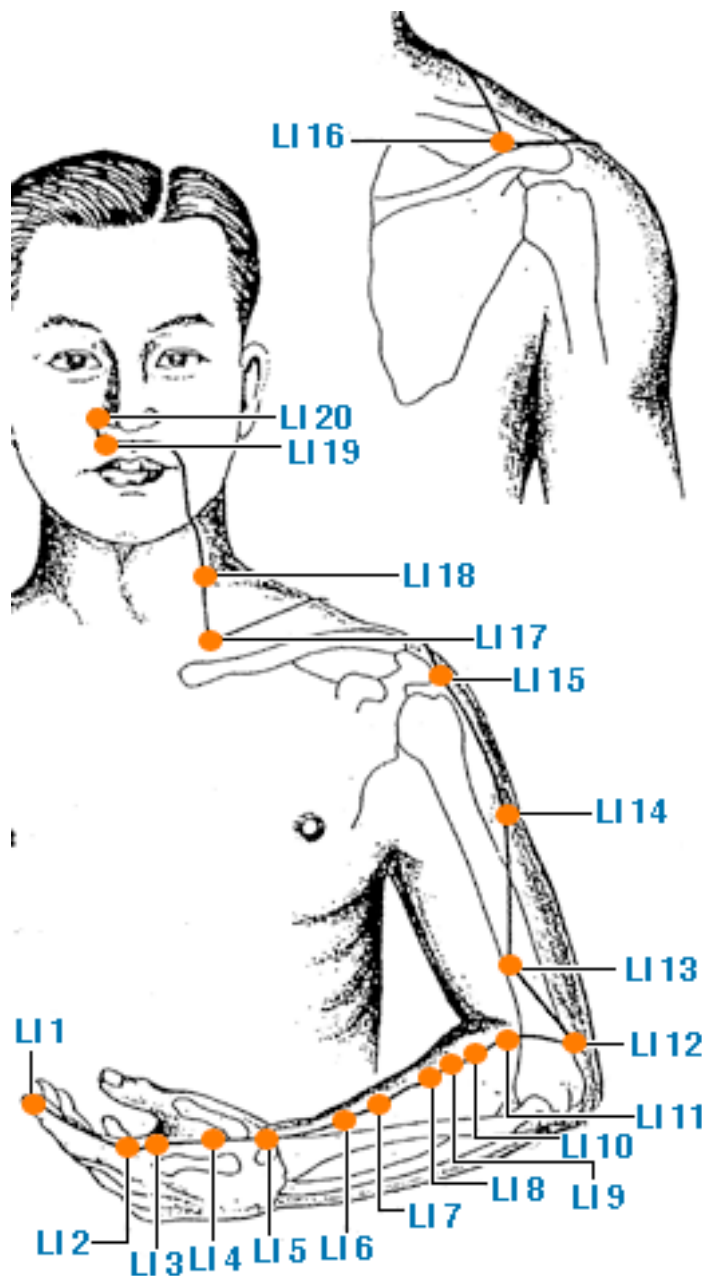

Be sure to clean and clear the stone after use!

For training in the use of different stones, see our Online training How to Use Crystals and Gemstones.

c) Essential Oil Method. The optimal oil to use for this is “Sacred Frankincense”, which has strong Orange Vibration to purge the centers it is applied to of toxicity, as well as having Gold Vibration to activate and tonify the center (this is why Frankincense was used classically as a spiritual anointing oil). If no Sacred Frankincense is present, use regular Frankincense. Another alternative is Sandalwood essential oil which has strong Green vibration to disintegrate toxicity in the center. Simply rub these oils into the centers.

F. CLEARING AND ACTIVATING THE ENERGY FLOWS TO THE PENDULUM

In the Vibrational Testing Practices used in this series, you will be holding different pendulums which are designed to detect the presence or absence of a specific Vibration. The pendulum's cord will always be held between the thumb and forefinger of your dominant hand, allowing the pendulum to move freely suspended from the cord.

Accurate testing with the pendulum requires that energy be flowing through the two fingers holding the cord, into the pendulum itself. Please be aware that it is really YOUR energy which is doing the testing, and the pendulum is simply a TUNING DEVICE -- an antenna tuned to a specific vibration -- which allows your energy to tune into just one precise vibrational quality, out of the universal ocean of vibration we are surrounded by at all times.

So this method helps to open up the energy flows specifically to the two fingers which are holding the pendulum cord, to ensure the proper energy flow from your body into the pendulum itself.

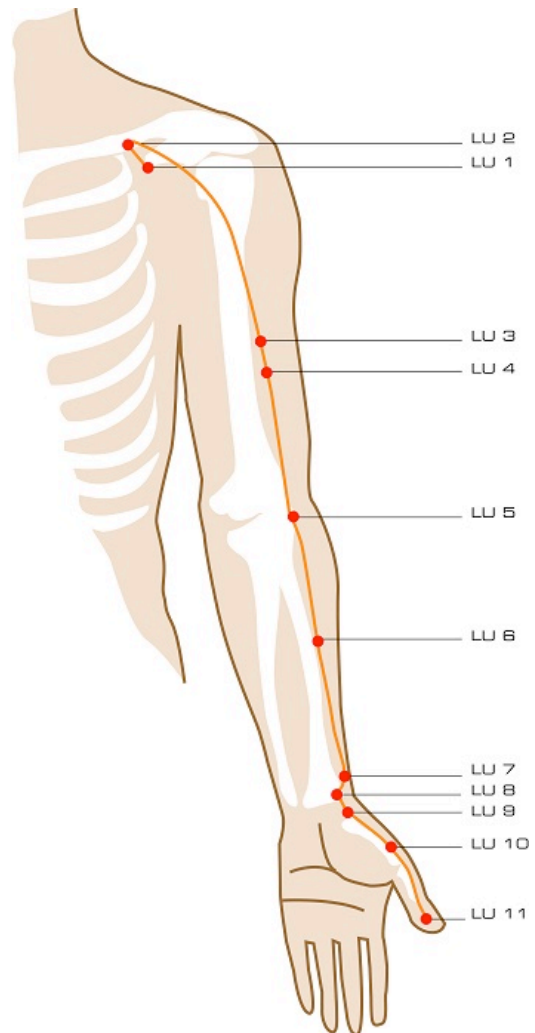

This short, simplified method is very similar to that taught earlier for clearing all the meridians, only now focused specifically on the Meridians which flow energy to the thumb and forefinger -- ie the fingers which hold the pendulum. Although you will only be holding the pendulum in one hand or the other (using whichever is your dominant hand, ie the hand you write with, to hold the pendulum), we want to be sure to clear and activate the channels on both sides in order to keep harmony and balance in your energy system.

Refer to your Acupressure Laminated Chart from the Personal Wavelength class if you would like to see exactly where these Lung and Large Intestine Meridians are located.

The Lung Meridian helps to channel energy to the Thumb.

The Large Intestine Meridian flow supports the Index finger energy.

THE FOUR-PART PRACTICE:

PART 1: TAPPING LEFT SIDE OF LUNG MERIDIAN TO THE THUMB

Tap with your right hand on your upper left chest. Tap from the upper left chest across your shoulder, continuing to tap down the inside of the left arm, over the palm and then over the thumb to the thumb tip. Then tap around the tip of the thumb to end by tapping directly on the nail bed at the back of the left thumb.

PART 2: TAPPING LEFT SIDE OF LARGE INTESTINE MERIDIAN FROM THE INDEX FINGER

Tap with your right hand on the back of the fingertip of your left hand index finger, directly over the left index finger's nail bed. Tap from the index finger nail bed down the back of the finger and back of the hand, then using your palm and fingers of your right hand to tap over both the back and top (thumb side) of your left arm. When you reach the shoulder, tap over the back of the left shoulder, then tap to the top of the left shoulder and up the left side of the neck. Tap up the left lower side of the face and then tap over the area between the upper lip and the base of the nose, ending at the right side of the base of the nose.

PART 3: TAPPING RIGHT SIDE OF LUNG MERIDIAN

Tap with your left hand on your upper right chest. Tap from the upper right chest across your shoulder, continuing to tap down the inside of the right arm, over the palm and then over the right thumb to the thumb tip. Then tap around the tip of the thumb to end by tapping directly on the nail bed at the back of the right thumb.

PART 4: TAPPING RIGHT SIDE OF LARGE INTESTINE MERIDIAN

Tap with your left hand on the back of the fingertip of your right hand index finger, directly over the right index finger's nail bed. Tap from the index finger nail bed down the back of the finger and back of the hand, then using your palm and fingers of your left hand to tap over both the back and top (thumb side) of your right arm. When you reach the shoulder, tap over the back of the right shoulder, then tap to the top of the right shoulder and up the right side of the neck. Tap up the right lower side of the face and then tap over the area between the upper lip and the base of the nose, ending at the left side of the base of the nose.

IMPORTANT NOTE:

If you are pressed for time and cannot go through the preparatory practices given earlier in this section, then do at least this practice before beginning testing.

This opens the direct energy flow going into the pendulum from your fingers.

G. SIMPLE CLEARING METHOD WITH CRYSTALS

A very quick and simple method to help clear your energy field is to hold specific clearing Crystals in each hand and / or under both feet; it is most effective when four of the proper stone are used; one for each hand and one under each foot. For holding in the hands, the crystals can be in the form of Massage Wands (held like Rods in the hands) or polished Pebbles / Palmstones; for under the feet, flat smooth polished Palmstones are best.

Best stone options for this application are Indigo Gabbro (aka “Mystic Merlinite”) which extracts toxic vibrations and transmutes them to beneficial qualities; or Iron Rose Quartz (aka “Hematoid Rose Quartz”, “Sacred Heart Quartz”) which energizes with some clearing effects also, but be sure the stone is natural and not heat-treated; or either Obsidian or Smoky Quartz, which are very effective for extracting vibrational toxicity out of the body and energy field, however these last two are not adaptogenic stones and do not have overall balancing effects - and require more thorough clearing after each use as they not transmute or self-clear in the way which Indigo Gabbro can.

Remember to instruct (ie, to project a clear thought-form onto) the stone detailing what exactly you want it to do. The above stones will automatically perform the functions mentioned above when held in the hands or under the feet even without instruction, but instruction can greatly increase the speed and power of their activity.

Always clean any stones that you use for clearing energy, after each use. At minimum put them under running clean water. In the case of highly absorptive stones like Obsidian or Smoky Quartz, add pure Vodka or Frankincense into a bowl of pure water to help extract toxicity from them more powerfully (the Orange Vibration in the Vodka or Frankincense helps to purge toxicity out of them into the water) then flush the water down the toilet.

H. SIMPLE CLEARING METHOD WITH ESSENTIAL OIL SPRAY

A simple method to clear your energy field at the surface level is to use a high quality blend of essential oils in a spray, over all the surface of the body. This requires using an essential oil spray, such as the Ananda Spray, which has been formulated and energized for the express purpose of clearing the human energy field by a person highly knowledgeable in the the vibrational effects of essential oils.

If you do not have access to an optimized blend, use a spray of one of the following oils, in order of preference:

Sacred Frankincense, Frankincense, Sandalwood, or Lavender.

I. CLEARING THE MIND: OVERCOMING MENTAL PROJECTIONS TO AVOID INFLUENCING THE TESTING

One of the most common problems in modern metaphysical testing and healing, is mistaking one's own projections of thoughts and energy for the true nature of what is being tested.

This is why it is essential to keep the mind clear and free of the “Monkey Mind” chatter when doing any type of dowsing or Vibrational Testing. Our projected thought-forms can cover up, or distort, the actual energetic field of what we are testing so that we do not receive accurate information.

In most systems of spiritual training, meditative exercises are used to develop the ability to move beyond the ordinary intellectual level of thinking into higher consciousness states of pure awareness.

Practices to attain the Clear Mind state are especially emphasized in systems such as Zen Buddhism, Vipassana, and Transcendental Meditation.

This Clear Mind state is often likened to the surface of water; when completely still it is a pure mirror which reflects perfectly whatever is in front of it, but when disturbed then the image is distorted or completely obscured.

Another common metaphor for the Clear Mind state is a clear sky; when thoughts arise, they are like clouds in the sky. Don't fight against the thoughts, or engage with them in any way; just observe them with complete neutrality and let them pass by like clouds, until the sky is clear again.

The Transcendental Meditation system teaches to look for the gap between thoughts, and focus on that gap so that the time between thoughts becomes increasingly longer. In time the mind can be kept completely clear of thoughts, while being fully awake and aware.

Remember the Key Principle of “Energy follows Attention”. Whatever you put your attention on, your energy will go to that thing. This means that you must focus your awareness on the thing you are testing, and keep the mind steady on the test subject without allowing your mind to wander.

To avoid testing your own energetic projections rather than the actual vibrational field of the target, your Mind should be kept clear of thoughts; this includes both thoughts in the form of words, and also thoughts in the form of mental images (unless the mental images are an accurate reflection of true nature of the target).

This practice will develop your ability to hold a calm, clear state of attention on the vibrational field you are testing, without generating thought-forms which would distort your vibrational testing.

Step 1 of the practice below is taken from the Vesica Spiritual Science: Essential Teachings and Practices Online Training.

Step 2 is added for this class; it is a direct application of this Clear Mind state specifically for highly accurate vibrational testing, as well as for developing ongoing perception of the invisible vibrations around you.

STEP 1: ATTAIN CLEAR MIND STATE WITH EYES CLOSED

DURATION OF PRACTICE:

Aim for 5 Minutes. Make it a shorter period, if it will help you make the time to actually do the practice and not put it off. Longer than 5 minutes is fine, but look out for the trap of planning you will do it for a longer period -- and then NOT doing the practice at all, because you “don’t have that much time today”!

GUIDELINES:

Let go of thoughts and set the intention to keep the mind clear. At first it is quite likely that (even though you don’t intend to generate any thoughts) your habitual “Monkey Mind Chatter” will create all kinds of fleeting thoughts.

Just relax, and observe the Mind; don’t try to fight against, or in any way resist, the thoughts that arise. Simply go into a neutral observer consciousness; just observe when thoughts arise, don’t focus on them or try to “grasp” them. Just let them go and keep returning your attention to the quiet open space between the thoughts.

The time of the mind staying clear of random thoughts (through focusing on the space between the thoughts) will increase significantly through regular practice of this very simple Exercise.

You may discover that this exercise is in fact deeply pleasurable. Quieting the constant mental chatter can feel like dropping a heavy burden. A feeling of clarity and lightness arises, which also has a quiet euphoric energy that you may feel spreading through your energy body as you hold the Clear Mind state.

AT THE END OF THE PRACTICE:

Let go of the intent to keep the mind clear of thoughts, but keep the eyes closed. Place your awareness on your energy field, and observe how this practice has affected the energy in and around the body, and your state of consciousness. How do you now feel different than when you began this practice?

STEP 2: CLEAR MIND STATE WITH EYES OPEN, ATTENTION ON A VIBRATIONAL FIELD

This exercise is the same as given in Step 1, only now you do the practice with the eyes open and with total attention on the energy field around an object. This practice is important because it:

- a) Directs the power of the Clear Mind state specifically to Vibrational Testing.
- b) Develops awareness of when your mind is truly clear, and when you are generating thought-forms which could corrupt your testing.
- c) Extends the amount of time you can focus on the energy field of an object you are testing, without getting distracted or losing focus.
- d) Develops a deeper level of perception of energy fields in the world around you.

Start by doing the Step 1 Practice for a minute or two.

When you have attained the Clear Mind state, open your eyes and focus your attention on the vibrational field of an object in front of you. I recommend using a high quality stone or crystal as the object in front of you to focus your attention on in the beginning; stones have the most stable energetic field, in most cases. The “Adaptogenic” stones discussed on the Vesica Website are especially good to practice with, because these have the most balanced energy; i.e. the stone will help to balance your energy field while you are focusing awareness on it.

Keeping your mind free of thoughts, hold your clear attention steady on the energy field around the stone. See how long you can hold the state of Clear Mind while focused on the energy field, with no extraneous thoughts entering your mind. Be aware when your mind starts to wander, or when any thoughts arise; relax and let them float by and just return to the Clear Mind state, focusing again on the energy field of the Stone.

This simple practice will develop your sensitivity to when you are generating thought-forms vs. when you are holding Clear Mind, as well as extending the amount of time you can hold this Clear Mind state.

If you practice this exercise daily for a few weeks, you will find that your ability to accurately test vibrational fields becomes much stronger. This exercise must be practiced daily over a period of time, in order to entrain yourself to this Clear Mind state; it will then become a skill you can call up at will, taking no more than a few seconds to attain.

Get in the habit of always doing some basic exercises in clearing your energy field, and then attaining Clear Mind state, before you begin any session of vibrational testing. This will take just a few minutes, and will greatly improve your results!

III. INTRODUCTION TO THE VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL WAVE PENDULUM SET

Our tool for testing the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum is the Vertical and Horizontal Pendulum Set.

This tool was created by Dr. Ibrahim Karim, whose work was described at the end of Part I of this course. It is the fundamental tool used for testing the quality bands in the BioGeometry® trainings.

A PDF copy of Dr. Karim's introductory guide to the use of this pendulum set is available for you to download on the class page.

Please read that guide, in addition to the material contained in this class manual.

A. BASICS OF THE TWO PENDULUMS

* These pendulums work by having a Base Dial which has all 12 Bands vibrationally present on it. Any of the 12 Bands can be selected for testing by using the Emitter Pattern on the smaller, inner Dial as a Pointer, aimed toward the desired Band location on the Base Dial.

* The 12 Bands appear in the positions marked by their initials on the Dial face, due to the Energy Key (line of energy) created by the Emitter Pattern (modified hemisphere) on the Base Dial.

Note that the hemispherical Emitter Pattern is located at the position of the Positive Green (+G) band on the Dial; however the initials "+G" cannot be put at that location on the dial, as that is where the Emitter Pattern needs to be to create the Energy Key.

* The Emitter Pattern on the Base Dial (see above) has a line drawn from its base all the way across the body of the Dial to the -G setting; this establishes the Base Dial as the primary source which creates the positions of the 12 Bands. The Emitter Pattern on the smaller inner top dial (right) has a line which only extends to the middle of the Dial; this establishes it as the secondary source that selects which Vibrational Band from the Base Dial is going to be tested.

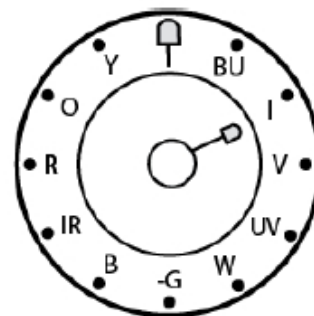

* The major differences between the Vertical Wave and Horizontal Wave Pendulums are described below, so that you are able to distinguish one from the other.

HORIZONTAL WAVE PENDULUM:

- * Has only one Dial, which is held at a Horizontal orientation when the pendulum is suspended from the cord.
- * Only tests Horizontal waves, cannot detect Vertical Waves. This eliminates potential confusion in testing regarding whether you are detecting the Horizontal or Vertical Wave of a given Band.

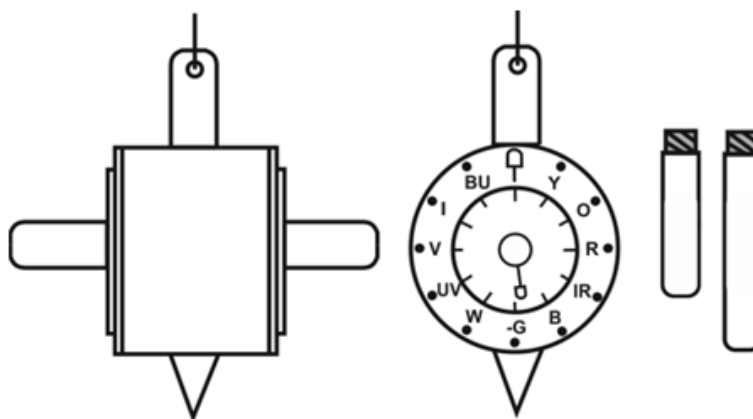

- * The color qualities (Bands) on the Dial run sequentially in the clockwise direction: for example Red at 9 o'clock, Orange at 10 o'clock, Yellow at 11 o'clock, etc. as you look at the Dial Face (right). The emitter pattern (hemisphere) at the top of the Dial is the location of the Positive Green (+G) energy quality.

VERTICAL WAVE PENDULUM:

- * Has two Dials, which are both held at a Vertical orientation when the pendulum is suspended from the cord.
- * Only tests Vertical waves, cannot detect Horizontal Waves.
- * The color qualities on the Vertical Wave Pendulum Dials run sequentially in the counter-clockwise direction: for example Red at 3 o'clock, Orange at 2 o'clock, Yellow at 1 o'clock etc. as you look at the Dial Face (below.) The emitter pattern (hemisphere) at the top of the Dial at 12 o'clock is the +G energy quality. (Note that the sequence of the Bands / Colors on the Vertical Dial is the mirror image of how they appeared on the Horizontal Pendulum. This is because when the circle of the Bands changes orientation from Horizontal to Vertical, the Band Placements naturally "flip" into their mirror image.)

* There are also two metal length extensions, which can be screwed into the bottom of the Vertical Pendulum to help tune into specific Earth Gridlines. These extensions will be taught later in this class in the section regarding the use of the Vertical Wave Pendulum.

NOTE: Be sure that you only use the Horizontal Wave Dial (where the colors run in clockwise sequence) on the Horizontal Pendulum, and the Vertical Wave Dial (where the colors run in counter-clockwise sequence) on the Vertical Pendulum. Check before you use each Pendulum that the it has the correct Dials mounted on it, as illustrated on the previous page.

B. COMPONENTS OF THE HORIZONTAL WAVE PENDULUM

The Horizontal Dial Pendulum

1. The cord is attached to the Dial Lock and Pendulum Holder; this suspends the pendulum from the cord, and acts as a screw to hold the Top and Base Dials in place.

2. The smaller Top Dial Disk is used to select the Band to be tested, by using the Emitter Pattern as a Pointer aligned toward the Initial of the Band desired on the Base Dial. Note that this smaller Dial has a line coming from the base of the Emitter pattern which ends at the hole in the center of the disk (making this the secondary Energy Key source, ie the selector.)

3. The larger Horizontal wave Base Dial Disk creates the stable placement of the 12 bands. Note that this larger Dial has a line coming from the base of the Emitter pattern which continues past the hole in the center and across the lower body of the disk (making this the primary Energy Key, ie the setting of the 12 Bands.)

3a) You must be sure that you are using the Horizontal Wave Dial, which is the one that has “R” for Red at 9 o’clock and “V” for Violet at 3 o’clock on the Dial Face (with the hemispherical Emitter Pattern at the 12 o’clock position.) Be sure you don’t use the Vertical Wave Dial, with the opposite propagation of the colors, on this pendulum!

3b) The Top Dial Disk always goes on top of the Base Dial, and both are secured in place by the Dial Lock; just turn the dial lock a quarter turn to loosen it, so that you can then turn the Top Dial Disk to point its Emitter Pattern towards the desired Band on the Base Dial.

4. The Pendulum Body supports the two Dials. The Dial Lock screws in and out of the top of the Pendulum Body.

5. The Cone Bottom Attachment screws into the bottom of the Pendulum Body. There is no reason to ever remove it, so keep it attached; it helps the Pendulum to connect energetically to energy waves around it (based on the principle that pointed projections interact with local energy fields.)

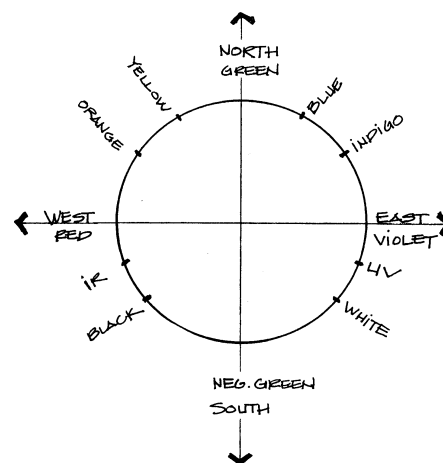

The Band Initials on the Base Dial are for the same circle of Vibrational Qualities described in Part I of this training (expressed as colors, but of course for testing purposes these qualities connect to all types of phenomena and are not restricted to colors, as explained earlier.)

C. RADIESTHESIA PRINCIPLES BEHIND THE VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET

* VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL WAVES: As discussed in Part I of this class, Louis Turenne discovered the first 11 bands of the Vibrational Spectrum. He found that the more beneficial waves in each Band tended to move horizontally, while the more detrimental waves in each Band tended to move vertically. The Horizontal Wave Pendulum in this set has one dial which is set on a Horizontal Axis, to tune into the more beneficial Horizontal waves in each band; the Vertical Wave Pendulum has two dials which are set on a Vertical Axis, to tune into the more detrimental Vertical waves in each band.

ON A 2D CIRCLE, COLORS ARE RELATED TO THE COMPASS POINTS

* DIRECTIONAL SPREAD OF THE 12 BAND VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM: De Belizal and Chaumery completed the complete 12 Band Vibrational Spectrum with their discovery of the “Negative Green” vibrational band. They also discovered that the Earth’s North-South magnetic line manifested the Positive Green energy quality towards the North, and Negative Green towards the South, with the other bands arrayed around that axis. Dr. Karim clarified this principle with his description of the “Energy Key” created by the linear movement of energy which manifests the complete spread of the 12 Bands.

* GEOMETRIC EMITTER TO CREATE THE ENERGY KEY / BAND PLACEMENTS:

Dr. Karim invented a geometric pattern which emanates a Negative Green carrier wave from its base, using the Hemisphere pattern which De Belizal and Chaumery had discovered as a “fixed polarity geometrical emitter.” Dr. Karim added further geometric components to the Hemisphere design in order to clean up its energy quality, and to intensify its emitted wave in a safe manner.

This Energy Emitter pattern appears on the Dial Face as a 2-Dimensional image of a Hemisphere (corrected with a Line running down the top of the Hemisphere) with 7 Lines beneath it (which create a Negative Green Carrier wave to increase intensity) and a small “BioGeometry L” pattern at the base (to further clean up its energy ray).

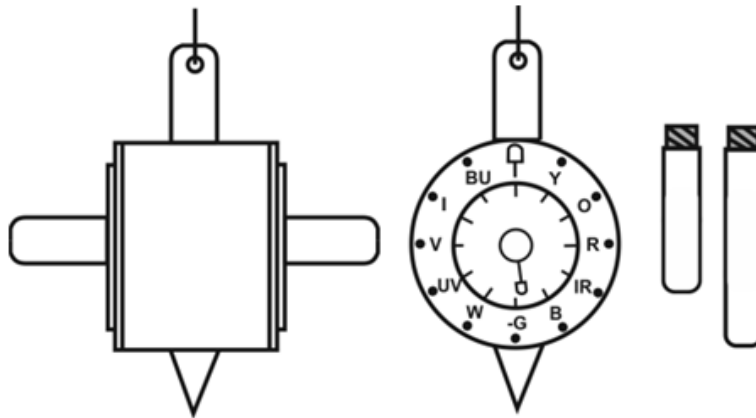

This new “Emitter” pattern designed and copyrighted by Dr. Karim creates an “Energy Key”, ie a directional line of energy, which then manifests the exact placement of all the 12 Bands on the surface of the Dial. This Emitter pattern allows free movement of the pendulum in practical use, as it overcomes the need to use the Earth’s North-South magnetic line to manifest the placement of the Bands (as was done by Chaumery and De Belizal.)

* VIBRATIONAL MARKERS FOR GEOPATHIC EARTH GRIDS: German research into harmful radiations from the Earth has developed into our modern knowledge of Geopathic Earth Grids. These Earth Grid systems have been tested for which Vibrational Bands they emanate; a strong Primary Band and then weaker Secondary Bands. All Earth Gridlines all radiate Negative Green as a primary Band, usually with a combination of both Vertical and Horizontal Waves of -G (if the lines run through a Sacred Power Spot, they may emanate only the Horizontal Wave of -G and not the Vertical Wave, along with the Centering Vibration.) Gridlines naturally run strong -G, because their purpose is to send energy and information through the living body of the Earth.

The Hartmann & Benker grid systems have as their strongest Secondary Band the Yellow Band, whereas the Curry Grid has as its strongest Secondary Band the Red Band. Accordingly, Dr. Karim designed the Vertical Wave Pendulum so that it has two Dial Faces, allowing one Dial to be set for the Primary Band and the second Dial for the Secondary Band. This allows more precise tuning into specific phenomena than is possible with testing only the Primary Band alone. [Note that only the Vertical Wave Pendulum has two Dial Faces; the Horizontal Wave Pendulum has only one Dial Face.

* VIBRATIONAL LENGTHS WHICH RESONATE WITH SPECIFIC GEOPATHIC GRIDS: German physicist Ernst Lecher developed a radiesthesia tool known as the Lecher Antenna, which is tuned to precise lengths which resonate with specific phenomena; this is similar to the tuning of a pendulum string to specific lengths as described in the Personal Wavelength online training. Dr. Karim adapted the lengths used in that system for the two primary Geopathic Earth Grids -- the Curry and Hartmann/Benker grids -- to become metal length extensions at the bottom of the Vertical Wave Pendulum. These metal length extensions can be screwed into the bottom of the Vertical Wave Pendulum; they then add further precise tuning to a particular Earth Grid system, when added to the setting of the two Dials to the Primary and Secondary Bands for that Grid.

IV. HOW TO TEST THE 12 BANDS OF THE VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM: BENEFICIAL (HORIZONTAL) WAVES

A. ACCURATE TESTING WITH THE VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL WAVE PENDULUMS

As taught and demonstrated in the first class of this series (The Personal Wavelength), the intensity of the reaction of your pendulum can be affected by how precisely you find the “sweet spot” to hold the cord at a specific length. The cord length acts as an antenna, to tune into the precise signal of the specific vibration you are searching for.

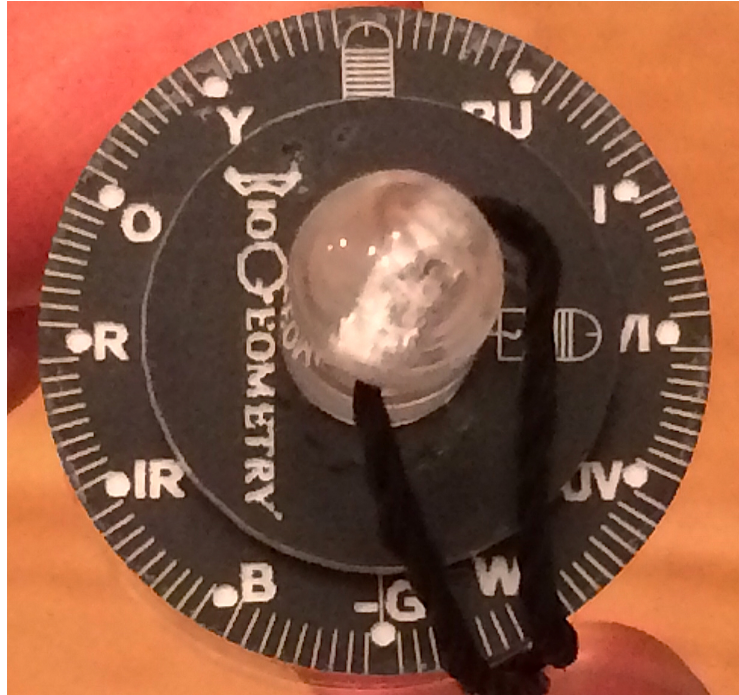

In the Personal Wavelength technique using a Neutral Pendulum, if you are a bit off of the exact cord length then you will still get a “pull” reaction on the pendulum, but it will be weaker; if you get further off the exact length, then you will lose the pull entirely and the pendulum will stay in a back and forth search position.

The Vertical and Horizontal Wave Pendulums (V& H Pendulums) are not as susceptible to string length issues as the Neutral Pendulum is, because they tune into their Vibration primarily by the alignment of the Pointer towards a specific Band on the Dial; the string length is a “fine tuning” secondary consideration on the V & H Pendulums, whereas the string length is the primary factor when using a Neutral Pendulum with the Personal Wavelength method.

There are several important factors you need to be aware of, regarding the strength of spin reaction you will find when testing with the Vertical and Horizontal Wave Pendulums.

1. Cord Length: Although the V & H Pendulums will work at virtually any cord length, we will calibrate the length for maximum clockwise spin when detecting the Band energy that the pendulum’s pointer is set for.
2. Tuning of the Dial: When the Dial is turned to the center of the band (where the dot and initial of that band is located on the Dial Face) and your attention goes to the entire band, you are then testing for anything within the complete band; any vibration within the band will be detected and the relative intensity of that vibration will be shown. However you may get a stronger spin reaction if you tune the pendulum to each sub-location within that band in sequence; when you test with the pendulum set to the exact sub-band that the vibration you are testing resonates with, then the pendulum's pull / spin reaction will increase (ie, will show a faster spin, larger arc of swing). The sub-bands within an overall band are shown on the Dial Face by the four tick marks to either side of the dot which marks the epicenter of that band (the dot appears next to the initial of the band on the Dial Face.) Note that the fifth tick mark, ie the one in the center of the nine tick marks which appear between the sequential dots which mark the epicenter of each band on the Dial Face, is the transition point from one color band to another.

3. A third factor regarding the reaction of the pendulum is whether we are focusing our energetic awareness on the entire band on the dial or focusing our awareness just on the precise point (sub-band) on the dial that the pointer is pointing to. The “default” in using the pendulum is focus on the entire band, however with attention one can focus on just the exact sub-band location which the pointer is aligned toward.

B. SETTING THE DIAL TO TEST A SPECIFIC BAND

The Base Dial (for both the Vertical and Horizontal Wave Pendulums) holds the stabilized vibrations of each of the 12 Bands, which are marked in their correct locations by their Initials. On the Horizontal Wave Pendulum the sequence of Color Bands goes Clockwise from the bottom of the Base Dial:

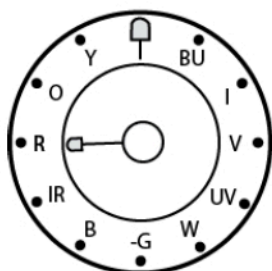

-G = Negative Green
B = Black
IR = Infra-Red
R = Red
O = Orange
Y = Yellow
Emitter Pattern = Positive Green (+G)
Bu = Blue
I = Indigo
V = Violet
UV = Ultraviolet
W = White

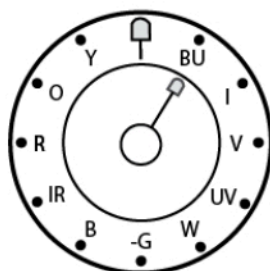

Turn the Top Dial so that the Emitter Pattern acts like a Pointer, with the TOP of the Hemisphere on the Emitter placed right next to the Initial of the Band you are wanting to test.

In other words, if you are wanting to test the Orange Band then turn the smaller Top Dial so that the emitter pattern on it (top of the Hemisphere) is pointing towards the “O” on the bottom Dial; if wanting to test the Ultraviolet Band then point it towards “UV”, etc. It is extremely simple and easy.

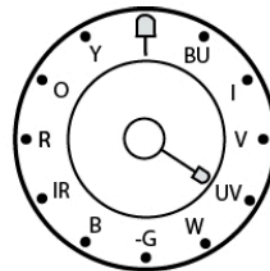

For all Bands except +G and -G, align the Emitter on the smaller top dial so that it is pointing right at the DOT next to the initials of the Energy Quality you are testing for; that dot next to the initials is the center of that Band of Energy Quality.

Red

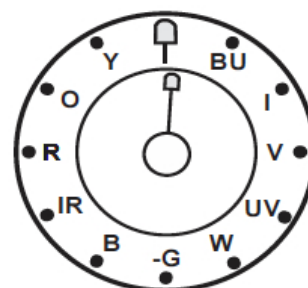

Blue

Ultra-Violet

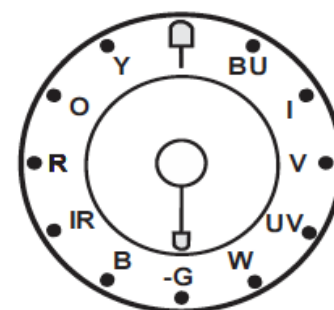

However for +G and -G settings, the pointer is not aligned directly to the Dot next to the initial, as detailed on the next page.

POSITIVE GREEN TESTING. Remember that the emitter pattern on the Base Dial is in the location of the “+G” or Positive Green energy quality. If you were to put the Top Dial Emitter pattern directly beneath the Base Dial Emitter, the rays from both would combine into one; this may not give a clear reading in testing +G. So to test for Positive Green, simply turn the Emitter pattern (pointer) on the top moveable dial so that it is pointing slightly to the right side of the Emitter pattern on the top dial; this will avoid having the rays from the two Emitters combine into one and creates the angle between the emissions which is needed to test +G.

Green (slightly offset to the right)

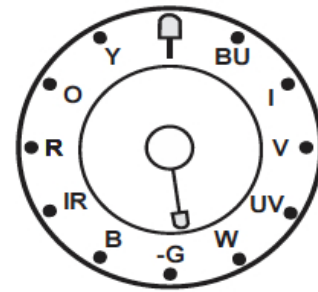

NEGATIVE GREEN TESTING. The Negative Green setting on the dials is shown on them as “-G”. However if you point the emitter pattern on the smaller moveable dial towards the dot that appears next to the -G setting, you will notice that now the two emitter patterns (the one on the base dial, and the one on the moveable top dial) have their bases directly across from each other; remember that the base of the hemisphere of each emitter pattern is where the energy ray comes out of, and is needed to make the pendulum work correctly.

Neutral position (no emission)

So this direct opposition of the bases of the two hemispheres (on the larger Base Dial and smaller Top Dial) will create an effect where the rays from the bottom of the two emitter patterns oppose one another, creating a cancellation of their emissions. So when you have the Top Dial pointed toward the Dot in the epicenter of the -G Band, the Horizontal pendulum becomes a Neutral Pendulum due to the normal emission being cancelled out.

The above is the technical explanation so you know why you should not point the moveable top emitter right towards the center of the -G area (where the dot is.) For practical purposes, when testing -G on the Horizontal Pendulum (ie, Horizontal -G), turn the emitter on the top moveable dial so that it is just slightly offset from the dead center of the -G on the dial, offset slightly towards the WHITE side. This is because more of the beneficial energies we are testing in Horizontal -G tend to occur towards the White side of the spectrum.

Negative Green (slightly offset to the right)

For practical purposes, this means that you can just turn the pointer on the smaller top dial slightly towards the side with the letter “G”, rather than directly at the Dot in the center of the -G Band.

C. PRINCIPLES FOR CALIBRATING STRING LENGTH ON THE VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL PENDULUMS

In the first class in this series on the Personal Wavelength, we tuned the Neutral Pendulum to different energy qualities through changing the string length of the pendulum.

However with the Horizontal and Vertical Pendulum Set, the energy quality is determined by orienting the Pointer (the emitter pattern on the smaller top dial) to point towards the energy quality you are wanting to test.

With these pendulums we tune into the energy quality (Vibrational Band) we are testing by changing the alignment of the pointer on the Dial to the quality desired, not by changing the string length.

For these pendulums we only need to find one string length on the Pendulum, which is the same length needed for testing every band. Once the right string length is found, it stays the same forever, no matter what Band we are selecting to test. The string length is simply the one which allows for the maximum Clockwise spin of the pendulum in response to detecting any Band it is set for.

The string length is calibrated for maximum clockwise spin, when the energy the pendulum is set for is present. You can hold the string anywhere, and as long as the dial is set to detect the desired energy quality you will feel the PULL if the tested item has that energy quality you are testing for.

Our calibration of the string length for the Vertical or Horizontal Pendulums determines that they will spin Clockwise if they detect the energy quality they are set for (ie, you “feel the Pull” of the Pendulum when it detects that Band it is set for within whatever you are testing.)

If they do not detect the energy quality they are set for, they will just continue in the back and forth Search Position; ie, you feel no pull on the Pendulum which would change its movement to a clockwise rotation.

Sometimes you may find that although the string length is calibrated for a Clockwise pull when detecting a Band, it goes instead counter-clockwise. This is usually from one of the following reasons:

- a) You are holding the wrong place on the string; you selected a length that gives a counter-clockwise rotation when detecting a Band. Solution: Recalibrate for correct string length.
- b) Your energy system is tired and confused. Solution: Take a break, run water over you hands and head, drink water, walk around and shake your body out before returning to the testing. If too tired and incoherent, then wait to continue testing after you have slept and recovered.
- c) Your energy system is picking up a polarity on the object; ie, it is confusing testing Polarity (as described in the Personal Wavelength class) with testing the Vibrational Band, and has crossed up the two types of testing. Solution: Recalibrate the string length on the pendulum using the color sample method described later; focus on the clockwise response of the pendulum over the color when testing, to entrain your energy system to this type of testing and not cross it with the method of Polarity testing.
- d) Your energy system is showing you the effect of that vibration on your energy field; ie, it is confusing testing Personal Wavelength with testing the Vibrational Band, and has crossed up the two types of testing. Solution: Recalibrate the string length on the pendulum using the color sample method described later; focus on the clockwise response of the pendulum over the color when testing, to entrain your energy system to this type of testing and not cross it with the method of Personal Wavelength testing.
- e) Your energy system is getting a strange reaction to the sample you are testing; it is trying to communicate with you that something about it needs your attention, by giving you a strange response with the counter-clockwise instead of clockwise reaction (it may also do this by moving the pendulum in strange movement patterns, having it bounce along on the string, or other unusual actions.) Solution: Examine the sample you are testing to see why your reaction is unusual to it. Be sure that you are not just having a chaotic reaction in described in “b” above, when your system is tired and confused; take a break and take the actions described in “b” above to be sure that is not the issue. If satisfied the strange reaction is not because your energy system is tired and confused, but is coming from your reaction to the sample itself, then test the sample on Personal Wavelength for its effect on you, and for Polarity as well as testing it on the Vertical and Horizontal Pendulums for what Bands it tests for. This will help you figure out what is unusual about this sample that your energy system is trying to communicate to you.

For practical purposes, whether the pendulum spins clockwise or counterclockwise is actually immaterial, because there is no meaning to a counter-clockwise spin in this testing protocol ; this is different from testing Polarity or Personal Wavelength, in both of those cases the counter-clockwise spin has a definite meaning and cannot be crossed up with testing clockwise without completely confusing the information you are receiving.

When using the Vertical and Horizontal Pendulums, you are detecting the presence of the energy quality the Pendulum is set for whenever you feel the “Pull” of the pendulum into a rotation, whether it rotates Clockwise or Counter-Clockwise. However since you calibrated the string length for CW movement, you can evaluate why the reversal is happening through the 5 considerations given above (“a” through “e”).

Remember that once you have entrained yourself to the proper use of the Vertical and Horizontal Pendulum set (ie, you are able to test accurately), then the pendulum will stay in Search Position (a back and forth movement over the tested item) with no “Pull” felt on the pendulum, if Vibrational Band that the dial is set for is NOT present in the item.

If the Vibrational Band which the Pendulum is set for, IS present in the item tested, then you will feel the Pull into a clockwise rotation.

D. PRACTICE: CALIBRATING THE STRING LENGTH ON THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM

The exact location to hold the string on the Horizontal pendulum is 6 cm above the Top Dial of the Pendulum. Use a Ruler to measure exactly how far up the string this is; you will see it is roughly 3 finger's width above the top of the Post where the cord connects to the Pendulum (with some variation, as people have fingers of different widths.)

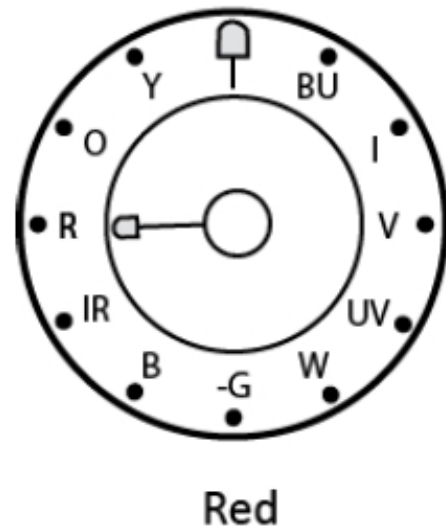

However it is a helpful practice for you to physically calibrate the Horizontal Pendulum, and not simply to measure the distance with a Ruler.

To physically calibrate the String Length on the Horizontal Pendulum, you can print out the page of Colors / Vibrational Samples which is posted on the Member's page of this class as a Downloadable PDF. This will provide the samples you need to test. Because natural objects usually have multiple Vibrational Bands, it is better to calibrate on colored paper which focuses primarily on one specific Band.

It is best to start calibrating the string length using Primary Colors, so begin with testing over the Red color on the Color / Vibrational Samples page you have printed out with the materials for this class, or use the Color Page in the Vertical and Horizontal Pendulum Handout by Dr. Karim which is posted with this class.

Please follow the steps below for this practice.

1. Set the Pointer (the Emitter pattern on the Top Dial) to point right towards the Dot next to the initial "R" on the Dial Face, which marks the epicenter of the Red Band on the Dial. See the illustration to the right.
2. Hold the string between the thumb and index finger of your dominant hand, as shown in the illustration to the left above. Begin by holding the string right above where it connects to the post at the top of the pendulum. Move the Horizontal Pendulum into a straight back-and-forth movement over the Red sample on the paper; as described in the Personal Wavelength class, this back-and-forth movement is known as the Search Position. By moving the pendulum back-and-forth you make it easier to detect the pull on the pendulum when it detects the vibration it is set for, than it would be if you just held the pendulum at a dead hang. The Search Position movement also prevents the pendulum from having to pull energy out of your body to start the movement, which would be tiring. Make sure you have a good strong back-and-forth swing when you start; do not allow the pendulum to rotate.

3. Start sliding the string between your fingertips, slowly increasing the length of the string as you continue to move the pendulum in Search Position over the Red color sample. Keep your energetic attention on the sample, and feel the pendulum as an extension of your own energy body.

Make sure the increase of string length is continuous and steady, without any drops or jerks as you let out the string. You should start picking up a Pull on the pendulum before you go very far up the string; now you are looking for the exact location on the string where you get the strongest Clockwise Pull on the Horizontal Pendulum, when it is set for Red and moving over the Red color sample. This should be around the location where you measured as 6 cm above the Top Dial, or roughly 3 finger-widths above the top of the Post.

4. When you have found this location on the string which gives you the strongest CW spin over the sample, then keep holding the string at that length and move the pendulum in Search Position over the Blue color sample (ie, a different primary color.) With the Pendulum set for Red on the Dial, and holding the string at the correct position roughly 6 cm above the Top Dial, you should get a strong Clockwise pull of the Horizontal Pendulum over the Red sample and no pull over the Blue sample; over the Blue sample it should just stay in back-and-forth search position.

5. Then change the Dial setting to Blue, while continuing to hold the same place on the string that you found gives you the strongest clockwise rotation when detecting the Band it is set for. Put the Horizontal Pendulum in Search Position over the Red sample; now that it is set for Blue, there should be no pull on the Pendulum and it just stays in Search Position. Then move the pendulum over the Blue sample, and now with the Dial set for Blue you should get a strong clockwise pull on the pendulum.

Blue

This is the fundamental practice for calibrating the string length on the Horizontal Pendulum.

Follow the guidelines given in the Personal Wavelength class for developing basic Radiesthesia testing skills, to avoid having any problems with this practice. A few things to remember:

- * Stay hydrated; drink water, because if you get dehydrated then your ability to detect subtle vibrations can decline, disappear, or become chaotic.
- * Stay relaxed: let the energy flow through your body and into the pendulum. Don't have any muscular tension in your arm or hands; the energy must flow through you into the pendulum in order for it to move properly.
- * Keep your mind clear and neutral. Don't ask any mental questions, and if possible do not think in mental words at all; just have a clear focus on the thing you are testing with your mind empty of other thoughts. Be sure you keep focused on the target of your testing, don't let your mind wander.
- * Test over the main body of the color; be careful of testing at the edge of the color as other phenomena may appear there (such as the complementary color to the color on the paper that you are testing.)

E. PRACTICE: TESTING THE 12 BENEFICIAL (HORIZONTAL WAVE) BANDS

Having learned in the last practice how to calibrate the string length on the Horizontal Pendulum for accurate testing, we can now test each individual Band in the complete Vibrational Spectrum.

As stated earlier, we can focus our testing either on

- A) An entire Band; for this we test with the Pointer toward the black dot which is right next to the Initial for the band (except in the case of Positive Green and Negative, where we slightly offset the Pointer from the center of those bands, as explained previously.)
- B) A particular sub-band: for this we test with the Pointer toward one of the sub-divisions marked within a particular band.

For this practice, we will focus on testing the entire band. We will explore the testing of sub-bands in Class 3 of this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

ITEMS NEEDED:

- * Horizontal Wave Pendulum (Hereafter abbreviated as HWP)
- * The Vibrational Spectrum Test Page which is posted in this course. Be sure you download this page and print it out on plain white paper -- don't test it on a computer screen, there are too many other energies from the computer which would affect your testing. You will be testing the printed Test Page in this practice.

THE VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM TEST PAGE

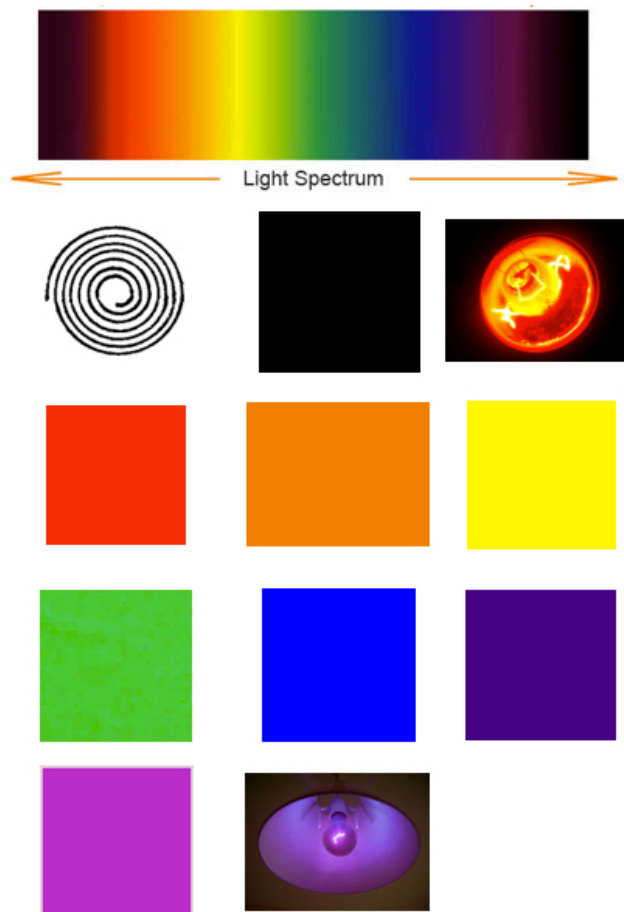

At the top of the Test Page is a picture of the Light Spectrum, which shows the sequence of visible colors. Below it are 12 pictures in a grid of 3 horizontal rows X 4 vertical rows.

The top left picture (a Spiral of 7 turns, described in the earlier section on Louis Turenne) is the picture for you to test the Negative Green Band. The next picture to the right is for testing the Black Band, then to its right the picture for testing the Infra-Red Band (it is a picture of an infra-red lamp.)

On the next row down, from Left to Right are the pictures for testing the Red, Orange, and Yellow Bands.

Next row down are the pictures for testing the Green, Blue and Indigo Bands.

In the final row are the pictures for testing the Violet Band, then the Ultra-Violet Band (it is a picture of a UV lamp) and then the blank space at the bottom right has the basic White of the paper, for testing the White Band.

GUIDELINES FOR THE PRACTICE:

Preparation: Perform the practices given earlier for clearing your Energy Field and Mind before beginning the practice below.

Search Position: As always with Search Position (as described in detail in the Personal Wavelength training), make sure the Pendulum has a strong swing straight back and forth with absolutely no rotation.

Remember the Search Position helps the Pendulum to move quickly and easily into clockwise rotation when the HWP detects the Vibrational Band it is set for, so that it does not have to pull energy out of your system to start moving (as it would if you held the pendulum at a dead hang when testing.)

Entrainment: Focus your awareness on your Energy Field connecting to the vibration of a particular Band on the Test Page, through the medium of the HWP which will allow you to tune into one specific Band out of the multiple vibrations around you.

Immerse your consciousness into the Vibration you are testing; allow any perceptions regarding that vibration to arise within you, whether they appear in your consciousness or as sensations in your energy body. Note that having perceptions arise of the actual vibration you are testing is different from having random thoughts and “monkey mind chatter”, or asking mental questions; the latter things can distort or obscure the testing connection to the actual vibration in front of you, whereas a direct internal perception of the actual vibration you are testing deepens the connection.

Particularly pay attention to any sensations you have in your body or energy field when testing a specific Band.

- * Identify where in the body you feel a sensation, when you tune into that Vibration on the Test Page with the Pendulum.
- * Identify what the feeling is: Expanding or Constrictive, Hot or Cold, Still or Moving, etc.

Body Sensations: This observation of internal sensations in your body, which arise naturally when you test specific vibrations, can be a very helpful part of the entrainment process. When you have an immediate internal sensation when focusing on a specific vibration, this shows you that you are really connecting to the vibration in your testing and not just making the pendulum move by auto-suggestion.

You will in time learn to energetically recognize certain invisible vibrations by the sensations they create in your body, and where in the body the sensations arise; this is independent of the use of the external pendulum, so that you may feel the sensation just before the pendulum moves to indicate its presence. For example, many people identify the Vertical Wave of -G by the constrictive feeling in the head, throat, chest, or abdomen they get when focusing on it; others feel V-G as a “twist” in the stomach. For some people, certain beneficial vibrations create feelings of expansion and / or warmth in specific body areas.

Note that we do not want to abandon the use of the Pendulum to focus just on the body sensation; the Pendulum is the focusing device which allows us to continue to hold steady our connection to one specific vibration, so that we can fully entrain to it. The body sensation is a very valuable support for this process, not a replacement for the use of the Pendulum.

Mental and Spiritual Perceptions: You may also have mental or spiritual perceptions of the true inner nature of the Vibration you are testing. Do not try to create, nor to avoid, these perceptions: just relax and allow them to arise naturally. Just observe these spiritual perceptions without trying to grasp them: let them appear and fade without interfering with them in any way. Over time you may find yourself able to directly perceive hidden aspects of an invisible vibration, which is an entirely different (and far more beneficial) process than generating intellectual thoughts or questions about it.

TESTING THE 12 BAND VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM

Hold the HWP at the correct string length in your dominant hand; have in front of you the printed Vibrational Spectrum Test Page.

1. NEGATIVE GREEN: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed just slightly off-center in the -G Band, as discussed previously. Hold the HWP over the picture of the 7-fold Spiral and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the Spiral pattern. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Spiral Pattern when it is set for the -G Band.
2. BLACK: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "B" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Black picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Black image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Black picture when it is set for the Black Band.
3. INFRA-RED: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "IR" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Infra-Red picture (Infra-Red lamp) and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the IR image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the IR picture when it is set for the IR Band.
4. RED: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "R" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Red picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Red image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Red picture when it is set for the Red Band.
5. ORANGE: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "O" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Orange picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Orange image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Orange picture when it is set for the Orange Band.
6. YELLOW: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "Y" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Yellow picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Yellow image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Yellow picture when it is set for the Yellow Band.
7. GREEN: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed slightly towards the right of the Emitter picture on the Base Dial (the location of the Positive Green Band). Hold the HWP over the Green picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Green image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Green picture when it is set for the +G Band.

8. BLUE: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initials "BU" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Blue picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Blue image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Blue picture when it is set for the Blue Band.
9. INDIGO: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "I" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Indigo picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Indigo image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Indigo picture when it is set for the Indigo Band.
10. VIOLET: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "V" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the Violet picture and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the Violet image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the Violet picture when it is set for the Violet Band.
11. ULTRA-VIOLET: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initials "UV" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the UV picture (Ultra-Violet lamp) and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the UV image. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the UV picture when it is set for the UV Band.
12. WHITE: Set the Pointer on the HWP so that it is pointed towards the dot next to the initial "W" on the Dial Face. Hold the HWP over the White area (in the lower right of the Test Page) and put the Pendulum into Search Position, focusing your awareness on the vibration from the White area. You should feel the HWP be pulled into a Clockwise Rotation over the White paper when it is set for the White Band.

V. BACKGROUND TO FUNCTIONS & EFFECTS OF THE 12 BANDS

A. FRENCH RADIESTHESIA RESEARCH INTO THE 12 BANDS OF THE VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM

The French Radiesthesiasts succeeded in identifying the complete vibrational spectrum, and in separating the beneficial from the detrimental aspects of each band in the spectrum. Turenne created the most straightforward model to differentiate the beneficial from the detrimental waves within each Band, by identifying the direction the waves were travelling (Vertical or Horizontal) and their variable wavelengths.

De Belizal and Chaumery identified the relative toxicity of the waves in each band by their interaction with Electrical and Magnetic insulators (“Electric” and “Magnetic” waves, which should not be thought of as identical to Electrical and Magnetic components in modern physics.)

However the French Radiesthesiasts did not develop a clear overview of the specific powers of each vibrational band. Turenne and De Belizal primarily conducted empirical research into different phenomena, then reporting on which bands they found present in their testing.

In the case of De Belizal, his research reports often lacked information on whether the vibration detected was a beneficial or detrimental wave, in most cases only stating which of the 12 bands he detected radiating from the phenomena being tested.

Enel did attempt an overview of the essential nature and powers of each Band in one of his published Radiesthesia works, however his analysis was very preliminary and quite shallow. Enel provided mainly a few basic indications of some physiological effects of colors (derived from his background in color therapies) along with some correspondences such as the Metal associated with the color. Enel also noted the Wavelength of the color, as was characteristic of the work of Turenne; however as we have noted earlier, this wavelength model was shown in the work of Dr. Ibrahim Karim to be misleading, as it reduces the multi-dimensional Physics of Quality to a very limited physical plane model.

Dr. Karim has in his BioGeometry system focused his research primarily on his original discovery of the BG3, rather than on researching the powers of each the 12 Bands.

Here in Section V we will provide a brief overview of background considerations for understanding the functions and effects of each Vibrational Band, which we will then incorporate into the complete descriptions in Section VI.

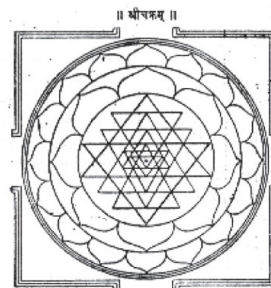

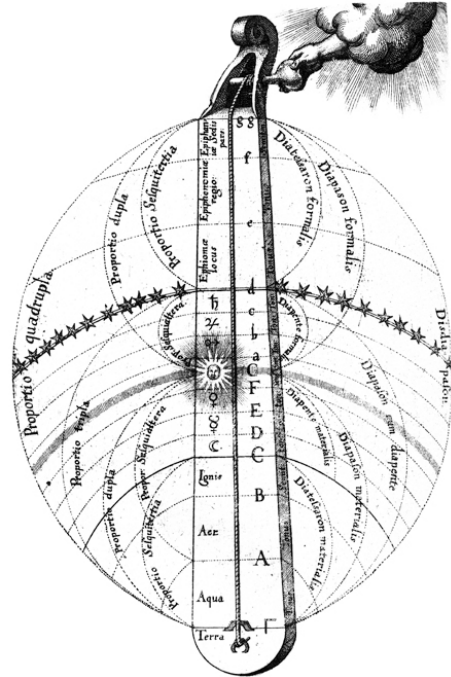

B. THE UNIVERSAL VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM WITHIN EVERY SCALE OF QUALITY

It is extremely important to remember that although the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum are for simplicity referred to by Color names, they do not only appear within the Color Spectrum; they appear within all quality scales. The complete Universal Vibrational Spectrum of 12 Bands, in their true transcendental qualities, appears within each quality scale: the Color Spectrum, the Sound Spectrum, Shape Spectrum, Number Spectrum, Taste Spectrum, Smell Spectrum, etc. In modern times this has been most clearly explained in Dr. Karim's "Physics of Quality."

This same principle was understood in classical times as systems of "Correspondences" in which a specific Color manifested the same energy quality as a particular Shape, or a Sound (Musical Note), or a Planetary power, etc.

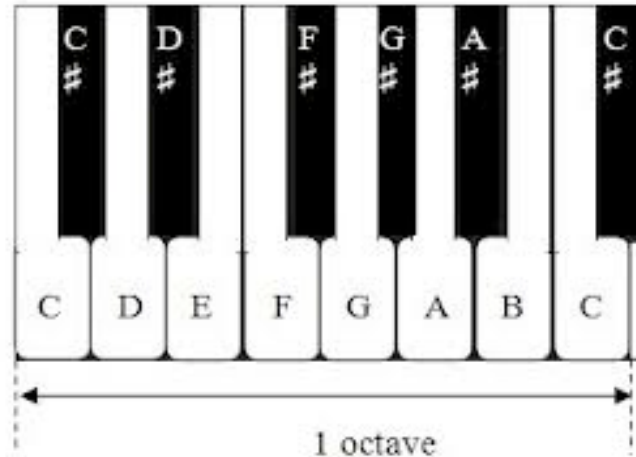

In the Indian Vedic system for example, specific Yantras (geometric diagrams) are said to manifest in Shape the same exact energy which appears in a specific Mantra (sound); for example the Sri Yantra (below right) is held to be the geometric manifestation in shape of the same precise energy which appears in sound vibration as the "OM" seed syllable of creation (represented by the Sanskrit shown to the left below).

For practical application purposes, this means that we can apply the energy and functions of a specific Vibrational Band through many different methods; through a Stone, or Herb, or Color, or Geometric Form, or Sound, or Number Sequence etc., which contains the specific Vibrational Band we need for a desired application. This also means that Resonance can be established between the same vibrational quality in different quality scales, creating an exchange of energy & information between scales.

C. THE UNIVERSAL VIBRATIONAL SPECTRUM WITHIN EVERY PLANE OF EXISTENCE

In addition to the manifestation of all bands of the Universal Vibrational Spectrum within every Scale of Quality, another key concept is the recurring of the same energy quality at different Levels or Octaves, which is the principle of HARMONICS. This is another aspect described within Dr. Karim's modern Physics of Quality, and is a concept which is also present in BioGeometry as the "Higher Harmonics" of certain Bands found within the BG3 energy quality.

A simple demonstration of basic harmonics is a particular musical note occurring at multiple string lengths, ie repeating at specific intervals. On a Piano Keyboard this manifests as the 7 basic musical notes, with the entire series repeating again starting at the 8th position (the "Octave").

1st Octave	C_1	512
Fundamental	C	256

This harmonic principle had an interesting manifestation in French Radiesthesia. De Belizal and Chaumery showed that in their testing tools the same Vibrational Band energy could be detected by calibrating to different string lengths (ie, holding one of several different possible locations on the cord).

For example they indicated the existence of three different cord lengths which could be used by the Radiesthesiast to accurately detect any Vibrational Band in the Spectrum on the Virtual Cone Pendulum, with the three lengths corresponding to testing the vibrations of respectively:

- * Vibrations from Living Beings (BioMetric readings)
- * Vibrations from Shapes (ie the "Shape-Caused Wave")
- * Vibrations from Colors

In reality any of the three positions could be used to test that Vibration from any source; however the three cord positions had particular resonances with Vibrations from a given quality scale.

This deeper esoteric significance of this principle of Harmonics is that the complete Vibrational Spectrum appears on every Plane of Existence: the Physical, Etheric, Astral, etc.

Combining our observations about Resonance and Harmonics, we can say that, the complete Universal Spectrum occurs on every Plane, and may manifest within every Plane through multiple Scales of Quality which are present there (Shape, Sound, Color, etc.)

Taken further, we can also say that this Universal Vibrational Spectrum manifests in every energy system (every living Being and every Process) on every plane; the Bands which the energy system manifests is the secret key which reveals its essential nature and its functions.

Every Rock, every Plant, every Animal, every Power of Nature on the Physical Plane has specific arrangements of different Bands, which determine its unique individuality, and the powers it holds.

Every Vibrational Field on the Etheric level likewise manifests specific Bands of the Spectrum.

Every shade and nuance of Emotion on the Astral Plane manifests specific Bands of the Spectrum.

VIRTUAL CONE PENDULUM

The same is true for every thought on the Mental Plane, and for all the realities of the higher Spiritual Planes.

These background considerations regarding Harmonics are important for the purpose of this course, because they are the foundation of our ability to test or create effects from specific Vibrational Bands on any or all Plane Levels.

Since the different Planes (Physical, Etheric, Astral, etc.) are the source of our subtle bodies (the energy and consciousness blueprints which make us the multi-dimensional Being which we are), this means that a specific Vibrational Band can create effects at the Level of the Human Physical Body, the Etheric (Life Force) Body, the Astral (Consciousness) Body, etc.

In Section VI we will survey how each Vibrational Band affects these different Levels, so we can consciously choose the Vibrational Band needed for a particular effect.

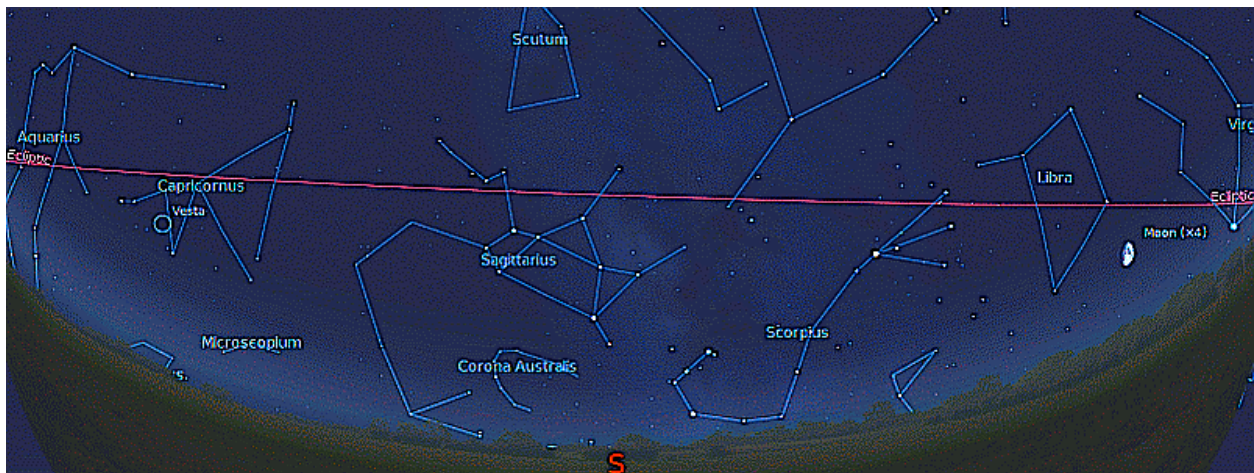

D. SACRED GEOMETRY OF THE 12 BANDS: THE DIVISION INTO 7 AND 5

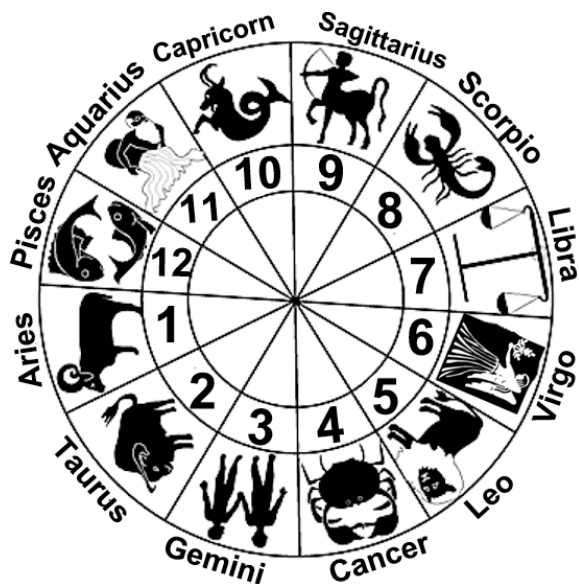

We discussed previously the “12 around the 1” Sacred Geometry archetype, which manifests within Vibrational Radiesthesia as the 1 primal unity in the Center (Centering Vibration) surrounded by the 12 differentiated, polarized Vibrations which create specialized functions (the 12-Band Vibrational Spectrum).

In deeper aspects of Sacred Geometry esoteric teachings, the 12 is itself divided into a group of 7 parts, and a group of 5 parts. This is an important spiritual principle, implicit in many systems but made explicit in the work of Rudolf Steiner.

This 7 -5 relationship manifests macrocosmically in the 12 signs of the Zodiac. As shown in the picture below, 7 of the 12 Constellations are “visible” (lie primarily above the visible plane of the Ecliptic, ie the Sun’s apparent path through the stars) and 5 of which are “invisible” (lie primarily below the visible plane of the Ecliptic.)

This same principle also manifests in esoteric systems of 12 Initiates, as described in the European Rosicrucian tradition. 7 of the 12 Initiates may be physically incarnated at any given time, while the other 5 remain in the spiritual world. When one of the incarnated Initiates dies, one of those in the spiritual world then incarnates, to maintain the balance of 7 incarnate (visible) Initiates and 5 discarnate (invisible) Initiates.

In terms of the Vibrational Spectrum, this principle becomes the 7 “Visible” color bands (ROYGBIV) which we normally think of when we discuss the color spectrum, and then the 5 “Invisible” color bands outside of the main visible 7 color spectrum. In visible light, we cross the threshold into invisibility when we go from Red to Infra-Red on one end of the spectrum, and from Violet to Ultra-Violet on the other side of the spectrum.

In the 12 Bands system, the Invisible IR and UV then progress into Black and White respectively. Black and White are not colors per se, but rather mysterious primordial powers; we strive to understand them, through ideas such as how they manifest from either the union or absence of all color.

Black and White then progress into the final Vibrational Band (and the most mysterious), Negative Green, which manifests usually as an entirely invisible radiation. Negative Green is in the Center of the 5 “Invisible” Bands; just as Positive Green is in the Center of the Visible 7 colors -- creating their equilibrium / balance point -- so Negative Green is in the Center of the 5 “Invisible” colors, creating their balance point.

Classical Traditions and modern Color Healing methods both focus primarily on the visible color spectrum, which are the manifestation in the Color scale of the 7 Bands from Red to Violet.

There is relatively little in Color Therapy circles relevant to the 5 Bands outside of the regular 7 color spectrum in the Bands. Many Color Therapy systems do not explain or use Black, IR, UV, or White; in fact Black is avoided altogether by most color therapy schools, and White is often considered generic. The fifth Band, Negative Green, is virtually unknown outside of Radiesthesia circles and is not found in any Color Therapy systems up until now.

E. COLOR FUNCTIONS AS A GUIDE TO UNDERSTANDING POWERS OF THE 12 BANDS

The clearest mapping in both ancient and modern times of the Powers and Functions of the 12 Bands has been in terms of the Quality Scale of Color -- especially the 7 visible colors, as described in the previous section.

The following sections examine the Powers / Functions associated with specific colors in classical systems, most prominently the Indian and Chinese Systems. We will see that the dominant Chakra Color model found in the West today is actually not the same as that found in the classical Indian system, nor does it represent the empirical colors found in the Chakras based on some modern vibrational research. We will also explore the widespread model of the 5 Elements and their Colors, as found in Chinese Medicine.

We will then examine a little-known European system of Color related to dynamic Etheric energy, and related to the hidden process through which higher Spiritual realities manifest into the Physical world; this is Rudolf Steiner's system of the 4 Ethers, which began to be formulated in the early 1900's.

This then leads to an overview of some important modern color therapy systems, which will provide valuable insights into different levels of the Power of the Vibrational Bands.

This major section ends with a brief introduction to some key sources of the specific Vibrational Bands, for practical applications.

This survey of background information will then lead us into our next major section: the description of the Vibrational Powers of all 12 Beneficial (Horizontal Wave) Bands in the Vibrational Spectrum, at the Physical, Energetic, Emotional / Mental, and Spiritual Levels.

F. CHAKRA ASSOCIATIONS COLOR MODEL (MODERN WESTERN VARIANT)

5 TATTVAS (ELEMENTS) SYSTEM

For the discussion in this section of the prominent modern Western system of Color functions related to the Chakras, it is helpful to begin with the classical Indian system of 5 Tattvas or 5 Elements. Note that there are Indian systems of higher numbers of Tattvas -- such as 25 or 36 Tattvas in total -- but for our purpose, the more common 5 Tattva system is sufficient at the moment.

We introduced the Indian 3 Dosha System and its relationship to the 5 Tattva system in Part 1 of this class; below we will simply summarize the basics of the 5 Tattva system again.

The 5 Tattva system teaches that there are 5 basic Elements which make up the world, with a particular Color and Shape associated with each Element.

THE FIVE TATTVAS (Elements in the Indian System):

Earth: Yellow Square

Water: White Crescent

Air: Blue Circle

Fire: Red Triangle

Akasha: Black Egg or Oval

It should be noted that the Indian System is not as standardized as this list suggests; it is certainly less standardized than the modern Chinese System of 5 Elements, in regards to which colors and shapes are associated with each element. We should remember that the Indian spiritual tradition of Hinduism has never been a completely centralized system, it is based on many different esoteric groups which share common cultural references. There are Tantric systems of Colors and Shapes associated with each Element, which vary from the above list.

THE MODERN WESTERN AND CLASSICAL INDIAN CHAKRA COLOR SYSTEMS

One of the most prominent Color Association systems found in the West today, is a particular set of correspondences of the 7 Visible Colors with the 7 Chakras.

In this system, the power / function of the colors are asserted to be the same as the functions of the chakras they are associated with:

Base – Red (stability, grounding, incarnation, survival issues)

Reproductive – Orange (sexuality, inner child, creativity, genital-urinary system)

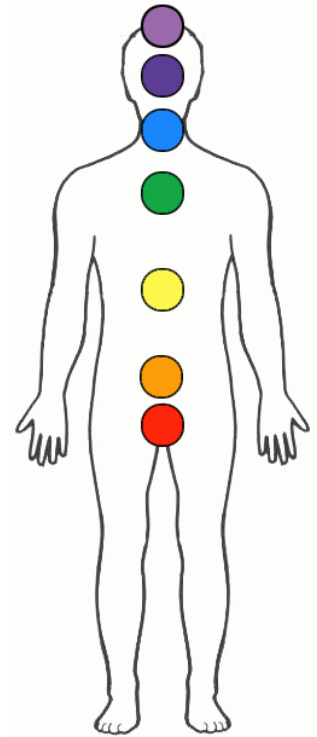

Solar Plexus – Yellow (personal will, aggression, adrenals, digestive system)

Heart – Green (compassion, love, thymus gland, heart and circulatory system)

Throat – Blue (self- expression, thyroid)

Brow - Indigo (thinking, insight, clairvoyance)

Crown – Violet (higher consciousness)

This model has become dominant today in certain fields, where in some cases virtually all energetic analysis is based on this system.

For example, most popular books on the metaphysical powers of different crystals and minerals in English today rely either in part or in whole on this system. It is all too common to pick up a popular book on Crystals and see that every single Green stone is listed as being “for the Heart.” Through empirical Vibrational testing (as we will see particularly in the last class in this series Custom Vibrational Healing) it can be easily demonstrated that many Green Stones do not have a special resonance with the Heart -- nor do they particularly balance it.

Here are some important considerations regarding the modern Western system of Chakra Colors:

1. This is a generalized system, in which the ROYGBIV color spectrum has simply been mapped onto the Chakras, following that same sequence of colors from the lowest to the highest Chakra. This system is in reality based on the principle of “Hermetic Analogy”: that there is a certain relationship between the location of a color in the overall series of the color spectrum, and the location of the Chakra in the Chakra series. Just as the color Green is the central Balance Point in the 7 color spectrum, so the Heart Chakra is the central Balance Point in the 7 Chakras; but this should not be understood to mean that the Heart Center contains strong intensity of the Green Vibrational Band, which is often not the case.

2. Although it is commonly thought in Western metaphysical circles today that this system of the colors of the Chakras is a classical Indian system (because it based on the chakras, a concept of Indian origin), this particular mapping of the colors onto the Chakras is actually a modern Western invention. Classical Indian texts do not describe this color system. A simple summary of the actual colors associated with the chakras in one Indian Tantric system can be found in Harish Johari's book Chakras: Energy Centers of Transformation.

As an example of the difference between the modern Western Chakra Color model and the Indian Tantric model, Tantric texts often have multiple attributions of color to each chakra: these are related to the color of the Element which manifests in the particular Chakra, as well as the color of the Petals of the Lotus Flower in each chakra.

For example in one Tantric system, the Third Chakra (Solar Plexus / Manipura "City of Jewels") has the color Red for the Fire Element, plus Blue for the Petals (not Yellow as in the modern Western model.)

The Fifth Chakra (Throat / Vishuddha) has Smoky Purple both for the color of the Element Akasha, and for the color of the Petals (not bright Blue as in the modern Western model.)

3. The colors of the modern Western Chakra Color system may not in all cases appear naturally in the Chakras, in the way they are described in the model. The most comprehensive modern study of which I am aware of the actual Vibrational colors which are commonly found in the Chakras is that of Master Choa Kok Sui, the Filipino founder of the modern Pranic Healing system.

Master Choa spent years studying the Etheric Life Vibrations (termed Prana in the Indian system) present in the Chakras of many different people. His findings did not support the idea common in Western metaphysical circles that the 7 primary chakras correspond literally to the 7 color spectrum; for example, he found that the Heart chakra does not have Green Prana, and that no Chakra normally has Indigo Prana (including the Third Eye Chakra.) Master Choa's work on Color Pranas is dealt with most extensively in his book Advanced Pranic Healing.

Instead MCKS described the Color Pranas which are found naturally in the 7 major Chakras as follows. The Color Pranas he describes are of course the same quality as the Vibrational Bands of the same color which we use in Radiesthesia.

Base Chakra (Base of the Spine / Coccyx): Red and Orange Prana, with a very small amount of almost undetectable Yellow Prana. Red Prana at the Base Chakra energizes and strengthens the entire Physical Body.

Sex Chakra (Pubic Area): Red (two different shades) and Orange Pranas. When urinating, more Orange Prana appears to facilitate the expelling function.

Solar Plexus Chakra: Red, Yellow, Green, and Blue Pranas, with a little Orange and Violet as well. When eating, more Green Prana is generated to help break down the food. During bowel movements, more Orange Prana is generated to help to expel the feces; for constipation either Orange or Yellow Prana (or both) is projected to get the bowel moving. An exhausted person can be revitalized quickly through energizing the Solar Plexus (the slightly smaller chakras at the Meng Mein and Spleen centers are also involved in revitalization, but more advanced skills are recommended before energizing these centers.)

Heart Chakra: The Front Heart Chakra has a lot of Golden Prana and some Light Red (Pink / Rose) Prana. The Back Heart Chakra contains Golden, Red, Orange, and Yellow Pranas. In Pranic Healing, one never energizes the Front Heart Chakra as it is too delicate and sensitive and this could cause Heart problems; the Back Heart Chakra is always used for energizing instead.

Throat Chakra (Center of the Throat): Mostly Blue Prana, with some Green and Violet Prana.

Third Eye Chakra (aka Ajna Chakra, between the eyebrows): Divided into two sides. Some people have predominantly Light Yellow in one side, and predominantly Light Violet in the other side. Other people have Light Whitish Green in one side and Light Violet in the other side. These colors vary from person to person, and also according to one's own shifting psychological states.

Crown Chakra: Has inner and outer sets of Petals in the Chakra. The Twelve Inner Petals contain predominantly Golden Prana, whereas the 960 Outer Petals contain Light Violet, Blue, Yellow, Green, Orange, and Red Pranas. The Inner Petals of the Chakra look very similar to the Heart Chakra, and there is a strong spiritual link between the Heart and Crown Chakras (the important Pranic Healing meditation called "Meditation on Twin Hearts" is based on connecting the Heart and Crown Chakras, ie the 'Twin Hearts.')

The Crown Chakra is where both Electric Violet and Golden Pranas are generated, to be then projected through the hands of the healer to the client.

G. THE CHINESE 5 ELEMENTS / ORGANS / MERIDIANS MODEL

In the first class of this series, The Personal Wavelength, we explored the 14 Major Energy Meridians of Chinese Medicine and introduced the method to test every Meridian (and any Acupuncture Point on each Meridian) within a specific person to determine whether it is strong or out of balance. Weakened and out of balance Energy Meridians (or specific Acupuncture Points) can then be brought back into healthy equilibrium by testing for which specific materials / vibrations / techniques will correct the issue.

In Part 1 of this current class The Universal Vibrational Spectrum, we introduced the 5 Elements Model (used in Chinese Medicine and Feng Shui) for balancing both human and environmental energies.

Those working out of the Chinese Medicine model (including Taoist sources) will usually understand the Vibrational Power of Colors in terms of which Element and Organ System they resonate with as described in the 5 Element system.

For our purposes, this means that the Vibrational Bands which manifest in visible color will be understood in this tradition through the following correspondences.

For example, in Taoist Stone Medicine a Yellow color stone will be usually be seen from the perspective of it having the Earth element, and it may be used for applications to the Stomach and Spleen (the Earth element organs.) From our perspective in this class, this would be seen as the Chinese Medicine perspective that the Yellow Vibrational Band resonates with the Stomach and Spleen, as well as with the functions in general of the Earth Element.

Here are the Colors of the 5 Elements with their Correspondences:

EARTH: Nourishment, Support, Receiving

Color: Yellow

Organs (and Associated Meridians): Stomach and Spleen

Shape (in Feng Shui): Square

Taste: Sweet

Tissue: Muscles

Sense Organ: Mouth

Beneficial Mental / Emotional Aspects when Healthy: Fairness, Openness, Trust, Groundedness, feeling of being Supported and Stable

Detrimental Mental / Emotional Aspects when Impaired: Worry, Anxiety, Mistrust

METAL: Letting Go, Releasing, Cutting Off unneeded things to return to the Essentials of Life

Color: White

Organs (and Associated Meridians): Lung and Large Intestine

Shapes (in Feng Shui): Round, Spherical

Taste: Pungent

Tissue: Skin / Hair

Sense Organ: Nose

Beneficial Mental / Emotional Aspects when Healthy: Courage, Righteousness, Inspiration

Detrimental Mental / Emotional Aspects when Impaired: Sadness, Depression, Grief, Loss

WATER: Birth, Death, Rebirth

Color: Black, Blue

Organs (and Associated Meridians): Kidney and Urinary Bladder (which process water in body)

Shapes (in Feng Shui): Curving Horizontal Shapes

Taste: Salty

Tissue: Bones

Sense Organ: Ear

Beneficial Mental / Emotional Aspects when Healthy: Gentleness, Calmness, Silence

Detrimental Mental / Emotional Aspects when Impaired: Fear, Fright

WOOD: Dynamic Growth

Color: Green

Organs (and Associated Meridians): Liver and Gallbladder

Shapes (in Feng Shui): Rectangular

Taste: Sour

Tissue: Tendon

Sense Organ: Eye

Beneficial Mental / Emotional Aspects when Healthy: Kindness, Generosity, Freedom, Ease

Detrimental Mental / Emotional Aspects when Impaired: Anger, Frustration, Jealousy, Envy

FIRE: Expansive

Color: Red

Organs (and Associated Meridians): Heart and Small Intestine

Shapes (in Feng Shui): Triangular

Taste: Bitter

Tissue: Blood Vessels

Sense Organ: Tongue

Beneficial Mental / Emotional Aspects when Healthy: Love, Joy, Happiness

Detrimental Mental / Emotional Aspects when Impaired: Hate, Impatience, Cruelty

SECONDARY AND DERIVATIVE COLORS

In addition to the key colors described above for the 5 Elements, there are also secondary or derivative colors associated with each Element. Below is a summary, with credit to Geomancy.Net for this chart.

GEOMANCY.NET COLOR REFERENCE CHART

METAL OR GOLD	IF SHINY COULD BE CONSIDER AS GOLD				COLOR OF MANDARIN ORANGE OR IN CANTONESE "kum" or GOLD
		White	Silver	Orange
EARTH				SOMETIMES SOME GEOMANCERS MAY ARGUE THAT THIS COLOUR BELONGS TO THE EARTH ELEMENT
		Yellow	Beige
WOOD
		Dark Green	Green	Brown
FIRE
		Red	Pink	Purple	Peach

					Violet
WATER
		Royal	Navy	Light Grey	Sky Blue

					Black

CYCLES OF THE 5 ELEMENTS

One of the most powerful and important aspects of working with the Chinese 5 Elements is the understanding that they are not simply static elements, but rather they are in fact dynamic stages of ongoing cycles; for this reason, some translators of Chinese into English prefer the term the “5 Phases” to “5 Elements.”

This understanding of Phases has powerful applications for healing and for internal alchemy (the higher development of human consciousness and energy.)

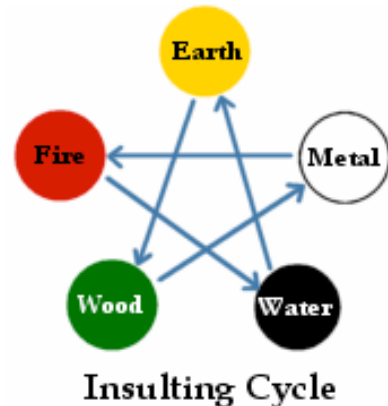

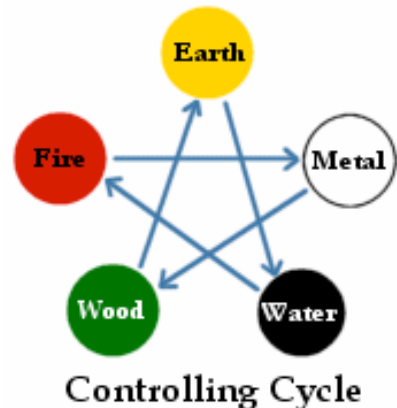

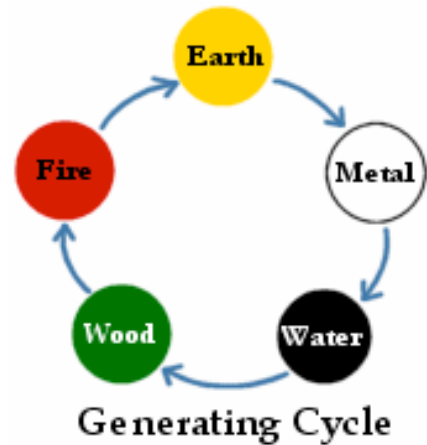

Some of the core Phases which can be understood with the Chinese 5 Phases model include:

The Generating Cycle: Each Element promotes the growth and development of the next element in the cycle; this is sometimes referred to as the “Mother and Child” relationship between specific Elements.

The Controlling Cycle: Each Element reduces or controls another Element (Earth controls Water, Water controls Fire, etc.)

If the controlling element becomes too strong, it creates the Overactive Cycle where Water for example would completely overwhelm the Fire Element rather than simply controlling it in a way which promotes balance.

If the Element which is normally being controlled becomes too strong, it can turn the tables on the Controlling element and reduce or destroy it instead, in what is known as the Insulting Cycle: for example, too much fire would destroy (evaporate) all the Water.

H. THE STEINER / EUROPEAN ROSICRUCIAN 4 ETHERS MODEL

Warmth ether : spherical forms

Light ether : triangular forms.

Chemical ether : half-moon forms (giving, when completed, a circle or a globe).

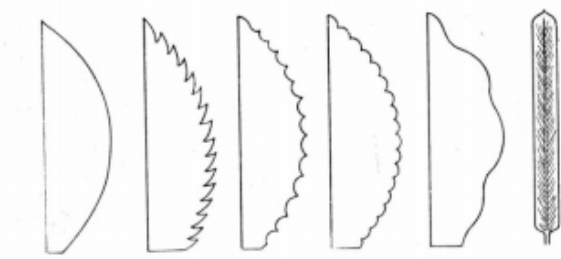

Life ether : square forms.

Rudolf Steiner created the foundation of a new Etheric Physics, which includes an important explanation for how forces move from the higher spiritual planes (most directly from the Astral Plane) to manifest on the Physical Plane. Based originally on responses to questions he was asked about the Indian 5 Tattwa System, Steiner clarified how Astral forces move through 4 Levels (Stages) of the Etheric to manifest Physically.

Steiner's work on the 4 Ethers is relatively little-known today. His work was elaborated by his secretary Guenther Wachsmuth, most prominently in the only one of Wachsmuth's books on the Ether to be published in English: The Etheric Formative Forces in Cosmos, Earth, and Man. Each of the 4 Ethers creates a particular geometric structure in physical forms. To the left is an illustration from Wachsmuth's text showing effects from the Ethers on Plant Forms, and below on Blood.

Crystals from blood of a Guinea pig.

Here are revealed the following etheric formative forces :
Pure triangles
(Light ether).

Crystals from blood of a squirrel.

Combined triangular (Light ether) and rectangular
(Life ether)
Transitional forms.

Crystals from human blood.

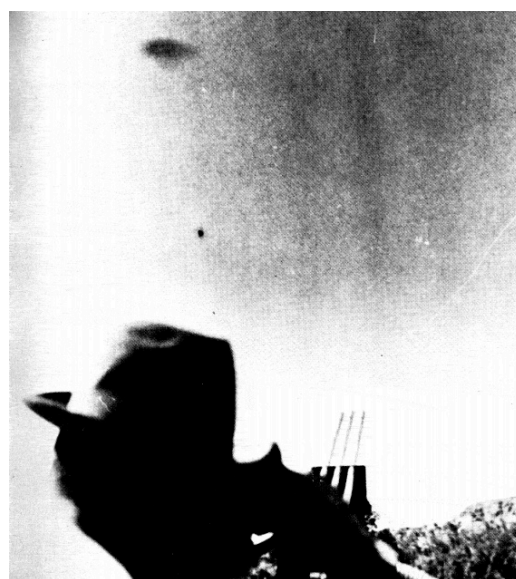

Pure rectangle
(Life ether).

Most of the literature regarding Steiner's 4 Ethers is in German, with one of the few titles to be translated into English being Ernst Marti's The Four Ethers. Marti's work advanced Wachsmuth's concepts and clarified technical issues, such as the difference between the "Etheric Formative Forces" and the Four Ethers, which some earlier authors treated as identical concepts. A useful introduction to Wachsmuth's Four Ethers work (with helpful corrections and clarifications) can be found in Adrian Anderson's out-of-print text Living a Spiritual Year.

Steiner's 4 Ether Model was also used by Trevor James Constable, who brilliantly blended Steiner's 4 Ethers concepts with Wilhelm Reich's Orgone Energy research, in his important book The Cosmic Pulse of Life. Constable applied Steiner's 4 Ethers knowledge to modifying Reich's "Cloudbuster", resulting in Constable being able to modify Weather patterns (in often dramatic ways) as described and illustrated in his book Loom of the Future and shown in his Video Etheric Weather Engineering on the High Seas.

Another application of this merging of the 4 Ethers and Orgone concepts was illustrated in The Cosmic Pulse of Life, where Constable shows the results of using the Cloudbuster to create pulsation in the atmosphere; this energetic input in some cases caused non-physical realities to start to move from the Astral Plane into the Ethers, toward physical manifestation. Constable published in his book photographs he had taken using infra-red film, which allowed him to photograph things moving from higher levels towards the physical which are still invisible to the naked eye. The infra-red film captured heat registers from objects appearing in the sky, sometimes being massive in size with clear shapes. The picture to the right shows Constable (wearing the hat) behind the projection tubes of the Cloudbuster, above which (in the upper left of the picture) is the object appearing on the Infra-Red film which is not physically visible.

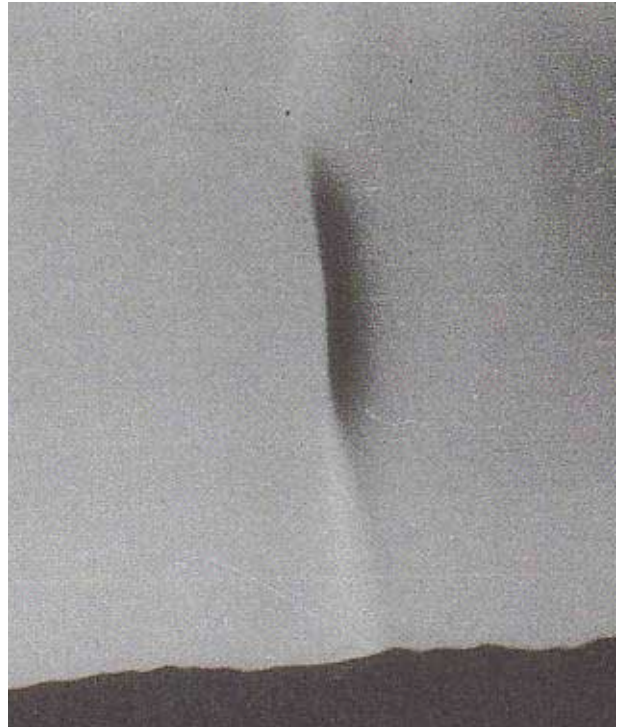

From his knowledge of Steiner's work, Constable knew that these invisible objects which could be photographed from their heat signature were in fact moving into the first stage of the Four Ethers; the Warmth Ether, where higher level realities manifest from higher realms through warmth, before they become physically visible as light through the Light Ether, take on watery substance and / or chemical structuring through the Chemical Ether, and then manifest in solid substance through the Life Ether.

Another of Constable's Infra-Red photographs is shown to the right, showing the heat register of a large object appearing over a California mountain, with lines of energy appearing above and below the object; this picture suggests the "tearing of the veil" between the non-physical and physical worlds, as objects manifest into physical space from higher realms.

Experimental methods to photograph the Four Ethers were made by British researchers in the 1970's; many of their photos appeared in the book The Loom of Creation. These pictures particularly illustrate the Geometric Forms created as an imprint of each of the Four Ethers; however since their method involved electrical currents, it should be remembered that these images are a kind of electrical shadow of the 4 Ethers, rather than pictures of the Ethers themselves.

Steiner and Wachsmuth noted some color correspondences to the 4 Ethers, which I have extended further in the notes below. An important aspect of the powers of the 12 Bands (which we will examine in the next section) is how certain Bands are related to specific Levels of the 4 Ethers, which holds previously hidden keys to understanding the stages through which Spirit manifests into Matter.

WARMTH ETHER: INFRA-RED / RED BANDS

Associated Geometrical Form: Spherical

The Warmth Ether is the first stage of moving from the higher Spiritual Levels (most directly from the Astral Plane) into the Physical Level. Objects moving toward physical manifestation take on a heat signature but are not physically visible, requiring infra-red film in order to photograph them; they can be detected with Radiesthesia by testing in the Infra-Red (especially) and Red Bands.

More beneficial higher forces in the Warmth Ether tend to manifest in the Horizontal Waves of IR and Red, while more detrimental forces in the Warmth Ether tend to manifest in the Vertical Waves of IR and Red.

Items which test as having strong Infra-Red and Red may have the function (in some cases) of helping bring in Etheric vital force, in order to animate Beings and Processes on the Physical Plane.

They also may be useful for anchoring projections of human consciousness so that they manifest results (health, prosperity, life situations, various effects) on the physical plane; for example in the Vesica research into Crystals and Stones we describe how Ocean Jasper tests as having strong IR and Red, which is linked to the use of this stone for anchoring thoughtforms to manifest into physical reality.

This function of Ocean Jasper is aided greatly by the unique close-packing of natural internal Quartz Spheres within the stone which act as Etheric “batteries”; the Spheres inside this piece of Ocean Jasper are shown to the lower right. These natural Spheres are themselves a signature of the Warmth Ether, which manifests Spherical forms.

LIGHT ETHER - ORANGE / YELLOW

Associated Geometrical Form: Triangular

This is the stage where higher forces and Beings become visible to physical eyes, manifesting through Light and Color. Light Ether creates Triangular forms, as shown in this picture of Light Ether effects on leaves from Wachsmuth's previously mentioned text.

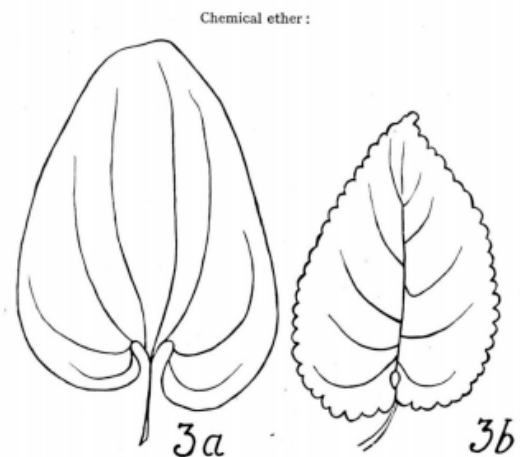

CHEMICAL ETHER - GREEN / BLUE

Associated Geometrical Form: Hemisphere, Half-Moon (Scalloped Shape)

This is the stage the internal structure and organization is laid down for the forces to manifest into solid form at the fourth stage. At this stage things take on a liquid / chemical form. The Chemical Ether is what provides the structure for everything which makes up the physical world, ie all Elements on the Periodic Table; this structure has a numerical basis, which is why this Ether is sometimes also called the Number Ether. There is also an aspect here of the manifestation of Sound, which is itself linked to number structures (as seen in musical theory and the vibrational rate of musical notes), which is the reason this Ether is sometimes also referred to as the Sound Ether or Tone Ether.

Wilhelm Reich's "Orgone" Energy is in reality the Chemical Ether. Reich used Water to generate Orgone (as with his "Cloudbuster"), just as Chemical Ether is linked to liquids / chemicals. Reich described how Orgone glows Blue in a vacuum, just as Chemical Ether is distinguished by its Blue quality.

The Chemical Ether also creates Hemisphere or Half-Moon forms, which can also manifest as a "Scalloping" effect as shown in the picture to the right taken from Wachsmuth's text.

LIFE ETHER - INDIGO / VIOLET

Associated Geometric Form: Square / Rectangular (Right Angle / Straight Line Edges)

This Ether manifests things into solid matter. In one sense this is the "Highest" of the Ethers; it needs to be the highest in order to penetrate sufficiently deeply into the density of solid physical matter.

THE “FIFTH” ETHER (UltraViolet / White?)

Although the Four Ethers system primarily describes the stages of Four Ethers through which Spiritual Realities manifest into Physical Matter, there is a very hidden teaching of the “Fifth Ether” also within the European Rosicrucian tradition. This Fifth Ether is not yet fully manifest, unlike the other Four Ethers; it is currently in the process of being created by human beings. This Fifth Ether is connected to a power of spiritual awakening, which is applied to active service in the world; this is why it is sometimes referred to in Rosicrucianism as the “Moral Ether.” It is in reality a hidden power which activates higher human spiritual development. This topic is explored further in some of the Vesica Spiritual Science trainings. It is also related to Mindfulness and Service to aid all Sentient Beings as described in Buddhism, especially as manifested within the Buddhist “Bodhisattva Vow.”

The Fifth Ether is connected to an Alchemical activation of the Human Heart, which releases a Rose / Pink stream of Light which then activates the higher consciousness centers in the human head (including the Pineal and Pituitary Glands in the Third Ventricle of the Brain.) This process is described by Steiner as the “Etherization of the Blood.” The process continues further in an energy flow circuit through the body which activates further levels of Spiritual Development, although the further stages of this process were not clearly described in Steiner’s work.

No indications related to the color correspondence of this Fifth Ether were given by Steiner, to my knowledge. However following the pattern of the Four Ethers, it may be that the Fifth Ether can be detected in the Horizontal Band of Ultra-Violet (and perhaps White.)

It may also be that the powerful “Electric Violet” described by Master Choa Kok Sui in the Pranic Healing system is a Vibrational manifestation of the Fifth Ether.

I. MODERN COLOR THERAPY SYSTEMS

In modern Color Therapy, there are three major bodies of research which are the most relevant to our understanding of the Powers of certain Vibrational Bands. Each of these three systems has a different approach to the areas of the body used for healing applications, and each one uses different methods to deliver the vibrational Color to the client.

1. DINSHAH (SPECTRO-CHROME):

Dinshah's Spectro-Chrome system is the best-known and most influential approach to applying colored light over large areas of the body. It has influenced the development of color therapy over the last 100 years. In addition to the founder Dinshah Ghadiali's original texts, his son Darius Dinshah's book Let There Be Light summarizes the entire system for practical applications.

2. MASTER CHOA KOK SUI (PRANIC HEALING):

Master Choa's Pranic Healing system offers one of the most complete (and widely taught) approaches to applying colored light energy (prana) into the major energy centers of the body (chakras.)

The use of color is primarily described in his book Advanced Pranic Healing. Indications given there are primarily directed to the Physical / Etheric level; there are some indications for color in relation to the Astral and higher levels in his text Pranic Psychotherapy and other writings.

In Pranic Healing colors are projected from chakras through the hands. Colors used are usually described as "light whitish": very light / pastel colors, projected at the boundary of a core of white light.

3. PETER MANDEL (COLORPUNCTURE):

There are many different systems of applying color light into precise energy points of the human body for healing purposes. The most detailed and advanced system for this type of healing is the ColorPuncture methodology created by the German Doctor Peter Mandel; it uses specific frequencies of colored light delivered from a handheld device instead of Acupuncture needles. Mandel worked for over a decade with his friend Dr. Fritz Popp (discoverer of BioPhotons) to adapt Popp's scientific discoveries to standardized healing applications. Mandel has also integrated a variety of other healing research -- much of it from German sources which are almost unknown in North America and elsewhere in the world -- into ColorPuncture, in addition to his own new discoveries and methods.

There are only two English language resources currently in print which provide specific ColorPuncture treatment protocols. These are:

- * The Healing Power of Light and Color by Praveeta Timmerman, published in Germany is by far the most extensive resource available in English.
- * Children in the Light by Italian physician Neeresh Pagnamenta, published in Italy. (Although the book is written for treating children with Colorpuncture, its treatments are also applicable to adults.)

Both of these books are imported and made available in North America by the Vesica Institute; they are otherwise virtually impossible to find outside of Europe, except from ColorPuncture instructors. See the Vesica Website for more details on ordering these important texts.

DIFFERENCES AND SYNERGY BETWEEN THE THREE SYSTEMS

Interestingly these three systems blend together fairly well, as they each contribute different perspectives and approaches. While there is some overlap, in general each body of work tends to focus on different Levels of application (Physical, Energetic, or Emotional / Mental) and on different Scales of application (to the Whole Body, to Major Energy Centers / Chakras, or to Smaller Energy Centers / Acupuncture Points.)

Dinshah's Spectro-Chrome is especially strong on physical body effects of the colors, focusing on applications over large areas of the body using large theatrical lights with colored screens.

Master Choa Kok Sui's Pranic Healing work is especially strong in Etheric (Prana) energy functions, focusing on applications to the Chakras using Color vibrations in invisible BioEnergy projections from a trained healer's hands.

Mandel's ColorPuncture work is especially strong in emotional / mental functions of color, focusing on applications to Acupuncture Points and Energetic Zones on the body using small handheld color lights.

Observations from these systems are integrated with material from other sources (and with original research from the Vesica Institute) in the next major section of this class, where the specific Powers / Functions of each Band are described.

VI. FUNCTIONS & EFFECTS OF THE 12 BANDS: BENEFICIAL (HORIZONTAL) WAVES

This section provides, to the best of my knowledge, the first major overview ever offered of the powers and functions of each of the 12 Vibrational Bands. This is the result of over 15 years of intensive research, however it is in reality only the very beginning of exploration of the powers hidden in each Band of the Vibrational Spectrum.

These 12 Bands hold a vital Key to unlocking the secret of how the Unified Source (Centering Vibration) manifests every specialized activity -- and all individual Beings -- in the worlds of Creation.

This knowledge has tremendous implications for making our work with Vibrations -- for Healing, for Technology, for Spiritual Development -- much more precise, targeted, and effective than it is currently.

A. SEVEN PRACTICAL SOURCES FOR APPLYING THE VIBRATIONAL BANDS

Everything in Creation has a specific configuration of the Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum.

These Bands are a Key which reveals how the Unified Source Energy (Centering Vibration) moves into a differentiated pattern, creating the uniqueness of a particular Being, Object, or Energy System.

As described earlier, the Vibrational Spectrum occurs within all Scales of Quality (Color, Sound, Taste, Touch, Feeling etc.) and on all Planes of Creation.

For practical purposes, we can apply the Power of a particular Vibrational Band through the use of particular sources. Some of the most common include:

1. Color: This can be light sources of particular colors (as are commonly used in Color Therapy), objects containing that particular color (natural minerals are the most essential in classical traditions), or projections of Bio-Energy which are given specific color vibrations.

Be aware that all light sources, all objects, etc. will have other vibrations present in addition to their visible color; these must be tested and taken into account when deciding how to apply the color vibration to a particular living being, object, or location. For example, light sources with disturbing flicker rates and containing toxic Mercury (fluorescent bulbs) create harmful effects on living energy fields, as can be detected with Personal Wavelength testing; they also create harmful Vertical Waves (from the internal Mercury etc.) in addition to the Horizontal Wave of the visible color they are projecting. For these reasons, fluorescent bulbs would not be a good light source to use to project a given color, due to these toxic materials and their harmful vibrations.

2. Sound: Created primarily by the human voice, musical instruments, or natural sources of sounds. Be aware of the complete vibrational matrix of the sound source, such as the Vertical Waves which often accompany electronic sound sources or which can come from negative thoughts, emotions, or disease states held by a person making the sound with their voice.

3. Shapes: The material the Geometric Form is made of will have an effect on its total vibrational field. In ancient times, the vibrations created by Geometric Forms were often applied through specific materials which themselves carried highly beneficial vibrations -- usually minerals / stones. An example of this is the Ancient Egyptian "Faience", a quartz crystal based substance which was used to make many of the Geometric Forms worn as amulets.

Components of Geometric Forms such as Number, Proportion, and Angle can also generate specific Vibrational Bands, in addition to the Vibrations of the general shape.

4. The Mineral Kingdom: Stones, Gems, Crystals, Mineral-Based Homeopathics. Stones are the literal foundation of the physical plane, and the most solid / stable / enduring energy sources on the planet. Every classical tradition uses specific stones for their powerful intrinsic vibrational effects, as well as using them to anchor projections of consciousness and energy on the physical plane. At the most fundamental physical level, key minerals are absolutely essential to human health.

5. The Plant Kingdom: Herbs, Essential Oils, Plant-Based Homeopathics. Plants are of course also a primary source of food, with various Plants providing different Vibrational Bands which are processed through the stomach to be distributed through the body.

6. The Animal Kingdom: All classical traditions use Animal Products for Vibrational Purposes. This of course includes the vibratory quality of animal meats and other products (milk, butter etc.) for nourishment, as well as the vibrational qualities of Furs etc. There are also highly specialized Vibrations from certain animal parts such as the Cow Horns used in BioDynamic Agriculture (packed with crushed crystal and manure and buried in the ground to vitalize the land), the ground Pearls / Ants / Horns used in Chinese Medicine, etc.

7. Bio-Energy (The Human Kingdom): Emanations from the Human Energy Field of specific vibrations, projected from the fingers, hands, or other areas of the body or energy field. These vibrations are accessed from the consciousness level (awareness / focus / resonance with the specific color vibration or other vibrational quality) and then projected from the person's energy field.
The more clear the persons consciousness is -- ie the more free of negative thoughts and emotions at the time of the work -- then the cleaner and more free of Vertical Waves the projected energy will be.

B. THE ASPECTS DESCRIBED FOR EACH VIBRATIONAL BAND

In this section we will focus primarily on the beneficial aspects of each Band, ie the Horizontal Wave of each Band.

We will begin the overview of Powers of the 12 Bands with the 7 Vibrational Bands which manifest within visible Color as the 7 Color Spectrum -- about which there is by far the most accumulated information regarding their effects -- and then survey the other 5 Bands, about which there is relatively less information.

For each Band, we will describe a series of aspects which are outlined below.

- 1. Physical Level: This details physiological activities related to the Band.
- 2. Energetic Level: The energetic activities (i.e., Etheric functions) of the Band.
- 3. Emotional / Mental Level: Effects of the Band on Consciousness.
- 4. Spiritual Level: How the Band is related to specific Spiritual Beings and phenomena.
- 5. Notes: Specific Research and Deeper Observations regarding some Powers of the Band.
- 6. Color Variations: The description of each Band is focused primarily on its own essential nature, before it mixes with other Bands or qualities which can alchemically shift its energy. When expressed within color, this essential nature of a Band would manifest as the pure, core color by itself.

However in the manifest world, Bands and Qualities are constantly mixing in order to create alchemical energetic effects. I have included at the end of many of the Vibrational Band surveys which follow, a list of variations for those vibrations which express themselves as visible color. These are other color variations connected to the pure Vibrational Band expressed as color.

Here are definitions of these types of variations:

Pastels: Colors with a large amount of White, i.e. the lightest form of the color.

Tints: Colors with White, that are more saturated in hue than are pastels.

Tints and Pastels tend to soften and literally “lighten” the effect of the color / Vibrational Band.

Tones: Colors mixed with Gray; have a dulling effect on the color, but may also intensify or alter its effects.

Shades: Colors that contain Black; these have an effect of increasing the “weight” of the color.

Tones and Shades tend to intensify the effect of the color / Vibrational Band, making it more dense and “heavy” -- these energies may be too much for a sensitive person, but may be required to penetrate sufficiently into the energy field of a person with a very dense energy field (smoker, heavy meat eater, accumulated toxic load, etc.)

Other concepts of interest, but which are not described in the individual sections which follow are:

Monochromatic: Combinations of one or more Pastels, Tints, Tones, or Shades of the same color.

Iridescent: Scatters Light, making a color appear sparkling and alive, rather than absorbing light like Black or reflecting Light like White.

C. BEGIN AND END EACH VIBRATIONAL BAND SECTION WITH TESTING

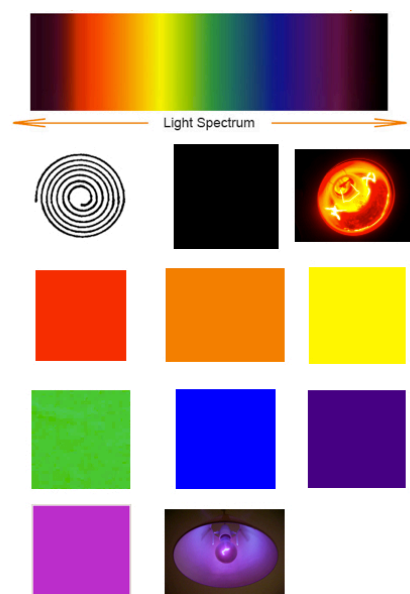

In an earlier practice we tested each one of the 12 Horizontal Wave Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum. Emphasis was placed on developing entrainment to each Band, so that your energy system begins to recognize and perceive it.

Steps for developing this entrainment include:

1. Clear your Energy Field, using your choice of the methods described earlier.
2. Clear your Mind, using the methods described earlier.
3. In the Clear Mind state, focus your attention on the Vibrational Field of the item you are testing. This is a state of pure awareness, with no “word thoughts” in the mind;. In the Clear Mind state, images may arise in your mind which are reflections of the essential nature of the item being tested; that is fine if it happens, but do not try to create them, let them arise naturally if they do occur. Do not allow other random thoughts or images to pull your attention away from the Vibrational Field of the item.
4. Feel the connection between your Vibrational Field and the Field of the item being tested; be aware of the Pendulum acting as the intermediary between the two fields. The Pendulum focuses your Vibrational Field on one specific Vibration within the field of the item being tested. Feel the “Pull” on the Pendulum when it detects (goes into Resonance with) the specific Vibration it is set for, emanating from the energy field of the item being tested.
5. Observe any feelings (either Vibrational or Emotional) which arise when connecting to specific Bands or other energy qualities. Be aware of the quality of the feelings: heat or cold, constriction or expansion, ease or dis-ease, etc. This not only tunes you into the Vibrational Testing at deeper level, it also will allow you to start observing what “signals” your body gives when detecting specific Bands or qualities. This will over time lead to much more accurate testing.

Together these steps will lead to a powerful entrainment which will allow you to perceive invisible vibrations. This process will in fact create new “Sense Organs” in your subtle bodies to perceive these vibrations.

For each of the 12 Band sections which follow, begin your study of each section by testing that specific Vibrational Band using the process from the Testing the 12 Beneficial (Horizontal Wave) Bands practice described earlier (see page 46 of this manual.)

You will use the same Test Sheet you used for that practice (showing the 12 Band samples to test) and you will use the same Horizontal Wave Pendulum you used in that practice.

The pattern from the Test Sheet for each band is also given in each of the individual band sections which follow.

Test with full meditative immersion the Vibration you are about to study, testing over the sample on the Test Sheet for a few minutes. Experience that Vibration, including whatever signals appear in your body when you test it.

Then study the material on the Powers of that band; when you are finished the information for that band, then end that section by once again testing that Vibration with full immersion for a few minutes. This will greatly help in developing a living connection to that Vibrational Band.

At that point you can proceed to the study (and testing) of the next Band in the series.

D. POWERS OF THE RED BAND

[START BY TESTING THE RED VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO RED.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Core support for the Physical Body, overcomes Paralysis, revives those who are Unconscious (can prolong life in the dying, including those dying from injuries -- however may also increase their suffering while prolonging their life).
- * Overcomes Weakness and tiredness, increases activity when feeling lethargic.
- * Warming, Dilating (including Blood Vessels and Air Tubes so can be applied for some allergies)
- * Stimulates Central Nervous System and all the Senses;
- * Strengthens Muscles;
- * Energizes Liver and Bones;
- * Increases Blood Flow to Skin: in excess, can act as an irritant (possibly to the point of causing blisters and postules on skin);
- * Increases Blood flow circulation, builds hemoglobin & platelets, increases Heart activity;
- * Rapid Tissue and Cellular repair (including use for non-suppurating wounds, ie wounds which do not produce pus).

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Strengthening; Stimulating; Activating; Vitalizing; Warming / Expanding / Dilating.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Passion of all kinds; Ardent Love / Desire; Anger; Exuberance.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Red is related to the Warmth Ether, the first stage of movement from the Astral Plane to the Physical Plane. Appearing first as an Infra-Red warmth, it then manifests into the Physical Plane with the Red Band.
- * In the powerful Esoteric Christian Healing System taught by Stylianos Atteshlis (Daskalos) in Cyprus, Archangel Michael is connected to the Vibration of Red, appearing often as a Red Flame (including in the construction of protective Geometries with Red Flame, created around the human body and energy field of the Initiate.)
- * Esoterically, Archangel Michael protects the Human Being and the Physical Plane from the entry of detrimental spiritual Beings. In European Esotericism, Archangel Michael is one of Four Archangels which support and protect the Physical Plane through the “Four Watchtowers” which they anchor. From one perspective Michael guards the “Red Gate” of entry into the Physical, which is related to the Divine Power of the Red Band to vitalize, cleanse, and active the Heart and Blood of Beings in the physical world.

NOTES:

- * In Chinese Medicine Red is the Fire Element and connects to the Heart and Small Intestine. Fire holds the Power of Expansion. It is connected to supporting Love, Joy, and Happiness, and to counter-acting Hate, Impatience, and Cruelty.
- * In Feng Shui, Red is related to Triangular forms (fire).
- * Because it is on the opposite polarity extreme in visible light to Violet / UltraViolet, Red was used by Dinshah for healing the skin of burns from UV or ionizing radiation (includes sunburns, X-Ray burns, and nuclear radiation burns).
- * Can accelerate spread of some pathogens in the body, so some healers may choose not to apply the Red Vibrational Band to lower chakras if STD's are present. STD's will appear as Vertical -G concentration in the body at the genitals and lower abdomen, possibly with Vertical Black and/or Vertical Infra-Red as well (other Vertical Bands are also possible.)
- * Master Choa Kok Sui's Pranic Healing “Master Healing Technique” was projecting Light Red Prana to the Base Chakra and to the Meng Mein (Back Navel Chakra) to greatly increase strength and vitality in the whole body, overcome altitude sickness, etc. The Base and Meng Mein Chakras were cleared (“swept”) energetically before activating with the Red Prana. However be careful with this method, do not use it on a regular basis on a person, or serious energetic burn-out can occur (as with some athletes who were “super-charged” with energy at the Meng Mein and then became ill from an overstimulated, exhausted system.)

- * In visible color (or invisible vibrational sub-bands of Red), some darker Reds may be weakening instead of strengthening. Also the strengthening effect of Red can vary based on the state of the energy system it is applied to.
- * Be careful of Red for people with sensitive nervous systems & depleted adrenals.
- * Modern scientific research has shown that for healing surface wounds, Red light around 620-660 nm is optimal. Light in the Red 600-660 nm range is also ideal for matching the frequency of the cell membrane, which was found in research at the University of Chicago in the 1970’s to average between 600nm and 720nm. The 620-660 range also appears to be optimal for absorption in hemoglobin.
- * Many modern scientific studies have found beneficial effects with the combination of Red and Infra-Red frequencies for wound healing; see the section on the Powers of the Infra-Red Band for more information.
- * Enel connected Red to the metal Iron and to an Acid chemical reaction.

VARIATIONS ON RED:

Pastel is PINK.

Tint is ROSE.

Tone is BURGUNDY.

Shade is CRIMSON.

- * For Feng Shui purposes, Fire / Red is sometimes considered to also be related to the colors of Pink, Purple, Peach, and sometimes Violet.
- * The Pink (Pastel of Red) and Rose (Tint of Red) Vibrations are very important in many Holistic Healing and Spiritual Systems. Pink Prana connects with Love & the Heart Chakra in Pranic Healing. Persons who are highly agitated, upset, or violent (emotionally or physically) can be calmed with Pink Prana (which can be held in place by surrounding it with Blue Prana.)
- * The Rose color is also associated with the Heart. One important example is Rudolf Steiner’s description of the “Etherization of the Blood”: when the the Heart is spiritually activated it releases the Etheric force from the Blood into a Rose Stream of Light which then rises to the Forehead and activates higher consciousness.

Rose Quartz is used for Heart Resonance in vibrational work with stones.

The Rose Vibration occurs in the Plant Kingdom with the literal Rose flower, which has an extremely high vibration.

Rose is one of the four “Soul-Spirit” colors in Mandel’s Colorpuncture. Mandel describes the Rose vibration as carrying the secret of spiritual growth and new beginnings.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE RED VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO RED.]

E. POWERS OF THE ORANGE BAND

[START BY TESTING THE ORANGE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO ORANGE.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Stimulates Lungs (builds, strengthens and decongests), Stomach (promotes appetite, relieves gas, can be used to induce vomiting if toxins present), Tissues, Mammary Glands (produces milk);
- * Clears Kidney and Bladder (provokes urination), Colon (provokes defecation / clears constipation), Menstrual problems (provokes expulsion of menses), Stomach (induce vomiting up of toxic elements)
- * Depresses Parathyroid;
- * Energizes Thyroid;
- * Relieves Muscle cramps and spasms;
- * Builds Bones (calcium effect to help strengthen soft bones);
- * Removes Blood Clots and Cysts, helps against Anemia;
- * Heart tonic;
- * Helps Sclerotic processes (Arteriosclerosis, Cerebral and Coronary Sclerosis);
- * DO NOT use on Appendix (may rupture).

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Expelling waste, toxins, and germs;

Loosening, Extracting, Melting, Eliminating, Cleansing, Explosive, Destructive.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

* Promotes Joy; Happiness; Ambition, Warmheartedness; Brightening; Cheering; Strengthening.

* Overcomes Sleepiness, Discontentment, Pessimism, Psychosis, Depression, Fear (using orange alternated with blue), Disinclination to Work.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Helps a Dying Person extract their Spirit from the physical body.

NOTES:

- * In Feng Shui, the color Orange is considered part of the Metal Element, and is also considered a representation of Gold.
- * Enel found that physical Gold radiates the Orange Vibrational Band, a finding which would later reappear in a more spiritual context in Dr. Karim's BioGeometry® with the testing for the Higher Harmonic of Gold in the Orange Band.
- * Master Choa Kok Sui (MCKS) made important discoveries with the Orange vibration. Because of its power, the Orange vibration posed a danger to sensitive organs such as the Brain and Eyes, so he avoided in most cases using it on the upper body, keeping it below the level of the heart and only energizing the lungs with Orange from the back of the body (not from the front.) He also noted that it should never be used on a person with appendicitis, as it could accelerate the rupture of the appendix.
- * For safety, MCKS would usually project the safer (and balanced) Green vibration onto a chakra before applying the more intense Orange vibration. Based on the functions of Orange, MCKS used it for allergies (along with light whitish red), to remove Blood Clots and Cysts, to help with Arthritis, and Lung, Kidney, Bladder, and Colon problems.
- * Peter Mandel used Orange to strengthen the Heart in cases of heart disease or weakness. He alternated application of Orange light with Blue light when treating the effects of a heart attack or angina pectoris, and also when clearing fear from a person. He also used Orange light to help persons who are chronically tired in the morning to be more awake and energized.
- * Enel also noted that Orange is a cardiac tonic, and typed Orange as having an Acid chemical reaction.

VARIATIONS ON ORANGE:

Pastels are PEACH and APRICOT.
Tints are CORAL and SALMON.
Tone is RUST.
Shade is BURNT ORANGE.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE ORANGE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO ORANGE.]

F. POWERS OF THE YELLOW BAND

[START BY TESTING THE YELLOW VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO YELLOW.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Stimulates and Builds Motor Functions of the Nervous System and Nerves, Digestive Fluid (promotes digestion), mild stimulation of Tissue;
- * Energizes Muscles, Intestines and Pancreas (alimentary tract);
- * Builds Strong Tissues, Organs, Bones, Teeth;
- * Activates Lymph System;
- * Depresses Spleen.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Initiates Processes, Cements / increases Cohesion, Assimilates / Multiplies / Grows.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Cheering; Illuminates Emotional Issues through Thinking; Stimulates Mental Activity, Learning and Comprehension; Intellect; Overcomes Discontent.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Steiner's color theory presents Yellow as a Divine Power which radiates outward from the Center.
- * Daskalos used bright Yellow ("Canary Yellow") to connect to the Sun Forces and the Solar Logos. He noted this Yellow Color was also used in the Sun mysteries in Ancient Egypt.
- * In the Etheric Physics of Rudolf Steiner, Yellow is connected to the "Light Ether", the second stage of manifestation from the Astral Plane into the Physical Plane.

NOTES:

- * In Chinese Medicine, Yellow connects to the Earth element and the organs of Spleen and Stomach; this is connected to supporting Fairness, Openness, Trust, Groundedness, the feeling of being Supported & Stable, and to counter-act Worry, Anxiety, and Mistrust.
- * In Feng Shui, Yellow connects to the Earth Element and Square shapes. Interestingly, in the Indian Tattva tradition, Yellow is also connected to the Earth element and to Square geometries.
- * Dinshah used Yellow to expel worms and parasites; Master Choa Kok Sui emphasized Orange for expulsion and purging of toxicity in general.
- * MCKS used Yellow for Skin Problems, healing broken bones, cellular repair, and assimilation of materials. However he emphasized that Yellow Prana is not used alone in treating wounds, burns, or broken bones as this would cause scar tissue to be formed. Light Whitish Orange-Yellow (projected together) was used by MCKS for rapid healing of broken bones and torn tendons. Light Whitish Orange-Red (projected together) is used for rapid healing of fresh wounds; for old wounds, Green Prana is used followed by Red Prana (Green is not used for fresh wounds as it makes the wound "watery", however it is used first for old wounds as it is needed to break down old cells.)

We will discuss the combining of vibrations together in more detail in Class 3 in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

- * Mandel used Yellow to make chronic processes acute (activating a healing crisis to clear long-term issues); Dinshah used Lemon (the color between Yellow and Green) as the "Chronic Alternative" to help resolve chronic, persistent conditions. Lemon was also used by Dinshah systemically applied over the whole body in cases of Cancer; he then applied Indigo on the affected area to create contraction and lessen secretions, and Orange was used as a decongestant on the affected area to shrink the cancerous mass.

* Mandel applied Yellow to strengthen the Endocrine System, and for diseases of the Liver, Bladder, Kidneys, and Stomach.

* Enel avoided using Yellow on pregnant women, for fear it would affect their kidneys; he used Yellow to help the Pancreas, Liver, and Spleen, and as a stimulant in cases of anemia and many types of respiratory problems. Enel indicated that Yellow in general is used to regenerate tissues, and also asserted that Yellow connects with the interior of the male and female genitals (taken together, these statements suggest that Yellow could help to regenerate the interior aspects of the genitals.) He noted that Yellow can overstimulate people who are nervous, and that Blue should be used to neutralize that effect if needed. Enel typed Yellow with the Acid chemical reaction, and associated it with Copper.

VARIATIONS ON YELLOW:

Pastel is LEMON (note: this is different from the “Lemon” of Dinshah, which is the intermediary color between Yellow and Green. Lemon here indicates a lighter form of Yellow created by mixing it with White.)

Tones are UMBER and MUSTARD.

Shade is OCHER.

Feng Shui considers Beige a variant of Yellow for the Earth Element; some schools hold that Brown is also connected to the Earth Element, whereas others attribute it to the Wood Element.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE YELLOW VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO YELLOW.]

G. POWERS OF THE GREEN BAND

[START BY TESTING THE GREEN VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO GREEN.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Stimulates Pituitary, and Digestion;
- * Builds Muscles and Tissues;
- * Balances the Brain and entire Physical Body; Eye Problems, Diabetes;
- * Clears diseased Tissue and Cells; Blood Clots, Tumors, Ulcers, Cysts;
- * Decongests Lungs (use for Colds and Fever);
- * Kills Germes, Bacteria.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

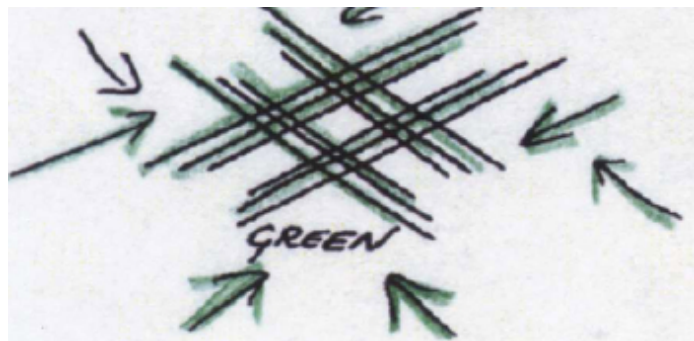

Cleansing, Detoxifying, Disinfecting, Loosens / Dissolves / Destroys detrimental Energy and Matter (including disintegrating Toxic Vibrations, and neutralizing the Vertical Wave of the Negative Green band); Antiseptic, Detergent; Brings Equilibrium.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Equilibrium, Soothing, Relaxing, Sedative, Contentment, Tranquility, Helps Precision Work.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

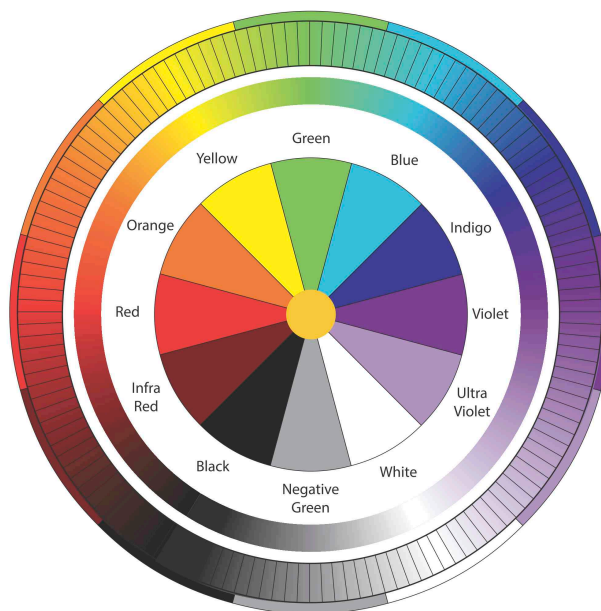

- * Steiner's color theory presents Green as a Divine Power which creates Planes and Surfaces.
- * Green is the Color for the Planet Mercury in the Indian Vedic Tradition, which includes functions of clear and active thinking. Green is a Sattvic (state of calm, abiding, joy, clarity, intelligence) color in the Indian system.

NOTES:

- * Green is the balance point in the Visible light spectrum, the place of equilibrium. Green is the color of nature. Esoterically we could say that Green is the equilibrium point of the 7 Color Spectrum, whereas Negative Green is the equilibrium point in the 5 “invisible” Colors, and the Centering Vibration is the ultimate balancing point beyond the polarized Spectrum.
- * In Chinese Medicine Green is the Wood Element and connects to the Liver and Gallbladder; this holds the Power of Dynamic Growth. It is connected to supporting Kindness, Generosity, Freedom and Ease and to counter-acting Anger, Frustration, Jealousy, and Envy.
- * In Feng Shui, Green is connected to Rectangular forms (Wood Element).
- * The “Positive Green” Band in the Vibrational Spectrum corresponds in color to ordinary Green. De Belizal used the Positive Green Band to neutralize the toxicity of Vertical Wave (in his terms the “Electric Wave”) of Negative Green poisoning; this is a polarity balancing method, as Positive Green and Negative Green are opposite Polarities in the Vibrational Spectrum.

- * The important function of Green to disintegrate toxic energy is related to the use of Salt for energy clearing. Salt has a strong Green vibration, which is why we use it in making the Salt Water bowls for dumping toxic energy into during a cleansing / healing session; the water holds the toxic energy, and the salt in the water helps to disintegrate it. The great Spiritual Beings who created the Earth covered the majority of its surface with salt water oceans, which helps keep the Earth's energy clear; one of the greatest tragedies of modern times is the massive chemical and nuclear radiation pollution of the world's oceans.

- * Dinshah applied Green light to the entire front of the body, to balance the physical body in general and to prevent illnesses arising. He applied its opposite polarity in the visible light spectrum (Magenta in Dinshah's system) systemically to the body to prevent illnesses through balancing the subtle body / aura (connected to Magenta.) Magenta in Dinshah's system is opposite to Green, just as in Radiesthesia Negative Green is opposite Positive Green.
- * This Dinshah method of using Green systemically to prevent illnesses arising, could be applied to using the Green Vibrational Band applied through the Plant Kingdom (plants with high chlorophyll, including sprouts, chlorella and spirulina) and / or the Mineral Kingdom (stones such as Green Tourmaline for example - but be aware not all Green stones would be appropriate, as discussed in detail in the Vesica training New Vibrational Applications of Stones and Crystals.)
- * MCKS often applied Green Prana first to cleanse the energy body, before applying energizing to Chakras. He taught that Green Prana is a safer alternative to Orange Prana for loosening and cleansing toxic energy from the energy field; it is often applied with "sweeping" energy movements to remove the toxic energy, which is deposited into salt water for disposal. Energizing an area of the energy field with light Whitish-Green Prana is considered to reduce possible harm if more potent Pranas such as Red, Orange, or Violet are going to be applied, so Green Prana is applied prior to those Pranas. A common procedure In Pranic Healing on non-sensitive parts of the body / energy field is to use Light Green Prana first to break down diseased / toxic energy, then to use Light Orange Prana to expel the toxic energy.
- * MCKS used Green Prana for old wounds, followed by Red Prana (He did not use Green for fresh wounds as it makes the wound "watery", however he used Green first for old wounds as it is needed to break down old cells.)
- * Mandel recommended intermittent use of Green light for all chronic diseases, while Dinshah used the color between Yellow and Green (which he called "Lemon") as his "chronic alterative". As noted in the previous section on Yellow, Mandel used Yellow to make chronic diseases acute.
- * Dinshah used the color between Green and Blue, Turquoise, as the "acute alterative", to make a favorable change in acute conditions.
- * Mandel uses Green to sooth the pains of Cancer, while Dinshah used Lemon (color between Yellow and Green) over the entire body in cases of cancer before applying other specific colors to the tumor area.
- * In addition to functions listed above, Mandel also used Green alternated with Blue for inflammations of the joints.
- * Green is the balance point in the visible spectrum. It was typed by Enel as neutral in the hot-cold or acid/alkaline polarities of the "warming" (Red, Orange, Yellow) and “cooling” (Blue, Indigo, Violet) colors. Enel described Green as neither calming nor stimulating. Enel noted that it is used to prepare the way for applications of other curative colors, which is similar to its use by Dinshah and MCKS; however Enel asserted that Green should only be used for short periods of time.

- * Enel asserted that Green should not be worn when using the pendulum because its “double polarity” affected the reception of color rays. Turenne on the other hand used Green extensively in practical dowsing protocols. I have personally found no problem at all with having Green in the environment during practical testing; this is supported by the ubiquity of Green as the common background color of nature, which surrounds us (and all vibrational exchanges) all the time.
- * Enel associated Green with the metal Mercury. Interestingly, the Vedic tradition of India associates Green with the Planet Mercury; it uses Emerald as the Primary Stone carrying the Green Vibration to consecrate to the power of the planet Mercury, with Green Tourmaline being an alternative stone for this purpose. (Green Fluorite should not be used for this purpose, as its energy functions are quite different, as described in the Vesica training New Vibrational Applications of Stones and Crystals.)

VARIATIONS ON GREEN:

Pastel is MINT.

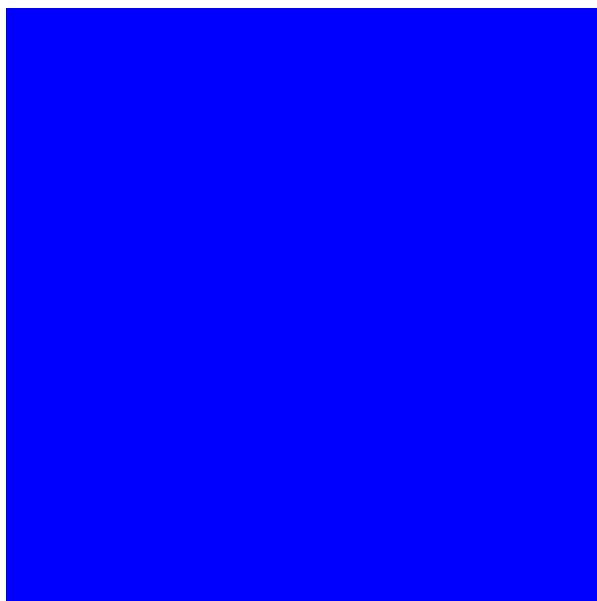

Tint is SEA GREEN.

Tone is OLIVE GREEN.

Shade is FOREST GREEN.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE GREEN VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO GREEN.]

H. POWERS OF THE BLUE BAND

[START BY TESTING THE BLUE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO BLUE.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Reduces Skin Problems (itching, soothes skin irritation and abrasion), Reduces Fever, Inflammation, Pain, Hemorrhoids, Warts, Infection, Sexual Excitation;
- * Used for all conditions requiring cooling, reduced heat;
- * Stops Bleeding, Encourages Blood Clotting;
- * Strengthens Testicles, helps with Menopause;
- * Builds Flexibility.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Contains Energy / Contracts / Localizes, Inhibits activity of organs / chakras / motor functions, Sedative, Anesthetic, Cooling, Soothing, induces Sleep and Rest, Builds Vitality (through building Yin reserves, not Yang stimulation).

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Reduces Hyperactivity, Promotes Quietness and Reserve, Reflection, Relaxation.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

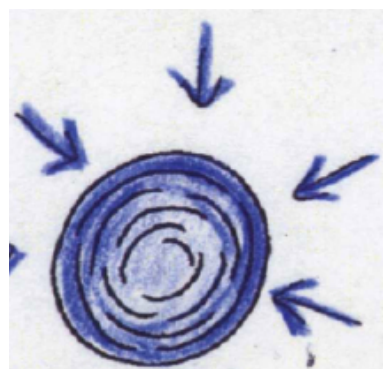

- * In Daskalos' work with Archangelic powers, Sky Blue (light whitish blue) is used to resonate with Archangel Gabriel, who is also seen as the Ruler of Fluids. In classical European esotericism, Gabriel is known as the Archangel of Physical Incarnation / Birth; in the Christian tradition it was Gabriel who appeared to the Virgin Mary at the Annunciation of the coming Birth of Jesus. However many other esoteric groups connect to Archangel Michael through Blue. The reasons behind this difference is explained in detail in the Vesica online training Connecting to Spiritual Beings.

Plane water and fluids.

* Wilhelm Reich discovered that “Orgone” energy will glow blue in vacuum. This is explained by Steiner’s Etheric Physics, in which the “Chemical Ether” (also known as the Sound Ether or the Number Ether) manifests in Blue and is connected to the movement from the Astral Plane into Physical

* Steiner’s color theory presents Blue as a Divine Power which curves in from the Periphery into the Center.

NOTES:

- * In Chinese Medicine Blue is the Water Element and connects to the Kidney and Urinary Bladder; this holds the Power of Birth, Death, and Rebirth. It is connected to supporting Gentleness, Calmness, and Silence, and to counter-acting Fear and Fright. However some schools of Chinese Medicine believe that Black is the true Water color and that only very dark shades of Blue resonate with the Water Element.
- * In Feng Shui, Blue is connected to Curving Horizontal Shapes (Water Element).
- * Dinshah believed that any condition diagnosed with the suffix “-itis”, showing an inflammatory condition, should be treated with Blue.
- * Dinshah used Blue as a Stimulant for the Pineal Gland; Mandel associates Blue with the Pituitary Gland. Because of their close physical proximity in the head, and the deep energetic interaction of their functions, it is common to find this type of mixed attributions of the Pineal and Pituitary Gland in different esoteric schools. A prime example are the many schools who associate the Forehead Chakra with the Pineal Gland and the Crown Chakra with the Pituitary Gland, whereas others reverse the attribution to the Forehead Chakra connected to the Pituitary and the Crown Chakra connected with the Pineal.
- * Mandel associated Blue with the entire Endocrine System as well as the Pituitary Gland. He taught that Blue affects the testes and was indicated for issues of impotence, frigidity, and menopause. Blue regulates the contraction of the muscles, ligaments, and tissues. Helps with inflammation, including swollen joints, arthritis and gout. Helps with swelling, including after tooth extraction and jaw surgery. Mandel recommended that hyperactive children do their homework under blue light.

- * A major technique taught by MCKS was to use Blue Prana to keep powerful destructive energies contained when using them on sensitive body areas. For example, Blue was used to contain Orange Prana within very small areas of the head when used there for specialized purposes; the Blue Prana created a container or box of energy surrounding the location of the Orange Prana projection, so that the Orange would not harm other sensitive areas of the Brain, Eyes, Glands etc. This localizing effect of Blue is important in numerous Pranic Healing applications, where it is applied as a container / energetic boundary before applying other energies.
- * Enel indicated that Blue is a regenerator of the nervous system, and used for any case of high blood pressure. Also indicated use for arthritis and rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica. Enel connected Blue to the metal Silver, and to the Alkaline Chemical reaction (for Dinshah, Blue is one of the “cooling colors” of Blue, Indigo, and Violet, all of which Enel types as Alkaline.)
- * Bilirubin is a natural waste product created by disintegrating red blood cells, which under normal conditions is broken down by a Liver Enzyme. In the case of the genetic disorder Crigler-Najjar syndrome that enzyme is missing; this can lead to bilirubin building up to toxic levels, which creates Jaundice and possible brain damage and death. This genetic problem is especially concentrated among the Amish and Mennonites.
The effective treatment for this problem is Blue Light. Children sleep in cribs with an intense battery of blue lights over them, and flanked by mirrors on the side of the bed. There is considered to be no cure for the core condition, and children suffering it will need in time to receive a liver transplant. [Reference: “Blue Light treats sick Mennonite, Amish Kids.” Associated Press story of May 21, 2007.]

VARIATIONS ON BLUE:

Pastel is POWDER BLUE (some sources would say SKY BLUE.)

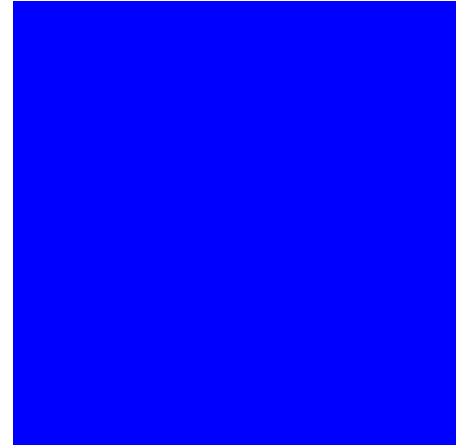

Tint is ROBIN’S EGG BLUE.

Tone is COUNTRY BLUE.

Shade is COBALT BLUE.

Some schools of Feng Shui discuss variations on the use of Blue for the Water Element with Dark Blue (some schools consider only Dark Blue a Water color), Light Grey, and Sky Blue. Virtually all schools of Feng Shui and Chinese Medicine consider Black to be a Water Element color, some asserting that only Black is the true Water color.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE BLUE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO BLUE.

I. POWERS OF THE INDIGO BAND

[START BY TESTING THE INDIGO VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO INDIGO.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Stimulates and Builds the Parathyroid;
- * Helps production of Phagocytes (cells that destroy foreign matter and micro-organisms);
- * Depresses Thyroid, Lungs, Mammary Gland (reduces Milk production);
- * Decreases Bleeding, Abscesses, Secretions, Discharges, Hemorrhages.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Astringent, Contracting, Condensing, Sedating, Pain Reliever. In research at the Vesica Institute Indigo also appears to be a component needed for certain important energy transmutation processes.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Lessens Excitement and Over-Activity, opens the Mind to deep Spiritual Spaces.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Intuition.
- * Meditative States and Spiritual Experiences.
- * Opening to profound Spiritual Mysteries; Alchemical Transformation.

NOTES:

- * Indigo is the least commonly found color of the 7 basic visible colors, not only physically but also vibrationally. It has many mysterious qualities; some color healing systems do not even use it or describe its energetic effects (or if they do, it is often described as similar to Blue with somewhat more powerful effects; this is for example the case to some extent in both Enel and Mandel's systems.) Perhaps the most thorough mapping of Indigo functions is in Dinshah's Spectro-Chrome color therapy system.
- * Mandel does not include Indigo in his basic ColorPuncture colored light tool set; instead he includes Turquoise after Green, then goes to Blue and then Violet.
- * Indigo is the only one of the 7 basic visible colors which does not have an opposite polarity in the complementary color system (Red-Green, Orange-Blue, Yellow-Violet.) This is another indicator of its unique and unusual nature in the 7 color spectrum, different from the other 6 colors.
- * One of the locations to test for the Higher Harmonic of Gold vibration (one of the "BG3" in Dr. Karim's BioGeometry system) is in a particular sub-band of the Indigo Band, where it occurs in; this is related to an indication from Turenne about Physical Gold being detected in the Indigo Band. However unlike the French researchers, Dr. Karim took this relationship of Gold to Indigo to a higher spiritual level than just Gold on the physical plane. The other setting used by Dr. Karim to detect Higher Harmonic of Gold in the 12-band Vibrational Spectrum is in the Orange Band, linked to Enel's finding Physical Gold appearing in the Orange Band.
- * MCKS' Pranic Healing system interestingly does not use Indigo Prana. MCKS noted that in his research Indigo Prana was not normally seen in any chakra, or any part of the bioplasmic body (the common attribution of Indigo to the Brow Chakra was stated by MCKS to be a mistake.) He believed that since Indigo Prana is between Blue and Violet, it tends to break down into one of those two colors.
- * In research at the Vesica Institute, one of the main sources of stable Indigo Band Vibration are specific stones. One of the obvious sources is the stone known as "Indigo Gabbro" (also known as "Mystic Merlinite"), which does have (as the name implies) strong Indigo Band vibration -- although in actuality it has an even stronger intensity of the Violet Band than Indigo, as will be discussed later in this series. This combination of Indigo and Violet bands may be a clue to this stone's remarkable ability to transmute some toxic vibrations.
- * Enel indicated that Indigo can help some intestinal problems, and that it helps to restore equilibrium between the Physical Body and the Vitality / Life Body (Etheric Body) which animates the physical. He believed Indigo generally stimulates mental activity (in our research this is primarily true in the area of stimulating higher level spiritual thinking, more than in the area of stimulating ordinary intellectual thinking.) He associated Indigo with the metal Tin, and the Alkaline chemical reaction.

- * The great Belgian esotericist Rene Schwaller de Lubicz indicated that there was a great alchemical secret behind the Indigo color, which was manifested in the production of Indigo colored stained glass by the Masters who built Chartres Cathedral in France. De Lubicz' research into the esoteric knowledge built into the European Cathedrals was taken by a colleague and published (against de Lubicz' wishes) under the pen name of "Fulcanelli" by the person who took the material. According to de Lubicz this colleague did not fully understand the work, leading to a confused presentation in the famous book by Fulcanelli entitled The Mystery of the Cathedrals. The Indigo Stained Glass mystery is referenced in the book about de Lubicz entitled Al-Kemi.

VARIATIONS ON INDIGO:

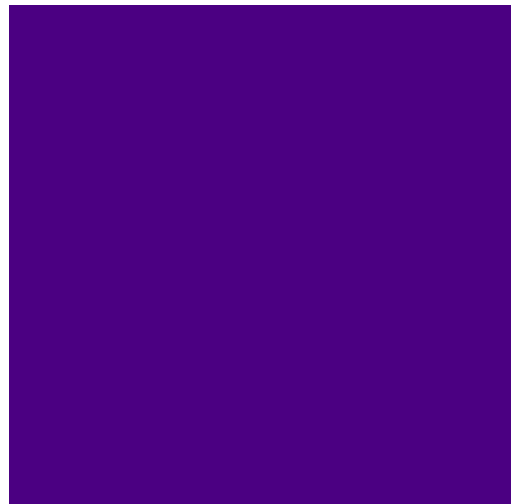

Pastel is PERIWINKLE.

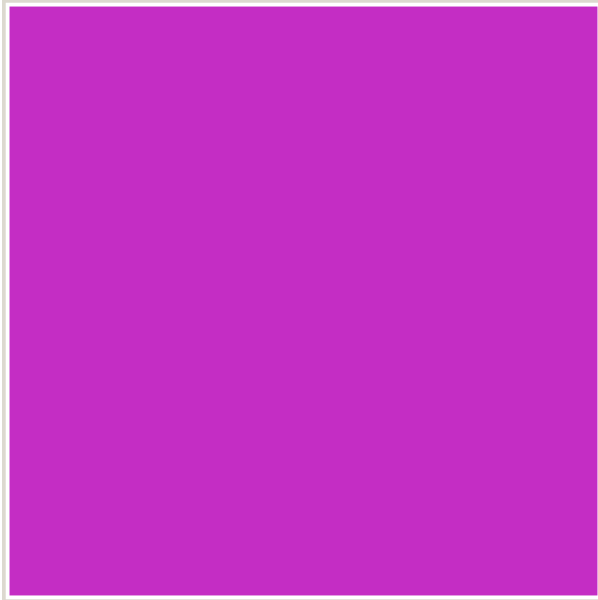

Tint is BABY BLUE.

Tone is SLATE BLUE.

Shade is NAVY BLUE and ROYAL BLUE.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE INDIGO VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO INDIGO.]

J. POWERS OF THE VIOLET BAND

[START BY TESTING THE VIOLET VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO VIOLET.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Builds Spleen;
- * Depresses Muscles and Motor System activity;
- * Beneficial effects on Lymphatic System;
- * Useful for serious illnesses including Syphilis;
- * Builds White Blood Cells, which counteract foreign substances and disease.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

Similar to White in having qualities of other colors but is faster, more penetrating and more easily assimilated than White; amplifies any other color it is used with (project Violet only before or after, and not at the same time as, Red, Orange, or Yellow); Etheric Revitalization; Transmutation.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

Shifts awareness from physical world concerns towards a spiritual focus;
Promotes higher awareness and consciousness.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

General Spirituality, gives spiritual strength, increases effects of Meditation.

- * In Daskalos' Archangelic System, Archangel Raphael appears in Violet Flame; in Daskalos' system the name Raphael is "Ra-Fa-El", meaning "Sun-Vibration-God" in the ancient Egyptian language. Daskalos sees Raphael as the Archangel who governs Etheric Vitality, which is connected to the Violet Band. Raphael is the Archangel of Healing in the Western Tradition, linked to the forces of the Planet Mercury. In Western Esotericism there is the concept of alchemical transformation with the “Violet Flame”, which is often connected to the spiritual adept St. Germain.

- * In Steiner’s 4 Ethers system, Violet is connected to the “Life Ether”; this is the highest of the Ethers, which can penetrate into solid matter. It is also a key to the physical materialization of a spiritual impulse on the physical plane, into physical materialization. This is a complex subject, involving the relationship between Infra-Red / Red and Violet / Ultra-Violet ends of the visible light spectrum. Spiritually this dynamic also appears in connecting to Archangel Michael through the Red Band, and to Raphael through the Violet Band, as twin pillars holding the manifested center steady. This is also connected to the esoteric power of Magenta as the union of Red and Violet extremes, as described in some Vesica Spiritual Science trainings.

NOTES:

- * Enel associated Violet with the metal Lead, and with the Alkaline chemical reaction.
- * Master Choa Kok Sui stated that Violet has the qualities of the Red, Orange, Yellow, Green, and Blue Pranas. White also has the qualities of these other Pranas, however Violet is more easily assimilated and is more penetrating than White so Violet has a faster effect. Master Choa used the potency of Violet for serious ailments including Syphilis.
- * Master Choa found that Violet Prana amplifies any other Color Prana it is projected with, or which it is used after or before. He cautioned to avoid using any Dark Color Pranas when Violet will also be used. Light Whitish Violet is similarly much safer than Dark Violet Prana.

Master Choa taught that Violet can be combined with Blue or Green, but never with Red, Orange or Yellow. He stated that Violet will amplify Red to the point that it could cause cells to heat up, expand and burst; Violet will amplify Orange to the point that it can cause cells to explode; Violet will amplify Yellow to the point that it could cause chaotic rapid cell growth. Although Violet should not be projected at the same time as these colors, it may be projected before or after these colors in certain cases; for example, he taught to project Light Whitish-Red first then follow with projecting Light Whitish-Violet to rapidly strengthen an area of the body.

Master Choa indicated that Light Violet, Light Bluish-Violet, and Light Greenish-Violet can create regenerating effects, including healing damaged organs and nerves. Light Bluish-Violet and Light Greenish-Violet creates rapid healing of fresh wounds.

- * Master Choa’s Pranic Healing also uses a higher form of Violet known as Electric Violet. Whereas Pranic Healers generate ordinary Violet Prana through a light Violet color at the periphery of a core of luminous White, they generate Electric Violet through light Violet color at the periphery of a core of brilliant, intense White. Electric Violet is said to have an intelligence of its own, that it “knows what to do” when it is applied to any energetic system; it is connected to higher spiritual intelligence. Electric Violet is especially used in “Pranic Psychotherapy” to remove detrimental Elementals and Thoughtforms from a person’s energy field. Electric Violet breaks down quickly into Gold Prana and then into Red Prana; only a few materials have been found which are able to hold and preserve the Electric Violet vibration so that it does not break down so quickly. Not every healer can generate Electric Violet; it requires a particular development of the Crown center and the Column of Energy above the human head.

- * In my preliminary Radiesthesia testing of Electric Violet, it appears to manifest in parts of the Horizontal Wave of Violet and Ultra-Violet Bands; when testing on the the different Planes (described in the third class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing) it has more energy manifesting on the astral and higher planes than does ordinary violet projections.
- * Mandel emphasizes the spiritual aspects of Violet, including its effects on the unconscious. Interestingly, he noted that Violet promotes the functioning of the lymphatic system, whereas Dinshah asserted that Violet depresses the function of the lymphatic system.
- * In my own testing it appears that there is an aspect of alchemical transformational power which appears in Violet, with links to Indigo and Ultra-Violet bands. The “Indigo Gabbro” stone demonstrates this in an interesting way, which we will address later in this class.
- * Violet is used by some healers to clear blood clots from the human body, sometimes through projecting small balls of Violet into the clot and then dissolving the ball (see further comments in the next section on Ultraviolet.)

VARIATIONS ON VIOLET:

Pastel is LAVENDER.

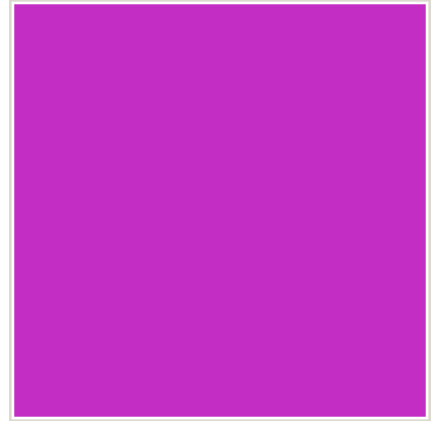

Tints are ORCHID, LILAC, and BRIGHT PURPLE.

Tones are MAUVE and MULBERRY.

Shade is PLUM.

Some schools of Feng Shui hold that Violet is a variant of Red, which resonates with the Fire Element.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE VIOLET
VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO VIOLET.]

K. POWERS OF THE ULTRA-VIOLET BAND

[START BY TESTING THE ULTRA-VIOLET VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO ULTRA-VIOLET.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Relief of Chronic Pain;
- * Repairs heavily damaged Cells;
- * Allows cellular DNA repair to occur even in the presence of Cancer-causing chemicals;
- * Helps clear some blockages in the physical body;
- * Clears skin issues such as Psoriasis.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

- * Dissolving: Movement of energy between Physical and Spiritual levels; deep “Yin” restoration of energy.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

- * Shifts emotional and mental awareness towards the spiritual background of life challenges and health issues.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Creates Resonance with Astral and Higher Spiritual Planes.
- * Connected to the Spiritual Powers of the Sun, which radiates UV light to the Earth.
- * Ultraviolet is connected to moving out of the Physical plane; Excarnation; Astral Projection; Astral Perception.

* Assists the flow of spiritual information in the body and energy field.

* In the “Awakening the Third Eye” methodology taught by Dr. Samuel Sagan at the Clairvision Institute (which includes aspects related to teachings in some Asian systems), the Third Eye is activated through a series of stages: the Etheric Body level (vibration, pressure, density) opens into the Astral Body level (perception of Light and Color) which then opens into the perception of a “dark purple” light which forms an overlay / background on everything perceived with internal vision; this dark purple background can even be stabilized to the point that it can form an overlay on top of physical world perception with the physical eyes. This “dark purple” light is a sign of perception on the Astral / Spiritual planes; it is detected in the Horizontal Wave of the Ultraviolet Band. Note that this can be seen in the test picture for UV in this course, a photo showing that an Ultraviolet lamp (also called commercially a “blacklight”) shines a “dark purple” light.

* In Dr. Karim’s BioGeometry, the “Higher Harmonic of Ultraviolet” is one of the three components of the BG3, the energy quality of the Center. Dr. Karim associates the HHUV with the “Atmosphere of the Angels” and the “Spiritual Light”.

NOTES:

* Daskalos would apply a highly precise Etheric projection of InfraRed and UltraViolet to a tumor in the human body or brain to burn it out. He stated that he would create a small ball of IR and UV the size of the head of a tiny pin, and send it into the center of the tumor. He noted that this requires great precision, and that the IR/UV ball must be removed in no more than 15 seconds maximum because of the burning effect. Daskalos stated that he worked by miniaturizing himself and entering into the tumor. Master Choa Kok Sui would use “Electric Violet” for burning out tumors and other obstructions, showing a possible link between EV in the Pranic system and the Ultra-Violet band.

* Other healers have used projection of small Violet light spheres into blood clots in the brain, then dissolved the Violet Spheres; this indicates that there is a continuum of Violet / UV which may be used for the dissolving of clots and tumors.

* Different body areas will absorb / resonate with different frequencies of light. Fritz Popp found in his early research that 380nm UV light could restore a 99% damaged cell, a process he termed “photo-repair” and is often described today as “constructive interference.” Popp made this discovery as a result of his research into Carcinogens, which block cellular processes of DNA repair; the 380 nm light restores the repair process in the presence of Carcinogens. [See the book Healing Light by Larry Lytle, p. 7]

Later Peter Mandel worked with Popp to apply the UV discovery to a healing technique: 370nm was the wavelength found to be optimal for healing purposes, rather than 380nm. Peter Mandel uses in Colorpuncture an Ultraviolet light of precisely 370 nanometers to address the information “background” of pain and ill health which is stored within individual cells. It has been shown to be particularly effective with chronic pain. The 370nm UV light is often used as part of a pair along with an Infra-Red light of 950 nm (this IR frequency is often most effective for acute pain.)

* A medical treatment for psoriasis is to put a person in a box walled with ultraviolet lamps on all sides. This has been shown to be successful, and has spawned variants such as using UV laser lights directly on the psoriasis location; the UV laser could sometimes accomplish in one to five treatments what might take thirty treatments with the UV lamps. Researchers noted this reduces exposure of the body to UV, which helps regarding concerns of UV damage to skin and the resultant accelerated aging of skin. It has also been speculated that other skin problems like eczema could be cleared with UV light. See the Harvard University Gazette “Laser lights up treatment of skin disease” by William Cromie.

<http://www.news.harvard.edu/gazette/2000/06.01/psoriasis.html>

From a Radiesthesia perspective the issues with skin caused by UV light come from the Vertical Wave of UV, which is generated by the electro-magnetic powered lamps being used to deliver the UV wave; note that medical science today has no awareness of, nor any methods to separate, the Horizontal and Vertical components of energetic waves. Through the use of Radiesthesia, the pure Horizontal wave of UV could be used instead to attain the beneficial skin effects from the UV bands without the Vertical wave effects.

Also note that Dinshah showed in his Spectro-Chrome system that Turquoise light was a Master Skin Rebuilder; in Radiesthesia this would be found in the sub-bands between the Green and Blue Bands. Dinshah also successfully used other colored light sources on burns and other skin problems.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE ULTRA-VIOLET VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO ULTRA-VIOLET.]

L. POWERS OF THE WHITE BAND

[START BY TESTING THE WHITE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO WHITE.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * General Clearing of Blockages from all organs and systems.
- * Beneficial effects on the Lungs.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

- * Gentle Clearing and Activation.
- * White light is a background to the energetic body; obstructions and disease appear as dark areas against the white background. White can be intensified to help remove these dark obstructions.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

- * Illuminating emotional and mental issues; bringing subconscious content into full consciousness.
- * Clearing emotional and mental blockages.
- * Inspiration.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * White is the Archetypal Power of the Yang Polarity.
- * White light is a core radiance at multiple levels of the subtle bodies; the radiance increases in the higher bodies. For the Physical Body the White Light has a lamp-like radiance which only extends slightly beyond the Physical Body; for the Astral Body the radiance extends further and is brighter, and for the Spiritual Body the radiance becomes brilliant like a Sun and extends much further. In certain Vesica Spiritual Science courses there are practices which make this directly experiential, and develop an awareness of the true “Light Body” so that one can focus selectively on any of the levels at any time for energy testing or balancing purposes.
- * Many structures in the human energy field can manifest in brilliant white light, including the vitally important Central Channel of the body.

- * In some practices from the school of Daskalos, the Central Channel of the body is a White Fire between the Red and Violet Fires of Archangels Michael and Raphael to either side.
- * In Christian Esotericism the Holy Spirit (the emanation of the Godhead into the Human level) often appears in White Light, and is often symbolized by a White Dove. An advanced Initiate in this tradition appears on the Astral Plane in the form of a White Eagle.

NOTES:

- * In Chinese Medicine White is the Metal Element and connects to the Lung and Large Intestine; this holds the Power of Letting Go, Releasing, Cutting Off unneeded things to return to the Essentials of Life. It is connected to supporting Courage, Righteousness, and Inspiration, and to counter-acting Sadness, Depression, Grief, and Loss.
- * In Feng Shui, White is connected to Round and Spherical forms (Metal Element).
- * De Belizal used Sub-bands between Negative Green and White for healing Tuberculosis and other Lung issues; this will be addressed in detail in the third class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.
- * Master Choa noted that White contains the qualities of other color Pranas within it, in a relatively gentle and safe form.
- * In Pranic Healing, Master Choa emphasized that very light pastel shades of color (the color mixed with lots of white) should in most cases be used when projecting healing energies onto the energy fields of clients. He also taught that the projected energy should have luminous white in its center, with the pastel color being projected at the periphery of the white center. This is another example of Master Choa using white to make energetic projections more gentle and safe. However he also noted that persons with very dense energy fields may require the projection of darker shades of color in order to penetrate sufficiently into the field.
- * In his indications regarding Electric Violet, Master Choa indicated that a higher spiritual energy can manifest through the Violet vibration when the White light projected in the center of the Violet is given greater intensity and brightness. There was the implication (although not to my knowledge any direct teaching to the public) that there were other “Electric” color pranas (i.e., not just Electric Violet) possible through using this method. This concept is also found in the work of Daskalos regarding the increasing luminosity of White Light found in higher subtle bodies. This increasing luminosity of White Light at different Plane levels is the basis of exercises in the Vesica Spiritual Science trainings, a few of which will be integrated into advanced vibrational practices in the third and final course in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE WHITE VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO WHITE.]

M. POWERS OF THE NEGATIVE GREEN / GREY BAND

[START BY TESTING THE NEGATIVE GREEN VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO NEGATIVE GREEN.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Conduction of energy within and between physical body systems: organs, glands, energy meridians.
- * Clears blockages.
- * Shifts and Opens stuck bodily functions; may stop the progression of chronic conditions.
- * Balances and Centers problems between unbalanced polarities in bodily systems.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

- * Carrier Wave: sends energy and information both within and between all Energy Systems and all Plane Levels.
- * Present in every energy center and all energy conduction lines (Meridians, Grids) in living Beings and in the Earth itself.
- * The Vibrational Band behind Core Life Energy (including Sexual Energy and Tantric Practices); also the esoteric source of Kundalini energy, which has a higher spiritual basis than ordinary life energy ("Prana").
- * General preventative of subtle energy problems; keeps energy moving in the system.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

- * Conduction of Emotional and Mental energy.

- * Breaks down Resistance on the Emotional and Mental levels, creates inner psychological openings to shifts within one's life.
- * Brings subconscious blockages into awareness to be cleared; may lead to short term psychological reactions as the blockages arise and break up.
- * Emotional Aspect of Sexual Energy; integrates dynamic energy in the body and energy field into emotional and mental experiences (this is related to the observations of Wilhelm Reich regarding Orgone, and how sexual energy affects psychological processes.)

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Conduction of Energy from higher levels into and out of the Physical Body level.
- * De Belizal and Chaumery described the Carrier Wave function in Negative Green in terms of the broadcast of energy qualities and the ability to penetrate through solid matter. Enel expanded this into a spiritual context to clarify that Negative Green is the Spiritual Carrier Wave, based on his observation of -G concentrations around the tombs of the Coptic Christian saints. The more Spiritual activity a person does (Blessing, Prayer, Meditation, ie any action which links a person in resonance to higher spiritual levels), the stronger the intensity of the Horizontal Wave of -G is created in their energy field. Enel developed a numerical scale for typing a person's level of spiritual development based on the intensity of -G in their energy field; however like all simple one-axis measurement systems, it does not illuminate all the multi-dimensional aspects relevant to full spiritual development.

* De Belizal found that sub-bands of -G were involved in testing and healing Cancer and Tuberculosis. We will examine sub-bands in more detail in the third class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

116

which Shakhti manifests in her benevolent or wrathful states (this is also shown in the benevolent and destructive aspects of Shekhmet in the Egyptian tradition.)

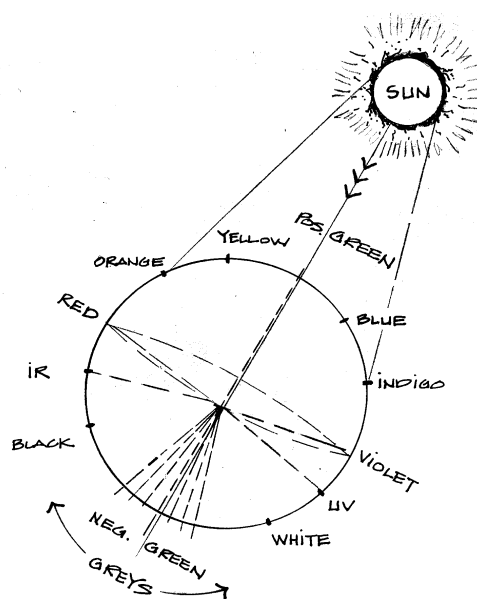

- * -G is connected to “Shakhti transmissions” of energy and higher consciousness activations, coming from Spiritual Beings and / or from Spiritual Teachers and their Lineages. These Shakhti transmissions can be tested when exiting from the energy field of a Spiritual Teacher or when entering into the energy field of a person, through testing the Horizontal Wave of -G. These transmissions can also be tested to see that they do not have strong Vertical Wave of -G or other Vertical Waves (which are not desirable), and if they have strong Centering Vibration (which is desirable). Testing can be done on a photograph, or in person at the moment of the transmission.

NOTES:

- * As discussed earlier in this course, De Belizal and Chaumery rediscovered Negative Green and completed the Vibrational Spectrum by adding it as the 12th and final Band. They showed that this vibration was known to -- and extensively used by -- ancient cultures in Egypt, China, Easter Island, and elsewhere.
- * Negative Green is found throughout natural systems, as it is the vital “Carrier Wave” which moves other vibrational information. Many vibrations are not strong enough to move over long distances, or through physical / energetic barriers; the -G Carrier Wave can carry other vibrations for great distances and through obstacles, similar to the use of electro-magnetic waves to broadcast information in radio or television systems.
- * In many natural systems, both the Vertical and Horizontal Waves of Negative Green are present; the problem in modern times is that the Vertical Wave is in many cases now much stronger than it used to be, due to man-made pollution of the environment with chemical and radiological poisons (which Turenne showed to be Vertical wave sources) and with the tremendous increase in Electro-Magnetic pollution, whose Vertical Waves are channeled along Earth Energy Lines and along the Energy Meridians / Channels in the bodies of human beings and other life forms.
- * Turenne used Radium Salts to amplify subtle vibrations to make them easier to detect; although he was not aware of it, this is an aspect of the -G carrier wave discovered by Chaumery and de Belizal. Turenne later found that the form of the 7-fold spiral (used in this class as our sample for -G testing) produced the same kind of energy amplification / transmission as the radioactive substance; Dr. Karim later clarified in BioGeometry the general principle that the quality of the number 7 (seven of a specific design element in a group) is a -G generator.

- * De Belizal and Chaumery identified Negative Green as the Vibrational Band which appears on the opposite side of a Sphere from where the Sun's position is (Positive Green is directly beneath the Sun's Position.) -G is thus the energy which can penetrate straight through a solid object, ie it is a Carrier Wave. This also indicates that Negative Green appears literally in the Shadow, the dark area opposite the sun's position on the other side of an object; deep esoteric teachings about the "Shadow" are related in some ways to the power of -G.

ON A SPHERE, COLORS MOVE WITH THE SUN

- * The Negative Green Band can be created by friction, either implied (surfaces in static contact) or actual (surfaces moving against one another.) At the physical level this is friction of two materials; at the energetic level it is friction between two energy fields. An example of the latter at the sub-nature (EMF) level is the movement of a conductive metal wire in a magnetic field, which generates electricity; this creates both Vertical and Horizontal waves of -G, unless modifications are made to eliminate the vertical wave component.
- * The friction aspect of Negative Green is related to intimate interaction between two or more energy systems. This indicates the Alchemical power of Negative Green, which includes:
 - a) the creation of a powerful energy emanation from the intimate interaction of two or more energy systems;
 - b) the generation of a carrier wave which other energy qualities can then travel on, including carrying powerful spiritual energies and Beings into the energy fields of other living Beings, objects, or locations;
 - c) the transformation of an energy system to a higher state of consciousness and energy -- ie, the achieving of an alchemical reaction to reach the next stage of an evolutionary development process -- through the Divine Power of the Negative Green wave generated by the intimate interaction.

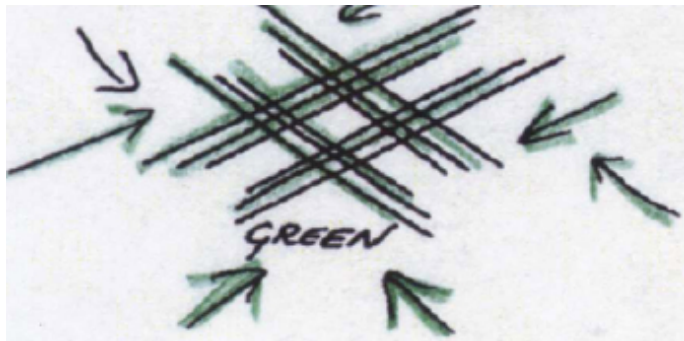

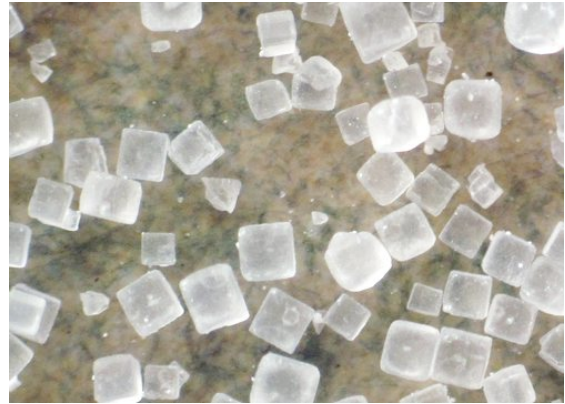

These considerations show the power and importance of the Negative Green Band for all types of Alchemical Reactions and Tantric Processes.

- * One way to understand more of the beneficial Horizontal Wave aspect of Negative Green is to see it as the opposite aspect in some ways to the Vertical Wave of -G. Whereas the Vertical Wave of Negative Green (V-G) was described by de Belizal as the archetypal energy of harm and death, the Horizontal Wave of Negative Green (H-G) could then be seen as the archetypal energy of life and healing.

* Another way to understand Negative Green is to examine how it is the opposite polarity to Positive Green. In this first part of this course, we discussed how de Belizal developed the method of using (Horizontal Waves of) Positive Green sources for clearing toxic Electric (Vertical) Waves of Negative Green contamination.

Positive Green is the dominant omnipresent visible color of nature, ie the balance / equilibrium point of the visible world. It is energy of manifesting into the physical world, as noted by Chinese Medicine regarding the connection of Green with the Wood element (Growth of physical forms) and the Liver (dynamic energy in the Body; also as an organ it is the the Liver which has the function of detoxifying, in the same way that the Green vibration clears toxic vibrations in Nature.)

Green has the quality of disintegrating and purifying toxic energies which would harm living physical beings; it helps preserve life which is anchored on the physical plane. Green is also a dominant vibration in Salt, which is the alchemical archetype of physical manifestation (connected to the form of the Cube, the natural form taken by Salt as seen to the right.) Salt also preserves substances (meat) from rotting, showing its power to preserve and to prevent decay.

In Rudolf Steiner's work on color, Green has the activity of forming Planes and Surfaces; ie, creating physical manifestation and stable structures / matrices for the incarnation of Spirit into Matter.

Negative Green is the subtle Life Energy which stands behind and animates Physical Matter. Physical Matter then visibly manifests and grows with the power of the opposite polarity to Negative Green, ie the Positive Green Band. Negative Green is an omnipresent invisible spiritual vibration which moves energy and information from one location to another, passing through physical matter rather than anchoring and crystallizing into the physical plane as Green does (a process seen with the crystallizing of Positive Green into Salt.)

* Negative Green is a vibration for which we have information primarily from the French Radiesthesiasts; there is no background data on its effects from Color Therapy circles.

We have used the term “Negative Green” in this course, following the terminology of De Belizal and Chaumery. However other French Radiesthesiasts preferred the term “Radiesthesia Grey” because this Band is situated between the Black and White Bands.

If we then include concepts regarding Grey to illuminate the nature of -G, then there are important indications about this energy quality from Peter Mandel’s ColorPuncture system in Germany.

* In Colorpuncture, Mandel uses Gray to break up deep resistance a person may have to therapy, to create shifts in deeply stuck systems through an inner opening of the person. He sees Gray as creating balance between imbalanced polarities, which is directly relevant to our view of Negative Green as the central balance point in the five “Invisible” colors.

Mandel sees Gray as coming from the original source which later gave birth to Light and Dark, Yang and Yin, White and Black. He refers to this original source as “original Gray”; in terms of our Radiesthesia work, this Original Grey concept is virtually identical to Negative Green being the Shakhti divine force which creates everything in the world.

Mandel uses three shades of Gray: Light, Medium, and Dark. These correspond respectively to the Physical Body with light gray, Energy with medium gray, and Information / Mind with dark gray.

Interestingly, Mandel describes Grey as the “Information Transport” function, which matches our Radiesthesia understanding of -G as the Carrier Wave. The Information Transport function of Grey reactivates energetic zones on the body, transferring information immediately from one body area to another. This breaks down stuck rigidity in body functions, allowing chronic illnesses to stop their downward progression and shift to a different pattern.

Mandel relates that when using Greys on the client that it is common for old subconscious conflicts to come to the surface to be cleared, leading in some cases to psychological reactions of short duration.

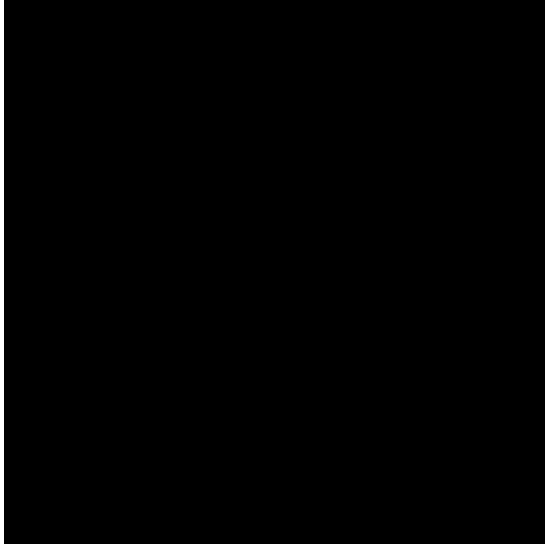

* Professor Fritz Popp, the discoverer of BioPhotons and a collaborator with Mandel, commented from the viewpoint of physics on the essential nature of Gray by noting that Gray does not exist in terms of the wavelengths which science uses to characterize other colors. In his own words, Popp said:
“From a physicist's viewpoint gray is ultimately a characteristic that exists independently of the wavelength. Black is ideal absorption of all colors, white is ideal reflection of all colors. Gray is any absorption or reflection of electromagnetic waves in between, as long as they are independent of the wavelength. It is interesting to notice that gray cannot simply be generated by superimposing white and black. There always has to be an interference of all wavelengths in such a way that a wavelength independent absorption with less efficiency than black are created.”

* Some schools of Feng Shui hold that Grey is a color resonating with the Water Element, as a lighter form of Black which is the key Water Element color; however this is not taught by all schools.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE NEGATIVE GREEN VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO NEGATIVE GREEN.]

N. POWERS OF THE BLACK BAND

[START BY TESTING THE BLACK VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO BLACK.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Detoxification, Chelation of Toxins;
- * Can provoke a purging healing crisis if applied strongly to pull out toxins.

ENERGETIC LEVEL:

- * Absorption, Draws in and holds Vibrations;
- * Consolidates and intensifies energy fields and energetic projections.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

- * Peace, Rest, Calm;
- * Sleep; unconsciousness;
- * Detachment;
- * Sobriety;
- * Intensity.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Archetypal Power of the Yin Polarity.
- * The Taoist teacher Jeffrey Yuen notes that Black always represents a Mystery, a Quest.
- * Elegance.

- * Authority and Power.
- * Used by adepts for protective shielding, to remain invisible.
- * The Void.
- * The Divine Mother, Black Madonna.
- * Intense aspect of Shakhti. Durga as a protective Diety, and her fierce form Kali.
- * The deep aspect of spiritual Initiation, where everything external falls away and in the darkness only the Divine Self remains.
- * Death, both physical death and Initiatory death (leading to rebirth at a higher level.)

NOTES:

- * Black is avoided in most color therapy and energetic systems because of the potential harm it can cause; Black projections are used extensively by highly detrimental forms of magic in order to imprison or harm another person. However from our perspective these misuses are Vertical Waves of the Black Band, not the beneficial Horizontal Waves of the Black Band. The attributions in this section are for the beneficial aspect of the Black Band.
- * In Chinese Medicine Black is the Water Element and connects to the Kidney and Urinary Bladder; this holds the Power of Birth, Death, and Rebirth. It is connected to supporting Gentleness, Calmness, and Silence, and to counter-acting Fear and Fright.
- * In Feng Shui, Black is connected to Curving Horizontal Shapes (Water Element).
- * De Belizal used Sub-bands between Negative Green and Black for healing Cancer; this will be addressed in detail in the third class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.
- * One of the most important uses of many Black Stones is to absorb detrimental vibrations out of living beings or environments, as taught in the Vesica Crystal trainings. This is one of the most fundamental and useful practices in all of Vibrational Healing. Be conscious of the intensity of the methods used: as described in the Vesica trainings, a healing crisis may occur if very energetically strong Black stones are used to make elixirs taken internally, such as Black Tourmaline and Obsidian elixirs made to a high intensity level. Care should also be taken in internal use of such elixirs if a person has “silver amalgams”, ie mercury dental fillings, as the strong chelation from the elixir can pull the mercury out of the fillings. In such cases use the stones ON the body externally, instead of taking an internal elixir.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE BLACK
VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO BLACK.]

O. POWERS OF THE INFRA-RED BAND

[START BY TESTING THE INFRA-RED VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO INFRA-RED.]

PHYSICAL LEVEL:

- * Detoxification, highly penetrating into the density of physical body tissues;
- * Pain relief, especially with acute pain;
- * Accelerated wound healing and tissue repair (sometimes combined with Red);
- * Resonates with the Cell Nucleus.

ENERGETIC LEVEL: Warming; Energizing; Activating; Moving; Manifesting into the Physical.

EMOTIONAL / MENTAL LEVEL:

- * Warming and relaxing “frozen” feelings and thoughtforms.
- * Stimulation to Action.

SPIRITUAL LEVEL:

- * Infra-Red is the key Vibrational Band related to the Warmth Ether, the first stage of movement from the Astral Plane to the Physical Plane. As discussed earlier regarding the work of Trevor James Constable, energy systems moving from the Astral Plane towards the Physical can be photographed with Infra-Red film as they move into the Warmth Ether, before they become physically visible at the next stage of the Light Ether.

NOTES:

- * Early scientific studies found that any single color input of light, regardless of frequency, increased the rate of cellular regeneration. However the strongest effects appeared when the frequency came to the Red and IR end of the spectrum. This discovery has led to a great amount of research and development into IR therapy devices, intended to create the strongest and most rapid recovery. Red light penetrates into the body around 10mm, whereas Infrared Light penetrates around 40mm (making IR more effective in treating internal organs and deeper areas of the body.)

- * Research conducted by the U.S. Navy found that color light units combining frequencies in the IR and Red range reduced by 50% the time required for wounds to heal.
- * Research conducted by NASA showed that near-infrared light helped to heal lesions and prevent pain, with applications both for cancer patients and for anyone exposed to toxic chemicals or radiation. A summary of the research was published in the important article "Effect of NASA Light-Emitting Diode Irradiation on Wound Healing" by Dr. Harry T. Whelan M.D. and 17 other research associates (scientists, M.D.'s, and Dentists) published in the Journal of Clinical Laser Medicine and Surgery Vol. 19, No. 26, 2001. Here is a quote from that research report:

...The dramatic results with near-infrared NASA LED light to prevent digestive mucosal lesions (mucositis) and pain in cancer patients, after high-dose chemotherapy and radiation, suggest the *potential for military use of near-infrared light to treat U.S. troops exposed to chemicals and radioactive warfare agents in the field. These life-saving applications require especially accelerated wound healing, rapid reduction of infections, and pain modulation."

- * Research conducted at the University of Chicago in the 1970's demonstrated that the frequency of the cell membrane averages between 600 - 720 nm; this is in the range of visible Red light, indicating that Red light in this range can resonate the Cell Membrane for potential healing effects.

Research popularized by Peter Mandel in his Colorpuncture system has shown that Infra-Red light of 950 nanometers may resonate the cell nucleus. 950 nm Infra-Red light has been shown to be effective for pain relief, as was discussed in detail in Peter Mandel's 1994 text "Handbuch der Schmerztherapie mit spezifischen Infrarot-Frequenzen".

This means that Red and Infra-Red together have the ability to resonate both the Cell Membrane and the Cell Nucleus for healing applications, a finding of tremendous importance.

- * The research showing that Infra-Red light of 950 nm has powerful pain relieving potential was also supported by the 2013 article in the European Journal of Pain: "Light-Emitting Diode therapy induces analgesia and decreases spinal cord and sciatic nerve tumour necrosis factor-alpha levels after sciatic nerve crush in mice."

Sciatic Nerve Crush (SNC) is one of the most painful nerve damages possible in the body of a human being or other mammal. In this article, the researchers discussed their testing a 950 nm Light-Emitting Diode Therapy (LEDT) device on mice which had their Sciatic Nerves crushed; the IR light was simply applied once every day for 15 days on the skin directly over the crush site.

The researchers noted the tremendous success of the IR therapy, saying that their study provided “first-hand evidence of LEDT effectiveness against neuropathic pain induced by SNC, with corresponding decrease of pro-inflammatory cytokine levels, both in the sciatic nerve and in the spinal cord...”

* In our earlier section on the Power of the Ultra-Violet band, we discussed scientific research which demonstrated that UV light of 370 nm was effective for cellular DNA repair (even with up to 99% damage to the cell, and in the presence of Carcinogens!)

* For Vibrational Radiesthesia, we can explore the above findings through the application of:

a) the Infra-Red Band for Acute Pain Relief and accelerated wound healing, with resonation of the Cell Nucleus;

b) the Red Vibrational Band for accelerated wound healing, with resonation of the Cell Membrane;

c) the Ultra-Violet Vibrational Band for Chronic Pain Relief and Cellular DNA Repair even in cases of extreme damage and with the presence of carcinogens.

* We can also explore the sub-bands around these bands, in order to find the optimal sub-band for a particular healing application; this will be discussed in the third and final class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

[END THIS SECTION BY TESTING THE INFRA-RED VIBRATION SAMPLE, WITH THE HORIZONTAL PENDULUM SET TO INFRA-RED.]

VII. RESONANCE TESTING: 2 MAJOR WAYS TO ATTUNE THE PENDULUM TO THE DESIRED VIBRATION

So far in the Vibrational Testing & Healing series we have discussed extensively the methods to test for Personal Wavelength and for the 12 Horizontal Wave Bands, along with indicating a few other testing methods and concepts.

At this stage it will be useful to summarize the 2 key ways through which the Pendulum can be attuned to detect a specific vibration through resonance. This will help clarify topics which will be introduced later in this course, and which will be presented in the third and final course in the series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

In the Personal Wavelength course, you learned to test for the effect of any vibrational source on an energy system -- and how to detect out of balance areas within any sub-system of a larger system, such as an organ in a human body -- through the method of adjusting the string length on a neutral pendulum to “tune into” and resonate with the overall vibrational field of a particular Being / energy system.

In this Vibrational Spectrum course, you have learned so far how to test for which of the 12 Horizontal Wave vibrational bands are present in any source. This has been done using the Horizontal Wave pendulum, which has a Dial mounted horizontally on the pendulum that can be turned to any of the 12 vibrational bands.

A. THE PRINCIPLE OF RESONANCE

The basic principle behind vibrational testing with pendulums is that when the pendulum has a specific vibrational quality linked to it, the pendulum will then resonate with the vibrational field of any item (any person, place, or thing) which you test with it, if that item has in its energy field the same precise vibrational quality as the pendulum is tuned to.

This resonance between the tuning of the pendulum and the vibration in the item’s energy field creates an energy exchange. This is the same phenomenon as when a vibrating (activated) tuning fork of a specific frequency is brought next to a non-vibrating tuning fork of the same frequency; the non-vibrating tuning fork then starts vibrating as well (this is known as “sympathetic resonance”), because of the resonant exchange of energy between the two forks of the same frequency.

When the item being tested has the same vibrational quality as the pendulum, this then creates the resonant exchange of energy; the effect of this resonance is to create a “Pull” on the pendulum, causing it to rotate in either a clockwise or counter-clockwise direction. The primary determinant of whether the basic resonant response “Pull” is in a clockwise or counterclockwise direction is the length of the string of the pendulum, which has a type of energetic sine wave over its length, with points on the string length which are in the negative or positive parts of the sine wave cycle. At certain string lengths the pendulum will tend to rotate clockwise when it goes into resonance with the energy field it is testing, whereas at other string lengths the pendulum will rotate counterclockwise when it goes into resonance. This concept was introduced and discussed in the Personal Wavelength course.

The vibration which the pendulum is tuned to -- and thus can detect through resonance -- can be established for the pendulum through two primary approaches.

B. THE SAMPLE LINKING METHOD

The first approach is to use a “neutral” pendulum -- ie, a pendulum without a strong vibrational quality of its own, such as a simple sphere -- and link it physically or energetically to a sample of the vibration we want it to detect. This concept was introduced earlier in the Personal Wavelength course.

Remember that a neutral pendulum is a pendulum without specific vibrational qualities of its own, so that it is “neutral” and can be used to test any energy quality linked to the pendulum, without adding in its own vibrations to the testing mix. So when we energetically connect a vibrational sample to a neutral pendulum, the neutral pendulum is then tuned to -- and can test -- the same vibration as in the sample.

In the Personal Wavelength class you learned the method of adjusting the string length of the pendulum so that you “tune” into the specific vibrational quality you are looking for. This is similar to the principle of an antenna of a specific length tuning into a particular signal or wavelength, although in the case of the Pendulum the technique is based more on energy quality than it is on physical quantitative measurement.

The Personal Wavelength method tunes into the specific vibrational quality of any person, place, or thing through the tuning of the string length on the neutral pendulum; in other words, the tuned string length acts as the vibrational sample in this case.

Another Sample Linking technique is physically attach a sample of the desired vibration to the pendulum. One way to do this is to put a physical sample of the desired vibration physically into a hollowed out pendulum, known as a “Witness Pendulum.” This method was popularized by the Swiss priest Abbe Mermet, whose work was well known in French Vibrational Radiesthesia.

A very important Sample Linking technique, introduced also in the Personal Wavelength course, is to energetically connect (rather than physically attach) the vibrational sample to the neutral pendulum. This is usually done by holding the vibrational sample in the empty hand (the hand which is not holding the pendulum), and then connecting the vibration of the sample in one hand with the neutral pendulum held in the other hand. This connection is made by focusing your selective awareness on both the vibration of the sample in one hand, and on the neutral pendulum in the other hand, at the same time.

This type of energetic connection usually also creates an actual vibrational connection through your own body's energy system, with an energetic link flowing through the arms and chest area to connect to both the sample and the pendulum. This energy flow through your body, connecting sample and pendulum together in an energy circuit, is assisted by the energy meridian clearing exercise and other practices described in Chapter II of Part 2 of this course ("Preparation for Testing".)

This sample holding / energetic linking method does not require any particular string length of the pendulum; it will work at any string length, because the vibration the pendulum detects comes directly from the sample which you have energetically linked to it, rather than from the tuning of the string length.

However not having a specific string length selected may result in the "Pull" on the pendulum swinging the pendulum either clockwise or counter-clockwise, when the pendulum detects the selected vibration in an item.

You can strengthen the connection of the sample to the pendulum by optionally holding the Pendulum directly over the sample in Search Position (ie, a straight back and forth movement) and tuning the string to the exact length which gives you the maximum clockwise spin over the sample.

Although this tuning of the string length is not required to use the sample holding method, it does have the advantages of

- a) further tuning in the pendulum to the desired vibration, as well as
- b) determining the pendulum's direction of spin when it resonates with the selected vibration from a tested item. We recommend tuning the string length to get a Clockwise spin when the pendulum detects the selected vibration.

The method of holding the sample in one hand and connecting it energetically to the neutral pendulum held in the other hand, can be further adapted by using the sample hand (or just a finger, or the palm, of the sample hand) to touch (rather than hold) the sample. This is often done by touching the sample with the tip of the index finger of the opposite hand, and connecting the vibration which the index finger is touching to the neutral pendulum held in the other hand.

Note: it is also possible to hold the sample in the same hand as is holding the pendulum, but it is usually easier to hold the sample in the opposite hand. However for persons with only one hand, or with difficulties using the opposite hand, this method of holding the sample in the same hand as the pendulum can certainly be used.

C. THE INTRINSIC VIBRATION METHOD

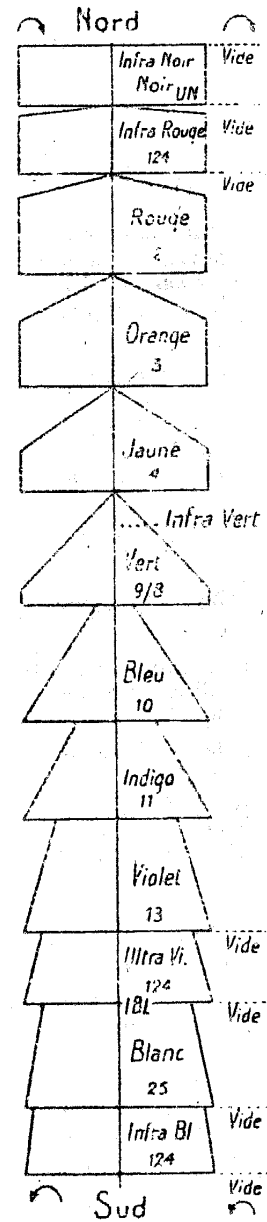

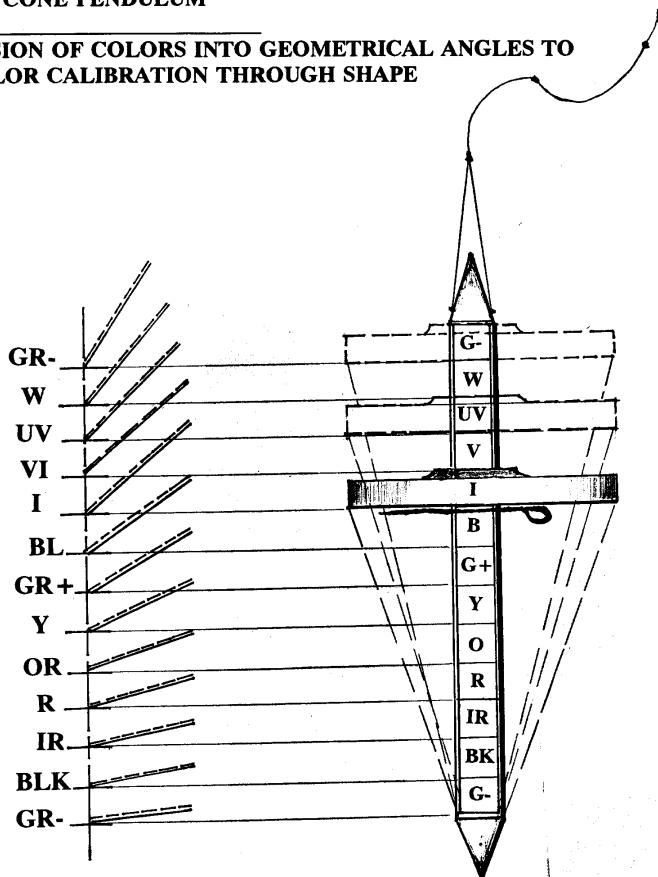

The second major approach to establishing the vibration the Pendulum will detect, is for the pendulum to intrinsically have within it (as part of its structure or design) the vibration you will be testing for; this is the opposite of the "neutral pendulum" used in the sample linking method, as in this case the pendulum is not neutral at all but rather holds a specific vibration within its own structure. Primarily this vibration can be established either by the design of the pendulum, or by the material the pendulum is constructed of.

Design can be used to integrate the desired vibration into the pendulum through particular qualities built into the pendulum. These can include:

* ANGLE - This was the method used by Turenne in his development of the early pendulums to detect the different bands of the Vibrational Spectrum, and used by Chaumery and de Belizal in the design of their "Virtual Cone" Pendulum; both of these designs were discussed in Part 1 of this class. Dr. Karim's Horizontal and Vertical Wave Pendulums also include the principle of Angle in their design, which is applied through the setting of the Dial face to a particular band at a set angle.

VIRTUAL CONE PENDULUM

CONVERSION OF COLORS INTO GEOMETRICAL ANGLES TO GIVE COLOR CALIBRATION THROUGH SHAPE

* SHAPE - Specific shapes can generate their own particular vibrations. Shapes can also be used to establish the direction of energy emanation through a pendulum, such as de Belizal's use of the base of the Hemisphere to emanate a Negative Green Ray in a particular direction (creating the primary axis of energy running through the pendulum.)

* NUMBER -

This method was used for example by Dr.

Karim in the design of his BG16 pendulum, which uses 16 disks in a series to establish a specific vibration that resonates with the Centering Vibration (referred in BioGeometry® by the trademarked term "BG3®".)

* COLOR - A physical color or colors can be applied to the body of the Pendulum to select (or avoid) certain vibrations. This method was used by various French Radiesthesiasts.

* MATERIAL - The material the pendulum is constructed of can also be selected for its intrinsic vibrational quality. A common example of this is pendulums made of different types of gemstones. Every stone has its own specific Vibrational Bands within it which determine its unique powers, as we will explore later in this series. This is why we do not use any pendulums made of specific types of gemstones as a neutral pendulum, since they do carry their own inherent vibrations.

One could also use a pendulum made of the same material (or a material with the same vibrational quality) that one is looking for. Gemstone or precious metal pendulums could be used to search for the same type of gemstone or metal as the pendulum is made of; they will rotate over items or areas where these elements are present.

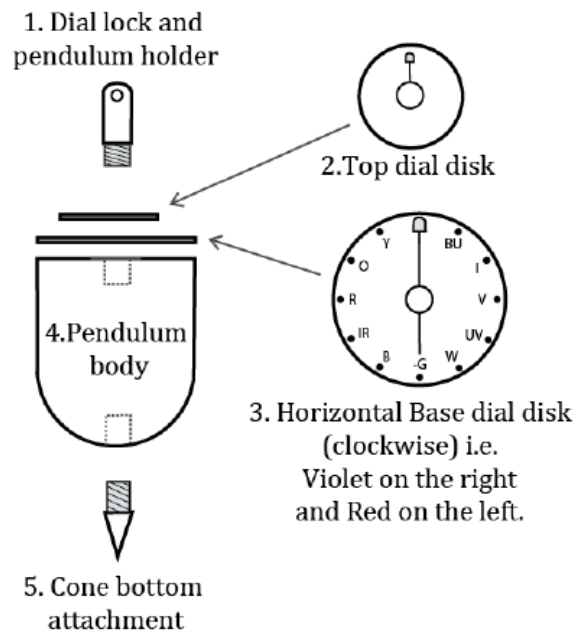

In a sense, the Horizontal and Vertical Wave Pendulums from Dr. Karim which we are using in this course are a blend of the Sample Linking and the Intrinsic Vibration approaches.

These pendulums are connected to the Sample Linking method, because the Angle (which determines the specific Vibration the pendulum detects) is based on the removable Dials being attached to the outer body of the pendulum (not an angle built permanently into the pendulum itself, as was the case with Turenne's early band pendulums, each of which had a specifically angled pendulum body.) So the H & V Pendulums derive their selection of the specific Band to be tested through Sample Linking: by the attaching to the outer body of the Pendulum a removable Dial which can be set to the desired Band, and thus acts as the Vibrational Sample.

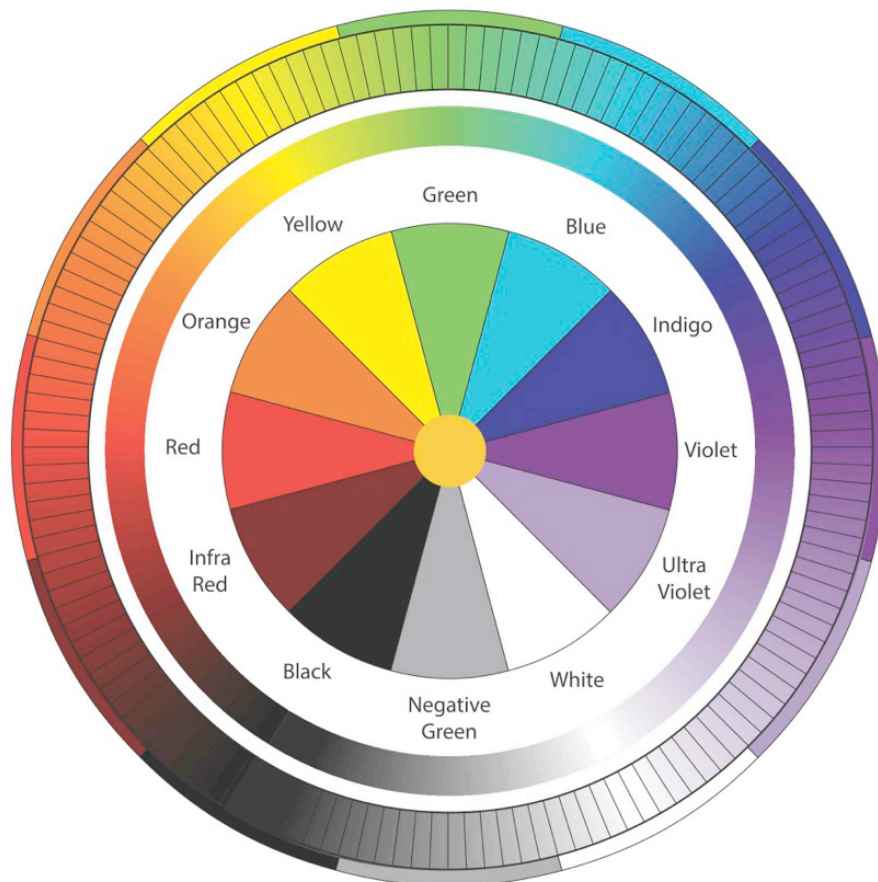

The Horizontal and Vertical Wave Pendulums are also connected to the Intrinsic Vibration method, because the Pendulums have built into their shape either Vertical or Horizontal Planes where the vibrational selection dials are then mounted; thus the H & V Pendulums derive their detection of either Horizontal or Vertical Waves by the intrinsic shape of the Pendulums, which determines the orientation at which the Dials will then attach externally to the Pendulum.

We will see both the Sample Linking and the Intrinsic Vibration approaches being used later in different methods to detect the Centering Vibration.

The Horizontal Dial Pendulum

VIII. THE CENTERING VIBRATION: BACKGROUND

As we have seen, the French Radiesthesiasts discovered the 12-Band Vibrational Spectrum in the 1930's. The complete spectrum of 12 Vibrational Bands forms naturally around the perimeter of any shape, the most archetypal form being the Sphere or Circle. This is connected to the classical Sacred Geometry concept of the "12 around the 1" discussed earlier, with the 12 forming the periphery around the 1 in the center.

Whereas the French researchers in the 1930's identified the Vibrational Spectrum of polarized energies (the 12 bands). Dr. Ibrahim Karim of Cairo Egypt began to expand the French research in the 1970's; this led to the development of his BioGeometry® system and his discovery of methods to test and apply the specific energy quality held in the center of the circle.

After 15 years of working with the French Radiesthesia and with Dr. Karim's BioGeometry, I have come to see that this Vibrational work is a deep Initiation process, through which we come to directly experience -- and fully understand -- the following:

The Center is the gateway to the Divine, the unified source of all creation.
This power manifests as the Centering Vibration.

The Vibrational Spectrum at the Periphery are the powers which manifest the created world in all of its specific polarized energies and qualities: they are the key to manifestation and specialized powers.
These powers appear as the 12 Bands, in both Horizontal and Vertical Waves.

The more you remain fully aware of the deep spiritual essence of these energies when you test and apply them, the more profound will be the transformation of your energy and consciousness through these practices.

A. SPIRITUAL TRADITIONS AND THE ENERGY OF THE CENTER

Spiritual traditions all over the world have understood the connection of the Center to the Divine Source of Creation.

Many ancient and modern traditions speak of the Center as a key to human spiritual development.

This is often termed as the process of Centering, and the need for consciously becoming Centered, in order to connect to the Divine Source within.

The Center has also been understood in terms of the potential energy within it. In modern energy research circles, the power of the Center is sometimes referred to as "Zero-Point" energy.

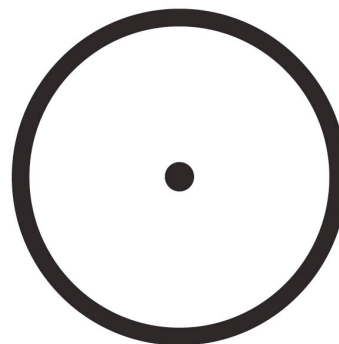

In the Indian Vedic tradition, the pair of Shiva and Shakhti are connected respectively to the Divine Source and the Power of Manifest Creation. Shiva is ultimate Consciousness, the Source, the immovable Center. His consort Shakhti is universal Energy, the manifesting power (matrix) bringing all things into the worlds of Creation. This is symbolized in the Shiva Lingam holding the immovable Center, with the Circular Periphery of Shakhti around it. In the Indian form shown to the left, the Shiva Lingam is the Center while the Shakhti is the area of the circular boundary around it, and then the energy is channeled into a specific direction by the linear projection from the Center and Circle.

The archetypal Sacred Geometry representation of the Spiritual nature of the Center and Periphery has been the Point in the Center of the Circle.

In the Freemasonic and Rosicrucian traditions, the Point in the Center of the Circle represented the Godhead, the Source of all Creation.

In Ancient Egypt, the Point in the Center of the Circle was the representation of the Neter (Being) of the Sun, Ra; similarly it is the form used in Western Astrology to represent the Sun, the Center of the Solar System.

In the esoteric traditions of the world, the condensation into matter of the vibration of the Sun is understood to create physical Gold; not surprisingly then, the Point in the Circle is the symbol used in Alchemy to represent Gold.

In Eastern and Western Alchemical systems, Gold is seen as the highest evolutionary state of metals (as in the concept of transmuting Lead into Gold) and is also connected to the alchemical transformation of the human being to a higher state.

One of the discoveries of Dr. Karim was that the Center has a unified (non-polarized) energy quality, however it contains multiple energetic components. Dr. Karim describes this energy quality of the Center through the trademarked term BG3®, which refers to three energetic components he discovered in the energy of the Center (which is nonetheless a unified energy which Dr. Karim also refers to as “the One energy quality”); this concept was described at the end of Part 1 of this course, and is taught in detail in BioGeometry trainings.

A key component of the Center is referred to in BioGeometry as the “Higher Harmonic of Gold”, which is the same energy which appears in classical traditions as the Golden aura around the head or entire body of Spiritual Beings and advanced Human Initiates.

When a person connects to the Divine Source, i.e. to the Center within, an external sign of the resulting vibrational shift is the appearance in their energy field of this Golden energy.

In advanced Initiation practices of some Eastern traditions, reference is made to the alchemical creation of the “Golden Body”, which is linked to methods which create and stabilize the Golden vibration (Chi, Prana) within the human body and the human energy field.

The Gold Vibration (“Gold Prana”) is used in the Pranic Healing system to repair tears in sensitive areas of the subtle bodies (such as the delicate etheric web at the root of the chakras.)

In some Chinese Taoist traditions, Gold is described as conducting Light. Gold is understood to support and tonify the emotions, mind, and spirit, referred to as the “Shen”.

These classical understandings of the Center, and of the related alchemical Gold energy, are important touchstones for our testing and practical application of the Centering Vibration.

B. POLARITY BALANCING WITH THE 12 BANDS VS. CENTERING WITH THE CENTERING VIBRATION

To understand the difference between the 12 bands and the Centering Vibration, we can begin with the fact that the 12 bands of the Vibrational Spectrum are polarized energies, which are the key to manifesting all things into the worlds of Creation.

Everything in our physical world is based on polarity, on Yin and Yang complementary pairs: positive and negative poles in electricity and magnetism, gender polarities of male and female in biological life, etc.

Each of the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum has a polarized nature. For example, de Belizal described how Positive Green is the opposite polarity (and antidote) to Negative Green; furthermore, Negative Green is linked to radiation (the most powerful transmissions of energy), whereas Positive Green can disintegrate toxic radiations.

Enel explicitly divided the 12 Bands into polarity categories of positive and negative, as well as acid and alkaline, described earlier in this course in the section on his work.

This polarized nature means that a particular Band tends to push energy one direction vs. another; for example, towards more cooling / yin with the Blue band, vs. towards more warming / yang with the Red band, etc. The 12 different Bands manifest things into physical reality with specific qualities of one type or another. They create specialized healing effects, sometimes by antidoting an excess of one kind or another (too hot or too cold, too solid or too loose, etc.) by applying the opposite quality, in order to bring the system back to the balance point. However the specific amount applied of the needed Band can be important, so that the balance / equilibrium point between polarities is found and not exceeded by going too far into the direction of that Band.

Earlier in this course we detailed the specific functions of each of the 12 Bands and clarified their exact powers. Each one has a unique personality and quality which is different from all the other Bands, but which can work in concert with other Bands for alchemical energy interactions. We can test any item for its exact “vibrational signature”, -- the unique combination of different Bands which identifies it, plus the varying intensities of each Band which is present.

This is the vibrational analogue of Spectrum Analysis in physical science.

The Centering Vibration (CV) is our link to the unified source of all creation, to the ONE which is beyond all duality. This has the energetic effect of connecting things directly to the Center, to the balance point; in other words it activates the Center directly to create balance, rather than pushing energy into one polarity direction or another, as is the case with the 12 Bands.

The Centering Vibration is the universal donor of energy: the unified, non-polarized energy of the Center itself.

There are two very important points to keep in mind regarding practical applications of the Centering Vibration:

- 1. There is some Centering Vibration in virtually everything, however in many cases it may not be strong enough to have much practical energetic effect.
- 2. In the energetic field of everything in manifest creation, particularly in the physical world, the Centering Vibration always appears in particular Alchemical combinations with specific Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum.

C. SOURCES OF THE CENTERING VIBRATION

THE CENTER OF FORMS CONTAINS THE CENTERING VIBRATION

The Centering Vibration exists in the literal center of every manifestation into physical space: thus it appears in the center of every object, design, form.

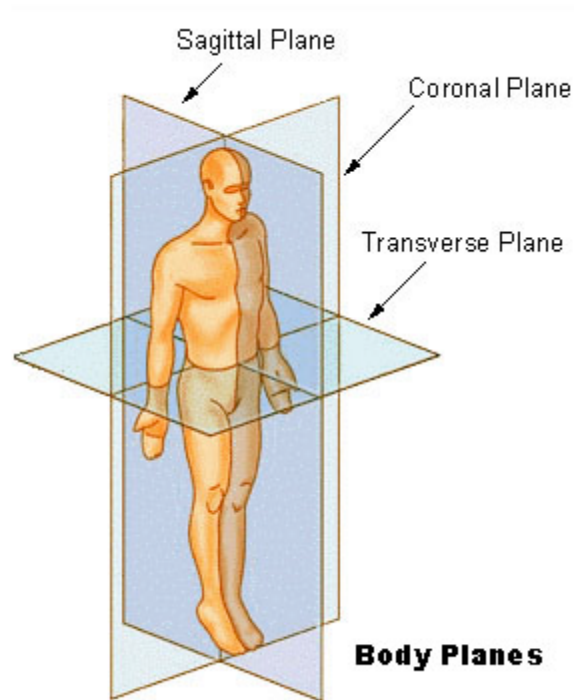

This is true whether the form is naturally occurring (living beings, all natural objects) or is man-made (human designs or constructed objects, buildings, etc.)

For many modern people, it requires a significant shift in consciousness to understand -- and directly perceive -- that the Centering Vibration is a transcendental, living power which dynamically interacts with our activities. For example, when you create an object a concentration of the Centering Vibration appears in its center at the moment the new form manifests.

This is true both in 2-D and in 3-D. For example: if I test a piece of regular 8.5" X 11" paper, I find a small amount of Centering Vibration in the very center of the paper only; the intensity of this Centering Vibration decreases rapidly once I move away from the exact center of the paper in my testing. However if I draw a circle (or any shape) on another part of the paper, away from the center, I will then find the Centering Vibration in the center of the shape I drew -- even though there was no Centering Vibration in that area before I created the shape.

In other words, the Centering Vibration dynamically appeared in that area of the paper when the shape manifested into physical space.

This dynamic activity of the Centering Vibration is even true with transient movements, not just in static forms. Any rotational movement you make with your body, such as making a circle in the air with your hand, manifests the Centering Vibration in the center of that shape you created, at the moment you created it; however because it is a transient movement and not set in place like a physical object or design, the Centering Vibration only appears for the moment the movement occurs, then disappears when the movement is no longer being made (ie, it only appears when the shape is present and disappears when the shape is absent.)

ENERGY CENTERS IN LIVING BEINGS

Living Bodies have multiple “Centers” which manifest the Centering Vibration.

The Central Axis of the human energy body runs from the top of the head (Crown Center) straight down the midline of the body to the Perineum at the base of the Abdomen; it is where the Sagittal Plane and Coronal Plane intersect in the illustration to the left.

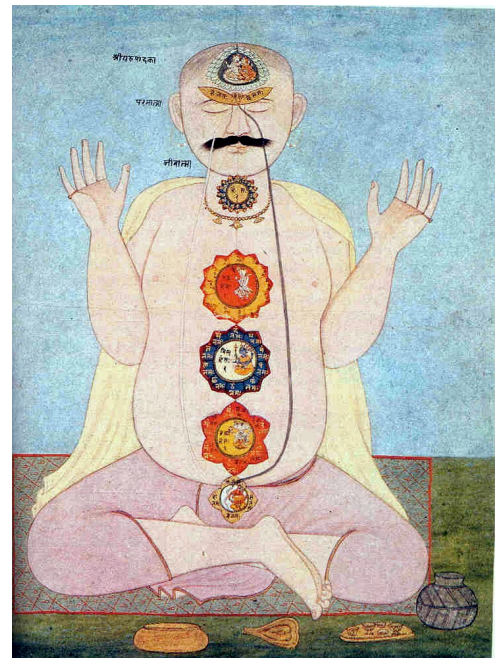

This Central Axis has strong Centering Vibration, and is used in advanced (and often secret) practices by spiritual traditions around the world.

This Central Axis is described and explored with practical exercises in many of the Vesica Institute Spiritual Science trainings. The centermost aspect of this Central Axis is the “Golden Thread.”

[Note: the Central Axis is vertically oriented when the person is standing upright, however this does NOT mean that is necessarily a source of detrimental vertical waves. Vertically oriented objects may have Horizontal Waves emitted from them, and Horizontally oriented objects may have Vertical Waves emitted; it requires direct testing to know for sure.]

In addition to the primary, vertically oriented central axis of the body, there are numerous other energy centers both large and small in the human energy body (and in all other living beings).

The “Chakras” of the Indian tradition are large energy centers, which for many of the Chakras are horizontally oriented in the human energy body (when a person is standing upright).

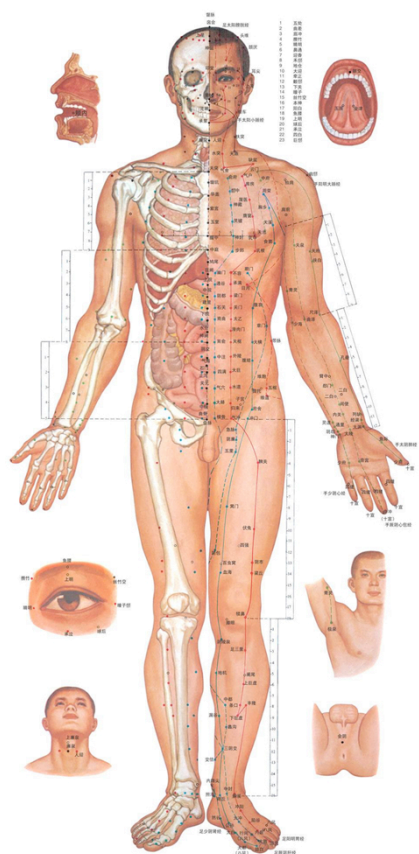

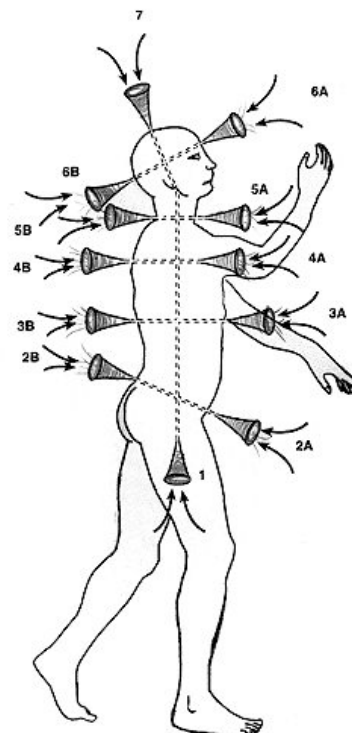

These large energy centers are in many cases connected in front and back pairs (or a top to bottom pair in the case of Crown and Perineum).

The front and back Chakras are vortex movements bringing energy in and out of the human physical and subtle bodies.

Chakra means “wheel” and “circle” in Sanskrit, indicating the Chakra is a spinning circular energy movement.

(In the Vesica Sacred Geometry training, we explore how the Spiral and Vortex are nature’s key forms for moving energy and consciousness from one place to another.)

The Chakra / Vortex has a center with very strong Centering Vibration, as does the energy channel connecting the front and back Chakras; in other words, the entire complex of front and back Chakras and their connecting channel has strong Centering Vibration, especially in the center of the Chakras / Channel.

There are also vibrations from the 12 bands present in each Chakra in addition to the Centering Vibration.

Every Chakra has Centering Vibration, whereas each separate Chakra has a different “Vibrational Signature” of 12 band energies, based on that Chakra’s unique power and function.

The Acupuncture Points of Chinese Medicine and many of the “Marma Points” of Indian Ayurveda are smaller energy centers, all of which also have the Centering Vibration (but in lesser intensity.)

Also other structures in the physical body are themselves forms, which will have Centering Vibration in their centers (and often in other aspects of their structure as well.) This includes organs, glands, cells, bones, joints, etc.

Beyond the structures in the physical body, the vital energy which moves through (and animates) these physiological structures also has the Centering Vibration (and particularly strong aspects of Negative Green, the carrier wave).

The Centering Vibration in these vital energy currents is related to Dr. Karim's identification of BioSignatures®, which are linear energy flow patterns in the human body and energy field which have the BG3® as well as specific bands of the vibrational spectrum. As we discussed before with Chakras, every true BioSignature has the BG3, however the specific bands of the vibrational spectrum in each BioSignature varies based on its energetic function.

ENERGY CENTERS IN THE EARTH

Just as there are energy “centers” with strong Centering Vibration in living beings on the Earth, so the Earth itself is a living being with energy centers. The larger energy centers on the Earth are known to the local spiritual traditions which care for them as “Sacred Sites”, “Power Spots”, etc.

The largest Sacred Sites on the Earth are those with the greatest concentrations of the Centering Vibration, which is the energetic definition of a true Earth “Power Spot.” Just as with the Chakras and Acupuncture Points of the Human Body, the Earth too has major and minor Energy Centers / Power Spots.

The British concept of “Ley Lines” is based on the physical lines in the Earth of energetic connection which run from one Power Spot to another; both the Power Spots, and their lines of connection, have the Centering Vibration (this is similar to how the front and back Chakras, and their lines of connection between them, all have the Centering Vibration.)

CONNECTING TO THE CENTERING VIBRATION THROUGH CONSCIOUSNESS

The great superpower slumbering within every human being is our selective awareness. We can focus our awareness on anything, and thereby go into resonance; exchanging energy and information with it. This is why it is so important for us to learn to focus and direct our consciousness, and to make sure we are empowering rather than destroying ourselves (and potentially others around us) through what we focus our attention and energy on.

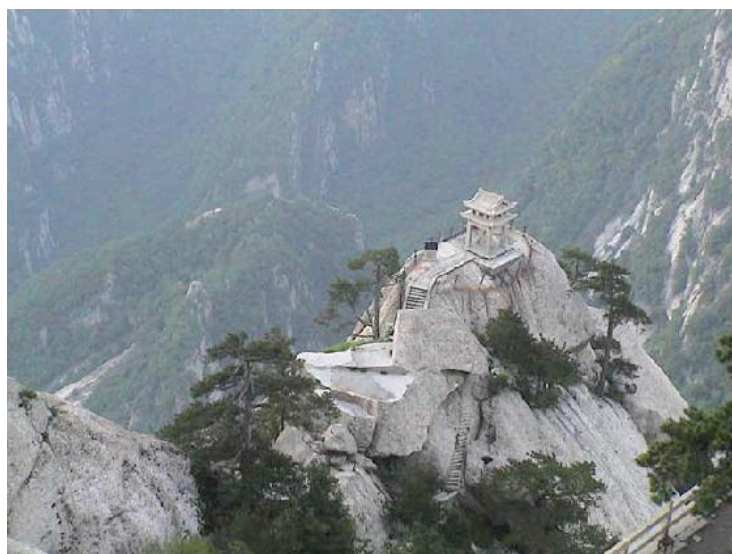

Proper use of our Consciousness will literally “Center” us.

When we internally generate highly beneficial thoughts and emotions, we thereby bring high levels of the Centering Vibration into our energy field.

This includes actively generating Blessings and Prayers: when these are real and authentic, they create resonance with the Divine, which brings the Gold vibration from high Spiritual Planes into our body and energy field.

By focusing our awareness on things with strong concentrations of the Centering Vibration, we bring the CV into our energy system. This can be something as simple as connecting our awareness to the Center of a Circle or other form; this was part of the hidden Spiritual Initiation practices in what we today refer to as “Sacred Geometry”.

In Western Geomancy, Chinese Feng Shui, Indian Vastu Vidya and other systems of working with the vibrations of land areas, focusing awareness on a major Earth Power Spot can bring strong intensities of Centering Vibration into our energy system. Sacred Builders Guilds of classical traditions learned to create designs on these areas, using materials with the correct Vibrations, to further activate and direct the strong Centering Vibrations in these Power Spots.

In Esoteric Traditions, students are trained to focus their awareness on the energy centers in their own bodies which contain high levels of Centering Vibration: Chakras, the Central Axis, etc. Each Energy Center contains a unique power all its own (which can be analyzed through testing it with the 12 bands of the vibrational spectrum) in addition to having the Centering Vibration. For example, the Indian tradition has many references to the different powers of various Chakras, whereas the Chinese tradition has charted the exact powers and effects of each individual Acupuncture Point.

CENTERING VIBRATION IN MATERIALS

There is some Centering Vibration in all things, at least in their physical center; however in many cases the amount of it in the item's energy field can be weak and not very effective for practical application of the CV.

The Centering Vibration is stronger in some materials and source than in others. Without a clear concept of the Centering Vibration, some traditions indicated the centering effect through various terms. For example regarding healing plants, the best plants might be referred to by names such as “Master Tonic herbs” or “Double Directional herbs” (indicating that it doesn’t just act in one polarity, but can balance regardless of which polarity is out of balance in a system - i.e., connecting to the center rather than just activating polarities).

In modern times, the term “Adaptogen” has been applied to herbs which don’t simply act in one direction, but rather help living organisms to adapt to any type of stress; when these Adaptogens are vibrationally tested, many have unusually high natural concentrations of the Centering Vibration.

Just as there are a small percentage of plants with unusually high levels of the Centering Vibration (in addition to their unique energy signature of specific bands in the Vibrational Spectrum), so the same is true of stones; a small number of stones have unusually high levels of the CV. The Vesica Institute research refers to these minerals and crystals with unusually high levels of the CV as “adaptogenic” stones. This topic is introduced in the article on our website entitled New Research into Crystal "Adaptogens" and is continued in more detail in our Live and Online trainings on Crystals and Gemstones.

Two main sources of strong CV in natural materials are:

- 1) The natural energetic structure of the material, i.e. the intrinsic nature of the material itself (which, seen spiritually, is the crystallization of a divine vibration into physical form).
- 2) The effect of growing (whether as a stone, plant, animal, or human) in an area with high intensity of the Centering Vibration, i.e. growing in a Power Spot. Some mineral or plant types which do not normally have strong Centering Vibration, may have strong CV if they grew in Power Spots, which incorporates the CV into their core structure during the growth process.

CENTERING VIBRATION IN DESIGN

Specific applications of Shape, Color, Number, Angle, Proportion, etc. in design work can create strong concentrations of the Centering Vibration.

The best training in this type of energetic design is the breakthrough work of Dr. Ibrahim Karim, offered in the BioGeometry® live trainings.

ALCHEMICAL INTERACTIONS TO CREATE STRONG CENTERING VIBRATION

Single elements of material, design etc. may not have strong Centering Vibration, however if combined properly they can create an Alchemical reaction between elements which does create strong CV (as well as potentially creating other alterations in the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum which manifest from the combined elements, or even other changes, for example changing the level of the Spiritual Planes that certain energies emanate from.)

Classical traditions, such as the Taoists of China, preferred using complex formulas of herbs or stones for healing rather than single elements in isolation, partly for this reason of the alchemical interactions between the combined elements.

These alchemical combinations can be between multiple elements of the same type such as a combination of various herbs together, various stones together, or various design elements together. Or they can be combinations of different types of items together, such as combining stones, plants, design elements, consciousness, etc. together in an alchemical formula.

A deep and profound aspect of this Alchemical principle is vibrational interactions between people. When you combine your vibrational field with that of certain people, this alchemical interaction can create:

- * strong Centering Vibration in your energy field,
- * ennoble your consciousness,
- * create the awakening of Love and Compassion,
- * shift your awareness to higher spiritual levels and to aspects of your own divine potential.

However the reverse is of course also true. By combining your vibrational field with certain other people you may:

- * greatly diminish the CV in your energy field,
- * darken and lower your consciousness, and
- * pull yourself away from your divine potential, descending into functioning as a lesser Being.

This is why the the decisions we make regarding who we will associate with -- especially in our most intimate relationships -- are so crucial.

This important subject of alchemical interactions between different elements will be explored in more detail in the third class in this series, Custom Vibrational Healing.

Having summarized some key points regarding the Centering Vibration, we can now learn the specific method to vibrationally detect this profound energy quality.

IX. HOW TO TEST FOR THE CENTERING VIBRATION

You are now going to learn multiple methods for testing -- and thereby resonating with -- the Centering Vibration. For each method, there is a list of items you will need to have ready for that practice, including printing out some test pages that are available as PDF's on the Class Page online.

A. PREPARING YOUR ENERGY AND AWARENESS FOR ACCURATE VIBRATIONAL TESTING

As always, take a few moments to prepare yourself for testing by using the techniques described in the Preparation for Testing section in the manual for this course, and demonstrated in the accompanying streaming video.

The more thorough your practice is of these preparatory exercises, the more easily you will be able to accurately detect the Centering Vibration in the upcoming practices.

Remember that if you find yourself having difficulty detecting the energies in these next practices, you can always go back to these preparatory exercises to clear yourself and thereby significantly improve your results.

At a bare minimum, you may choose to use the Simple Clearing Methods described earlier, such as those using Essential Oil spray and/or energy clearing stones.

If you are having problems with keeping your attention focused, remember to use the Clearing the Mind preparatory practice.

B. COLLECT THE ITEMS NEEDED FOR THESE PRACTICES

1. A Neutral Pendulum, such as the basic Neutral Pendulum used in the Personal Wavelength course which is a simple plastic sphere.

If you do not have a Neutral Pendulum, you can as an alternative take the Dial off of the top of your Horizontal Wave Pendulum and use that as a Neutral Pendulum (make sure you do not lose the larger and smaller dial and the screw which holds them in place! Put them in a ziplock baggie so you do not lose them - we do not have parts replacements available.) However please be aware it is much better to use a dedicated Neutral Pendulum for this practice (it should be part of the basic equipment of any Vibrational Radiesthesiast in any case) than it is to modify other types of Pendulums.

2. The BG-16 Pendulum, the metal pendulum with 16 stacked disks. This is the main tool used in the BioGeometry® system to test for the “BG3”®, the proprietary name for the energy of the Center in that system.

With this you will also need the BioGeometry Carpet Pattern, shown in Appendix 1-1 of the BioGeometry Horizontal and Vertical Pendulum Set instruction guide by Dr. Karim. This is the pattern made up of multiple BioGeometry “L” patterns, which have two lines at right angles to each other (like the letter ‘L’) but the corner of the L is a semi-circular arc rather than a right angle corner.

3. A Piece of Gold, if you have one. This is something which is primarily Gold, such as a Gold Ring, Gold Coin, Gold Chain, or Gold Flakes. If jewelry, 14K Gold or better is fine. If you don’t have any of these, then you will skip the Gold practices.

4. Printed Test Sheets, which are available as PDF’s on the Class Page online. Print these out rather than try to test them on a computer screen, so that you do not have interfering energies coming from the computer monitor.

- a) Two copies of the Picture of the Circle with an open Center.

- b) The Picture of the Earth Power Spots which is also available as a PDF on the Class Page Online.

- c) The Picture of Sri Yukteswar.

5. The Indigo Gabbro (“Mystic Merlinite”) stone listed as an optional item for this class. If you don’t have the stone, then skip the part of the practice using this.

6. The Obsidian stone strand listed as an optional item for this class. If you do not have this item, then skip the part of the practice using this.

7. A Pointer to point to precise locations within an item being tested. The best pointer is a wooden one with a fine tip, as was used by the French Radiesthesiasts. An easy way to get this is to use a wooden skewer, such as is sold for putting food items on. If you do not have one of these you can use a similar item, such as a pencil -- but be careful not get any marks on the item you are pointing towards.

C. TESTING THE PRIME PHENOMENON: CONNECTING TO THE CENTER OF THE CIRCLE

The most fundamental aspect of the Centering Vibration is -- as the name suggests -- its appearance in the Center of forms, the most perfect of which is the Circle (or in 3 Dimensions, the Sphere). The Circle is considered the perfect form in Sacred Geometry, because every point on the periphery is equidistant from the Center.

Our first and most primal method to test the Centering Vibration is therefore to use the Sample Linking method with a Neutral Pendulum described earlier, with the Center of the Circle being the Sample in this case.

Remember that this method is based on holding or touching any witness / sample (i.e. a sample of any vibration) with the hand not holding the pendulum, and connecting it energetically to the Neutral Pendulum held in the opposite hand. The Pendulum will “Pull” (rotate) whenever it tests something which has the same vibration as is present in the Sample being held or touched by the opposite hand.

PRACTICE C1: Creating Resonance with the Center of the Circle

This first practice connects your energy system to the Centering Vibration, with the most fundamental testing method.

We are using here the principle of “Test things of a known Vibrational Quality first, giving yourself time to entrain your energy system to testing that Vibration, before testing things of an unknown Vibrational Quality.”

You will be connecting to the Center of the Circle as your Vibrational Sample to link to the Neutral Pendulum, to then test the most obvious ‘known vibrational quality’ for the Centering Vibration: the Center of another Circle.

This exercise is in its most basic form, to allow your energy system to learn to connect to, and accurately test for, the Centering Vibration.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. 2 Copies of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.

Step 1: Prepare the Circles and the Pendulum.

Set the two printed Circles in front of you; one in front of your hand holding the pendulum, the other in front of the hand without the pendulum. Hold the neutral pendulum string between the thumb and forefinger of the hand holding it. At this stage, it does not matter where you hold the string on the neutral pendulum, just make sure it is at least an inch above the top of the pendulum so it can swing freely.

Step 2: Put the pendulum into Search Position over the Center of the Circle.

Put the neutral pendulum into Search Position (a straight back and forth motion) over the center of one Circle. Since there is nothing to tune the neutral pendulum yet to the Centering Vibration, it will simply continue to move straight back and forth over the center of the Circle.

Step 3: Connect the index Finger to the Center of the Second Circle.

Holding the Clear Mind state where you are not generating thoughts (or thinking in words, or asking any questions - just a pure focused awareness), then touch the center of the other Circle with the index finger of the empty hand. Your attention is on connecting the Center of circle you are touching to the Neutral Pendulum held in the other hand.

By touching the Center of a drawn Circle with a finger of the non-dowsing hand, with your attention also focused on the vibration present where your fingertip is touching, the Centering Vibration becomes the Sample which is connected to the Neutral Pendulum.

With the Centering Vibration connected to the neutral pendulum through your focused awareness, and the pendulum in search position over the Center of the second Circle (where the Centering Vibration is also present), you should then feel a “Pull” on the Neutral Pendulum, pulling it into a rotation.

Step 4: Immerse your Awareness into the Centering Vibration.

In the Clear Mind focused state, keep your attention on the Centering Vibration which the Neutral Pendulum is picking up and rotating with in the Center of the Circle. As you stabilize the connection to the Center of the Circle, you can also close your eyes and keep testing the Center of the Circle as the Neutral Pendulum rotates over it; go more deeply into a meditative state, immersing yourself completely in the Centering Vibration you are testing.

Step 5: Observe your Internal Experiences with the Centering Vibration.

Simply observe (do not try to change or create) the Centering Vibration you are now experiencing. How does it feel to you? Where in the body do you feel an energetic response to it? How does it shift your consciousness; does it change your emotional state? Do particular internal images or sounds arise in your mind?

This process of immersing yourself meditatively in the vibration is extremely important for entraining your energy system to the Centering Vibration. This will develop a new “organ of perception” in your subtle body to in time be able to perceive this important Vibration even without the pendulum, and also to help your entire energy system resonate with this highly beneficial energy quality.

PRACTICE C2: Fine Tuning the Pendulum for Testing the Centering Vibration

This next practice adds an extra fine tuning of the pendulum for testing the Centering Vibration. In the first practice, you connected the neutral pendulum to the Centering Vibration found in the center of a circle touched with a finger of the opposite hand (with no attention to string length of the pendulum), to tune the neutral pendulum to detect the Centering Vibration.

Now you will add to that practice, tuning the string length of the pendulum to the length which gives you the strongest clockwise rotation of the pendulum when testing something with the Centering Vibration.

As described in a previous section regarding this addition to the Sample Linking method, adding in this tuning of the pendulum has two advantages:

1. It determines the reaction of the pendulum, when it goes into resonance with the vibration it is set to detect, as rotating Clockwise rather than Counterclockwise. This is the best default for basic vibrational testing, to have a clockwise pull when detecting the vibration the pendulum is set for.
2. It adds a bit of extra fine tuning to the testing, increasing the intensity slightly of the Resonance response, which is what creates the rotation of the pendulum over the item being tested.

ITEMS NEEDED: THE SAME AS FOR THE PREVIOUS PRACTICE.

1. 2 Copies of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.

Step 1: Go through Steps 1 - 3 from the preceding exercise, Practice C1.

You will then be connected with your index finger to the center of one circle, while the other hand holds the neutral pendulum rotating over the center of the other circle.

Step 2: Tune the String Length on the Neutral Pendulum for the maximum Clockwise rotation over the Center of the Circle.

Move your fingers on the neutral pendulum string, to hold the string right above where it connects to the body of the pendulum.

Because you are still connected to the center of the other circle with the index finger of the other hand (connecting the neutral pendulum to the Centering Vibration as its Sample for testing), the neutral pendulum will still be pulled at every string length to rotate over the center of the circle it is held over. However you are going to look for which string length increases the rotation of the neutral pendulum the most -- i.e., what string length increases the amplitude of the swing (size of the swing) and the rate of rotation (how fast it is rotating) the most.

Start slowly letting the string of the pendulum slide through your index finger and thumb, so that the length of the string from your fingertips is increasing in a very slow and controlled manner. As the length of the string increases, find the string length where the rotation of the pendulum clockwise is the strongest.

You will find that there is a string length where the rotation of the pendulum clockwise over the center of the circle begins to increase. Then go just slightly higher up the string length (i.e., let out just a little more string through your fingertips) and you will find the “sweet spot” where the rotation is the strongest; if you then go further up the string beyond that sweet spot, there will be a decrease in the intensity of the pendulum’s rotation.

When you find that “sweet spot” to hold the string -- the location on the string which gives you the strongest clockwise rotation of the pendulum over the center of the circle -- that is the location where you will hold the pendulum string for the rest of the practices which follow here in part C.

PRACTICE C3: Using Sample Linking to the Center of the Circle, for Testing All Types of Items.

Now that you know how to connect the Center of the Circle as the sample to the neutral pendulum (so the pendulum can then through Resonance be used to test an item for Centering Vibration), and have fine tuned the string length of the pendulum for maximum Clockwise spin when it detects the Centering Vibration from a test item, you can now apply this technique for testing any and all items.

You will no longer need the second circle which in the previous exercises you were testing with the pendulum, because you will now be testing other items. You will only have the first circle, which your open (not holding the pendulum) hand is connecting to as the sample.

This practice will take you through testing the Centering Vibration in Land Areas, Human Beings, and natural objects.

NOTES:

Remember that photographs of items have the embedded vibration of the item itself, and can be tested as well as physical items. Remember that only actual photographs have the embedded vibration of the items shown in them; a drawing made of an item, or just writing the name of an item, does not have the actual vibration of the item, unless that vibration is projected onto the drawing or name by a person.

So although Mental Dowsing uses drawings of locations, or written names of items, for testing (by asking mental questions about them), the Vibrational Testing method stays with the actual empirical vibrations present and does not add in the possibly distorting factor of a person's mental projections onto the drawing or written name.

For this reason in vibrational testing, we use only items with the actual vibration of the thing itself, and do not ask any mental questions or use other mental dowsing methods in our testing. (Mental Dowsing is a powerful and accurate skill when used correctly, however it is a completely different energetic skill than vibrational testing; great care must be taken in mental dowsing to not contaminate the findings with one's own mental projections.)

It is actually easier in the beginning stages of learning vibrational testing to test the vibration coming from actual physical items, rather than the somewhat more subtle vibration of something shown on a photograph. For this reason, we have included in the optional items listed for this course some physical items for testing (these items will also be used in practical methods elsewhere in the course, not only for testing). As mentioned earlier, if you do not have these items then just use the printed photographs and patterns for testing with the exercises given here, and after learning how to test accurately you can then test any items you have access to.

Remember that it whatever your attention goes to which you are testing in all vibrational practices, however testing directly over an item so that you are directly in its vibrational field is always best whenever it is possible to do so.

Also remember that you want to get variable responses in your testing, where some things you test have a strong pull on the pendulum, some things have no pull on the pendulum, and different things which do pull the pendulum (showing in this case the presence of the Centering Vibration) have varying levels of intensity of the rotation of the pendulum and thus show varying intensities of the Centering Vibration.

Only through getting variable responses can you develop subtlety and accuracy in your testing; if everything tests exactly the same, then you know that you are not yet really connecting correctly with the vibrational testing.

If that happens, do more preparatory practices to clear your system, and go slowly the step by step instructions for the testing methods so that you system can gradually learn how to connect to these invisible vibrations.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. One Copy of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.
3. The Printed Picture of the Earth Power Spots (available as a PDF to print out, on the Class Page Online).
4. The Printed Picture of Sri Yukteswar (available as a PDF to print out, on the Class Page Online).
5. The Indigo Gabbro ("Mystic Merlinite") stone listed as an optional item for this class. If you don't have the stone, then skip the part of the practice using this.
6. The Obsidian stone strand listed as an optional item for this class. If you do not have this item, then skip the part of the practice using this.

FOR ALL PRACTICES IN THIS SECTION C3:

Start by Connecting the Neutral Pendulum to the Center of the Circle, and Tune its String Length for Maximum Clockwise Spin.

Go through the previous practices from C1 and C2, so that you are holding the Neutral Pendulum at the correct string length and have the opposite hand touching the center of the circle to act as the Sample. Remember you will only need that one printed circle for the following practices; you will be holding the pendulum over other test items rather than the second circle.

PRACTICE C3-1: TEST THE PHOTOS OF EARTH POWER SPOTS FOR CENTERING VIBRATION

Practice C3-1A: Testing the Huashan Shrine in China.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position over the Photo.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the top photo on the sheet of Earth Power Spots you printed out.

Have the pendulum in search position over the Shrine at the top of the mountain in the picture, while you focus your awareness on the vibration of the mountaintop directly beneath the Shrine building.

The pendulum should be pulled into a clockwise Rotation, detecting the Centering Vibration at this Taoist Sacred Mountain site, Huashan.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation, it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Location.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the location, starting with the Earth energy underneath the Shrine.

When focusing your selective awareness on this land energy, resonating with it, what do you feel in your body, and where do you feel it?

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test it?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the Building at the Location.

Then shift your awareness from the land underneath the Shrine, into the Shrine itself. Does this change the intensity of rotation of the pendulum? Do you feel something different in your body, or experience different sounds or images in your mind?

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Entire Power Spot Area.

Move the pendulum, and your attention, from the Shrine area slowly over the top of the ridge of the mountain. Do you find some areas of the mountaintop have stronger Centering Vibration than others?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Areas outside the Power Spot Area.

Test parts of the Valley shown in the photo, behind the mountaintop. Are there areas there with strong Centering Vibration, or which do not have any Centering Vibration?

Practice C3-1B: Testing the Machu Picchu site in Peru.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position over the Photo. Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the second photo down on the sheet of Earth Power Spots you printed out.

Have the pendulum in search position over the green grassy area between the ruins of buildings on the mountaintop.

The pendulum should be pulled into a clockwise Rotation, detecting the Centering Vibration at this Peruvian Sacred Mountain site, Machu Picchu.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation, it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Location.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the location, starting with the Earth energy in the grassy area.

When focusing your selective awareness on this land energy, resonating with it, what do you feel in your body, and where do you feel it?

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test it?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the Building at the Location.

Then shift your awareness and move your pendulum from the grassy area, to testing the ruins of the buildings. Does this change the intensity of rotation of the pendulum?

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Entire Power Spot Area.

Move the pendulum, and your attention, from the buildings area to the large peaks of the mountain behind them, moving slowly over the peaks area. Do you find some areas of the mountaintop have stronger Centering Vibration than others?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Areas outside the Power Spot Area.

Test parts of the Valley and landscape shown in the photo, behind the mountaintop. Are there areas there with strong Centering Vibration, or which do not have any Centering Vibration?

Practice C3-1C: Testing the Temple Mount in Jerusalem.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position over the Photo.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the photo on the bottom left of the sheet of Earth Power Spots you printed out.

Have the pendulum in search position over the Dome of the Rock (the Octagonal Building with the Gold Dome) in the center of the clearing in the picture, while you focus your awareness on the vibration of the land area directly beneath the octagonal shrine.

The pendulum should be pulled into a clockwise Rotation, detecting the Centering Vibration at the Temple Mount in Jerusalem, the site of the ancient Temple of Solomon.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation, it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Location.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the location, starting with the Earth energy underneath the Dome of the Rock.

When focusing your selective awareness on this land energy, resonating with it, what do you feel in your body, and where do you feel it?

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test it?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the Building at the Location.

Then shift your awareness from the land underneath the Dome of the Rock, into the octagonal shrine itself. Does this change the intensity of rotation of the pendulum?

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Entire Power Spot Area.

Move the pendulum, and your attention, from the Dome of the Rock building slowly around the entire open area of the Temple Mount. Do you find some areas of the Temple Mount have stronger Centering Vibration than others, or is it all uniform?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Areas outside the Power Spot Area.

Test parts of the city of Jerusalem shown outside of the boundaries of the Temple Mount in the photo. Are there areas there with strong Centering Vibration, or which do not have any Centering Vibration?

Practice C3-1D: Testing Stonehenge in Britain.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position over the Photo.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the photo on the bottom right of the sheet of Earth Power Spots you printed out.

Have the pendulum in search position over the Stone Circle in the center of circular trench in the middle of the photo, while you focus your awareness on the vibration of the Earth directly beneath the Stone Circle.

The pendulum should be pulled into a clockwise Rotation, detecting the Centering Vibration at Stonehenge in England.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation, it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Location.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the location, starting with the Earth energy underneath the Stone Circle.

When focusing your selective awareness on this land energy, resonating with it, what do you feel in your body, and where do you feel it?
Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test it?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the Building at the Location.

Then shift your awareness from the land underneath the Stone Circle, into the Stone Circle itself. Does this change the intensity of rotation of the pendulum?

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Entire Power Spot Area.

Move the pendulum, and your attention, from the Stone Circle to other areas within the circular trench which surrounds the stones. Do you find some areas within the trench boundary have stronger Centering Vibration than others?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Areas outside the Power Spot Area.

Test parts of the landscape shown in the photo, outside of the circular trench. Are there areas there with strong Centering Vibration, or which do not have any Centering Vibration? How about the roadway? The car park area in the middle left of the photo?

Step 7: Shift your Awareness to Test the Energy Line running from the Power Spot Area.

Test the line in the Earth which runs from the bottom of the Stone Circle, across the road, down to the bottom of the photo; does it have Centering Vibration, and if so is it as strong as what you found in the Stone Circle itself? Does it have a different energy than the landscape outside the circular trench area which has no visible line moving out from Stonehenge?

PRACTICE C3-2: TEST THE PHOTO OF A HUMAN BEING FOR CENTERING VIBRATION

Now you will test a photo of a person, to detect the Centering Vibration at their energy centers. This could be done with a photo of any person; in this course we have provided a picture of Sri Yukteswar from India (of the Kriya Yoga lineage coming from Babaji), as the Centering Vibration is quite prominent in key energy centers in his photo.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. One Copy of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.
3. The Photo of Sri Yukteswar that that you printed out.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position over the Photo.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the picture of Sri Yukteswar.

Hold the pendulum over the area between Sri Yukteswar's eyebrows; this is the Ajna ("Third Eye") energy center, which is prominently developed in Kriya Yoga practices (Yukteswar's tradition). The pendulum should be pulled into a clockwise Rotation, detecting the Centering Vibration at his Ajna center.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation, it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Energy Center.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the Ajna Chakra.

When focusing your selective awareness on this area, resonating with it, what do you feel in your body, and where do you feel it?

Do you feel anything in your own Ajna Chakra while you test this area on the photo?
Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test it?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the higher Forehead Energy Centers.

Shift your awareness from Ajna center to move the pendulum from between the eyebrows slowly straight up the forehead to the hairline. Do you find other sites of strong Centering Vibration at particular locations in the forehead above the Ajna center? (There are multiple energy centers in this area, which are sometimes considered secret in some traditions. This is discussed in the Vesica Institute Spiritual Science trainings.) Do you find that these other forehead centers are stronger or weaker than the Centering Vibration intensity you found at the Ajna center?

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Crown Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness up to the top of the head, at the Crown center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Throat Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Crown center to test over the Throat center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 7: Shift your Awareness to Test the Heart Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Throat center to test over the Heart center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 8: Shift your Awareness to Test the Solar Plexus Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Heart center to test over the Solar Plexus center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 9: Shift your Awareness to Test the Reproductive Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Solar Plexus center to test over the Reproductive center. Focus your awareness at the top of the pubic bone area. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 10: Shift your Awareness to Test the Base of the Spine Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Reproductive center to test over the Base of the Spine center. This area is hidden in the picture behind Sri Yukteswar's body and crossed legs, however you can easily connect to and test the Base of the Spine center by putting your attention there. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 11: Shift your Awareness to Test other Parts of the Body.

Test over other parts of the body. Do you see the difference in Centering Vibration intensity between the major energy centers and other parts of the body?

PRACTICE C3-3: TEST YOUR OWN ENERGY CENTERS FOR CENTERING VIBRATION

For this practice you will still have one hand touching the center of the circle, and the other hand holding the neutral pendulum -- which now will be held directly in front of energy centers of your body.

One interesting part of this practice is to contrast the intensity you find of Centering Vibration in your own energy centers, vs. the intensity you found testing the picture of Sri Yukteswar. Please be aware this testing requires absolute neutrality about what you find, with no need to feel defensive nor “better than” anyone else. The information you find about the Centering Vibration intensity at your primary energy centers is in fact very important, and can be used at a later time for strengthening weak centers of your energy field.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. One Copy of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.
3. Your own Body.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position.

For this exercise, there are two methods you can use for testing with the Pendulum:

- a) Hold the Pendulum directly in front of the Energy Center you are testing, with your attention on that Center or location.
- b) Hold the Pendulum in front of you, and focus your awareness on the Center to be tested to link it to the pendulum. This is needed for areas that are hard to reach, or which you may not be able to see if you held the pendulum directly in front of it (such as the Crown Center at the top of the head.)

Only one of the two methods will be described for each of the Steps below, however remember both methods are possible.

Begin by holding the pendulum in front of your Ajna / Third Eye center, ie in front of the space between your eyebrows while focusing awareness slightly inside the skull at that location. How strong is the Centering Vibration there?

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation; it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Energy Center.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of your Ajna Chakra. Be aware that each of your energy centers has a different quality to it, which you can directly perceive when sink meditatively into its vibration. This is an extremely important practice for spiritual development, as discussed in the Vesica Spiritual Science trainings.

When focusing your selective awareness on this area, resonating with it, what do you feel? Do you only feel it in the Ajna Chakra, or do you feel it also elsewhere in your body? (Activating a specific Energy Center in our body with our awareness can lead to spontaneous activation of other energy circuits in the body as well.)

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test this Energy Center?

Step 4: Shift your Awareness to Test the higher Forehead Energy Centers.

Shift your awareness from Ajna center to move the pendulum from between the eyebrows slowly straight up the forehead, testing areas from the Ajna up to the hairline. Do you find other sites of strong Centering Vibration at particular locations in the forehead above the Ajna center? (There are multiple energy centers in this area, which are sometimes considered secret in some traditions. This is discussed in the Vesica Institute Spiritual Science trainings.) Do you find that these other forehead centers are stronger or weaker than the Centering Vibration intensity you found at your Ajna center?

Note: if you have difficulty visually tracking the movement of the pendulum as it rises higher up the forehead, use the method of holding the pendulum in front of you and focusing awareness on the areas of the forehead.

Step 5: Shift your Awareness to Test the Crown Center.

You will not be able to see the pendulum if you hold it directly over your Crown center, so you can simply hold the pendulum out in front of you and place your awareness at the top of your head to test the Crown center. How strong is the Centering Vibration there?

Step 6: Shift your Awareness to Test the Throat Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Crown center to test in front of the Throat center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 7: Shift your Awareness to Test the Heart Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Throat center to test in front of your Heart center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 8: Shift your Awareness to Test the Solar Plexus Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Heart center to test in front of your Solar Plexus center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 9: Shift your Awareness to Test the Reproductive Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Solar Plexus center to test in front of your Reproductive center. Focus your awareness at the top of the pubic bone area. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 10: Shift your Awareness to Test the Base of the Spine Energy Center.

Move the pendulum and your awareness from the Reproductive center to test the Base of the Spine center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 11: Shift your Awareness to Test other Parts of the Body.

Test over other parts of the body. Do you see the difference in Centering Vibration intensity between the major energy centers and other parts of the body?

Step 12: Strengthen your Weakest Energy Center through the Use of your Consciousness.

Now we will add a new skill.

As a final part of this practice, hold the pendulum in front of (or connect with your awareness to) whichever of your energy centers was weakest. Then continue to test the Centering Vibration intensity from that center while you silently, internally say a sincere Blessing or Prayer (one that you feel personally connected to) and notice the effect.

If the Blessing or Prayer is sincere and effective, you will then see a significant increase of Centering Vibration from your energy center you are testing, because (as mentioned earlier) beneficial internal states of emotion / thought / consciousness will generate powerful Centering Vibration in your energy field, as does connection to the Divine.

Also note for yourself which of your energy centers tested originally as particularly strong or weak in the Centering Vibration, to potentially use that information at a later time to heal and strengthen your entire energetic structure.

PRACTICE C3-4: TEST AN “ADAPTOGENIC STONE” (INDIGO GABBRO) FOR CENTERING VIBRATION

This exercise is for those with the Indigo Gabbro (aka “Mystic Merlinite”) stone; if you do not have one, then skip this practice. Indigo Gabbro is one of the “Adaptogenic” stones with strong Centering Vibration, described and applied in detail in the How to Use Crystals and Gemstones online training.

This practice begins our working with samples of physical items and natural materials for Centering Vibration. This stone was also described in the Preparation for Testing section, and this stone will have other applications later in this series for those who have it. Various forms of it are available from the Vesica Institute website.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. One Copy of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.
3. An Indigo Gabbro (“Mystic Merlinite”) Stone.

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the Indigo Gabbro Stone.

Focus your awareness on the vibration in and around the stone.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation; it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Indigo Gabbro Stone.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the stone.

When focusing your selective awareness on the vibrations of this stone, resonating with it, what do you feel? Where in the body do you feel it?
Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test this Stone?

PRACTICE C3-5: TEST A NON-ADAPTOGENIC STONE (OBSIDIAN) FOR CENTERING VIBRATION

This exercise is for those with the Gold Sheen Obsidian strands, listed as an optional item for this course. If you do not have one, then skip this practice.

Obsidian is a stone (or technically, volcanic glass) which, for those who have it, we will also be using later in this series. We have the Obsidian here to act as a control, and to contrast it to the Indigo Gabbro.

Whereas Indigo Gabbro tends to have relatively strong Centering Vibration, Obsidian in most cases has relatively little or no discernible Centering Vibration (except in its center, where all things have at least a tiny amount of Centering Vibration; however we are here concerned with significant amounts of Centering Vibration throughout the radiated energy field of an item.)

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. One Copy of the Circle picture.
2. A Neutral Pendulum.
3. Gold Sheen Obsidian Strand (or any other Obsidian you may have).

Step 1: Put the Tuned and Linked Pendulum into Search Position.

Put the neutral pendulum (linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample) into search position over the Obsidian Stone.

Focus your awareness on the vibration in and around the stone.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation; it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

Do you get any reaction for Centering Vibration or none (ie, does the pendulum just stay in search position)?

If you get a reaction, what is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)? What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Indigo Gabbro Stone.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of the stone. Be aware that even if what you are testing has little Centering Vibration, it still has significant vibrations in the 12 bands.

When focusing your selective awareness on the vibrations of this stone, resonating with it, what do you feel? Where in the body do you feel it?

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test this Stone?

Step 4: Contrast the Pendulum Reaction for Centering Vibration between the Obsidian and the Indigo Gabbro.

Place the Obsidian stone next to the Indigo Gabbro stone (if you have both) and test one and then the other. Do you see -- and feel - the clear difference in the amount of Pull on the pendulum when testing each stone for Centering Vibration? One has a strong pull, the other little or no pull.

D. TESTING WITH GOLD: RESONANCE WITH THE CENTERING VIBRATION

As discussed previously, there is a resonance between physical Gold and the Centering Vibration. This method uses a piece of Gold as the sample the Neutral Pendulum is linked to; the pendulum will then rotate in resonance when testing an item with the Centering Vibration. This method was developed and explained by Dr. Karim in his BioGeometry system, in terms of the “Higher Harmonic of Gold” concept (an energy quality in resonance with physical Gold, but existing in higher Planes of Nature.)

Dr. Karim’s view is that Gold is one of several energy qualities which link with the Center; Gold used as a sample will thus respond to the Centering Vibration, however it could also be detecting the vibration of Gold itself, without the entirety of the Centering Vibration being present. [Note that multiple traditions work with the Golden Vibration. Examples include the Chinese Taoists in their internal alchemy practices, and the Filipino Pranic Healing system in their use of Golden Prana through Bio-energy projections from the human energy field.]

Interestingly, Dr. Karim has further indicated that if Gold is used as a sample to detect the “BG3”, it can over time begin to resonate with the full energy quality of the Center in its entirety, not just the Gold component.

PRACTICE D1: Tuning the Pendulum String Length to Gold

Testing with a piece of Gold is another Sample Linking method, just like method of connecting to the Center of the Circle as your sample as was done in the preceding section.

Now instead of having the index finger of your non-dowsing hand touch the Center of the Circle to provide the Centering Vibration you will link to the neutral pendulum, you will instead hold a piece of physical Gold (pure Gold, or something which is primarily Gold) in the hand and link it to the neutral pendulum in the other hand.

Just as before, this is done through being aware simultaneously of the vibration of the Gold sample in one hand and the neutral pendulum in the other, linking them through your awareness; the energetic current running between your hands also becomes formed with repeated practice.

Because we have the vibration which sets the resonance for the neutral pendulum coming from a physical sample, we could use the neutral pendulum at any string length for this method.

However just as in the preceding method with the circle, we will tune the string length to resonance with the sample (in this case the piece of Gold) so that we derive the two benefits of:

1. Fine tuning the Resonance of the neutral pendulum, by adding the tuned string length to the linkage with the Gold sample.
2. Setting the pendulum string length to ensure that the reaction when detecting the Centering Vibration will be a Clockwise pull / rotation of the pendulum.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A Neutral Pendulum.
2. A Piece of Physical Gold (can be an object that is primarily Gold, such as a Gold coin, jewelry of 14K or better, etc.)

Step 1: Hold the pendulum in Search Position over the Piece of Gold.

Place the piece of Gold in front of you and hold the pendulum over it. For this practice you will not be using your opposite hand, that will come in with the next practice; because you are not yet connecting to a sample with the opposite hand, you will not get a "Pull" of the pendulum over the piece of Gold until you find the correct string length on the pendulum.

Hold the pendulum string right where it enters into the body of the pendulum, and put it into Search Position over the piece of Gold.

Step 2: Tune the pendulum to Resonate with the Gold.

Keeping the pendulum moving back and forth in search position over the Gold, start letting the string out through your fingertips in a very slow and controlled manner. As the length of the string keeps slowly increasing the distance of the pendulum sphere from your fingertips, watch for when you feel the pendulum pulling clockwise.

When you find the string length where the rotation of the pendulum clockwise over the piece of Gold begins, then go just slightly higher up the string length (i.e., let out just a little more string through your fingertips) and you will find the "sweet spot" where the rotation is the strongest; if you then go further up the string beyond that sweet spot, there will be a decrease in the intensity of the pendulum's rotation.

When you find that "sweet spot" to hold the string -- ie, the location on the string which gives you the strongest clockwise rotation of the pendulum over the piece of Gold-- that is the location where you will hold the pendulum string for the rest of the practices which follow here in part D.

Step 3: Immerse yourself in the Gold Vibration.

Now that you have found the correct “sweet spot” to hold the pendulum string, continue to allow the pendulum to rotate clockwise over the Gold and close your eyes, immersing yourself meditatively into the vibration of the Gold.

Simply observe (do not try to change or create) the vibration you are now experiencing.

How does it feel to you?

Where in the body do you feel an energetic response to it?

How does it shift your consciousness?

Does it change your emotional state?

Do particular internal images or sounds arise in your mind?

How does the Gold vibration feel similar or different to the vibration from the Center of the Circle which you immersed yourself in earlier?

PRACTICE D2: Testing Earth Power Spots with Gold

Now that you have tuned the pendulum string for maximum clockwise rotation over the Gold, you can now add in the Sample linking method of holding the piece of Gold in the empty hand to link it to neutral pendulum; this greatly reinforces the resonance with the Centering Vibration for testing, when both the linking to the physical Gold and the tuning of the string length are used together.

We will now do a quick testing again of photos on the Earth Power Spots page you tested earlier, to show that the testing with the Gold is very similar in both method and results to the initial practices where the Center of the Circle was used as a sample.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A Neutral Pendulum.
2. A Piece of Physical Gold.
3. The Sheet of Earth Power Spots photos which you printed out and used in the earlier practice.

Step 1: Connect the Tuned Neutral Pendulum with the Gold Sample in the other hand.

Holding the pendulum at the string length you established for resonance with the Gold, put the pendulum into search position over the top photo on the Earth Power Spots page. In the other hand hold the piece of Gold in your palm, with awareness of its vibration and of the pendulum at the same time.

With the tuned pendulum connected to the Gold Sample, the pendulum will rotate clockwise over any area of the photos which you put your attention on and hold the pendulum over that have Centering Vibration (remember that it is whatever your attention goes to which you are really testing; testing directly over the item so that you are directly in its vibrational field is always best whenever it is possible to do so.)

Step 2: Test Areas of the Photos for Centering Vibration using the Gold.

Test over the areas of the four photos which you tested in the earlier practice, and see if you get the same responses in your testing now with the piece of Gold that you did earlier with connecting to the Center of the Circle.

Are you getting a reaction on the same areas of the photos that you did before? Are you getting the same variations of intensity of rotation of the pendulum that you did before?

If not, which type of testing (Connecting to the Center of the Circle, or the Gold) feels like you were better connecting with the Centering Vibration through the method, and got more accurate results?

Does testing with the areas with the Gold as a sample feel more or less comfortable to you than testing with the Center of the Circle as a sample?

PRACTICE D3: Testing a Design with Gold

For this practice we will use a design created to have the strong vibration of the Center. This is the “BioGeometry Carpet Pattern” created by Dr. Karim, which derives its name from the use of this pattern as a carpet placed underneath beds and desks to protect against toxic Earth radiations. It creates a strong intensity of the “BG3®” energy of the Center, and is also used in training practices in BioGeometry® courses for that reason. This pattern is taught and explained in detail in the live BioGeometry Foundation Training.

We will be using the Carpet Pattern here as an example of human designs with strong Centering Vibration. Their energetics are related to the concept of the “Shape-Caused Wave” described in the earlier section on the work of Chaumery and de Belizal in France in the 1930’s.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A Neutral Pendulum.
2. A Piece of Physical Gold.
3. The BioGeometry Carpet Pattern, shown in Appendix 1-1 of the BioGeometry Horizontal and Vertical Pendulum Set instruction guide by Dr. Karim. This is one of your downloadable PDF files; print out the Carpet Pattern for use in this exercise. This is the pattern made up of multiple BioGeometry “L” patterns, which have two lines at right angles to each other (like the letter ‘L’) however the corner of the L is a semi-circular arc, rather than a right angle corner.

Step 1: Connect the Tuned Neutral Pendulum with the Gold Sample in the other hand.

Holding the pendulum at the string length you established for resonance with the Gold, put the pendulum into search position over the Carpet Pattern you printed out. In the other hand hold the piece of Gold in your palm, with awareness of its vibration and of the pendulum at the same time.

With the tuned pendulum connected to the Gold Sample, the pendulum will rotate clockwise over any area of the pattern which you put your attention on and hold the pendulum over that has Centering Vibration (remember that it is whatever your attention goes to which you are really testing, however testing directly over the item so that you are directly in its vibrational field is always best whenever it is possible to do so.)

Step 2: Test Areas of the Design using the Gold.

Test over the Carpet Pattern with the tuned and linked pendulum, with your attention on the complete design on the page. You should get a strong clockwise rotation of the pendulum.

Then test with your pendulum over different specific areas of the Carpet Pattern, focusing your awareness on just that area. See if you can pick up subtle variations of intensity of Centering Vibration at different locations on the pattern, even though the entire pattern and all its sub-components have the “BG3” vibration of the Center.

This demonstrates that designs can have the Centering Vibration both in their overall energy field, as well as in their specific components, when properly created.

PRACTICE D4: Testing an “Adaptogenic Stone” with Gold

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A Neutral Pendulum.
2. A Piece of Physical Gold.
3. The Indigo Gabbro (“Mystic Merlinite”) stone used in a previous practice.

Step 1: Connect the Tuned Neutral Pendulum with the Gold Sample in the other hand.

Holding the pendulum at the string length you established for resonance with the Gold, put the pendulum into search position over the Indigo Gabbro stone. In the other hand hold the piece of Gold in your palm, with awareness of its vibration and of the pendulum at the same time.

Step 2: Test the Indigo Gabbro stone using the Gold.

Test over the Indigo Gabbro stone with the tuned and linked pendulum, with your attention on the entire stone and the energy field around it. You should get a strong clockwise rotation of the pendulum.

Step 3: Test the Distance out from the Stone that you can pick up the Centering Vibration.

Now we will add in another skill.

Keep testing over the stone, now moving your attention into its interior, the internal matrix of the stone - does the intensity of the rotation increase or decrease?

Then move your attention to the energy field just slightly outside of the physical boundary of the stone - does the intensity of the rotation increase or decrease?

Now move the pendulum to the edge of the physical boundary of the stone, and start moving it slowly away out from the edge of the stone, so that the pendulum moves out to one inch away from the stone, then continues slowly to two inches away, etc. Observe the decrease in the rotation of the pendulum as the Centering Vibration decreases at increasing distance from the stone, until the pendulum is far enough away from the stone to go back to Search Position (i.e., no longer detecting the Centering Vibration.)

This shows the size of the effective radiated field of Centering Vibration coming from the stone.

This is extremely important to know in practical applications, such as we will be discussing later in this series.

NOTE: If a test item, such as a stone, contains physical Gold then this method of testing with Gold as the sample will also create a resonance between the pendulum and the physical Gold in the test item, creating a strong clockwise spin of the pendulum. However this may be in that case not the strong Centering Vibration creating the reaction, but the actual presence of Gold as an element in the test item.

This is an important consideration whenever testing physical substances with the Sample Linking method using physical Gold, that in cases where the substance contains Gold you may get a reaction simply due to the presence of Gold, and not for the Centering Vibration per se.

E. TESTING WITH THE BG16 PENDULUM

Whereas the first two methods we have covered -- using the Center of the Circle as a sample, and a piece of Gold as a Sample -- use the “Sample Linking” method to tune a neutral pendulum to detect the Centering Vibration, the BG16 Pendulum uses instead the “Intrinsic Vibration” method discussed earlier.

The BG16 Pendulum resonates with the Vibration of the Center through the core design of the pendulum, and does not require linking to an external sample.

It is called the “BG16” Pendulum because it tunes into the Vibration of the Center -- called by the trademarked term “BG3®” in BioGeometry (this pendulum was formerly called the “BG3 Pendulum”) -- through the resonance of the 16 disks built into its design.

The designer of this pendulum, Dr. Karim, has done extensive research into what qualities resonate with the BG3. One part of this research indicated that 16 similar design elements in a group can create resonance with / generate the BG3 (this is taught in the BioGeometry Foundation Training). His research also found that the number 16 can be used in conjunction with other specific numbers to create proportions in a design which also manifest the BG3 (this is taught in the “BG Modular” system contained in the BioGeometry Advanced Training).

From this discovery, Dr. Karim designed the BG16 Pendulum as a simple method to test for the BG3; it is the primary tool used for that purpose in BioGeometry today.

We will be using this tool for testing the Centering Vibration for many practices in this course.

PRACTICE E1: Tune the String Length on the BG3 Pendulum.

The BG16 Pendulum will work to detect the “BG3” / Centering Vibration at any string length, because it has the vibration built into its design and does not require string length to set the vibration. However as with earlier practices, by adding in the tuning of the string length to the BG16 pendulum’s intrinsic vibration we once again derive two benefits:

1. Fine tuning the Resonance of the BG16 pendulum, by adding the tuned string length to its intrinsic vibration.
2. Setting the pendulum string length to ensure that the reaction when detecting the Centering Vibration will be a Clockwise pull / rotation of the pendulum.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. The BG16 Pendulum.
2. The BioGeometry Carpet Pattern, shown in Appendix 1-1 of the BioGeometry Horizontal and Vertical Pendulum Set instruction guide by Dr. Karim. This is one of your downloadable PDF files; print out the Carpet Pattern for use in this exercise. This is the pattern made up of multiple BioGeometry “L” patterns, which have two lines at right angles to each other (like the letter ‘L’) but the corner of the L is a semi-circular arc rather than a right angle corner.

Step 1: Hold the BG16 pendulum in Search Position over the Carpet Pattern.

Place the Carpet Pattern in front of you and hold the BG16 pendulum over it. For this practice you will not be using your opposite hand, since we don’t need to connect to an external sample because the needed vibration is built into the BG16 pendulum itself.

Hold the pendulum string right where it enters into the body of the pendulum, and put it into Search Position over the Carpet Pattern. Remember it will be pulled into a rotation over the Carpet Pattern because of its BG3/ Centering Vibration at any string length.

Step 2: Tune the BG16 pendulum string for maximum clockwise rotation.

Keeping the pendulum moving over the Carpet pattern, start letting the string out through your fingertips in a very slow and controlled manner. As the length of the string keeps slowly increasing the distance from your fingertips, watch for when you find the string length where the rotation of the BG16 pendulum becomes the strongest.

Remember when you find the string length where the rotation of the pendulum clockwise over the Carpet Pattern increases, that if you go just slightly higher up the string length (i.e., let out just a little more string through your fingertips) that you may find the “sweet spot” where the rotation is the strongest; if you then go further up the string beyond that sweet spot, there will be a decrease in the intensity of the pendulum’s rotation.

When you find that “sweet spot” to hold the string -- the location on the string which gives you the strongest clockwise rotation of the BG16 pendulum over the Carpet Pattern-- that is the location where you will hold the BG16 pendulum string for the rest of the practices which follow here in section E.

PRACTICE E2:

Testing Earth Power Spots with the BG16 Pendulum

We will now do a quick testing again of photos on the Earth Power Spots page you tested earlier, to show that the testing with the BG16 pendulum has similar results to the initial practices where the Center of the Circle or the Gold were used as samples. In this case however, we do not need to use the opposite hand to connect to a vibrational sample, it will either be free during the practice, or can be used to hold a pointer to focus our awareness on a precise location within an item being tested.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A BG16 Pendulum.
2. The Sheet of Earth Power Spots photos which you printed out and used in the earlier practice.
3. A Pointer to point to precise locations within an item being tested. The best pointer is a wooden one with a fine tip, as was used by the French Radiesthesiasts. An easy way to get this is to use a wooden skewer, such as is sold for putting food items on. If you do not have one of these you can use a similar item, such as a pencil -- but be careful not get any pencil marks on the item you are pointing towards.

Step 1: Put the Tuned Neutral Pendulum into Search Position over the Test Sheet.

Holding the pendulum at the string length you established for maximum clockwise rotation over the Carpet Pattern, put the pendulum into search position over the top photo on the Earth Power Spots page.

Step 2: Test Areas of the Photos for Centering Vibration using the BG16 Pendulum.

Test with the Pendulum over the areas of the four photos which you tested in the earlier practice, and see if you get the same responses in your testing now with the BG16 Pendulum that you did earlier when using the method connecting to the Center of the Circle.

Are you getting the same variations of intensity of rotation of the pendulum that you did before? If not, which type of testing feels like you personally were better connected with the method, and got more accurate results?

Step 3: Use the Pointer to Test specific Areas of the Photos more precisely.

Now we will add the use of a pointer held in the free hand.

Remember that the pointer is to help you focus your awareness more precisely on a smaller area of an item being tested.

Take the pointer in your free hand, and touch its tip to a specific area on a photo that you have already tested by having the pendulum directly over that area. Hold the BG16 pendulum out to the side, and connect it with your awareness to the tip of the pointer in the other hand.

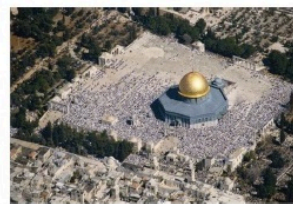

Can you get the same reaction you found with the pendulum directly over the area, now that the pendulum is held to the side and the pointer tip is touching the area?

Practice making this link between where the Pointer Tip is touching, and the reaction of the pendulum.

Step 4: Use the Pointer to establish the Epicenter of the Centering Vibration in an area.

Now we will add in a new skill.

Once you can feel yourself able to test more precise areas of the photos using the tip of the Pointer as a focus point for your awareness, start testing within strong Centering Vibration areas to find the exact point -- the Epicenter -- where the Centering Vibration is absolutely the strongest in that area.

See if you can find that epicenter in each of the Power Spot photos. There may be more than one spot with extremely high Centering Vibration, or you may find one Epicenter that is clearly stronger than any other location in the area.

Step 5: Use the Pointer to establish lines of Centering Vibration in an area.

Now we will add in another new skill.

Go to the photo of Stonehenge, where there is the line in the Earth running from the Stone circle across the road, down to the bottom of the Photo.

Start with your pointer tip in the center of the Stone circle, picking up the Centering Vibration with your BG16 pendulum held out to the side. Then trace out the movement of the line in the Earth slowly, as it crosses the road and all the way down to the bottom of the photo.

Can you pick up the Centering Vibration with the pendulum throughout the entire length of the line in the Earth?

Are any parts of the line in the Earth weaker or stronger in Centering Vibration?

Is the line disturbed or weakened where it crosses the road?

Then go back to the center of the stone circle, and trace out another line across the Earth (where there is no visible line present on the photo) straight out anywhere towards to the left side of the photo. How is this different in energy from the line in the Earth going to the bottom of the photo? Is there any Centering Vibration in this abstract line going to the left side of the photo, or not?

PRACTICE E3:

Testing your own Energy Centers with the BG16 Pendulum

For this practice you will test the major energy centers of your body with the BG16 pendulum, as you did in the earlier practice using the Center of the Circle as your vibrational sample.

Instead of a pointer held in the hand as you used in the previous exercise with the photos, you will touch each energy center of your body with your empty hand; either with the index finger of the hand which is not holding the pendulum, or with multiple fingers together.

You will connect with your attention the vibration of the energy center which your opposite hand is touching, to the BG16 Pendulum in your dowsing hand.

The BG16 Pendulum can be held out in front of you wherever you find comfortable, at a place where you can easily see its movement.

Again this is basically the same exercise you did earlier in this section, but now with the new variable of the using the BG16 pendulum to test and using the free hand to touch the area of your body you are testing.

ITEMS NEEDED:

1. A BG16 Pendulum.
2. Your own body.

Step 1: Put the Tuned BG16 Pendulum into Search Position in front of you, touching the Ajna Chakra with the opposite hand.

Holding the pendulum at the string length you established for maximum clockwise rotation over a Centering Vibration source, put the pendulum into search position in front of you. Touch with your index finger or multiple fingers from the opposite hand your Ajna Chakra (Third Eye Center), right between your eyebrows.

Feel a link between where your fingers are touching on your body, and the BG16 pendulum.

Step 2: Observe the Strength of the Pull on the Pendulum.

Observe and feel exactly how strong the Pull is on the Pendulum. Make sure you stay with the spin of the pendulum for long enough for it to pick up its full strength of rotation; it may take a few moments to overcome inertia and get up to full power.

What is the size of the area covered by the rotation of the pendulum (amplitude of spin)?

What is the speed of movement of the pendulum (rate of rotation)?

Step 3: Sink Meditatively into Testing the Vibration of the Energy Center.

In the Clear Mind state, move more deeply into the vibrations of your Ajna Chakra. Be aware that each of your energy centers has a different quality to it, which you can directly perceive when sink meditatively into its vibration. This is an extremely important practice for spiritual development, as discussed in the Vesica Spiritual Science trainings.

When focusing your selective awareness on this area, resonating with it, what do you feel? Do you only feel it in the Ajna Chakra, or do you feel it also elsewhere in your body? (Activating a specific Energy Center in your body with your awareness can lead to spontaneous activation of other energy circuits in the body as well.)

Do any images or sounds arise spontaneously in your mind as you test this Energy Center?

Observe the results of these steps now using the BG16 Pendulum, and compare them to the results when you did this practice earlier in this section using the neutral pendulum linked to the Center of the Circle as your sample.

Do you get the same results?

Which method seems easier, or more comfortable to you?

Step 4: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the higher Forehead Energy Centers.

Shift your fingers and awareness from Ajna center to move your fingers and awareness slowly straight up the forehead, testing areas from the Ajna up to the hairline.

Your fingers and awareness are of course linked to the BG16 pendulum held in front of you, which is doing the testing of the Centering Vibration in the areas you are touching.

Do you find other sites of strong Centering Vibration at particular locations in the forehead above the Ajna center? (There are multiple energy centers in this area, which are sometimes considered secret in some traditions. This is discussed in the Vesica Institute Spiritual Science trainings.) Do you find that these other forehead centers are stronger or weaker than the Centering Vibration intensity you found at your Ajna center?

Step 5: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Crown Center.

Shift your fingers and awareness to touch the top of your head, the Crown center.

How strong is the Centering Vibration there?

Step 6: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Throat Energy Center.

Shift your fingers and your awareness from the Crown center to touch the front of the Throat center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 7: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Heart Energy Center.

Shift your fingers and your awareness from the Throat center to test the front of your Heart center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 8: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Solar Plexus Energy Center.

Shift your fingers and your awareness from the Heart center to test the front of your Solar Plexus center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 9: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Reproductive Energy Center.

Shift your fingers and your awareness from the Solar Plexus center to test the front of your Reproductive center. Touch and focus your awareness at the top of the public bone area. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 10: Shift your Fingers and Awareness to Test the Base of the Spine Energy Center.

Shift your fingers and your awareness from the Reproductive center to test the Base of the Spine center. What intensity of Centering Vibration do you find there?

Step 11: Shift your Awareness to Test other Parts of the Body.

Touch other random parts of the body, testing with the BG16 pendulum.

Do you see the difference in Centering Vibration intensity between the major energy centers and other parts of the body?

Step 12: Strengthen your Weakest Energy Center through the Use of your Consciousness.

As a final part of this practice, touch whichever of your energy centers tested the weakest (ie, the least Centering Vibration) in this latest practice. Then continue to test the Centering Vibration intensity from that center while you silently, internally say a sincere Blessing or Prayer (one that you feel personally connected to) and notice the effect.

If the Blessing or Prayer is sincere and effective, you will then see a significant increase of Centering Vibration from your energy center you are testing, because (as mentioned earlier) beneficial internal states of emotion / thought / consciousness will generate powerful Centering Vibration in your energy field, as does connection to the Divine.

Also note for yourself which of your energy centers tested originally as particularly strong or weak in the Centering Vibration, to potentially use that information at a later time to heal and strengthen your entire energetic structure.

In this section you have learned 3 different methods for testing the profound Centering Vibration. We will primarily use the BG3 Pendulum for testing the Centering Vibration for the remainder of this series, however all three methods contain significant lessons for your understanding of this energy quality.

Now you know how to test the 12 Bands of the Vibrational Spectrum in the Horizontal Wave, and the Centering Vibration.

You are now ready to learn the background to the Vertical Waves component of the 12 bands. This will prepare you to learn how to test the Vertical Waves of the 12 Bands, which will complete your fundamental skills.

You will then be able to test and identify the entire Universal Vibrational Spectrum in the energy fields of anything in creation: a person or other living being, a location, a natural material, or any design or object.