Scientific information AND TECHNIQUES

This is a Japanese discovery and the first electrets were made by Motatoro Egushi, a professor at the Naval Higher College in Tokyo.

Electrets were studied a few years later by Andrew Gemant in England and by certain laboratories in the United States, which multiplied Egushi's experiments.

While the Japanese had derived a practical application from electrets, all other use was limited to experiments for the polarization of certain instruments such as electrometers, etc.

What is an Electret?

A simple Electret is a mixture of waxes, heated and cooled extremely slowly in a high voltage polarized electric field and then wrapped in a thin sheet of metal.

The Electret thus retains a "polarization" which has the advantage of strengthening over time.

To obtain this compound wax, 45% carnauba wax, 45% hydrogenated resin and 10% cellulose material are mixed; three components that are first slowly melted and then slowly cooled.

Electrets are quite special objects: it has been discovered that wax molecules (when it is fluid) have the curious property of taking a particular orientation under the effect of a polarized, potentially high electric field (10,000 V) and to retain it during cooling progress if, that when the field mentioned above has exerted a sufficiently long influence.

The handling of scientific electrets is very delicate. The polarization reverses in the first few weeks after manufacture, but after that the net charge of the Electret, which is negative, no longer reverses.

His evolution

The magnetizers of the 19th century were already aware of this ability that wax possesses of storing and preserving human influences (human magnetism) as well as the properties of many other origins (various substances and bodies).

Accepting the challenge of research, dowsers were also very interested in these properties of wax, whatever its origin (vegetable wax, beeswax, etc.). Messrs. Bignand, Evraerts and others have thus developed their own type of capacitors made of beeswax taken between metal plates. When these capacitors are charged with a beneficial wave specific to a given subject, the wax becomes impregnated with it.

At the end of the war, faced with the impossibility of finding good waxes (a fortiori carnauba wax) necessary for the manufacture of the Scientific Electret, a team of dowsing researchers - including the Servranx brothers - undertook, under the directives of Marcel Perreaux, to deepen the research in order to compensate for the lacks of the time. In 1953, they had solved the problem of wax by noting that a process that everyone knows: stencil paper, which is a paper soaked in compound waxes, had all the desired properties.

As for the problem posed by the electric charge, they found the most spectacular solution by working with a luminous field inspired by the technique of the laser: it was about the electronic flash. Just as in the case of scientific electrets, the structure of the liquid wax excited by light rays is instantly stabilized. When it is wrapped in pure aluminum foil, a radiant field is created which, moreover, becomes stronger over time. The various trials and tests have proven that the human magnetic charge is further enhanced and amplified by the 18-carat gold leaf that completes the structure of our Electrets. Finally two strips of neutral cellulose give rigidity to the whole.

All that remains is to magnetize everything by laying on of hands or any other magnetic or radionic charge to arrive at a fully operational Electret.

The properties of !,Electret

The Electret is more than a talisman or a remedy, it is a very powerful and easy to use physico-psychic inductor.

He is able to create a better personal climate, a more favorable atmosphere; it causes a more serene state of mind and a positive morale; it increases self-confidence in the subject who uses it and greatly increases his dynamic potential.

When properly charged by the operator, the Electret will act GRADUALLY stronger and more SUSTAINABLY on the subject for which it was made.

This charge of the Electret can be done by laying on of hands, by magnetization and/or visualization, by exposure to the influences of a radionic graphic, radionic batteries and batteries, colored screens, etc.).

The use of the Electret is recommended in many areas. Here are a few that are very conclusive:

ÿÿ All cases where a beneficial energy must be transmitted to a person.

ÿ All cases where a material (money, business) or emotional (sentimental harmony, the most diverse human relationships) situation needs to be improved

- To develop moral strength.

ÿ To obtain an increase in dynamism.

The Electret is not a universal remedy, it cannot be used to cure all the diseases of this world. But it is a powerful means of increasing vital force or organic resistance and, thereby, enabling the person who wears it to find solutions to their daily problems, to achieve the goal they set for themselves by relieving them of moral and physical suffering that she meet.

Attention !

Do not multiply electrets for the same person, in order to avoid contradictory goals.

After achieving the first objective for which he required the aid of an Electret, the subject can of course use a new Electret to obtain further improvements in areas different.

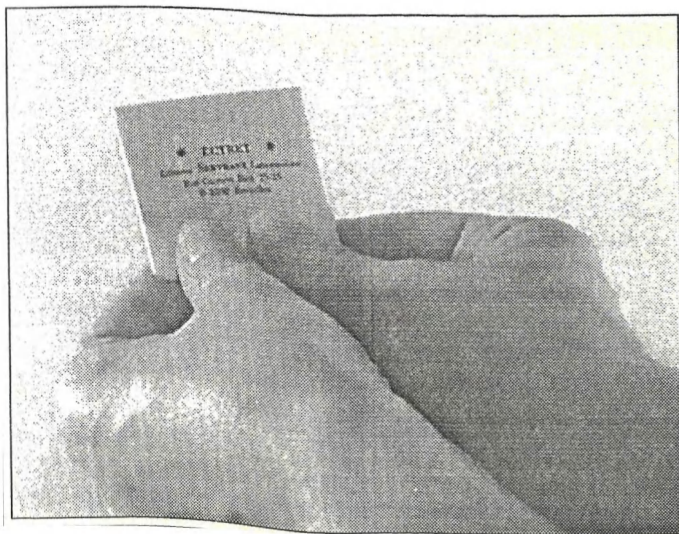

We think we have informed you as much as possible about the Electret that we have prepared with particular care, as it was defined in the early fifties by the team of brothers Félix and William Servranx, with the aim of helping and to serve.
It's up to you to make good use of it.

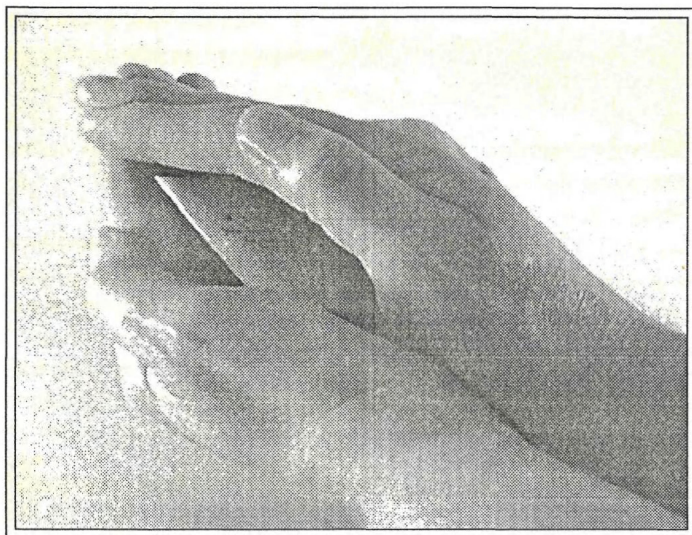

How to use the Electret

The instructions are very simple and you don't have to be dowser to get the best results from an Electret.

To make an Electret active, just do the following operation once:

Leaving the Electret as you will receive it, or — but it is not essential — removing only the protective foil (but especially not the aluminum!), hold it between your thumb and forefinger as shown in the photo below, for 2 to 3 minutes, thinking about the goal to be achieved. Your Electret is then charged.

Optionally, instead of holding the Electret, you can operate an imposition of hands), always for 2 to 3 minutes and also thinking of the goal to be achieved.

The combination of magnetization by the hands and visualization of the goal to be achieved gives amazing results.

For maximum efficiency, the Electret must be placed as close as possible to the beneficiary, in a place very often in contact with him: it can therefore be put in the wallet or purse near his photo, that of the identity card, for example. You can also carry it on your person, in a pocket or in a small cotton envelope hanging around your neck, at the level of the solar plexus.

II .KCTRET® • Physico -psychological inductor

I .Electret can be placed in a wallet...

... or in a cotton pouch around the neck.

The Electret can remain in place as long as the goal is not reached; he can remain there indefinitely, his influence will always be beneficial. The Electret does not run out, on the contrary, it strengthens over time provided you do not open it.

You can charge an Electret for yourself or for someone else: you will then give it to them and explain exactly how to wear it.

Dowsers can also charge the Electret on a radionic chart, or with a radionic battery or battery, possibly combined with color screens.

All to be determined by pendulum or by analyzing the needs of the subject or the objective to be achieved.

Therefore, the Electret will transmit all the beneficial influence with which it has been charged.

It's so easy to be healthy!

It's so easy now to be dynamic!

It is finally possible to be happier!

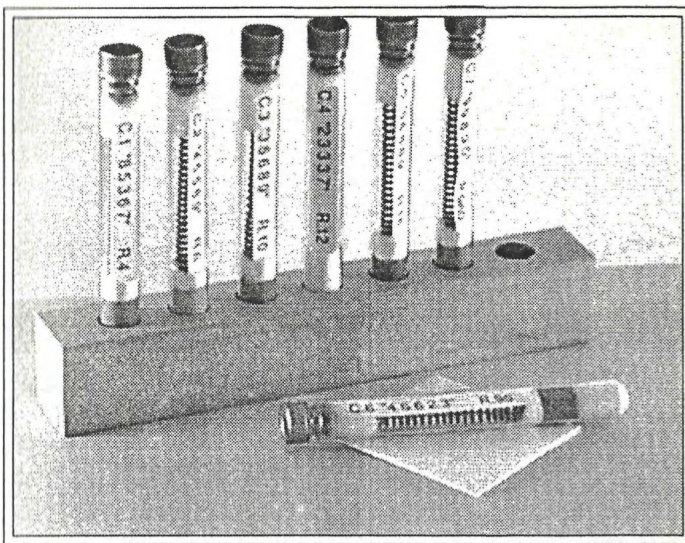

Use this powerful tool and you will be convinced and talk and to your friends, you will be doing them a huge service.

Charge an Electret with battery or battery

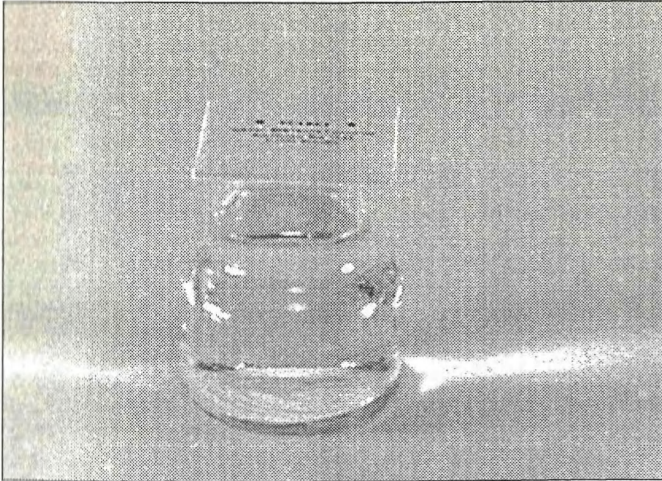

This technique makes it possible to charge electrets with different influences combined, but always with a view to a precise goal. You can, for example, select different accumulators or batteries (by pendulum, kinesiology or other method) and place them in turn on an Electret, which will soak up their radiation. The Electret prepared in this way will then be carried by the beneficiary who will benefit from the benefits of the batteries without having to carry them on him, which would be more cumbersome. The same Electret can then be recharged with other rechargeable batteries and batteries, provided that the intended purpose remains the same.

Electret and Auradyne

It is still possible to charge an Electret with Auradyne so the person wearing it will benefit from the benefits of Auradyne throughout the day. You can reload! 1 Electret periodically and thus increase its power.

11.1. (TR HT® • Physicopsychic inductor

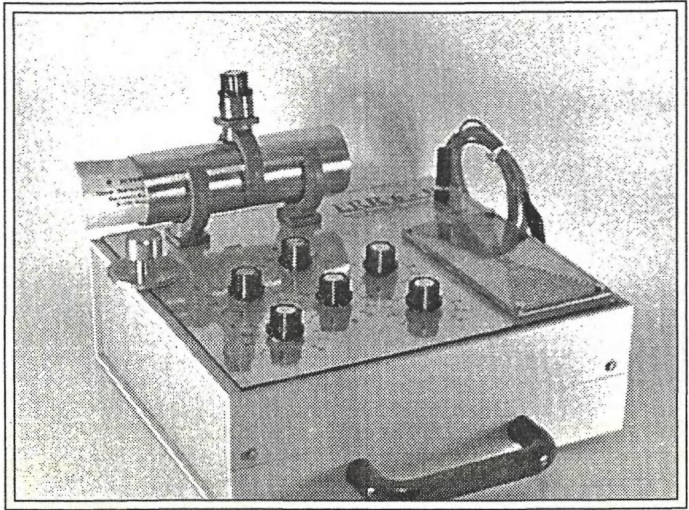

Use magnetized water at will, thanks to an Electret.

This technique is explained by Mr. Rahier later in the appendices.

Is it possible to reuse an Electret?

If, at a later date, you want to use it for the same person AND for the same purpose, you can reload it in this sense. But it is not possible to discharge or deprogram an Electret and reuse it for another person or for the same person for another purpose. The first load remains anchored indefinitely and is incompatible with a different load.

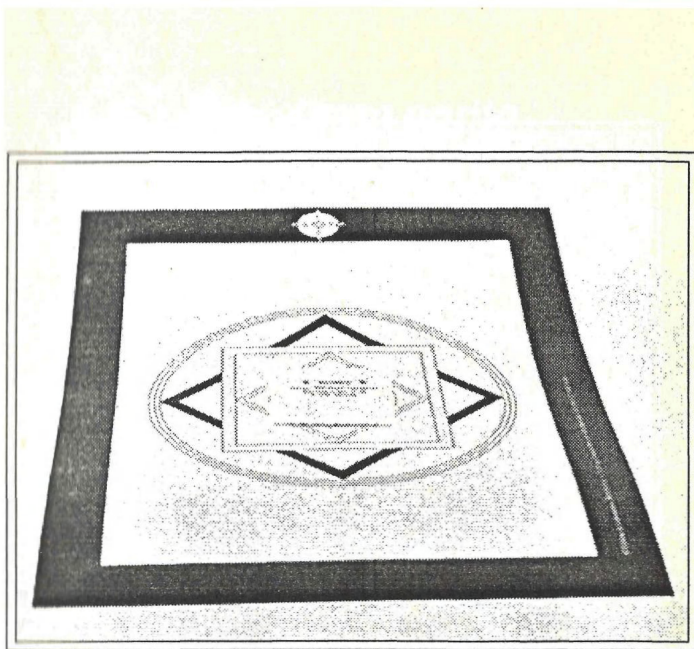

Electret and radionic device

The operators of the ERR 6 P radionic device will be able to charge an Electret by introducing it into the witness room during charging. They will set the device to the frequency detected by the pendulum or touch sensor and control the charging time as usual.

The Electret thus charged or programmed for the purpose desired by the operator will be a very powerful transmitter of energy. The Electret will then be worn by the recipient or will be used to complete other radionics work.

Electret and Radionics Graphics

A charged or programmed Electret can serve as an Ims witness of an action on a radionics graph. Thus we can create a very powerful artificial witness, even of things which do not exist in nature but which are the product of the mind of! ,operator.

This Control Electret can be combined with all the other accessories for working on graphics such as color screens, rechargeable batteries and batteries or control tubes for homeopathic products, plants, organs, etc.

Electret and Pendulum of Thoth

Charging an Electret to the Pendulum of Thoth is done through the opposite side of the label. Thus it will be enriched with the desired dowsing foundation and its power increased by the force of the pendulum of Thoth. Any wave of visualization, emotion, thought, or desire from the operator will be amplified by the pendulum of Thoth and radiated into the Electret which in turn will transmit it to the wearer.

The Electret can become an energy battery, a balancer, a talisman..., depending on the needs and desires of the operator.

ABOUT ELECTRETS

Par W. Servranx

December T 949

would the most orthodox science join magic?

! Vs opportunities are envisioned in electronics in i uniisa(ion of Electrets, although at present it is more of a 1111 laboratory iosity. Only the Japanese had used the I Irilivls in a practical way to polarize their field microphones .

I 1 in fact, it is a Japanese discovery, the first booklets having been produced by Mototaro Eguchi of the Higher College of the Navy in Tokyo. They were studied a few years later by Andrew Gemant in England and by laboratories in the United States, which repeated Eguchi's experiments. While the Japanese had pulled a pi .1 app! Like electrets, they are only used elsewhere on an experimental basis for the polarization of certain instruments, electrometers, for example.

What is an Electret?

If we take compound wax—today we use a mixture of 45 % Camauba wax, 45 % hydrogenic resin and 10% a cellulosic material,—and that 1

melt the mixture to let it cool slowly in a polarized electric field and at high voltage, about 10,000 volts, it is found, after cooling, that the opposite faces of the block of wax retain the polarization imparted by the electric field. Provided you do not touch the surface of the Electret with your fingers, this polarization holds and even seems to strengthen over time.

The charge density of an Electret left to itself increases in three or four months and remains for a long time, not to say indefinitely.

Of course, in practice it is not so simple. The Electret must be surrounded by a thin sheet of metal: the wax mixture is heated beforehand to eliminate traces of humidity as much as possible; precautions are necessary for the arrangement of the furnace and for the slow cooling, in one to two hours, in a field of great stability.

The handling of electrets is delicate. The polarization of the opposite faces reverses in the first weeks following manufacture, but then the net charge of the Electret, which is negative, no longer reverses.

As we can see, electrets are a curious thing. If carnauba wax is used, and not beeswax, it is because the latter is too complex in composition to lend itself to the rigorous study of all the experimental conditions. But mixtures of carnauba wax and beeswax have sometimes been used, with or without the addition of resin. These mixtures were mainly reproached for their excessive malleability, which caused deformations, detrimental to the characteristics of the Electrets.

I ('s properties of wax

But with electrets we have discovered the property that

- γ wax molecules, when it is fluid, to take little
- γ • n a certain orientation under the effect of a Milaisé electric field. 11th high potential, and to keep this orientation 11111. 1γ • l_r mixture is gradually cooled while remaining under $m!!$ urine from the field for sufficient time.

Modern laboratories thus end up putting in their wax characteristics which recall, at certain points, the "storage" properties attributed to it by the invention .

I have always used wax in operations on the backs of the necks. By magnetic passes, by fumigations, or • u l, incorporation of particles of certain bodies, one impregnated 1γ plates or moldings in wax of certain "virtues" and these au (eras were supposed to remain attached to wax. One It has always been said in the magic that the "charged" wax exerted a real influence, even at a distance, and here too it has been observed that the non- infused • h < become stronger with time. it not save some lines of mm r, mi potential effect?

()11 will object to us that the electrets of the mo 1γ my laboratories are static devices and do not manifest the burial of dynamic states like magical impregnations (ones in which we observe an unfolding of influences, a *11a ession of But, at least according to what seems reasonable today, there is nothing to suggest that the waxes can only record a static state, $\gamma\gamma\gamma\gamma$ a "moment" of influence.

()ulre that we still know very little about this subject, and that it is *ru probable that the researchers of the past time were broken, nothing says that a wax with oriented molecules cannot exert a powerful action. Isn't the magnet in this case?

And in the future, to observe an unfolding of influences, with powerful action, one will perhaps come to use devices with tape impregnated with wax unfolding in front of a recorder!

Research, carried out with great concern for scientific objectivity, by the magnetizers of the last century had moreover proved that it was possible to store human influences, human magnetism, or the properties of certain substances of various bodies in wax. Without wishing to attribute marvelous virtues to wax, one can experience it as a "recorder".

Dowsers are very interested in the properties of wax. And this is how in the Bignand processes, we use sorts of capacitors, made up of beeswax between metal plates. When loaded, the wax becomes impregnated with the vibrations tuned and dosed for a specific person. To use this charge stored in the wax, the person plugs the device into a light, alternating current socket, which triggers the oscillation of the system and causes the influences inscribed in the wax to radiate. The charge stability is remarkable, and lasts for months before needing a recharge.

But the very technique of electrets would make it possible to produce polarized pendulums; and the fact that the total charge has a negative sign would not constitute a disadvantage, provided care is taken to place the definitively positive side downwards. Under these conditions, one would undoubtedly obtain a pendulum of an extreme sensitivity, prolonging the human sensitivity without blurring the polarity of the operator (who generally holds the pendulum of the right hand, positively polarized).

Carnauba wax, pure or in a mixture, seems to be impregnated very quickly with the influences of the bodies with which it comes into contact. Witnesses can easily be constituted as follows:

It is permissible to think that the vibration of a remedy will as sensitive as the etheric aura.

In any case, the action when worn, and even at a distance, of drugs and colors is already known, and the use of impregnated waxes would not be an unusual novelty.

Planetary talisman experiments

In a related field, that of astral medicine, the Electret technique has suggested a curious experiment: the creation of modern planetary talismans.

It is understood that this research is particularly delicate. It is not possible to recruit subjects among people who wish to have a talisman or who really need one, because these people risk unconsciously distorting the investigations, by autosuggesting states of well-being, or by attributing to tiny daily trivialities the character of fortuitous and beneficial results. One is therefore obliged to choose a few people who have no special interest in wearing a talisman and who, without being skeptical - for skepticism would perhaps cut off contact with the planetary forces to which tradition attributes a sort of superior intelligence —, nor hostiles, do not attach a current interest to this question.

How were these talismanic devices made?

A mixture was made up of 40 parts carnauba wax, 40 parts beeswax, 40 parts impalpable powdered iron and 1 part graphite. The iron is incorporated to make the mixture sensitive to terrestrial magnetism and the graphite as a "sensitizer".

For each subject we have sought by astrology a very favorable hour for him; approaching this moment, the mixture was melted and, exactly at 1 favorable hour, it was poured, cooled, poured, etc. The process is in accordance with the desired influences.

Each subject carries his talisman in a pocket of clothing and periodically reports on fortuitous events in a well stipulated direction: business for one, studies for another, feelings for a third, etc. We are in no hurry to conclude. No commercial interest is involved in this research.

And here the investigators evade, very rightly, all the solicitations of people who would like to have a talisman!

ÉLECTRET® • Physico-psychological inductor

As we have said, they would constitute the worst subjects for such studies which can only be undertaken with serenity, apart from any immediate prosecution.

Obviously, if this ever yields any results, an interesting step will have been taken. Because being able to modify, in good, the planetary affinities of a subject, would create the possibility:

• to harmonize his character, to make him more sociable, more attentive, more receptive to certain ideas,

- to connect it to universal currents better related to its aptitudes,

• to protect him from certain trials,

• or even otherwise combine the circumstances of his life to achieve more favorable contingencies.

In short, all the possibilities imaginable, when it comes to talisman.

We must wait patiently for what such research can yield, without pretending in advance that it must necessarily fail or succeed. Because no one can assign limits to the achievements of tomorrow.

What are the purposes of using an Electret?

Trials conducted so far have shown the good effects of this process for improving:

• the material situation, money, business matters, • sentimental harmony, human relationships,

• moral and physical strength, dynamism.

An Electret is not a talisman to suddenly become very rich, but an aid to overcome material difficulties.

An Electret is not a universal remedy, but the means of increasing one's vital force, one's organic resistance. I said it and I repeat, an Electret will not cure a disease but can contribute to the success of a treatment or to discover a better doctor! He will help to bear his illness, to keep a good morale.

It is not advisable to multiply electrets for the same person; conflicting goals should be avoided. But it was possible, after having achieved a first objective, to use a new Electret to improve the situation in another area and thus manage, over time, to use two or three Electrets, which would seem to be a maximum. .

In the end we can conclude that the Electret is neither a talisman nor a remedy, but a physico-psychic "conditioner". It creates a better personal climate, a more favorable atmosphere, it acts progressively and durably on the person for whom it was carried out. ÿ

COIYIEMENT IS MANUFACTURED A SIMPLIFIED ELECTRET (•)

Take a "stencil" like we use for duplicates tors, it is a special paper impregnated with compound wax.

Cut out a 4 to 5 cm square from this stencil.

Place it on a thin sheet of aluminum foil.

Then leave your stencil square exposed to sunlight for several days.

Then, choose a moment when you feel euphoric to magnetize by slow passes, for fifteen minutes, your square of stencil, with a well-determined intention, the stencil remaining placed on the aluminum foil, but while striving to no longer touch the stencil with your hands since exposure to light. After which, fold the aluminum foil over the stencil square, without touching it with your fingers, to wrap it completely.

You can then touch the aluminum packaging with your fingers, without inconvenience.

During the next two days, you will do 15 minutes of magnetization every day, without any further exposure to the sun, the stencil remaining wrapped. (*)

(*) We speak of "simplified" Electret because, during the following years, the Servranx brothers and their collaborators continued their research and tests pendulums to improve the production of electrets. For example, they found much greater effectiveness by adding thin gold leaf.

So in total, three magnetizations:

• one directly on stencil after sun exposure,

• two on stencil wrapped in foil, no sun.

This object will then be inserted into a small thin paper envelope, and slipped into the wallet near the identity card (or in the handbag near the photo). The Electret is thus constituted and comes into operation...

Provided that the magnetizations have been made intentionally, for a specific purpose, for the person who will wear the Electret, it will act on the aura of this person and already in a few days, will carry out modifications in the desired direction.

It is not necessary for the operator to be the beneficiary himself, but the Electret must be worn by the person for whom the device was made.

It can remain in the wallet or purse indefinitely, near the ID card or photo. It seems that it emits a "signal" which acts on the forces of the subject.

The origin of this technique

In December, 1949 (see previous chapter), I gave some insight into the physical properties of Electrets and the research which was in progress at that time using devices charged with human magnetism or planetary influences.

What is an Electret? It is a mixture of waxes, heated and then cooled with extreme slowness in a high voltage polarized electric field, and finally wrapped in a thin sheet of metal. The Electret thus retains a polarization which strengthens over time.

We had said a word at the time about the experimental use of wax devices, no longer charged by electromagnetism, but by intentional magnetic passes.

ÉLECTRET® • Physico-psychological inductor

Meanwhile, in March 1953, Mr. Marcel reported analogous properties of stencils for duplicators which are thin papers soaked in compound wax.

In our process, the electric field is replaced by a light field inspired by the laser technique.

Under the action of light, certain atoms of bodies present in the wax are excited and the wax therefore acquires a structure which makes it sensitive to external stimuli, in particular to the effects of human magnetism.

As in the case of electrets, this excited structure is stable and creates a radiant field that strengthens over time, thanks to the metallic envelope that surrounds the wax sheet.

The studies are sufficiently advanced to allow Electrets to be produced in sufficient numbers today.

Notice to our readers

The previous chapters on the curious properties of electrets provide you with all the guidelines for making a simplified version yourself. But we know from experience that few readers have the time and materials to make such devices themselves.

For your convenience, we offer professional electrets, the manufacture of which takes into consideration the latest studies and tests carried out by the Servranx brothers.

They are therefore composed of:

• a square of stencil, electronically exposed and saturated with human magnetism by a good operator, under all the required conditions,

• an 18-carat fine gold leaf,

• two squares of neutral cellulose surrounding the stencil and the gold leaf, and intended to give a certain rigidity to the device,

- a thin sheet of aluminum which envelops these four elements,

• outer packaging in extra thin paper.

The assembly underwent another two magnetizations, again by a qualified operator.

All that is missing is the intention of the intended goal, for the person concerned, which you will achieve easily and professionally like this:

When it suits you, take your Electret in your hands. You can remove the Electret from its paper packaging end. This is optional, but gives better contact if you magnetize it by hand.

If you charge it to the Pendulum of Thoth you can leave it in its thin paper wrapper. Load the Electret on the opposite side of the side that has a label with the name "Electret".

In any case, never open the aluminum sheet: the interior stencil cannot be touched with the fingers, it must remain under its aluminum protection and the contact between the various interior elements must be maintained.

You will then hold the electret covered with aluminum between the thumb and the index, during a few minutes, by thinking of the goal which you pursue (and of nothing else).

If you are familiar with visualization or magnetism techniques, you can apply them by holding the Electret between the palms of your hands or by holding it flat against the forehead with the palm of one hand.

After which, you will definitively put the Electret back in its thin paper packaging which you will stick together with an adhesive tape. You will put it in your wallet or purse, near your ID or photo. The strength of the Electret will gradually increase over time, provided that you NEVER touch the inner stencil with your hands, that you ALWAYS leave it in its tightly closed aluminum packaging.

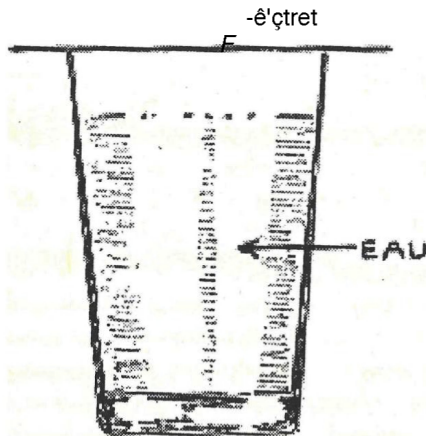

You can do this for someone else, if you meet the following conditions:

1° think of the beneficiary at the same time as the purpose it pursues;

2° it is the beneficiary who must carry the Electret in his wallet or purse. y

Magnetized water at will WITH ELECTRET

I tried, several times, to magnetize water with an Electret that I had made some time before.

With a graduated sector, I took the measurements of the elements at the start. Regardless of the ruler or measuring dial used, it is a question of knowing at the start the level or the degree of magnetic force of the water and the Electret used in this test.

Public mains water was about 5 units.

The Electret, which had been in constant use for 3 weeks, gave 240 units.

I placed the Electret in its thin paper envelope above a small glass filled with tap water and, on the indication of the pendulum, I waited 4 minutes, after which the water measured 90.

ÉLECTRET® • Physico-psychological inductor

After several hours the water measured 100, but fell very quickly to 90 which represented its saturation point; the charge at 90 was maintained for several days, until the use of this "magnetized" water. The Electret, after the operation, remained at 240, it did not discharge.

If one prefers to operate the measurements with a disc in 100, one obtains before magnetization of water:

• tap water: about 6

• Electret: 5 times around the dial (5 x 100).

After 10 minutes of magnetization

• tap water magnetized by the Electret: 100 + 80

• Electret: 5 times around the dial (5 x 100).

These measurements confirm that an Electret, made according to the rules of the art, reaches a magnetic potential which seems inexhaustible. It can, without loss of charge, magnetise saturated water.

The Electret which I used had been made without any special intention. It corresponded to Electrets sold by Servranx laboratories.

Magnetized water has the same characteristics as that which one would charge with both hands.

I then made negatively magnetized water and positively magnetized water from two other electrets that I had intentionally charged, holding each electret in my hands through the foil wrapper.

Experiment too, you will be amazed.

Study results on electrets

Bureau Servranx

December T 964

The time seems to have come to give a conclusion, at least provisionally, to our collective experimentation with Electrets, following the articles published in La Dowsing for All during the year 1962.

And first of all thank you to the many correspondents who, having made or acquired electrets, were kind enough to keep us informed of the effects observed, whether these effects were satisfactory or not and above all thank you to the readers who took the trouble to send us fully detailed reports.

It is through such confident collaborations that it is possible to take stock of a study and possibly make improvements, which we will endeavor to do now. But above all, let's draw the conclusions of twenty-five months of collective experimentation.

It should be noted, however, that many readers did not tell us anything, perhaps not having noticed that it was a collective research. For our part, we carefully avoided publishing results that had been reported to us so as not to provoke suggestions. We have gone so far as to ask authors who speak, in their articles, of certain successes by Électrets, to delete these passages from their writings so as not to influence an experience that we judged all the more captivating that it unfolded positively, without the boost of convincing examples.

Of course, we can only draw conclusions from Electrets whose effects we have known, but we will make no distinction between those that were made by the interested parties themselves and those that we provided, even if the results were not equivalents. Summarizing all the cases brought to our attention, we find:

- that good miscellaneous effects were very significant in 59.5% of cases;
- that no effects were observed, or insignificant effects, or effects that could as well be attributed to other factors, in 9 % of cases;
- that good effects were observed, but without sufficient account of the details for them to appear significant to us, in more than 31% of cases;
- so-called "harmful" effects were reported by four correspondents, which is less than half a percent.

Conclusions :

From all the above, we can conclude:

- to the normality of the magnetic process, these results joining in effect what one could obtain in customers, in the direct use of magnetism to help to solve difficulties of any order;
- the influence, also normal, of the psyche of the beneficiaries, in the absence of any maneuver on our part to act by suggestion; we would be quite inclined to attribute the 31% and even more, of good unspecified effects, to the expectation and hope of users;

ÿ in fact, completely normal, that there were effects considered as harmful, in the same proportion as one would observe in the clientele of magnetizers.

The good effects observed in detail have been as diverse as traditional human aspirations:

- find an apartment,
- ÿ get out of the embarrassment,
- ÿ resolve sentimental conflicts,
- ÿ improve the character,
- ÿ succeed in exams,
- ÿ find the right doctor or the right treatment,
- ÿ increase income,
- ÿ win cases in lawsuits or disputes,
- receive a promotion, etc.

The most numerous results being in the financial field.

The four cases of so-called "harmful" effects were these:

ÿ A dowser said the Electret would be bad for him, after studying it with his pendulum.

- Another dowser observed that the action had been reversed in a few days, and had concluded from it that it became of this harmful fact (which is not necessarily the case).

ÿ A reader saw his material situation suddenly get confused after wearing an Electret for sentimental purposes.

The destruction of the Electret brought calm (this could be a case of character mismatch catalyzed by the Electret).

ÿ A reader became ill every time he carried 'Electret in his wallet and had to 1 1 reluctantly give up, as it seemed to work well for his

Protective pouches or Electrets

A reader writes to us that she has obtained excellent results by having her children carry sachets, magnetized by herself, for one purpose or another: to protect one against the winter colds to which he was subject, to make the other more attentive to the dangers of the road, especially while crossing the roadway.

Until recently, she used kinds of scapulars made up of several pieces of velvet, the number and color of which were chosen by pendulum before magnetization.

Then she preferred small transparent and washable plastic bags, containing a little magnetized powdered clay (about a dessert spoon).

Recently this reader replaced this material with Electrets. She finds this process more elegant, easier and giving even more results. ÿ

These four cases are insufficient to draw any guidelines. They received all the attention they deserved from us.

Remember that electrets do not weaken over time, on the contrary, they seem to recharge themselves. This is what this collective experiment made it possible to verify, a number of Électrets distributed in 1962 continuing to produce their good effects in 1964. There is no reason for them to weaken over time, provided that the aluminum foil is not opened and the interior components are not touched.

Some readers have experienced destroying the effects of their Electret by opening it up and manipulating the interior elements, it works very well. Of course they had to make one or get a new one.

Here are very objectively the results of this collective experience. It is, for our team, particularly rich in lessons, which we will put to good use by endeavoring to communicate to you the experiences of other users who will be willing to share them with us.

Thanks again to everyone !

Dowsing for All

For a long time you were looking for a magazine of dowsing, well documented, containing many practical articles which teach something.

Finally, you have found it: it is Dowsing for All. Each of its issues brings you a mass of concepts, information, tips, that you will not find in any book or manual.

We will use all our strength to present you regularly the next issues.

A5 format 96 y pages y numerous illustrations

The book

Servranx Charts for dowsing and radionics

Without being either a dowser or a radionician, you will be able to benefit from the discoveries of these researchers, whether it concerns their work or often also their well-being. By opening this book, you will get to know the diversity of graphics that our laboratory makes available to you. A very complete book, full of advice and ideas that will help you advance in personal development as well as in dowsing and radionics!

Simple radionics, practical dowsing tools.

Format A5 256 y pages. 89 y illustrations.

Thought-Force

by F. and W Servranx and collaborators

The mastery of thought-force is of primary importance for all, in all the occasions of life and particularly in the field of personal evolution.

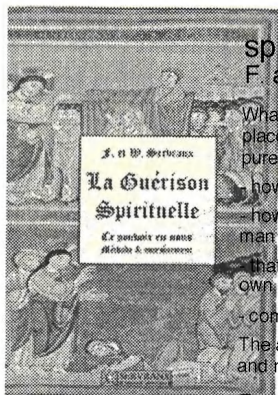

It is not an independent force or even an energy in the ordinary sense of the word. If one can, as we are going to see in this book, develop his thought-force, accumulate it, mobilize it for certain ends, it will never be by putting it in a material device.

This guide teaches you how to acquire and accumulate thought-force, how to use it, and thereby lead you to full control of your life.

spiritual healing F. and W. Servranx

This Power
in us

What are the possible forms of intervention of an "ordinary" person, placed in current circumstances, in favor of a sick person and by purely spiritual means. Discover:

- how illnesses can be cured by the influence of the spirit,
- how prayer elevates the prayer to planes of nature to which ordinary man would otherwise have no access;
- that everyone has the power to find healing through the use of their own spirit.
- communication between man and higher planes.

The appendices contain numerous examples, practical advice, facts and results experienced by practitioners.

The pyramid Servranx & collaborators

Why does one of man's oldest edifices continue to hide its meaning even from the brightest of our analytical minds? From living memory, we know that some pretty strange things happened in the mysterious Great Pyramid.

The pyramid exerts a "charismatic" force on the objects that are brought into contact with it. This energy, this force, has been called pyramidal energy.

Through this book, you can know and experience this pyramid energy and explore all the fantastic possibilities offered by the pyramid. It will help you in the spiritual domain as well as in your daily life (office, kitchen, garden...). An exciting tool for dowsing as well as for its applications in radionics. It is not necessary to be a specialist to be able to experiment with it.

Active Drawings

Force

Servranx and collaborators

An active drawing is obtained by following the movements that the pen-tile makes when thinking of a goal. These are energetic designs that are reminiscent of the pentacles of old magic.

They are used by dowsers and radionicians as a means of action for the most diverse purposes: protection, business, sense- I times, studies, successes, lawsuits, careers, games, etc...

This book is your key to practical access to this art of high precision that I are the "waves of forms", whether for the realization of the simplest things or the most complex actions.

The active design printed on the back of each of our covers has been produced in our laboratories, with a Thoth pendulum, as a support for our publications.

Vital Magnetism Emitter AURADYNE The Benefits of Aura-Dynamic Energy

The Auradyne, a transmitter of vital magnetism, was designed and developed in 1948 by dowers and magnetizers Bervroux, Herrinckx and the Servranx brothers.

It is based on the property (little known to current science) of electric batteries to generate "fluids" whose magnetic action syntonizes with the colors of the spectrum. These notions are familiar to magnetizers since the work of Hector Durville.

The material arrangements of the Auradyne select the favorable rays and release as much physiological magnetism as a dozen people or two or three competent magnetizers.

The benefits are remarkable for anyone lacking vital magnetism (heaviness, fatigue, insomnia, nervousness, lack of creativity, etc.). It will help maintain health or enhance the good effects of any medical treatment.

Auradyne reserves these same effects for our animal friends.

Since its beginnings, Auradyne has activated the growth of the most diverse vegetables and plants, all over the world.

Its use is also very interesting for the dowers whose it amazingly expands sensitivity. Magnetizers and healers can recharge themselves in short sessions of 5 to 10 minutes and thus maintain their personal potential.

This manual contains all the technical information for building this exceptional device yourself. Its practical use is extensively explained there by several users.

You can also get the Auradyne, ready to use, with its user manual, from Servranx editions.

The pendulum of Thoth and its mysteries Marc Roquart

Format A5 240 y pages
interspersed with explanatory drawings and photos

To use the pendulum of Thoth, charged with power and virtues, is above all to put action at a distance within your reach; it is then to work quickly and without hindrance with the radiance of colors, materials, forms... In other words, it is to act by using the invisible powers of the things which surround us; it's also knowing what's going on elsewhere, so it's seeing beyond the satellites, it's hearing better than anyone, it's investigating the past as well as the future.

Un Électret est un objet assez particulier : c'est un mélange de cires, chauffé et refroidi très lentement dans un champ électrique polarisé de haut voltage, accompagné d'une feuille d'or 18 carats et enveloppé d'aluminium.

Par visualisation et imposition des mains ou tout autre procédé magnétique ou radionique, ce condensateur est alors chargé d'une onde bénéfique, spécifique à un but précis, destinée à la personne qui le portera. Il agira sur l'aura de cette personne et, déjà en quelques jours, effectuera des modifications dans le sens voulu.

L'utilisation de l'Électret est conseillée dans de nombreux domaines, entres autres :

- tous les cas où une énergie bénéfique doit être transmise à une personne,
- tous les cas où une situation matérielle (argent, affaires) ou émotionnelle (harmonie sentimentale, rapports humains les plus divers) doit être améliorée,
 - pour développer la force morale,
 - pour obtenir un accroissement du dynamisme.

L'Électret est plus qu'un talisman ou un remède, c'est un inducteur physico-psychique très puissant, facile à réaliser et à utiliser. C'est un moyen très efficace pour accroître la force vitale ou la résistance organique et, par là, permettre à la personne qui le porte de trouver les solutions à ses problèmes quotidiens, d'atteindre le but qu'elle se fixe en la soulageant des souffrances morales et physiques qu'elle rencontre.
